Won Preakness Saturday

'Candy Spots' Eyes Next Race

BALTIMORE (AP) — Candy Spots, who took care of Chateaugay and Never Bend in the $150,000 Preakness at Pimlico, is off to Garden State Park, ready to challenge all comers in the Jersey Derby on U.S. Memorial Day, May 30.

He may face a battle from the Hallo Claiborne Farm's Get Around and the Jaclyn Stable's Aboy in the three-year-old title in the Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct June 8.

They are the only two big name colts Candy Spots hasn't defeated, and the three-year-old championship hinges on the Garden State race at 1⅛ miles and the $125,000 Belmont at 1½ miles. Get Around won the Withers at Aqueduct, and Aboy the Swift and the Delaware Valley Stakes this spring.

The big chestnut from California who was upset and finished third back of Chateaugay and Never Bend in the Kentucky Derby May 4 at Louisville, pounced on his two main rivals like a tiger Saturday and left them gasping in the final quarter mile of the Pimlico homestretch. Chateaugay was second, Never Bend third.

HIS BEST RACE

"I'd say that the Preakness was Candy Spots' best race this year," trainer Mesh Tenney said.

Candy Spots had won the Santa Anita Derby and the Florida Derby, but the Kentucky defeat was a bitter pill to Tenney and owner Rex Ellsworth who hoped for the Triple Crown of power and that was it.

Ridden, goaded by Willie Shoemaker, finished 3½ lengths ahead of Chateaugay. The Derby winner was 4½ lengths in front of the third-place Never Bend and Lemon Twist came home fourth in the field of eight.

Later, in New York, Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim, master of Cain Hoy Stable, said Never Bend is troubled by an old ankle injury and may bow out of the Belmont Stakes.

Memorial Cup

New East. Playoff System

BRANDON, Man. CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Monday decided on a new memorial cup playoff system next season for Eastern Canada.

Under the new system, approved at the CAHA's annual meeting here, the Ontario Hockey Association representative will play the Northern Ontario representative to declare one finalist in the eastern junior final.

This series is to be finished by April, 20, 1964 and will take place regardless of whether a Northern Ontario bid to separate from the east is successful.

The northern association, now affiliated with the OHA, has asked the parent CAHA for full branch membership status on a par with other provincial associations.

The Northern Ontario representative will be allowed to add six players from its own association after the season and its opponents none.

PLAY ROUND ROBIN

To declare the other eastern finalist, the Ottawa, Quebec and Maritime associations will play a round robin to be held later than April 10 and finish by April 20.

No club will be allowed to pick up additional players for the series which will be played in Montreal. Ontario's series winner may add six players for the eastern final.

The exact time of the pickups must come from the branch in which the team plays and three

Petrosian Wins World Chess Title

CP from AP-Reuter)

MOSCOW — Challenger Tigran Petrosian scored second the world chess championship from Mikhail Botvinnik Monday, ending the aging champion's long, tiring battle to preserve his thrice-won title.

Petrosian's lead over Botvinnik, slowly built up over a period of almost two months, had made him an almost certain victor. Thus the tournament's resolution—on a drawn game—came as an anti-climax.

But it set off rejoicing by hundreds of the challenger's fellow Armenians in the audiences at Moscow's Central Theatre, scene of all the games.

The draw gave the 33-year-old challenger 12½ points for five victories and 15 draws, putting him out of reach of Botvinnik despite the fact that two games remained. Botvinnik, who is almost 52, had 9½ points for two victories and 13 draws.

Healing Substance...
Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of tissues inflamed tissues.
One hemorrhoidectal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinkage) took place.
Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief was counted in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.
This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is available in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.
Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).
Satisfaction guaranteed or you money refunded.

Fairfield Wins Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Don Fairfield birdied the 18th hole at Quail Creek Country Club Sunday and won the $35,000 Oklahoma City open golf tournament by one stroke over Julius Boros with a 72-hole total of 280, eight under par.

Fairfield hit the green 30 feet from the pin on his second shot on the last hole and two-putted to win $5,300 for his first tournament win in almost three years.

The 33-year-old Illinois pro finished the tournament in a rush, posting a 68 in the third round to take the lead, and carding a 69 Sunday to beat off Boros' strong rally.

A thundershower delayed play for about 45 minutes Sunday morning and intermittent light rain fell during the afternoon.

Dow Finsterwald finished third, two strokes behind Fairfield, and Miller Barber and Frank Beard tied for fourth at 283.

Belfort, owned by Sal J. Santangelo of Hartford, Conn., who became a $65 richer, outlasted Bill Beasley's second - place Sunny and Edward Seedhouse's third place Kim Gary in the stretch and won by a neck.

"Carry On Cruising"—The Film We've All Been Waiting For

At last, the picture we've all been waiting for is now showing at the Park Theatre and having its first Belleville showing. For the latest and brightest of the "Carry On" comedies Peter Rogers' "Carry On Cruising" is also the funniest production of them all and it's in Cotori

This uproarious venture on to the high seas stars Sidney James, Kenneth Williams, Kenneth Connor, Liz Fraser, Dilys Laye, Esma Cannon and Lance Percival. Sid James is the Captain of a liner who, at the start of a Mediterranean cruise discovers that his key personnel on board ship have been replaced by a collection of well-meaning but incompetent newcomers to the merchant marine service. Kenneth Williams is the First Officer, Kenneth Connor the Ship's Doctor and Lance Percival replaces the Ship's Cook.

Their efforts to supply an efficient service continually antagonize poor Captain Sid, especially when passengers Liz Fraser and Dilys Laye upset things by arousing amorous feelings among the sailor boys.

Sid James is a natural for the part of the salty captain outraged by his nincompoop crew, Kenneth Williams and Kenneth Connor are priceless as they tangle with lovely Liz Fraser and impish Dilys Laye, Esma Cannon of "Beg Trade" fame scores as the little spinster who takes to water like a duck and to alcohol like a sponge once outside the three-mile limit. Lance Percival is a screen as the 'son of a sea cook' whose cooking is a menace to tender sea-based stomachs.

"Carry On Cruising" is a pocket Mediterranean cruise with lovely sun-drenched coastal scenes of Spain, Italy and North Africa as the "S.S. Happy Wanderer" touches at each of these countries during its journey.

The added first run comedy "She'll Have To Go" stars Bob Monkhouse, Alfred Marks and Haddie Jaques. Complete show at 7.00 p.m. and 8.50 p.m.

Cocktail Party in Kremlin To Be Shown on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Soviet cocktail party has its bustnds uses. In fact, had it not been for a high-level embassy party in Moscow in honor of Nikita Khrushchev, NBC might never have been able to penetrate its high walls to make The Kremlin.

The program, showing portions of the city-within-a-city never seen before on television, Lucy Jarvis, an attractive brunette with long experience in public affairs and news shows, mothered and nursed the project, with the official title of coproducer. She got permission largely through fine contracts, good offices—and simple persistence. First break was knowing Alexei Adzhubei, editor of Izvestia and Khrushchev's son-in-law, with whom she became acquainted while working on the freedom - of - the - press television debate with Pierre Salinger a couple of seasons ago.

Once she reached Moscow to wrap up plans and get started on the making of "Inside the Kremlin, she encountered frustrating bureaucratic delay after delay.

SPEAKS RUSSIAN

Then at the Khrushchev party, she met Khrushchev. Speaking Russian didn't hurt. So she poured out her plans. He turned on the green light and last September the shooting started.

The program was made by a husband and NBC staff cameramen with major assists from Soviet film makers and television.

Mrs. Jarvis is happy about the whole thing.

"Everybody—or almost everybody—thinks the Kremlin is a dark, somber place surrounded by walls like a prison," she said. "It isn't at all—parts of it are absolutely beautiful. And if this one goes off well, I hope to go back and do another program on their Hermitage Museum which houses one of the greatest collections of art in the world."

Recommended tonight: The Kremlin, NBC, 9:30-10:30 EDT (11:30 p.m. of the seat of Soviet government.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching—Mike Pappas, Orioles, allowed only five hits, pitched fourth complete game in six starts and won his fourth game without a loss, 6-0 over Detroit.

Batting—Leon Wagner, Angeles, drove in five runs with two homers, bringing his average in the League leading home run total to 13 in 7-5 loss to Cleveland.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Rumors persisted today that pitcher Bo (No-hit) Belinsky will not be with the Los Angeles Angels much longer.

Latest report is that the sometimes-wayward Angel is about to be traded. An earlier report had the southpaw headed for the minors.

Hod Fortella, sports writer for the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, said Monday night a deal for Belinsky already has been approved by Los Angeles general manager Fred Haney.

Gabe Paul, president of the Cleveland Indians, was asked whether the Tribe was interested in Belinsky, who became a celebrity with his no-hitter in his rookie season last year.

"We always are interested in strengthening the ball club," Gabe replied, adding: "I can't talk about specific players. It could be construed as tampering."

Paul did say that manager Birdie Tebbetts had been talking to Los Angeles manager Bill Rigney, and he observed that Belinsky has a good fast ball.

There will be more conversation before Los Angeles departs Wednesday night, but "whether something will come of it, I don't know," Paul added.

WOULD LIKE BELL

Rigney wasn't doing much talking, but Los Angeles baseball writers said that the manager would like to get Cleveland's Gary Bell, a right-hander who's been having some troubles of his own. He has won two and lost three so far this season.

The 26-year-old Belinsky, who as a 2-7 record this season, pitched a three-hitter in the ballpen as the Tribe beat the Angels 7-5. The move means the Angels will need a left-hander from the starting rotation.

Belinsky was great in spring training but hasn't shown much stuff lately and has been wild. Rigney said he wants the playboy pitcher to stay in the ballpen a while and see whether pitching coach Marv Grissom can straighten him out.

The Angels manager said he thought Belinsky was behaving himself pretty well this season and that Belinsky's night-time activities have not been a problem.

Rigney also scoffed at reports Belinsky would be sent to the minors. He said the subject has not been discussed.

Leafs Take Pair From Columbus

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sid Sam Jones sent more than 2,200 Toronto fans home happy from a Victoria Day baseball outing as his brilliant relief pitching gave Toronto Maple Leafs a sweep of an International League doubleheader from Columbus Jets.

Jones, who bounced around the major leagues for a number of years, pitched the only three men in preserving a 4-3 victory for Leafs in the nightcap Monday.

Atlanta Crackers widened the gap in the southern division to two full games with a 3-2 victory over Richmond Virginians and Buffalo Bisons moved 2½ games ahead of Rochester Red Wings in the north. Bisons downed Syracuse Chiefs 5-4, Rochester bowed to Indianapolis Indians 7-3 and Jacksonville Suns bounced Arkansas Travelers 4-2.

The poker - faced Jones relieved Cecil Butler in the seventh of the second game with the score tied at two apiece and two out. Jones preserved the lead. Carl Greene coasted to his fourth win in the nightcap as Leafs set off fireworks on the holiday. The 20 safe blows included homers by Lou Jackson and Neil Chrisley. Every Toronto regular drove in at least one run.

Atlanta reliever Bob Humphreys also turned in a sparkling performance as he took over for Dick Gregory in the eighth with the tying and winning runs on base. He struck out the next two batters to end the threat.

WILD PITCHES COSTLY

Two wild pitches by Syracuse's Bill Smith set up Buffalo's winning run in the ninth. They enabled Joe Hicks to move from first to third. The young left - hander then grabbed a sharp one-bouncer and without looking at Hicks, flung out the batter at first. Had he thrown home, Hicks would have been dead duck.

Joe Shipley picked up his sixth victory with a seven-hit mound job that missed being a shutout only by a home run by a leaping Tony Evangelisti. Indians picked up two runs on Gerry McNertney's circuit blow. Hard-hitting Billie Hunt provided Jacksonville with its winning margin by blasting a three-run homer in the third. It was his fourth since joining Suns 11 days ago. The victory went to Reuben Gomez, his fifth.

Virus Stops Meet at Saratoga

NEW YORK (AP)—A mysterious coughing sickness affecting race horses that has swept many sections of Canada and the United States has caused a week's delay in the scheduled start of the harness race meeting at Saratoga and possibly registered its first fatality.

Thessaly, a six - year - old pacer, was found dead in the isolation area at Roosevelt Raceway here Monday, but a veterinarian said he "could not definitely attribute death to the virus infection."

The reference by Dr. Raymond Cotter to a coughing sickness that has hit many harness racing tracks, causing a number of cancellations and postponements.

A few hours later, Robert A. Glasaner, chairman of the New York State Harness Racing Commission said the meeting at Saratoga Raceway at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., scheduled to begin Thursday has been postponed until May 30.

Saratoga President Ernest B. Morris said the virus had spread over the weekend, infecting about 250 of the 650 horses on the grounds.

Ill Mother Avoids Seeing Doctor

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — My mother is my worry. Recently she has been complaining of feeling very tired and run down; however, she refuses to take the time off from work to see the doctor. She is in her late forties.

Her reason is that she will be laid off if she asks for some time, and she needs the money. Now this is not really the case, as my father's pension could carry them, if necessary. We could even double up if we had to.

My main concern is to get her to see the doctor before this develops into something more serious. — MARION.

DEAR MARION — Is it really the loss of her job that's worrying her? Maybe she finds the thought of a doctor's examination embarrassing; maybe she fears his diagnosis. Perhaps she fears the expense. All poor excuses.

In this day and age a person who avoids seeking medical help, when we know how effective that help can be, is just plain foolhardy. Could you talk with her doctor and discover whether he would, after all, see her at a time when she is off work?

When it comes to the health of a dear one, you are fully justified in butting in.

DEAR DORIS — I am raising my six-year-old nephew, as his parents died two years ago. His god-mother has been very generous to him with gifts, so last Christmas we gave her a pair of silver candlesticks.

Afterwards, I was criticized for buying this . . . being told that godchildren do not give their godparents gifts! Now, who is right? Did I do wrong? — AUNTIE MAME.

DEAR AUNTIE — The relationship between godparent and godchild is a rather direct one. When your nephew is old enough to respond to her loving generosity, he may well express thanks with a card, a letter, a drawing done at school, or a gift he thinks of himself.

If she is also your friend, there's no reason on earth why you can't pinch-hit for him and show you appreciate her interest. But this is not an obligation.

TO UNCLE OF THE GROOM — The M.C. at a wedding welcomes the guests, speaks briefly of his pleasure in having a part in tying the knot for his good friends, the bride and groom. He may tell a happy incident related to their meeting or courtship. He may read telegrams and greetings from friends who couldn't come. He calls upon the toast proposers and responders; and sees that the whole thing is run off nicely.

CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. Edmund Opler, president of the Cook Chocolate Company of Chicago, turned the first sod for the extension of the Campbellford plant in a ceremony held on May 11th.

He paid tribute to all who had been responsible for the success of the Canadian operation and said that although the addition will be largely warehouse space, it is hoped that another addition may be necessary in a few years as the building is sufficient only for present needs. When the addition is completed, Cook Chocolate will have a plant of 34,480 square feet.

Mr. Opler was presented with a chrome-plated shovel by Mr. Ed. Swift, local manager, and the sod which he removed with it was boxed so he could take it back to Chicago with him.

The "L" shaped addition to be financed by Nor-Trent Investments and leased to the company will contain 13,830 square feet and will be slightly larger than the original building.

LUNCHEON SERVED

Following the sod-breaking ceremony, a luncheon was served to the guests of the Cook Chocolate Company at the Riviera Inn, when Mr. Opler paid tribute to all who had been instrumental in bringing this Campbellford operation to the point where expansion was necessary. He stated that it is a tribute to Mr. Wolfe, chief liaison between Chicago and the local plant, and to those who had been in charge of production and the sales staff that he had not found it necessary to visit Campbellford before this time. Mr. Wolfe was not present for the event as he is in Germany at present.

PRESENTATIONS MADE

Ross Douglas and Don Meyers, on behalf of Nortrent, who provided the building for the company, presented Mr. Opler with some Campbellford cheese. Mrs. Ed. Swift, on behalf of the employees, asked Mr. Opler to accept a gift of cuff links, also made in Campbellford.

Mayor Morley Tanner introduced members of the Campbellford Town Council who were present and welcomed the guests to Campbellford.

NATO Secretary Stikker Denies Intention Of Nuclear Force Is to Arm West Germans

OTTAWA (CP)—NATO Secretary-General Dirk Stikker has emphatically denied that proposals for a mixed-manned nuclear force are intended as a means of getting nuclear arms into the hands of West German fighting men.

The nuclear force plan, expected to be endorsed in general terms at the NATO ministerial meeting opening here today, has "nothing to do" either satisfying or pacifying West German demands, Mr. Stikker told a press conference Tuesday night.

Every country will contribute what it wants to the allied force, said the secretary-general. There had never been any discussion within the NATO council on preventing Germany from doing certain things.

The agreements under which Germany was brought into the Western alliance eight years ago still stand, said Mr. Stikker. Under these agreements Germany forswore an independent nuclear role.

Mr. Stikker said there is no danger that one country will ever decide by itself whether the weapons assigned to an allied nuclear force are to be used. The decision always would be a multilateral one.

STUDIES POSSIBLE PACT

The alliance is carefully studying the possibility of a non-aggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw pact, he told reporters. However, it would only "complicate" matters to conclude such a pact before certain political issues dividing the two camps are settled.

Pre-conference reports were that there already had been agreement among NATO members for creation of the U.S.-proposed multi-lateral nuclear striking force under the command of a new deputy to U.S. Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, NATO's

PRIME MINISTER NOT ALLOWED TO FORGET PLEDGE

Dief Says 60 Days Become Shifty Days

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson is not being allowed to forget his election pledge of action in "60 days of decision."

It was March 25 in Hamilton that Mr. Pearson pronounced the words that he has since confessed have caused him some concern.

In that speech he said:

"I pledge that more constructive things will be done in the first 60 days of a new Liberal government than in any similar period of Canadian history."

It was repeated—with slight variations of wording—on subsequent election platforms and the phrase "60 days of decision" quickly became a Liberal slogan.

The 60 days began when the Pearson government took office April 22—just 30 days ago.

At this halfway point Mr. Pearson has acted on many of his domestic and foreign policy promises in one way or another. And he placed them before a Parliament which met 38 days after the election—the shortest interval between an election and the opening of Parliament since Confederation in 1867.

On the economic front, measures were started through Parliament in its first three days to establish an economic coun-

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson, opening the NATO ministerial conference, said today it is an absurdity to think "that we can protect ourselves by individual action based on nationalism alone."

He told delegates of the 15 NATO countries:

"In 1963, 'each nation for itself and God for us all' is not only silly; it could be suicidal.

"So the Atlantic community must come together in one Atlantic Community. The West cannot afford to be divided into allies, a European one and a North-American one, each controlling its own policies-and-each moving away from the other as a common menace recedes. . . .

"A United Europe should play, and can play if it desires, an equal part with North America in the direction and development of the Atlantic Alliance.

"It would, however, be a sad day for peace and security if a united Europe played a separate role."

Speaking in the Commons, Mr. Pearson said it is folly to exercise the awful dangers of the nuclear age to go away "while we merely sit back, answer missile with missile and charge with charge—orbit with orbit."

"Rather, in dealing with the Communist world, the NATO partners must keep on trying to solve political problems, one by one, step by step."

NATO must direct its best talents toward uncovering, exploiting and building upon every conceivable point of common interest between East and West.

"Both the peril and the promise of 1948 remain," Mr. Pearson said.

"We have kept the one in check but without realizing the other as much as we would like."

To survive, NATO must comprehend more than military defence.

"If the community interest which we share in NATO does not include the closest possible unity of purpose in the solution of political, economic and social problems of concern to us all, NATO's weaken and eventually disappear," the prime minister declared.

Alabama Governor's Pledge

Will Be Present to Prevent Negroes Entering University

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Governor George C. Wallace, thrusting state rights into the path of federal authority, has set out to block court-ordered desegregation of the University of Alabama.

The Alabama governor laid his authority on the line Tuesday after the university board of trustees had agreed to admit two Negroes and U.S. District Judge Hobart Grooms refused to delay the June 10 enrolment.

"I embody the sovereignty of this state," said Wallace, a veteran of battles with the federal government. "And I will be present to bar the entrance of any Negro who seeks to enrol at the university."

Thus, Wallace embarked upon the same course followed last fall by Governor Ross Barnett of Mississippi who greeted Negro James H. Meredith with an interposition statute and barred him from the University of Mississippi. Meredith later enrolled behind federal forces.

Attorney-General Richmond Flowers, a political opponent of Wallace, warned defiance of federal court orders may lead to violence. He said those who defy such orders may be to blame if federal troops are used in Alabama as they were in Mississippi.

Brewer Dixon, a university trustee, said he admired Wallace for sticking to his convictions and sympathized with him.

"But we have exhausted our legal remedy," Dixon said. "The trustees have no control over Wallace. The university is our responsibility; but beyond that we are not law enforcement officers."

A sampling of sentiment of students and faculty members at the university campus at Tuscaloosa indicated that while white students may not like the idea, they are willing to accept Negro classmates peacefully.

This would be in contrast to the rioting which erupted almost seven years ago when Autherine Lucy, a Negro, was admitted to the university under federal court orders. She later was expelled for making unproved statements accusing school officials of conspiring with the mob.

Police Have 'Specific Plan' To Halt Quebec Terrorism

QUEBEC (CP) — A total of $60,000 in reward money has not yet produced any obvious results, but Premier Lesage says police now have a "specific plan" of action against terrorist activity.

He made the statement Tuesday following a meeting of top-ranking police, army and civilian authorities at the Quebec cabinet chambers.

The three-hour meeting called by Mr. Lesage to co-ordinate efforts to track down those responsible for recent bomb blasts, mainly, in the Montreal area, over the last 11 weeks.

No list of recommendations reached at the conference were disclosed. Mr. Lesage said police are doing everything in their power to find the terrorists, and told Quebecers there is no reason to get panicky.

Later, in a televised press conference with the CBC's French-language network, he said the $50,000 reward offered by the government for information on the terrorists is simply "an encouragement to the people of Quebec to do their duty."

"It is the duty of all citizens to denounce those in the terrorist organization."

The City of Montreal has offered a similar, $10,000 reward.

The recent bombings have been attributed by authorities to Le Front de Liberation Quebecois, a group pledged to win independence for Quebec by force and directed particularly to the destruction of such "colonial" (federal) institutions as the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

In his TV appearance, Mr. Lesage said he knows of "two centres" each of resistance to Quebec in the province as a result of terrorist activities in the province.

He said during a televised press conference (CBC French-language network) that most European industrialists he met questioned him about terrorist activity during his recent 10-day visit to England, Belgium and France.

Typhoid Fever May Be Licked by Irradiating Food

MONTREAL (CP) — Typhoid fever, the centuries-old bacterial infection plaguing mankind, may be conquered by an atomic process for irradiating food.

The technique will be evaluated at a scientific team from the Ontario Agricultural College, in papers to be delivered at an international conference sponsored by the Canadian Nuclear Association here May 27-29.

Some 300 delegates from a number of countries, including the Soviet Union, will attend the three-day meeting, the first of its type sponsored by the association.

Since egg is a major reservoir of salmonella bacteria, frozen whole eggs were inoculated by the college scientists with 10 species of salmonella and then subjected to gamma radiation.

Prof. G. W. Anderson, a member of the college's department of microbiology, found that a safe dose of radiation sufficiently destroyed the most resistant species studied.

The theme of the conference will be "Food preservation and energy. Main emphasis will be placed on the use of nuclear energy as a source of heat and the uses of radioisotopes in medicine, agriculture and other fields.

Canadian delegates will make a special report on the operation of Canada's first small power reactor. This experimental station, located at Rolphton, Ont., about 150 miles northwest of Ottawa, has been operating successfully for almost a year and has attracted international attention.

The report will show that the station, which uses natural uranium as a fuel and heavy water as a moderator, is operating well.

HIGHER PRICES FOR BREAD SEEN IN MILK BOOST

Powdered Milk Up 3 Cents Pound

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rising prices of powdered milk across Canada could lead to higher prices for bread, dairy industry spokesmen say.

But the men who should know, the bakers, are non-committal.

The milk powder increases were sparked by the removal of a federal government subsidy to farmers of 25 cents for 100 pounds of whole milk.

A survey by The Canadian Press shows powdered milk prices have gone up an average of three cents a pound.

One of the heftiest jumps will probably be in Nova Scotia. A large grocery distributor there said prices have not yet been raised but are going to be. A one pound package which cost eight cents more than the current price of 32 cents.

One of Nova Scotia's largest bakeries said the price of bread will have to be raised this year because of a general increase in commodities used in making bread.

SHOW AT RETAIL LEVEL

An Ottawa broker reports wholesale powdered milk prices rose to $1.00 for a 25-pound pack and will probably be reflected at retail level in an increase of five cents a pound.

The broker said the fluctuation was due to a recent federal government decision to buy unspecified amounts of dried skim milk powder at a maximum price of 11 cents a pound compared with 8.3 cents last year.

In Winnipeg, H. E. D. Stephenson, president of McKenzie-Stephenson Limited, a manufacturers' agent, says wholesale prices of powdered skim milk have gone up about three cents a pound.

Ontario faces price increases of about three cents a pound.

Parliament At a Glance

An NDP motion of non-confidence was defeated 124 to 113. Liberals voting in support from two Conservatives and four Social Credit MPs.

Finance Minister Sharp said the government plans legislation to prevent successful claims by farmers of import surcharge payments.

NDP Leader Douglas accused the government of a blaring disregard of Parliament in deciding to obtain nuclear warheads from the U.S.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said the Liberals had performed "kaleidoscopic gymnastics" on nuclear weapons policy.

Prime Minister Pearson told the House he decided on nuclear warheads to fill "a moral and political commitment" of the former government.

Govt. Hurdles Non-Confidence Vote On A-Arms

Party Lines Scrambled In 124-113 Record

OTTAWA (CP) — The young minority Liberal government hurdled its first and probably highest obstacle of the immediate future Tuesday night when it survived by 11 votes a non-confidence motion based on its decision to acquire nuclear warheads.

The House of Commons, after a day-long throne speech debate reviving all of the nuclear arguments of the April 8 election campaign, rejected the new Democratic Party non - confidence motion 124 votes to 113.

The motion expressed regret at the government's decision to acquire nuclear arms on Canadian soil, "thereby lessening the chances of nuclear disarmament and increasing the danger of nuclear war."

The vote scrambled some party lines.

The lineup against the government consisted of 79 Progressive Conservative votes, 17 Social Credit, 18 NDP and one Independent Social Credit.

Aiding the government were 108 Liberals, two Conservatives and four Social Creditors.

ONE IS DELAYED

This made a total of 227 votes in the 265-member House. One MP, Eugene Rheaume (PC—Northwest Territories), has not yet taken his seat because of technical delays in preparing his election writ.

The 27 other unecast votes were accounted for by 12 absent Conservatives, nine missing Liberals, two absent Social Creditors, one NDP member unavailable, two MPs who were paired with absent opposites and the Speaker, who votes only in case of a tie.

The two Conservative votes for the government were those of former defence minister Douglas Harkness, who resigned from the cabinet before the election on grounds the Conservative government had made a commitment to acquire nuclear arms, and Jack McIntosh, from Swift Current-Maple Creek.

National Leader Robert Thompson of Social Credit led the other three Social Creditors ing party members in support of the government. Deputy Leader Real Caouette of Quebec followers supported the motion.

ANOTHER THURSDAY

A second non-confidence vote is scheduled for Thursday night on a motion moved by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker. In addition, a further motion could be moved today by the Social Credit group. This also would be voted on Thursday night.

Passage of any non - confidence motion during the throne speech debate would spell defeat of the government and a new election.

Motives Given For Supporting Minority Govt.

OTTAWA (CP)—A variety of motives prompted six opposition MPs to cast their votes with government supporters and sustain the Liberal government on a non-confidence vote Tuesday night.

They ranged from a belief that Canada should have nuclear arms to the position that it would be irresponsible to topple the Liberal government within weeks of it assuming office.

Jack McIntosh (PC — Swift Current-Maple Creek) said his vote was in no way meant as an indication of support for the Liberals. He said he disagreed with the position of the New Democratic Party's non - confidence motion and believes Canada should have nuclear arms.

He told reporters he had have supported it if the motion had expressed criticism of the government deciding to acquire nuclear arms without consulting Parliament first.

The vote of former defence minister Douglas Harkness was predictable. He resigned from the Conservative cabinet in February over delays in acquiring nuclear arms. The motion criticized the government plans to acquire them.

Social Credit Leader Thompson said nuclear arms was not really at issue in the vote. "rather it is the record of this playing at politics. I have a responsibility to my own people and the people of Canada to take a responsible stand regarding the defence of Canada."

He said the government has promised a defence committee but can't announce whether Canada will acquire nuclear arms.

Wheat Growers In U.S. Reject Crop Controls

WASHINGTON (CP - AP) — U.S. wheat growers have voted strongly against stricter government controls on their crops and their decision likely will affect Canada's future wheat exports.

Their decision will eliminate all wheat acreage and marketing controls for the 1964 crop year which were declared by the Kennedy administration last winter.

The vote means that Congress passes a new wheat program.

Unhampered production speech indicates that U.S. wheat will be competing with Canadian wheat on world markets, creating heavy pressure on prices and prices through U.S. efforts to dispose of surplus stocks.

Old Commonwealth Lands Pledged Concessions in Tariff Reductions

GENEVA (CP)—An 11th-hour dispute between the six-country Common Market and the "old" Commonwealth countries —Canada, Australia and New Zealand—over special Commonwealth trade problems was settled here Tuesday by a "technical rewording" of the GATT conference resolution.

Designed to make more explicit the nature of concessions to Canada, Australia and New Zealand, the agreement was reached after the seven market countries, led by France, raised objections to a clause designed to protect the interests of the three Commonwealth countries.

The basic position of Canada, Australia and New Zealand is that they depend greatly on primary exports. Since in many cases their industries still are growing and more in need of tariff protection than is the case in older industrial societies such as Britain, they have difficulty in accepting the principle of equal reciprocal tariff cuts.

For instance, it has been said that equal 50-per-cent cuts would increase Canadian exports to the United States by only some $105,000,000 compared with a U.S. increase to Canada in the order of $500,000,000.

Thus Canada has sought to interpret reciprocity rather as a fair in lots of two sides than as precisely equal cuts.

Prime Minister Pearson made this point when in London early in May for talks with Prime Minister Macmillan. While accepting the principle of the Kennedy round of tariff cuts, he said at that time Canada might not be able to apply those cuts on a uniform basis.

Canadian officials explained that Canada might be prepared

Dr. Mead, anthropologist and author from New York, Tuesday urged modern adults to prepare their children to become citizens of the future, but to leave that future open-ended for the next generation to shape.

She said technological and social changes have been so great in the past decade that only children growing up in it are "at home in our world."

Dr. Mead was speaking to some 200 doctors, nurses, psychologists, social workers and others attending the second conference of the Ontario Committee on Children.

The modern adult looks at the night sky only to see stars, she said. The same sky to a child is crammed with missiles and satellites which adults do not really conceive as part of their world.

Cancels Weekly Audience

Pope John Suffers New, Severe Setback

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John was reliably reported today to have suffered a new and severe setback in his illness. One of Italy's leading surgeons was said to have spent the night at his bedside.

The 81-year-old ruler of the Roman Catholic Church was recalled his regular weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica but appeared at his apartment window to bless a crowd of 15,000 in St. Peter's Square below.

The Pope stood at the third-floor window about three minutes. Seen through binoculars, he appeared very pale. But his voice, carried through microphones, was vibrant and strong as he gave his blessing.

The audience in the Basilica was cancelled 40 minutes before it was to have started.

In his third appearance at the window, the Pope made only one reference to the cancellation of his audience in the Basilica.

"But inside St. Peter's or outside, it is always good," he said.

The Vatican press office explained in a statement that Pope John was "following the suggestion of his doctor" in limiting himself to blessing the crowd in the square.

Vatican sources said the Pope planned to appear at his window again Thursday to recite the Ascension prayers.

An informed source said Professor Pietro Valdoni, a leading Rome surgeon, had remained at the Vatican through the night. Valdoni, one of the audience was the first since last November, when the Pope became gravely ill. The Vatican announced then that the Pope was suffering from a stomach disorder and anemia, but there have been persistent unconfirmed reports that he has stomach cancer or an ulcer.

During the winter, the pontiff appeared to recover and resumed his busy schedule. But there have been reports of relapses from time to time. One source reported that regular blood transfusions were needed to maintain the Pontiff's strength.

During the winter the Pope's personal physician, Professor Alberto Gasbarrini of Milan, died. The Pope had cancer. But when the reports revived two weeks ago, the doctor declined to comment.

The Bay of Quinte District High School Board is in good shape with respect to teacher requirements for the opening of the fall school term in September.

Board secretary Roy Dulmage reported today that 44 of the 45 new teachers required for the fall term have now been hired. Of the 45 new teachers, 16 are additional staff members required by increasing school enrolments while the balance are replacements for teachers retiring or otherwise leaving Belleville schools.

Two teachers, Mr. Morley Hancock, and Miss A. Erie Grout are retiring this year. At this week's meeting of the board the resignation of teacher Allan Boates was accepted. Mr. Boate is going to London, Ont.

The hiring of Miss Helen Guernsey as instructor in the nursing assistants' course to be set up at Quinte Secondary School was approved. Miss Guernsey is now instructing in nursing at the University of New Brunswick.

The nursing assistants' course at Quinte is one that both short course to be set up in the province. It is being made possible locally through construction of the new technical wing at the school.

WILL PAVE LOTS

A contract was awarded to Mr. R. Fitzgibbon for the paving of two parking lots at Belleville Collegiate. The cost for paving of the two lots will be $2,350.

Also the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation was awarded a contract for the erection of a link fence along the west side of the Belleville Collegiate campus.

Frank De Carroll of Campbellford was given the contract for re-wiring and electrical repairs on all three floors in the south end of the Collegiate building. Re-wiring of the Collegiate is being carried out on a progressive basis with parts of the school being done each year.

A Toronto firm will be engaged to go over the heating systems at both Moira Secondary School and Quinte Secondary School with the view of recommending the best type of fuel to be used.

One caretaker from each of the three local high schools will attend the school caretakers convention to be held at Kitchener.

WILL ATTEND COURSE

And the shop directors at all three high schools were authorized to attend a weekend conference at Orillia.

Bus operator Claude Richmond was awarded the contract for the transportation of summer students to Kingston. This is provided each year for students re-writing regular examinations in which they failed.

Gordon McGaughey was named as co-ordinator for extra-curricular activities as Moira Secondary School.

A co-ordinator for extra-curricular activities was named for Quinte Secondary School a year or so ago and the policy is now being extended to Moira School.

Purchase of equipment for the new technical wing at Quinte Secondary School had taken up much of the time of board members in recent weeks.

The new addition currently under construction is scheduled for completion with the commencement of the fall school term in September.

Young Hunters Presented With Safety Badges

Approximately 50 district boys were presented with their Hunter Safety Training Badges, by chairman Bill Phillips, as the Belleville and District Fish and Game Club held its monthly meeting last night.

Some 225 persons, including about 30 women, attended the meeting at Club Canara. Club vice-president Phillips conducted the meeting in the absence of president J. Layton.

The boys who received their badges were graduates of classes conducted by Ron Isaac and Bob Phillips, local hunter safety workers, who introduced the successful candidates to the club as they received the certificates. The classes are part of the Fish and Game Club's annual program stressing hunting safety.

Guest speaker for the evening was Ron Bowman, eastern Ontario sales supervisor for Remington Arms.

A group of shooting films were included on the evening's program. Howard Rixlee was the lucky member who won a 15-foot, canvas covered canoe.

Mental Illness Subject of Talk To Kiwanians

"From Darkness Into Dawn" was the topic of Dr. Gary Cormack, a physiatrist and director of the Day Care Centre at the Cobourg Ontario Hospital, who addressed the Kiwanis Club here on Tuesday.

Dr. Cormack explained the differences between mental illness of yesteryear and today and the differences in treatments.

The speaker said at one time mental illness was considered a very dirty thing. He said modern physiatry has seen a new light into the cure of mental illness and reducing the number of mentally ill persons, therefore moving from the darkness, the lack of knowledge of mental illness into the light.

Dr. Cormack touched on the various fields of research and how it tied in with the people and the ways of people today.

The speaker was introduced by Kiwanian John Trafford and thanked by Kiwanian Rev. C. W. Coleman.

Vice-president Bob Prestone introduced new member R. Blackburn. The new member was welcomed into the club by J.I. Gov. G. Wishart.

About 30 members attended the dinner meeting.

London Youth To Take Course

James S. Harris, grade 11 student at Central Secondary School, London, one of 23 students chosen from across Canada to attend the first summer leadership course conducted by the Royal Canadian Institute, at Lakefield, near Peterborough.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Harris, 959 Maitland St. James will be invited to go to university to study entomology.

The students were chosen from more than 150 applicants for "general leadership ability and their exceptional inclination for science," said Dr. C. David Fowle, director of the school.

He said the six-week course, by exploring different areas of science, will give students a chance to find the field in which they might like to specialize as well as an understanding of the fundamental principles basic to all science.

Annual Meeting of CNIB Hears Reports and Elects Officers for Coming Year

The Hastings County Advisory Committee of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind held their annual meeting last week at the Foxboro United Church Sunday School with Mrs. W. Stanley, supervisor of field services in Ontario as the guest speaker.

Reports were heard from the various workers and special thanks to all members fulfilling their responsibilities during the past year was expressed by advisory board chairman N. M. Sprague.

There are 132 blind persons registered in Hastings County and two field secretaries, P. J. Timmins and his assistant, D. J. McCallum, along with home teachers Miss Myra Vipond are kept busy looking after their needs.

FEW RESIGNATIONS

Durn gthe year Mrs. C. Ward, Mrs. G. G. Wright, W. T. Simpson and Mrs. Wm. Hall of Marlton have resigned from the board and secretary Dr. Joan Bronskill has had little attendance. Mrs. C. W. Coleman has been named to take care of publicity and Mrs. G. Wright is acting as interim secretary.

New members include J. R. Blackbourn, M. J. Stotesbury and Mrs. W. L. Tatham, all of Belleville; Mrs. Gordon Christian, Shannonville; Mrs. C. D. Rollins of Stirling and H. H. Clark of Trenton.

A special tribute was extended to Miss Myrtle Peck, welfare counsellor, for her loyalty, as a member of the county advisory board since its inception.

ARRANGE FOR CANVASS

Mrs. M. J. Waller reported arrangements had been completed to hold a sale of blindcraft products in Belleville next week through co-operation of the Belleville merchants.

There has been greater demand for eye conservation through examinations and glasses than in former years. This could mean simply that more people know of the service. Alert teachers and school nurses are usually the contact.

Mrs. George Whalen said there were now 20 residents at Quinte St., Lawrence Hall, at Kingston. It was hoped an elevator costing $25,000 could soon be provided. This cost must be borne locally. Some legacies may be used and donations are being received from various organizations and service clubs.

YEAR THE UNKNOWN

Miss Vipond told of her work with her three pupils in this area while Doug McGilpin, assistant field secretary, talked on "Orientation and Mobility Training."

He said that frustration, anxiety, inability to get around, and fear of the unknown, small a newly-blind person. A period of adjustment must take place. Confidence in one's self and emphasis on the development of hearing, were of prime importance, he said. Through the C.N.I.B. the sightless could, however, achieve maximum potential to live a normal life.

The financial report showed receipts of $16,000 from the campaign in Trenton and Hastings county, from the Belleville United Appeal and grants from Belleville, Trenton and Hastings county.

Mr. Timmins recalled that in 1946 the blind pension was only $25 per month — today it is $65. Also in early days there were no Walks Cane Clubs, and no organized assistance from service clubs or other sources.

66 PER CENT EMPLOYABLE

There are 10 residences for blind persons in Ontario. Looking after blind persons' interests are 16 district offices and 23 field secretaries and assistants.

Through specialized training 66 per cent of blind people are employable.

Mrs. Timmins said books on records for the blind are now being replaced by tapes. This was a big step forward but the initial step is expensive, costing $150 per reader.

Guest speaker W. S. Stanley gave a summary of the origin and growth of the C.N.I.B. Among those who knew him Lieut.-Col. E. A. Baker, returning blinded from World War I, founded the C.N.I.B. in the movement. Col. Baker recently retired after 44 years as management. Mr. Stanley has been the Baker Foundation Fund for the prevention of blindness realize $100,000,000 in contributions across Canada.

PRAISES ASSISTANCE

Mr. Stanley told of activities at C.N.I.B. centres in Toronto and of the tremendous period of change in the past quarter century.

In closing he expressed appreciation for the assistance provided by the Ontario Department of Welfare, and by individuals giving their time and money. There are thousands of volunteers ha progressed in service and rehabilitation to a degree not equalled anywhere in the world, he said.

Geneva Park Near Orillia Scene of Meet

This past weekend, Geneva Park, the Canadian YMCA 'leadership Centre' on Lake Couchiching, Orillia, was the scene for a three-day So-Ed conference organized by the National Council Committee of Canada. Nearly one hundred delegates from all points in the province including the newly new executive and national representative from Belleville.

The keynote speaker delivered an excellent address to host the conference, the theme being "Plans for Progress". The purpose of the meeting was successful with everyone taking active participation in discussions. The purpose of the meet is of So-Ed and other social-educational clubs from coast to coast realize just what other clubs are doing in order to fill the needs of young adults ages twenty to thirty-five in their respective communities.

Emphasis were placed on reorganizing and planning of the educational and social aspects of the clubs to achieve the needs of the young adults thereby strengthening membership and the So-Ed movement. It was felt that the main reason for club failures was the fact that the majority of young adults are not willing to accept any level of responsibility and as a result they themselves are mainly responsible for failures.

The social aspects of the conference which included dances, skits, folk dancing and folk singing were also successful, many regretted to return home.

National representative Colin Wilcox from Belleville was elected to serve on the National So-Ed Committee of Canada as National Project Committee Chairman. The conference chairman was Neil Turner from Brockville and supervision was provided by Dick McDonald, secretary for Program Services and Research of the National Council of YMCA's.

The experience gained by the Belleville representatives Doug Hoddinott, Dave Wray, Gayle Stephanson, Kay McGowan, Grant Elliott, Colin Wilcox and president Dawn Bateman will greatly aid the Belleville So-Ed fall session beginning in October.

Study Proposal For Anglican Diocesan Centre

KINGSTON (CP) — Establishment of a 10-man committee to consider the possibility of a proposed diocesan centre at Kingston was approved on Tuesday by Anglican clergymen and lay delegates here at a session of the diocesan synod.

But the decision was not reached before a rider was attached. The full consideration will be given to "new synod offices apart from the centre."

Brockville lawyer John E. Henderson, a lay delegate from St. Mary Magdalene Church, suggested separate synod offices would cost roughly $80,000 compared with a possible $440,000 for the diocesan centre attached to the Cathedral Church of St. George.

Delegates were told that women are taking a greater interest in some church activities. Mrs. E. Margaret Sutcliffe of Kingston, recording secretary of the Ontario diocesan women's auxiliary said membership in all departments with the exception of one has decreased."

Elevation of two Anglican clergymen was completed on Tuesday. Ven. Archibald S. McConnell, rector of St. Thomas Church, Belleville, was installed as Archdeacon of Ontario.

Also honored was Rev. Robert DeBlois Harral Wrigley, rector of the parish of St. Mary Magdalene, Picton. He became a canon of the Cathedral Church of St. George.

A.N.A.F. Weekly News

To the swinging music of Dan Fairman's orchestra, the entertainment chairman reports a very good crowd had another enjoyable evening of fun and dancing. There is room for more folks to attend these good dances and you are always sure of a swell time, so join your comrades. Don't forget the proceeds go to help the children have their visiting picnic and also the big Christmas party.

While you are enjoying yourselves you are also helping the kiddies.

Comrade Don has arranged a dance in honor of the Provincial Command President of the Ladies' Auxiliary with visiting delegates on May 24th, and all members and their friends are invited to attend and give the out-of-towners the hearty welcome that Belleville has become noted for. He also wishes to remind the members of the big Stag Night coming up on June 1st. Plenty of fun and a good repast. Don" miss it.

The sports chairman wishes to announce that the Provincial Sports Day will be held on June 22 at Lakeview and expresses the hope that his teams in the various events can make as good a showing as they did last week at the 48th meet. Well, it is permissible to dream isn't it? Everyone is practising up for this important day so there is very little local sports this week in this item.

Unit 201 Pipe Band and the lady comrades who managed to get a seat on the band keeping their fingers crossed, hoping that another will be kind to them on Saturday as they journey to Cape Vincent to the big parade in honor of Canadian-American Friendship Week. Good luck, fellows, and have a good time.

COMRADES ON MIND

The sick chairman reports the following comrades are visiting at home, convalescing: F. Knowlton and Ray Denike. Ray was cheered up by a visit from his son Cpl. Jack Warpy O'Brien and Mike Phillips are in the Belleville General Hospital, where they have all been visited and looked after as well as possible. A letter was received by the Ladies Auxiliary from that grand old comrade Charlotte Clark, who says she is getting along fine and is home from her recent operation and hopes to return home to Belleville. Be sure we'll receive a big welcome from all the comrades, both men and ladies, as she is a great favorite of all.

All Hasty Pees, past and present, are invited to the Dedication Service of the stained glass window, in Commeration of Very Rev. Jim Padre, Lt.-Col. F. Goforth M.C., who are assisting of his time and service to Canada in the times of war and peace. The service will be held at Trinity Church, Camp Morden on June 23rd. A bus has been chartered and tickets may be had from Harold Brego, AVAF Clubrooms or Lt.-Col. Angus B. Duffy. Only a few are left so you will be spared the worries of driving your own car, get a ticket and travel in comfort on the bus. Lunch served in the Officers' Mess School of Infantry, after the service and a get together to meet old pals.

Interesting item for soldier-settlers: Between 1919 and 1924, approximately 24,000 World War I vets were established under the Soldier Settlement Act at an investment of about 127 million dollars. Nearly forty years later, there are still over 2000 dollars, eight of these are original settlers.

STILL CONVINCED

Settlement operations began under the V.L.A. of 1942 and are still continuing twenty years later. By 1967-68, 8,500 loans were made totalling 44.5 millions of dollars, and now preliminary figures show that more than 6,000 loans more have been made totalling another $37 millions.

Close to 93,000 vets of World War II and the Korean Conflict have received aid under the V.L.A. of about $500 millions. Slightly more than 50,000 are still indebted to the Dept. and the majority of the remainder have been given conditional grants and taken title to their properties.

The final application date for qualification under the act is Oct. 31st., 1968. This means the Veterans Land Administration will be in the same position administratively — 28 years after commencement — that the Soldier Settlement Board was in five years after it began, and there may be veterans still indebted to the Director, V.L.A., in the year 2,000.

Mr. Stanley Lucas, son of Mrs. E. A. Lucas, 8 Vallery Crescent, Belleville, graduated with honors in business administration from the Eastern Ontario School of Technology, Ottawa, on May 13. He has accepted a position with the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. in Montreal, Stanley is a former student of the Quinte Secondary School, Belleville.

Says Liberals Have Misled Electorate

OTTAWA (CP)—Former defence minister Gordon Churchill has accused the Liberal party of having misled the Canadian electorate about the effectiveness of Canada's NATO contingent in Europe.

He told the Commons during the throne speech debate Tuesday that the Honest John ground-to-ground missiles could be armed with nuclear weapons within two hours in an emergency.

"Great relief," interjected have a good time. Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Churchill said the Liberals "spread bogus information" during the last election campaign to the effect that the Honest Johns were filled with sand and completely useless.

"It's not sand, it's concrete," Mr. Churchill added amid laughter. "Nuclear warheads had been put in the missiles to balance them and to avoid the hazard of accidental nuclear firings during training of the missile battery.

He said the Honest Johns and the strike - reconnaissance CF-104 jets that Canada contributes to NATO are not useless. Air could be armed with nuclear warheads a few hours after an alert was sounded in Europe.

CLAIMS BYPASSED

Mr. Churchill accused the government of having bypassed Parliament in deciding to acquire nuclear warheads as soon as possible. "Parliament has been affronted and its rights have been abrogated by the actions of this government."

He said Mr. Pearson will find after negotiating a bilateral agreement with the United States that the U.S. will be in full control of any nuclear weapons stationed with Canadian forces.

State Secretary J. W. Pickersgill asked if the government was not consulting Parliament during a two-day debate on a New Democratic Party motion of non-confidence in the government's nuclear policy.

Mr. Churchill laughed and replied: "Only the (the governments) consider full consultation of Parliament, they won't last very long."

Service Centres Will Be Manned To Aid Tourism

The Hastings and Land O'Lakes Regional Council announced at their regular month-ly meeting that the Hon. Bryan L. Cathcart, Minister of Travel and Publicity for the Province of Ontario would be the guest speaker at their presentation dinner later this month and that he would present the Regional Council with a cheque for $5,000 for the promotion of the Tourist Industry in this Region.

Tourist information signs were ordered and which will be placed throughout the region for the convenience of the traveling public.

His Honor Judge Smith from Napanee, as a representative of the Historical Society and members of the Chamber of Commerce, Napanee, attended the meeting.

Mr. Al Woods, Inspector for the Department of Travel and Publicity announced that arrangements were complete for the manning of tourist information booths at the Service Centres on 401 Highway, the exact location of which rests in the Regional Councils in the area, and personnel to be trained and supervised by the Department of Travel and Publicity. Mr. Wood also announced that he and Grant McKittrick, president of the Regional Council would appear on Kingston TV on Wednesday next to promote and advertise the advantages of a holiday in this region.

The Council concurs with the resolution of the Madawaska Valley Regional Tourist Council objecting to the revision of the Ontario Provincial Parks Act, which enables the Minister of Lands and Forests to install in their tents and trailer parks such services as sleeping accommodation, restaurants, refreshments booths, shops, boats, golf course, bowling greens, laundereites and many other amenities that are in direct competition with private enterprise.

A motion was passed accepting the request of the Townships of Denbigh, Abinger and Ashby that they join the Land O'Lakes Tourist Association, thereby becoming members of this region.

Police Association in Quiet Way Assists Worthy Projects, Gives Tape Recorder to Retarded

Sometimes its surprising what people can accomplish.

Lawyers and clever criminals may tilt their lips at them. Some-too-clever jokers merely slide their eyes at them and keep quiet. Lesser small-town citizens berate them over parking tickets. Bigger small town citizens accept their appearances them by promising to have traffic tickets arranged to their satisfaction.

However, all else aside Belleville's police force is perhaps among the most miscalar of the city's junior service organizations in more ways than one.

This is primarily reflected in the Belleville Police Association where non-coms and constables of the force band together, ostensibly for their own mutual good. Or so it should be — were they not a different type of man. For beyond the obvious call of brotherhood, they have for many years, without recognition, contributed to some of the city's less obvious social needs.

DO WORK QUIETLY

Over the years their association quietly has contributed to many a cause as it did last night at the city's tape recorder to the school for the city's retarded children. But, this is only one of the many projects which the city's constabulary—in the guise of the Belleville Police Association—contributes to each year.

Privacy, at the least and most of times is taken as the keynote of police work. That this is accepted as a day-to-day gospel is the citizen's own fault. If anything, it's otherwise, and citizens might well realize if he stops to horn in on any sidewalk argument between a constable and a party being violation, drunk, shop-lift-or or petty thief. Or for that matter, dramatic newspaper or radio or TV headlines. In these contexts, cops fall fatally. But the limelight is unexpected, or if not unexpected, greeted apprehensively.

Meantime, in all privacy, slightly apprehensive, cops continue to do things in private as they did last night in Belleville. That is, give a helping hand where it is needed—and least obvious.

Local Interest In Work of Eye Bank

The increasing number of successful cornea transplants, making possible the gift of sight to blind persons, has resulted in an enlivened local interest in the work of eye bank committees.

Locally, this work has in the past been carried on largely by individual efforts, but the renewed interest has now resulted in the formation of a separate eye bank committee by the Hastings county advisory board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

The new committee is headed up by Dr. H. E. Welch of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Belleville and has stepped up campaign to encourage more persons to will their eyes is being planned.

Members of the county advisory committee heard details of the new committee at their annual meeting held recently at the United Church Sunday school at Foxboro.

The meeting was told that a successful cornea transplant to two people was made possible by the arrangements of a Belleville man prior to his death

Dr. Welch will gladly provide information on the necessary forms for persons interested.

Ward Care Increases for Local CAS

The number of children under temporary ward care sponsored by the Belleville Children's Aid Society is now increased over recent years.

The monthly report of CAS director Reeve Kerr shows the Society caring for 182 children at the end of April.

These were other statistics quoted by Mr. Kerr to the monthly CAS meeting:

Some 27 referrals for services involving 77 children had become long term cases and an additional 63 referrals had been dealt with summarily;

Three children were placed in adoption and 13 adoption applications had been brought before court authorities;

Three young unmarried mothers sought assistance in planning for their confinements and future care of their children.

"It seems more and more people are experiencing difficulty in their day-to-day living," commented Mr. Kerr.

PLEASED WITH CLINIC

Mr. Wishart spoke briefly on the success of the Mental Health Week sponsored by the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association and, in particular, the Thursday night production of a full time mental health clinic to serve the area and the inclusion of a psychiatric wing in the plans for the 95-bed addition to Belleville General Hospital. He complimented those concerned for their energetic efforts on behalf of the community.

The president reported on the recent conference and annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies held in Toronto. There were more than 600 lay and professional people in attendance representing 104 societies in Ontario. Those attending from Belleville were Mr. Wishart, Mrs. E. E. Follwell, Dr. S. C. Rose, Mr. Kerr and Miss Maude Watson and J. D. Adamson and K. G. Grant of the Society's field staff. Mr. Adamson chaired one of the sessions for professional staff.

Mr. Wishart mentioned that there are 1,200 men and women serving on the boards of directors of Ontario Children's Aid Societies and more than 900 men and women employed in paid positions. In providing the provinces' social protection and other child-focused welfare services, they spend annually in excess of $13,000,000. He stated he was very much impressed by the calibre of both the lay and professional persons participating in the Conference. His compliments to Mrs. E. E. Follwell on her election to a vice-presidency in the Ontario Association.

Mrs. E. E. Follwell Vice President

Mrs. E. E. Follwell, of Belleville, was elected a vice-president of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies at the annual conference held in Toronto earlier this month.

Mrs. Follwell is a member of the Board of the Belleville Children's Aid Society.

Road Progress Reported at Council Meet

TRENTON — Murray Township Council met last night in regular session. Few resolutions were passed. Under prolonged discussion was the progress to date on the new development road, west of Trenton. Surveyors are working there now, being on coming up with the profile of the road and estimated cost for the construction. The road will take off along an undeveloped road allowance, of Highway 33 and just east of Dead Creek. It will proceed north through Highway Two to Highway 401. As the road allowance is now only 66 feet wide, additional land must be bought from landowners to bring the width out to 100 feet.

The offence occurred on

Upsets 'Coke', Breaks Pedal, Ditches Car

TRENTON — Robert John Brewer, 17, of 20 Frederick St., climbed ruefully out of his damaged car last night after he skidded 52 feet from the road (Edwards Street) into a six-foot ditch—after he had broken off the pedal of his car —after he had upset an open bottle of Coke, reposing on the floor of the car.

Brewer told police he had set up the chain reaction by kicking over the bottle of pop. He said that he had taken his eyes off the road for a moment, and then everything began to happen. Damage to the car was set at $200. Mr. Brewer was uninjured.

Freedom to Compete

"The image of 'free enterprise' as a sort of holy grail seems to take its worst battering at the hands of some of its most vociferous devotees," complains the Sault Ste. Marie Star.

The Star is right—but it happens that the example it selects to prove its point is vulnerable to criticism, as not really being a situation in which the "free enterprise" system is operating.

The Star reports that motorists have been complaining about poor service at gasoline stations and restaurants along turnpike systems in the U.S. On these strictly limited-access highways, the number of such establishments is necessarily restricted. Therefore, concessions for their erection are let by turnpike authorities. As the Star points out, these establishments are under no pressure of competition to provide good service. As a matter of fact, it says, many of them do not.

The point is that to term such establishments example of "free enterprise," just because they are privately owned and operated, is a striking illustration of the manner in which the adjective "free" is widely misinterpreted. Under the capitalistic system—and why, pray, must we be always seeking synonyms for a perfectly good and respectable phrase?—under this system enterprises are free to compete. There is no freedom to compete on the turnpikes. As a result, service is poor.

This proves, if any proof were needed, that there is no particular merit attaching to private ownership per se, as opposed to public ownership. It is the presence of competition which makes private ownership efficient, where it is efficient, just as it is the lack of competition which tends to make government ownership inefficient. Fortunately, though, governments in our political system are frequently sensitive to public opinion and this often offsets, to a degree at least, the absence of competition. The experience of U.S. motorists with privately-owned establishments on turnpikes seems to indicate that, having regard to the conditions under which they operate, government services do a reasonably efficient job.

As for privately-owned operations which are monopolistic in character, where enterprise is not "free" in the sense that anyone can compete, then no legitimate objection can be raised to government supervision and regulation. Such a system can be highly efficient—as witness the provision of telephone services in Canada by the privately-owned, but government-regulated, Bell Telephone Co.

Wants Death Duty Reform

The Estate Planning Council of Toronto has suggested to the royal commission on taxation that death duties should be eliminated on estates less than $100,000.

This proposal bears considerable similarity to another taxation reform more frequently advocated—that income tax be abolished on incomes below $5,000 or some other arbitrary figure in neighborhood.

There is, however, a startling difference between the results which these two changes would have on tax revenue.

Any advocacy of raising the exemption limit for incomes from the present basic $1,000, or $2,000 for a married man, frequently draws the retort that the bulk of revenue from this tax comes from the levies on the millions of Canadians with comparatively small incomes.

The Estate Planning Council, on the other hand, points out that although estates below $100,000 account for 55 per cent of all taxable estates, they produce only 7.7 per cent of death-duty revenue.

The change could thus be made without raising any difficult problem as to where the government could find an alternative source of revenue.

To the average man, the figure of $100,000 may appear high. Yet, at five per cent, this would yield an income of only $5,000, less than that enjoyed by the families of some skilled tradesmen. For a young widow, with a family of growing children to raise and educate, death duties on estates below $100,000 could be a cruel blow. Perhaps, circumstances like these ought to be taken into consideration in assessing death duties.

Time is running out, fast for this country. . . . The troubles we see now, agitation and even bloodshed, will not compare to what we will see in a decade from now unless real progress is made.—U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy in racial discrimination.

Thus we never live, but we hope to live; and always disposing ourselves to be happy, it is inevitable that we never become so.—Blaise Pascal.

Letters to The Editor

Seeks Information On Military Badges

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Although Canadians have rendered military service in both peace and war under more than a thousand varieties of unit, badges, no comprehensive history of these insignia has ever been published.

The writer is now attempting to assemble material for a reference book on this aspect of Canadiana. Any assistance your readers could give would be appreciated.

Material sought includes helmet, cap, collar and shoulder badges; enamelled brooches and pins; unit commemorative medals and trophies; photos and pictures illustrating these designs; letters, lists, articles, programs, and Christmas cards with unit crests and markings; books and articles on unit histories; and information concerning details and sources for selection, and nicknames and anecdotes associated with them.

Of special value would be information from jewellers and others who at one time engaged in local manufacture of these items.

Canadian Expeditionary Force and earlier unit materials are required particularly.

Mentally Retarded Fall Into 2 Classes

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

A recent Ontario Intelligencer editorial discussed the suggestion of Dr. John Fotheringham, a Toronto psychiatrist, that production of mentally retarded children should be controlled. Basically this suggestion would have been more acceptable thirty years ago than it is today, and in fact it was accepted by several of the States in the sterilization of mentally defective adults was authorized by law. Withdrawal from this practice has taken place partly because people of high intelligence have renewed their confidence in God's having with the coming of wartime and post-war prosperity (the reason is given in the editorial.)

There are other, less subjective reasons. First, the ordinary variability in human intelligence, like height, weight, blood pressure, and so on, includes persons with I.Q.'s ranging from 55 to the extreme upper limits. The lower levels of this range are the only subjects of considerable study at such places as the Fountain Hospital in Toronto and elsewhere. There Dr. Hilliard and his associates have done some astounding things with young adult retardees, about three-quarters of whom have ultimately, with training, been discharged from institutions where they had been placed, have saved money, married, and raised healthy children. Rise in I.Q. of up to 28 points in two years have been recorded, particularly in young people coming from bad homes. The conspicuous failure of Hilliard's regime is warm personal interest, informality, and the use of resources within and without the institution. In one study of 200 adults who had been placed, 63 been identified as defective, 83 per cent became self-supporting, with semi-skilled or unskilled managerial positions, and 65 per cent had children whose mean I.Q. was 96. These slow learners, or dullards, so numerous in the elementary schools in Ontario and on the non-retardable lists of employment agencies, are reclaimable. They result from broken homes, lack of prenatal and postnatal medical care, and from lack of stimulation when young.

The truly retarded comprise another, quite different group. Below I. Q. 55 there are six times the expected statistical number of mentally retarded people (0.3 per cent instead of 0.05 per cent). This number is divided into this class of defective, and within al factors are present over and above the simple biological factor that accounts for the slow learners. They are pathological cases . . . the mongoloids, the brain-damaged, and the autistic. The important thing about these people is that they are born of chance causes among the offspring of parents without respect to income, race, social status, or preparedness to accept them. Often they have complicating physical disabilities such as weak hearts, susceptibility to infection, or blindness. Their incidence in the population, as given to President John F. Kennedy by his Panel on Mental Retardation, is approximately four per thousand live births. There are something like 300,000 of these such individuals in the United States today, in contrast to the five million mentally ill.

Thus we have, on the one hand, a category of slow learners in the population where reproduction can could have been prevented if they had been born into well-formed, well-adjusted homes. The government that takes on this problem has its work cut out for it. When the city slums are nonexistant, when children have a yen to go to school and learn and are given a fair chance to do so, and when parents take the necessary steps and desire to rear children with strong bodies and sound minds, then we are on the way toward prevention. "Don't care" parents are a major obstacle.

On the other hand, there is the smaller number of pathological retardees that is born randomly throughout the population in more or less constant proportion. It is the parents of these people who have started the recent movement for special training schools like those in Belleville and Trenton. These parents, too, have started a million-dollar research program in Canada to find out how to prevent the condition and how to train to usefulness those affected. Thus far, specified birth control is not one of our plans, but it could be if research identifies the adults who are likely to give birth to retarded babies.

According to the rain gauge at the Belleville water filtration plant, in a period of approximately 24 hours, 2.35 inches of rain, fell in the district. It was the heaviest rainfall recorded for many years. Farmers viewed flooded low-lying fields with dismay realizing that at best it would be several days before spring cultivation could be resumed. Already spring seeding is approximately three weeks late and yesterday's rainfall will further delay the work.

Two American scientists in Antarctica have found that Adelie penguins, while rarely fly, can be transported hundreds of miles from their own rookeries, and walk, with certain steps, unerringly back home. The scientists attribute this amazing navigational feat to a built-in "direction clock" within the birds.

If this "direction clock" can be implanted in the Old Boys' Reunion celebrant, who dresses like a penguin with a black bow tie, and who clings to the lamp post as he sings "Sweet Adeline," the Antarctic research could pay off.

Strictly Personal

Warm Feelings No Substitute For Religion

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the most famous quotations in the world, which has been criticized in essays from Marcus Aurelius to Robert Louis Stevenson, is this:

"I expect to pass through this world but once; any good thing, therfore, that I can do or any kindness that I can show to my fellow-creatures, let me do it now; let me not defer or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again."

Although praised by many as a truly scriptural sentiment, it is utter nonsense — high-minded nonsense, perhaps, but that sounds good in a speech, but means nothing in either philosophical or practical terms.

For those people whose good impulses are left undirected, such a stimulant is not needed; and for those many people whose bad impulses too often dominate the sentiment is overthinned and ineffectual to draw precisely the opposite conclusions from it.

"I shall not pass this way again." Then why does it matter what I do? Why not rob the field, deceive my friends, litter the roads, pollute the streams, trample the flowers, and treat my fellow men as means to one's own ends?

This quotation admirably illustrates, indeed, the whole difference between genuine religious feeling and specious sentimentality. The sentimentalist's factor is our not returning this way again, why not indulge in any speeds of cruelty or stupidity or cruelty or exploitation? In fact, only it some people were forced to return to this earth and keep on the same job, so it became rather fatchied to try to attach any particular importance to one single kind of fruit.

Cholesterol Not Completely Understood by Doctors

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband, following a thrombosis, read that the pectin in apples served as a natural preventive against the deposit of cholesterol in the blood vessels.

He asked two doctors. One said apples might well be beneficial and in no way harmful. The other said they seemed not only to curb the accumulation of cholesterol but were suspected of dissolving that which already has accumulated.

Recently a friend who is taking anti-cholesterol medicine and is on a strict diet said he was forbidden to eat apples, stating that they were very high in cholesterol. Can you explain this seeming contradiction? — E. A.

The explanation begins with the fact that we are far from having a complete understanding of cholesterol. When such a situation exists, some people tend to put undue emphasis on certain aspects of the problem and may even go to extremes. The trick is to separate the hocus from the pocus.

Apples are not high in cholesterol. Your friend may have been advised not to eat them for some other reason, or he may simply just doesn't like apples and didn't say so.

I notice that one doctor said pectin might well be beneficial. One of the other said apples seem to help, or were suspected of it. In other words, they gave a couple of doctors the answers that don't mean much except that we have no reason to suppose apples are harmful.

Diet (let alone any single item of food) is only one of several means of controlling cholesterol — age, heredity, exercise, over — weight, smoking, and the amount of animal fats eaten over the last 20, 30 or 40 years all have a bearing on the condition, so it becomes rather farfetched to try to attach any particular importance to one single kind of fruit.

To date there is no reliable evidence, either, that any way to remove cholesterol once it has been deposited. Our efforts currently are aimed at trying to control the amount of free cholesterol circulating in the blood. It is known that lowering it at moderate levels may reduce further accumulation.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

I have a friend whose invariable greeting is: "Well, what's new and disturbing?"

He has got a point. It is a disturbing old world in which we live. In both the public and the private domain, disturbance seems to be the keynote. I was just trying to recollect what the disturbances of my youth were years ago when I was a boy. The biggest one I can remember was August 4, 1914 when the date of my annual mortgage payments were due on my father's house. Around May, we all had to start pulling in our horns. When I asked my father for a nickel on Saturday, he would remind me of August 4. All expenditures were curtailed for three months while the bank balance was watched narrowly by us all, old and young. That was disturbing.

My mother's chief disturbance was about whose turn it was to have her mother, my Grandma, stay with us for two months. Grandma was divided up among her four daughters and four daughters-in-law. There was great scheming and flagging among the ladies as to who would have Grandma at a rocking time. Grandma was the greatest cook and preserver in the world.

That's about all the disturbance, in those days. There were no wars, or rumors of war. What foreign nations did was a matter of passing curiosity.

Lord, what a gentle world it was!

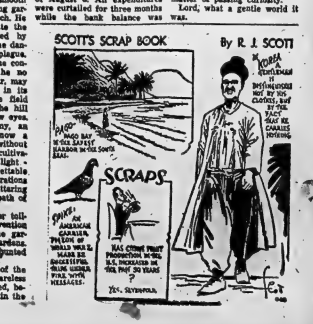
Dandelions Are Praised

Montreal Gazette

Among the first of the flowers to come out with the warmth and the awakening showers have been the dandelions.

Of course, the dandelion is not ranked as a flower in the eyes of a gardener. The most cheerful blossom is warred against, pursued with kitchen knives and toxic chemicals. A dandelion in a smooth lawn, to the self-respecting gardener, is a personal affront. Dandelions spreading like a plague.



It may be that even in the conscientious gardener, if he no longer feels called to war, may look upon the dandelion in its natural setting, over the field and up the slopes of the hill and may see in them more than it is no longer his enemy, an intrusive weed. It is now a bit early flower, growing without demands for tedious cultivation, spontaneous and light - hearted, giving unforgettable memories to new generations of children, and scattering a natural beauty in the grass approaching spring.

Back in the garden, or toiling on the lawn, convention must have its way. The gardener's heart again hardens. The dandelion must be hunted and extirpated with rigor.

The only real offence of the dandelion is that its careless profusion makes it a weed, because it becomes beauty in the wrong place.

supreme commander. These reports said the post of deputy commander likely would be filled by an officer from one of the smaller European NATO countries, such as Holland, Belgium or Italy.

The foreign ministers of NATO's big four—the U.S., Britain, France and Germany—got together Tuesday night at the home of the U.S. ambassador here to discuss the Berlin situation.

The conference opening today is the first such meeting to be held in Ottawa since 1961. Some 200 official delegates from NATO's 15 member countries are attending. In addition, there are more than 200 persons on delegation staffs and a 150-member NATO secretariat.

Among late arrivals Tuesday were Foreign Ministers Joseph Luns of The Netherlands and Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium, Defence Secretary Robert McNamara of the U.S. and Foreign Minister Evangelelas Averoff-Tossizza of Greece.

EXPRESSES HOPES

Canadian Defence Minister Paul Hellyer and Secretary McNamara at Uplands Airport, said he hoped the secretary's visit would help to establish a long, fruitful association between the Canadian and U.S. defence departments.

Later, in the Commons, the new Liberal government of Prime Minister Lester Pearson survived a new Democratic Party non-confidence motion based on the government's intention to equip Canadian armed forces with nuclear weapons. The vote was 124 to 113.

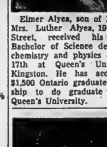
The projected inter-allied nuclear force includes European-based Canadian and other national components in addition to British Bomber Force and U.S. Polaris submarines.

Mr. Silkker told reporters that the "great arm" NATO countries have operational forces with the nuclear weapon available to them. He declined to name the countries.

He denied that the inter-allied nuclear force is primarily political in concept. The military position of NATO has not been completely changed by the force, he contended.

"It is certainly not a political move," said the secretary-general, emphasizing that one of its benefits will be gained—shared technical information available to countries now lacking it. This would enable them to participate intelligently in decisions regarding use of the weapons.

BELIEVES IN FLEXIBILITY



At the same time Mr. Silkker said he is a firm believer in the idea of a mixed-manned surface fleet, a concept that has been superseded at least for the moment by that of the inter-allied force. He had once been sceptical about the feasibility of a seaborne nuclear force with crews drawn from various NATO countries but had been converted.

Mr. Silkker said NATO's military planning is based on the idea of "forward strategy," meaning any Soviet attack would be met close to the East-West border in Germany. The talks here would aim at making this strategy more effective, but full effectiveness required greater conventional strength.

Only when all NATO countries have lived up to their commitments can the forward strategy be fully implemented, he said.

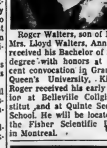
The conflict with France over Commonwealth interests became so acute at one point Tuesday that Frederick Erroll, president of the board of trade, a British government department, cancelled plans to fly back to London. He decided to stay on in Geneva to assist the Commonwealth partners "in what I consider to be a legitimate case."



Later, after agreement was reached, Erroll was quoted as saying:

"I am satisfied that this will meet the special needs of Australia, Canada and New Zealand."

In Australia's case, agricultural products 90 per cent of exports.

Cool Weather Cut Visitors To Minimum

PICTON—Cool weather cut down number of holiday visitors to county resorts and parks. Saturday's rain and strong winds were not conducive to camping. Outlet Provincial Park had ninety camp sites taken, sixty fewer than a year ago when weekend temperatures hit 85 degrees.

Park attendants report that two girls went for a dip in Lake Ontario there Friday, but the chilly waters made their stay short.

While the beach has adequate facilities for the present, more picnic tables are being placed in preparation for the thousands expected this summer.

On May 16th the W.I. members of North Hastings District met at the beautiful little church at Paudash for their 58th district annual, with Mrs. Ray Rollins, district president, presiding.

Mrs. McGillivray of Paudash Women, welcomed the gathering to which Mrs. Slater of McArthur's Mills replied.

The president gave a short address consisting of a summary of her activities for the year.

The reports of the standing committees followed. Agriculture and Canadian Industries was given by the convener, Mrs. Warren Hill. One motto that had been given was, "Two Men Look Through Prison Bars; ees mud, one sees stars." A paper had been given on the early history of Algonquin Park with material from the Department of Lands and Forests. One branch had a display of Canadian made articles. Another had a discussion, "Does a woman do a man's work better than a man does a woman's work."

In the report on citizenship and education given by Mrs. John McLean of Deihrt, two roll calls were, "What Makes a Good Citizen?", "What Does a Community Need From Its Young People?". Some of the meetings, "Let the Institute Enrich Our Lives, Not Wear Us Down" and "Before Keeping Up With the Joneses', Find Out Where They Are Going."

PUBLIC RELATIONS REPORT

The public relations officer, Mrs. Marion Reynolds, gave the report on the donations, some which showed the amounts of money spent by all branches in the district on W.I. projects at all kinds and cash donations to other organizations as well as the report on the activities in the branches.

The Institute song was sung, directed by Mrs. Fred Bailey and Mrs. Kenneth Nicol.

Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins of Harold gave the report on Historical Research and Current Events which included: roll calls: "Bring a Wedding Picture"; "A Pioneer Incident That Has Happened In My Lifetime", motto: "Were the Good Old Days So Good?"; "Age Is Not the Matter of Years, But the State of Mind".

Topics: "Early Road Building in North Hastings"; "A Famous Grandmother, Queen Victoria."

A suggestion, have at meetings something to see, some thing to do, something to hear.

The report on Home Economics and Health was prepared by Mrs. E. T. Naylor of Madoc and read by Mrs. Albert Empey, and contained the roll calls: "What Is a Creative Homemaker?" "Something I Wish I Hadn't Bought — and Why?" "One Way I Have of Chasing the Blues and a Cure for Wrinkles."

Mottoes: "A Humble House is Often a Beautiful Home," "Homemaking is Not a Hobby, It's the Very Breath of One's Existence." Health depends on something to do, something to love, and something to hope for. Good health and good sense — two of life's greatest blessings. One branch had a discussion on the time savers in the home and what a homemaker can do with time saved.

RESOLUTIONS REPORT

The resolutions report was given by Mrs. W. J. Barlow. One resolution had been sent in.

The correspondence was read by the secretary. There was a letter from Senator George White, who regretted that he and Mrs. White were unable to accept the invitation to attend the rally due to the fact it was the day of the opening of Parliament.

There were letters concerning the luncheon in Guelph and Peterborough in honor of Mrs. Van Sandwell, A. C. W. W. president. A letter from Hon. Robert MacAulay told of the Trade Crusade of Ontario and urged all W.I. members to help by buying Canadian made goods and spending tourist dollars in Canada. A letter from Mr. Sidney MacDonald asked that a farm safety week be appointed. Mrs. Percy Carman of Marmora was chosen.

The home economist, Miss Elizabeth Spouse, gave the report on the club's and Achievement Days of the 4-H Homemaking Clubs.

A beautiful turkey dinner was served in the basement of the church by the Paudash branch.

The afternoon session opened with an address by Miss Armour of the Home Economics Extension Service in which she outlined the leadership training courses and short courses available as well as material that can be obtained from the Loan Library — such as kits on remodelling kitchens or refinishing furniture. These can be obtained by either individuals or groups. The training school to be held this fall will be an "Focus on Finishes."

The roll call was answered by the public relations officers who gave a one-minute talk on the theme

"Coming together is a beginning,

Keeping together is progress,

Working together is success."

Mrs. Grant McLaren of Shannonville, representative of Federated Board, gave her address. She told that last year there was a W.I. membership of 27,000 in Ontario, and explained the funds that are W.I. business. These are Adelaide Hoodless Fund, F.W.I.C. Foundation Fund, Pennies for Friendship, the Unesco Coupon plan in which money is sent for Indians and Eskimos in Northwest Territories, and the International Scholarship Fund. The A.C.W.W. have as their goal the building of better relationships and peace around the world by improving standards of living and studying problems.

In order to do this, every segment of the organization must help beginning at the branch level. F.W.I.C. is preparing a study program to be carried out between now and the next triennial conference in Ireland.

Mrs. McLaren also reported on the Florence E. Eadie Presentation Fund. This amounted to $1,025.60 and at a party for Miss Eadie she was presented with a projector, slide boxes and a cheque for $500 out of which she was to choose and buy a hand painting.

SHORT COURSES

Last year the department sponsored 405 short courses; 70 leadership training schools and 1818 4-H Clubs. From July 8-12 a course for rural women will be held at Guelph.

The theme for the centennial is, "Make Canada Lovelier" and branches and districts are to start projects for this event. This year the area convention will be October 31., November 1st.

A memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Belanger of the Marmora branch.

There was a "Hobby" display and a display of the Tweedsmuir Histories. Mrs. Keith Bray, district curator, gave some valuable information to the branch curators.

The prize for attendance was given to the Ryiestone branch. The song "Canadian Sunset," was presented by Mrs. K. Nicol, Mrs. A. Franks and Mrs. F. Bailey.

More to "Child Drama" Than Meets Eye or Ear

By PATRICIA RUSAK

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Mention "child drama" and adults probably think of the sweet little angel in the annual school play.

But the child drama involves a great deal more than scripted plays to be performed by children, says Sylvia Demmery, a teacher of child drama from Birmingham, England.

Scripted plays do not, in fact, belong in this realm, she adds, declaring that child drama has evolved to become a philosophy of education that aims "to train children to cope with the problems of life."

In an interview during the Dominion Drama Festival here, Miss Demmery said theatre or adult drama, which requires technique and character understanding, are always forced on children too soon.

At the drama centre where she teaches in Birmingham, children develop vocabulary, discipline and concentration by using "their natural sense of wanting to play," their enjoyment of sound, rhythm and movement, and especially their imaginations.

ACTING IS NATURAL

When confronted with a scripted play, a child will only find the vocabulary different from his own but doesn't understand the play's characters or the situations in which they are found, Miss Demmery said.

Free and imaginative play will help him develop understanding which can be applied to "theatre work of continued through adolescence, she said. "But theatre is not the primary aim of child drama."

In all phases of learning—reading, history, geography, science—a child is constantly "playing and acting out" short quick plays which he improvises on the ideas given him.

He can build up an extremely complex play, for example a play about a prisoner about to receive punishment for a crime, after hearing one simple sound such as a clanking chain, Miss Demmery explained.

HELPS SLOW LEARNER

Child drama is excellent for giving confidence to backward or slow-learning children, Miss Demmery said. "They may not be good at learning activities such as reading and writing but their imaginations are just as good, often better, than those of other children."

And when observing a child engaged in free imaginative play, a teacher can also judge his mental age and know what to expect of that child in his other activities, she said.

The techniques of child drama, which also enables children to rid themselves of their tensions, can be applied to dance, recreation, religious lessons and therapy as well as educational programs, Miss Demmery said.

During her recent tour of Canada she also delivered lectures, workshops on child drama, that the idea—often referred to as "creative" or "natural" drama—has not been accepted in this country as it has been in England.

The philosophy of child drama, developed by Peter Slade with whom Miss Demmery has been working and studying for the last 12 years, was introduced to Canada in 1958 and many people, especially teachers and social workers, are slowly becoming interested, Miss Demmery said.

Explorers, C.G.I.T. Group Hold Banquet

THOMASBURG—The annual mother and daughter banquet of the Thomasburg C.G.I.T. and Explorer groups took place in the I.O.O.F. Hall last Wednesday evening with the tasty repast provided by the Thomasburg U.C.W. The meal was under the convenership of Mrs. C. Adams.

Miss Donna Coulson, the toastmistress, spoke briefly and also welcomed the mothers, the guest speaker, Mrs. W. Sills of Plainfield, Mr. G. Dyer, pastor of Thomasburg United Church, the leaders, and all the girls. Toasts were presented by Miss Helen Mesnrie, Miss Gail Beatty, Miss Violet Mockon and responded to by Mrs. Earl Beatty and Mrs. George Dyson.

Mrs. William Sills of Plainfield addressed the gathering, during which time she stressed the fact that the young people of today need the prayer guidance and this is where a mother can do so much. She also told the story of the boy named Daniel in the Bible, and of his great faith in prayer.

Mrs. Donald Hobert favored with a solo, after which a full report of the various activities of the C.G.I.T. and Explorers groups was given. A special feature was the presenting of corsages to the girls in the age group of 15 to 17 by Mrs. H. K. Morton. Mrs. H. Coulson and Miss Donna Coulson, presidents, also took part. Girls who received these were: Jean Preston, Helen Mesnrie, Ruth Green, Carol Coulson and Jean Anne Mockon. Miss Barbara Brough was presented with a C.G.I.T. graduation pin upon leaving the group after a five-year membership. Miss M. Morton presented the guest speaker with an appropriate gift.

Miss Elaine Carleton expressed thanks on behalf of those present to the speaker and to the mothers, and Miss Irene Calvert expressed thanks for the meal supplied by the U.C.W. group.

The leaders of the C.G.I.T. group are Mrs. H. K. Morton and Mrs. Harold Coulson, and for the Explorers, Mrs. Harold Carleton, Mrs. David Calvert and Mrs. Sam Fisher.

Successful Living

By DORIS CLARK

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Husband Still Tied To Mama

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — My family had always been very close. But now my husband and I live in the same city as his family. They are reserved, never demonstrative with their children. His mother is without taste or human compassion. Never gives the grandchildren a birthday present or has any of us for dinner.

O.K., I wouldn't mind that except for my husband. He constantly tries to buy their love; calls her up, gives her gifts, acts like a child in order to get some attention from them.

But worst of all he treats our children like his parents treat him; constant carping, never any praise. He's mean and petty. It isn't good for them. I tried going to a social agency but he refused to go. Yet he is just as unhappy as I am. — UNHAPPY.

DEAR UNHAPPY — She may be mean, but her domination over him is as strong as ever. He clings to her, yet takes out his unconscious resentment on his children. Go back to the agency to gain insight yourself and further moral support.

I wouldn't give up without a struggle.

DEAR DORIS —

1. What is the procedure as to the trousseau tea: how far ahead of the wedding should it be held? Do the ladies that pour tea wear hats?

2. For the wedding, is a fur stole worn over a cocktail dress or left off, being that it will be early in June?

3. Who stands first in the receiving line at the reception? Both parents of the couple to be married are attending.

4. What are the responsibilities of the bride's parents as to what they buy and pay for? — NEEDING HELP.

DEAR NEEDING —

1. One or two weeks ahead. The ladies who pour wear hats, if the tea is being held in the afternoon, unless they are members of the household where the tea is being held.

2. Not the date but the weather should decide this.

3. Mother of the bride.

4. Parents of the bride provide the wedding and all the trimmings: invitations, bridal outfit, photographs, food, church music and decor, transportation to and from the church for the bridal party. Groom may take over responsibility for bridal bouquets, boutonnieres; and definitely pays for license and minister's fee.

DEAR DORIS — I am 18 years old and engaged to a very sweet guy, or at least I thought he was. Lately he has been acting very strange. We argue a lot and he seldom tells me he loves me or shows any affection towards me.

I have been told that he has been dating another girl behind my back and when I asked him about it, he said it was true but that he meant nothing to him and wants me to forget it. He says he loves me and wants to marry me.

What should I do? I still love him but feel very hurt and let down. How can I believe anything he tells me in the future. —HURT.

DEAR HURT — You can't. He has failed to explain himself or apologize. Does he need a little longer to play the field?

• • •

DEAR DORIS — When you are invited to a double wedding and only know one couple, are you expected to send a gift to each or to just your own friend? — JUST DUMB.

DEAR JUST — One friend, one gift. The double part is for twice as much joy; not for gathering gifts!

• • •

(Don't just muddle along. A letter to Doris can guide you to successful action about your particular human problem.)

Forged Mink Will Likely Sweep U.S. This Year

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

The forged minks, faithfully duplicating the rippling, narrow stripings of the let-out female pelts, are calculated to fool at least a myopic wife, and neighbors at 20 paces.

In the past man has attempted to satisfy the mink tastes of women with less than mink pocketbooks by dyeing the pelts of squirrels and muskrats. Although these coats were cheaper, the prices were still for coat-type.

This time the mink coats come from test tubes, and the tariff is no more than a good cloth coat (which these are).

FUR-LIKE FEEL

The pile fabric with a fur like feel is called modacrylic, which is a dash of dynel and a bit of vinyl. The fibre is dyed, spun and loomed into pile, and by electronic processing is contoured to the shape of the coat and the likeness of pelts.

Two years ago when high dense production of the synthetic textile industry were coming on to the fashion scene, the research director of a huge chemical corporation conceded then that fake mink coats were possible. But he doubted that the American woman would want it except other women could afford one, too.

Then Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis in her India jet set leopard coat, which astonomically meant that, despite the shortage of the spotted animals, every American woman had to have leopard. Those who could afford it paid the skyrocketed prices for the real things, but the others were delighted to find fake leopard on the market.

This paved the way for fake ocelot, Persian lamb, and otter. The false fur weavers played it smart by being bold about their imitations until a "let's pretend" coat became acceptable fashion.

With this groundwork, the time was ripe to fabricate mink, Nierenberg decided. Besides counterfeiting mink coats, he is lining leather coats, other kinds of fake fur coats and even hem-stitching for fur coats with the false mink.

But the coats are the big hit of weeks. Although non-mink coat buying husbands will be impressed chiefly with price, and lack of luxury taxes, synthetic minks have other advantages over the real fur.

They are lightweight, won't change color by oxidation, and do not require winter storage.

No moths, not even the female moths, like non-mink mink.

'Christian Family' Topic at UCW

MELROSE —Melrose United Church Women met for the May meeting at the home of Mrs. Carmen Milligan. Vice-president, Mrs. Newton Demille welcomed the ladies and opened the meeting.

The theme of the devotional, led by Mrs. Demille was on "Christian Family". "As a family in Christian America, we can emphasize our many opportunities and blessings. As homemakers, we are sometimes the ones who must interpret the family to others."

The Scripture, read by Mrs. K. McMeechan, was from the book of Ruth and the hymn, "Come Let Us Sing of a Wonderful Love," was sung.

The business session followed and plans were finalized for two banquets for which the members are catering this month. It was decided to not hold a strawberry social this year.

Mrs. Roy McLaren was in charge of the program based on "Mother's Day." A paper, "We Bow at the Shrine of Mother," prepared by Mrs. Leslie McLaren was read by Mrs. R. McLaren. Other readings were given by Mrs. McMechan, Mrs. Hagerman, Mrs. Howard and Mrs. J. McLaren.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Milligan and her assistants.

Talk Enjoyed By Chi Rho

At the regular meeting of the Christ Church Chi Rho Fellowship Jeanne Lavalier introduced the special speaker of the evening, Captain H. A. Durand, who was with the army in India-China and surrounding area.

With the aid of a map and slides taken while there, he gave the group an insight into the people and the countryside where he spent his time, as well as telling about their life, habits and religion. Captain Durand also told of the peoples' reaction to him.

Both the members of the Chi Rho and the Young Adults' Group enjoyed the interesting talk and learned a great deal about the life of these people.

Pie and ice-cream was then enjoyed by all.

European Common Market Discussed at Study Guild

Mrs. A. Wells was hostess to the members at the recent meeting of the Women's Study Guild. The president, Mrs. N. McIlrum, conducted the business with encouraging reports heard from the various committees.

Thought-provoking worship was conducted by Mrs. Wells. Using the 'Beatitudes' as Scripture, she directed thoughts to a world-wide brotherhood, and ably setting the theme for the evening, "Working With Others."

Main thoughts of the evening's discussion were presented by Mrs. G. Trill, and Mrs. G. Mayber regarding the European Common Market.

"After World War II," said Mrs. Mayber, "Europe lay shattered in the rubble of war. Today France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg constitute the fastest growing economy of the free world.

"The plan of this Common Market was conceived by a retiring, unknown Frenchman named Jean Monnet, it has been accomplished by the co-operation of the scholarly leaders of these countries.

In 1946 the European economic co-operation was established to assist U. S. to carry out the Marshall Plan. In 1951 The European Coal and Steel Community was created to regulate the sale of these products and to replace competition with co-operation. To perpetuate this growth in all fields of trade of these six countries, the Treaty of Rome was signed in 1957.

A new enterprise called 'Euratom' was launched to develop peacetime uses of atomic energy.

TRIUMVIRATE GOVERNMENT

Those three divisions are governed by a Council of Ministers, a European Parliament and a Court of Justice, whose members represent the six-member countries.

This partnership of European countries has abolished frontiers.

Oil pipelines are built, telephone companies co-operate, transportation ways amalgamate. There is a free movement of workers between countries. There are no "foreigners." Workers become citizens.

The tariff schedule plans that tariffs will be abolished in ten year's time.

Non-member European countries have been driven to form a league of their own. In 1960 Britain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Austria, Switzerland and Portugal established the European Free Trade Association. This gives them a stronger bargaining power in world trade and with E.C.M. countries.

"Last year," explained Mrs. Trill, "Britain, led by Macmillan, became most anxious to join. When DeGaulle opposed her entry and Britain was vetoed, the world was greatly concerned. Negotiations are continuing and if Britain finds herself clinging to Common Wealth countries and U.S. for supporting trade agreements.

OVERWHELMING INFLUENCE

The influence and power of DeGaulle is overwhelming. His alliance with Adenauer buried an age-old conflict between their two countries.

The prefix Euro, signifies a kinship between nations which has never before existed. Euro-cars, Euro-markets and Euro-products are produced by the unbelievable unity of effort in these countries. There is an international chain of gasoline stations, automobile assembly plants and production factories.

The Investment Bank handles the finances of the E.C.M. It is run by a Management Committee of 12 members and a Board of Directors of three. Its source of income is from the member states and borrowing from the capital markets of world-wide countries.

It assists needy countries to develop natural resources this increasing their own investment.

"Many unsolved problems confront E.C.M., but a United States of Europe has begun to give 170 million people a common citizenship. Today, it is too early to predict its future but too late to deny its existence.

After a short discussion, a social half hour was spent when Mrs. Seldon and Miss Tickell served light refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. John Grant Bell are shown following their marriage in Christ Anglican Church, Campbellford. The bride is the former Miss Evelyn Rose Wilks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie J. Wilks, Campbellford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bell of Belleville, Ontario.

Past, Present and Future Of Nursing Topic at Nurses' Graduation Banquet

Miss Jan Ives, a 1926 graduate of Belleville General Hospital, was guest speaker at the banquet held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, under the auspices of the R.G.H. Nurses' Alumnae in honor of the graduating class of 1963, to which the Welcome Address by St. Andrew's Ladies' Guild catered.

Miss Ives, who was introduced by a classmate, Miss Doris Hogle, after two years on the general staff and private duty, and later became teaching instructor and director of nursing at Toronto General Hospital, and in 1937 won the Columbia University Teachers' College degree, and in 1938 was appointed as a consultant in nursing services for the O.H.S.C.

PAST EXPERIENCES

Miss Ives spoke of her past experiences and affiliation with Bellevile General Hospital at which time the supervisors were Miss Byers, Miss Cullen, Miss Collier and Miss Bertram, stating that she owed much to them as well as to her classmates of Miss Olive Fulton and Miss Bessie Allen.

Miss Ives also spoke of the past, present and future of nursing.

Following her address she was thanked by Mrs. Bly, who also tendered thanks to Miss Bonnie Rowe and Miss Eleanor Breach for the enjoyment of the evening, after which each of the graduates were introduced to the speaker by Miss Doreen Broderick.

HONORED BY BANQUET

Previous to the address, the graduating class of 44 "Sweet girl graduates" was honored by the Nursing Alumnae at a banquet held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, by which the Ladies' Guild of the Welcome Group catered. As each graduate filed into her place she was given a corsage, compliment of the Alumnae. Mrs. Dorothy Taylor, president of the Alumnae, gave the invocation, and the toast to the Queen. At the conclusion of the meal, the toast to the graduation class was proposed by Miss Peters, to which Miss Plummer replied. Miss Doris Smith, director of nursing, congratulated the graduates and stated that "there is no such thing as 'good luck,' but only clear thinking."

Musical numbers were also enjoyed by Miss Bonnie Rowe, favoring with three songs, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Black.

Nurses were present from many points in Ontario, and, not only a gathering in honor of the graduating class was this, but also a reunion of many classmates.

Nine Friends Present Farewell Gift

WELLINGTON — Mrs. Mac Greer entertained at a little surprise party in honor of Mrs. William Sainsbury, last Wednesday evening. Nine friends and former neighbors of the honored guest were present for the little farewell gathering as Mrs. Sainsbury and her husband were leaving May 20th for Ottawa and on the 24th they leave to spend two years in Pakistan, India.

The evening was enjoyed by all. Several games were played after which Mrs. Sainsbury was presented with a lovely charm bracelet, with the name of each lady present engraved on each disc. Mrs. Sainsbury thanked them all and said every time she wore it, it would remind her of her friends in Wellington.

All sat down to a delicious cold salad plate served by the hostess, Mrs. Greer and assisted by Mrs. Bob Armstrong.

Ann Landers

Reader Appalled With Ann's Undignified Names

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Why do you persist in calling people "Tots," "Lamb-Chop," "Bub," "Petunia," "Buster," "Honey-Bun", and countless other equally undignified names?

Surely you must be aware that some people who write to you are older than you are and therefore entitled to respect. How do you think a 70-year-old grandmother feels when you refer to her as "Tootsie?"

Recently my father-in-law wrote to you and he did not sign his name. I recognized his letter because I happened to know of his problem. I admit the situation he described sounded like that of a much younger man, but he is a gentleman 68 years of age. In your reply to him you called him "Buddy Boy."

Your advice is excellent but your sarcasm and smart-aleck approach to your correspondent is a bit much — TO THE POINT.

DEAR POINT — Thank you for your letter. It is not the first letter I have received offering this criticism. The next letter deals with the same subject. I hope you will read it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Your column is like a breath of fresh air! I especially enjoy your down-to-earth, unpretentious, old-shoe attitude toward all who write. When you pop back with, "Look, Buttercup," or "Listen, Bub," my husband gets such a bang out of it he can't stop laughing. "Buster," and "Doll" set him off, too, but nothing does it like "Buddy Boy!"

Reading your column every day is almost the same as having a personal chat with you. Your wisdom and wit are a priceless combination. Without being unkind you scale people down to size with just the right phrase. And who of us doesn't need it now and then?

Don't ever lose that refreshing straight-from-the-shoulder humor which your readers dearly love. — N. C. BOOSTER.

DEAR BOOSTER — Thanks Doll. And please give my regards to "Buddy Boy."

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a retired insurance man and have a good wife, a nice family and I'm a strictly a mind-my-own business type.

Three weeks ago I received a telephone call from a man who said, "You had better stop seeing my wife or you'll be in serious trouble." I asked his name but he wouldn't tell me. I invited him to come to my home and talk to me but he refused. I am completely innocent and have nothing to hide. I even offered to go see him but he wouldn't tell me where he lived or where he worked.

Last week he called again with the same message. Yesterday, I received a third call — this one was angrier and I suspect he had been drinking. I phoned the telephone company and asked them to trace the call but they said it was impossible.

Please tell me what to do. I am deeply concerned. — NOT GUILTY.

DEAR NOT GUILTY — The man sounds like a crackpot who picked your name out of the phone book. Ask the telephone company to change your number. They will be happy to do so when you explain the circumstances.

Confidential to UNLUCKY MAN WHO CAN'T GET A BREAK — Of course luck is a factor in success. But look around and you'll notice that the harder people work the luckier they get.

Planning a wedding? Leave nothing to chance. Ann Landers' newest booklet, "The Bride's Guide," has all the answers (from announcing the engagement to "who pays for what"). Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.

Ewart Hall Trip Planned By W.M.S.

The May meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Gerald Scott with Mrs. George Butterill as co-hostess.

During the business section of the meeting a projected trip to Ewart Hall, in conjunction with the ladies of the Afternoon Auxiliary, was discussed, as were the Kingston Presbyterial rally to be held in Stirling on May 29 and the W.M.S. Training Centre to be held at Albert College in July.

A report was given by Mrs. J. Ritchie on the W.M.S. Bienial Conference held at St. Andrew's in Kingston on May 3, 4, 5. At this conference, Miss Beatrice Scott of the Helen MacDonald School in Jhansi, India, spoke of the missionary effort in the Bihl Field, and the Rev. M. Ransom, assistant secretary for Overseas Missions, spoke of his trip to East Asia and of the many different worship services he had attended there.

Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Butterill were in charge of the study for the evening which consisted of a series of discussions such as "Should Foreign Aid be Continued in East Asia?" and "How Can the Auxiliary Help in the Missionary Work There?" based on the study book, "The Rim of East Asia."

Lunch was served after the meeting closed.

END PALACE STRIFE

LONDON (AP)—Labor peace has apparently returned to Buckingham Palace with the announcement that 180 of Queen Elizabeth's servants — palace grooms, footmen and similar staff workers—will get a three-per-cent pay increase retroactive to April 1. A number of servants complained to the Civil Servants Union last fall of bad working hours, excessive regimentation and low pay.

CHILDREN sometimes seem unusually truculent and unresponsive to your best efforts to "train" them. The fault may be yours. Have you tried thinking back over a day's conversation with them? Try it, and you may be surprised to find how many of your words are either commands or demands. Small wonder children occasionally tune you out.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

YOU TIP IN BRAZIL, TOO

Sao Paulo, Brazil: Tipping, which usually causes enough confusion in the United States, is even more of a problem when one goes abroad.

In Brazil, where we've been visiting and sightseeing, tips generally are handed out in the following amounts: in a Brazilian restaurant, the Captain is tipped only by regulars and for special services. For instance, a tourist, visiting Sao Paulo for a month or so, would give the captain at his favorite restaurant an occasional tip for good service and a good table.

A service charge, amounting to 10 per cent of the check, is added on in Brazilian restaurants, but this is for the use of linens, and is not for the waiter. He should be tipped another 10 per cent in addition. A service charge that amounts to from 17 percent to 26 percent of the check is levied in other Latin American countries, but in Brazil a 10 per cent tip, over the service charge , is considered adequate for the waiter.

UNIQUE SERVICE

Brazilian hotels have a unique service. A waiter is assigned to each floor and guests push a button when they want room service, instead of calling on the phone. He is tipped by the job, at least 10 per cent, but actually according to the amount of service involved.

The maid is tipped weekly — usually the equivalent of $1 — even though you stay longer at the hotel. Naturally she is tipped for individual services as rendered.

The doorman is tipped when he gets cabs and, just as in the United States, the size of the tip depends on how much trouble he has. He also is tipped at the end of a stay after bags are stowed in a car or cab.

At a beauty shop, it's customary to tip the girl who sets your hair an average of 10 to 15 percent of the bill. The operator who gives a shampoo and the one who gives a manicure, usually get an additional 5 per cent each.

Latter Day Saints W.D. Topic 'Choices'

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Department of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints met at the home of Mrs. W. L. Canniff, 239 Dufferin Avenue on Wednesday evening.

The worship period was conducted by ladies from Kingston. Scripture reading was from Romans 12.

A dialogue was presented by Mrs. S. Brodie and Mrs. R. Robinson entitled "The Angel and the Woman."

Mrs. S. C. Else taught the lesson on "My Agency is appointed unto me." She explained that each person is responsible for the choices made in life, and pointed out that the choices now will affect the future just as past choices have affected the present.

Mrs. J. McCurdy read the letter from Mrs. G. Wilson outlining the theme for the Women's Institute to be held at Port Elgin June 14, 15 and 16. A letter was read from Mrs. J. T. Westwood Jr. from church headquarters at Independence, Missouri, outlining women's work for the world church. A new study course for women was presented.

Following the meeting, a surprise baby-shower was given for Mrs. J. McCurdy and lunch was served by the hostess.

government fell on a non-confidence motion moved during a money supply debate. That motion was based mainly on an alleged lack of a clear defence policy.

To many observers Tuesday night's vote comprised the toughest test the new government will face for a while at least. It came on only the fourth day of the 26th Parliament.

It brought both Prime Minister Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker back into the debate for the second day running.

RECALLS 'TURNINGS'

Mr. Diefenbaker recalled what he called "timorous turnings" by Mr. Pearson on nuclear policy over the years, capped by the Ottawa Liberal party rally in January, 1961, which had adopted a resolution reading:

"A new Liberal government should not acquire, manufacture or use such (nuclear) weapons under separate Canadian control or under joint United States - Canadian control."

Further, a new Liberal government at that date would have withdrawn from the North American Air Defence Command (NORAD) "insofar as its present interceptor role is concerned." The Canadian role would be detection, identification and warning.

That same policy, Mr. Diefenbaker said, was set out in a Liberal party statement before last year's election.

As late as 1962, therefore, the Liberal party had decided against becoming a nuclear power while now claiming to have known since 1959 that the Conservative government was committed to such a step.

That was Liberal party responsibility in "prating" about government responsibility, Mr. Diefenbaker said. The fact was that "once and for all . . . they have not been able to find any undertakings between Canada and the United States in this (nuclear) regard."

REJECTS NDP CLAIM

Mr. Pearson intervened with a detailed rejection of the claim by NDP Leader T. C. Douglas that Canada was not committed to nuclear arms.

The prime minister said that in 1959 Mr. Diefenbaker had told Parliament his government intended to supply weapons necessary for Canadian forces to fulfil their roles. Those roles could not be fulfilled without nuclear warheads.

It might not have been a commitment by treaty but it was "a commitment—a moral and political commitment — if any government ever made a commitment to any other government."

Canada's position in accepting nuclear arms under dual control would not place Canada in the nuclear-club position of owning or manufacturing nuclear weapons.

Under arrangements with the U.S., warheads would be used in an emergency only by orders from the Canadian government.

Mr. Douglas', main point had been that the government's decision to acquire nuclear arms bypassed Parliament.

IT'S 'TYRANNY'

"I contend that if taxation without representation is undemocratic, then annihilation without representation is tyranny," the NDP leader said in referring to Liberal protests in opposition to the austerity surcharges announced by the Conservative government last June.

Mr. Pearson maintained again that formal parliamentary approval isn't necessary for the agreement with the U.S. on warheads for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile and the Voodoo aircraft interceptor.

He said the NDP non-confidence motion by itself would satisfy constitutional requirements—either sustaining or defeating the government.

INVESTED HEAVILY

Between 1947 and 1962 Americans invested more than $3,000,000,000 in Australia.

16 Million Pieces of Tile Will Be Used for Mural

VICTORIA (CP)—Seven thousand square feet of colored tiles are being erected on the front of a downtown trust company office to form a huge mural.

The mural's creator, Andres Salgo of Mexico City, is here to supervise the big job. He was commissioned last year by two doctors who own the building to design, construct, ship and assemble the four-part mosaic consisting of 16,000,000 pieces of tile.

The mural consists of two themes — a stylized thunderbird in the centre, and Sir James Douglas, 19th - century British Columbia governor, Fort Victoria and a number of West Coast symbols and products in the background.

Mr. Salgo said he started work last November with 50 tile artists assembling the 16,000,000 pieces of tile in 50 colors.

"We worked 14 hours a day over a period of four months. Every piece of tile had to be pasted on special paper, then the paper had to be cut up in squares, numbered and packed for shipment to Canada."

Fifty-two wooden crates have arrived and are stored in an adjoining building.

To erect the mural, eight Victoria tile setters will put each square on wet cement on the facades. When the tile is up, the paper is wetted and washed off, leaving the mosaic tile in place.

"We start at the bottom and work up," says Mr. Salgo. "If we are only a 16th of an inch out at the bottom the tiles may be out of whack by two inches at the top."

cil and a $400,000,000 municipal development and loan fund, and to give the Atlantic Development Board a $100,000,000 capital fund.

Steps also were taken toward setting up a department of industry and providing two ministers of agriculture. A move was made toward establishing a special defence committee.

The pre - Parliament period was marked by almost daily cabinet meetings after the Liberals took over the government from the Progressive Conservatives. In addition, Mr. Pearson made trips to London and to Hyannis Port, Mass., for talks with Prime Minister Macmillan and President Kennedy.

"There have been some errors and few hits in the past 20 days. But we are in the beginning of the golden age or miracles, these 40 days, with generalities made brilliant by propaganda stardust, by splashes in the press and public relations gimmicks.

"Some of the policies of a few months ago have been altered in these days of decision. Within 20 days the 60 days had become shifty days."

The 60-day promise has come up in unexpected ways. New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas recalled that Tom Kent, a Pearson adviser who opposed Mr. Douglas in Burnaby-Coquitlam in the April 8 election, made a slip of the tongue in referring to them as "the first 60 years."

Some people suspected that the Freudian slip was more accurate than the correction," sir. Douglas said.

Social Credit Leader Thompson confessed to being "intrigued" by the 60 days. "His predicted history will know the period as Canada's great leap forward. He hasn't deviated he wasn't backing away from the pledge.

Power of Attorney Validity Signed Behind Iron Curtain Is Questioned by Court

TORONTO (CP)—An Ontario Supreme Court judgment handed down Tuesday questions the validity of a power of attorney allegedly signed behind the Iron Curtain.

Frederick T. Watson, Ontario's official guardian of estates who for several years has been seeking federal intervention to protect Soviet heirs to Canadian estates, was elated.

He said Mr. Justice Leo Landreville's decision is the first step in crimping an "intricate plan of the Russian government to collect money supposedly on behalf of Russian heirs."

Mr. Justice Landreville says in his judgment he suspects documents in the estate case of Nicolaus Lewko who disappeared in Toronto in 1936 and was declared legally dead in 1947.

"The issue in this case, involving as it does some kind of power of attorney which is "certified to" in the year 1959 and executed within the Republic of Poland, begs being tested by viva voce evidence (personal testimony)."

SET OPEN HEARING

The judgment says an open hearing dealing with all aspects of the case will be held in the Ontario Supreme Court. Mr. Watson hopes such a hearing will provide precedents to deal with future cases in which there is doubt the real heir will get the money he deserves.

The power of attorney, allegedly signed by Lewko's partners, Mrs. Helene Radzisewska and Mrs. Maria Zaremska, names the Polish consul here as Canadian agent.

Mr. Justice Landreville's judgment asks of the power of attorney:

Is it truly "voluntary?"

Will the signer "in fact get the monies sought?"

Is the signer "in fact alive at this time?"

"Who in fact are the real heirs or next of kin of the deceased?"

These are the questions that Mr. Watson says should be asked of every power of attorney purporting to have been signed in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics or other Iron Curtain countries.

He considers the present situation, in which only one Canadian is allowed by the Russian law to represent heirs who are in the Soviet Union, should be changed.

BASED ON DOCUMENT

A 1959 document, signed by Anastasy Aroutunian, then Soviet ambassador to Canada, states:

"All claims and interests of citizens of the U.S.S.R. in the estates situate in any province of Canada are referred to and are represented by the Inturcollegium, a body of lawyers of the Moscow bar."

The document, which is on file in the Supreme Court of Ontario, describes Waryl Swystun, Ukrainian - born Winnipeg lawyer, as "officially accredited and sole representative in Canada of the Inturcollegium and its clients in all legal matters and, in particular, in estate matters."

Mr. Watson proposed a government control agency which would be based on United States precedent. The U.S. government was troubled by what was alleged to be Soviet manipulation of inheritance, in which it was said money supposedly going to heirs in the U.S.S.R. actually was being used to finance Communist party operations in the U.S.

Then 10 years ago a section was written into the U.S. Treasury Act making powers of attorney in estates of persons supposedly signed by persons behind the Iron Curtain, void in legal in the United States unless absolute proof is obtained that the person named signed the documents willingly.

TAXES ARE HEAVY

Even if money reaches heirs in the Soviet Union, Mr. Watson believes Russian taxes can wipe out the whole legacy. This is mentioned in a recent Ontario Supreme Court judgment by Mr. Justice Campbell Grant, cited in Mr. Justice Landreville's judgment.

The former judgment quoted an expert on Russian law as saying that "money had to be sent out of the Soviet Union through the state bank, and that existing regulations did not permit citizens to receive such legacies, but prescribed taxation against the same by way of succession duty which would absorb the full legacy."

Alexander Volchkov, president of the Soviet Union magazine, now is touring Canada with the announced intention of acquainting Canadian farmers and lawyers with the niceties of Soviet law. While in Toronto he visited Mr. Watson. Then Mr. Volchkov flew to Ottawa and it is understood he reported to Justice Minister Lucien Cherrier and External Affairs Minister Paul Martin.

Stephens-Adamson Supplied Thermal Plant's Conveyor

One of Ontario's newest thermal - electric generating plants is the Lakeview Station of Ontario Hydro, located about five miles southwest of Toronto.

With an immediate output of 300,000 k.w. and an ultimate generating capacity of 1,800,000 k.w., this plant provides another important energy source to meet Ontario's rapidly expanding need for power.

An increasing population and a marked and steady trend toward industrialization (with emphasis on manufactured products) has made it imperative that the power supply keep pace.

With fewer and dwindling possibilities for the economic development of additional hydro-electric power as compared with Ontario's earlier days, thermal-generating stations seem destined to become more important as power sources in the immediate future.

Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Company of Canada, Limited, Belleville, designed and equipped the Lakeview Station coal-handling system.

A 24-inch wide by 2,200 foot long belt conveyor operates at a speed of 650 feet per minute to handle up to 2,000 tons per hour of minus 4-inch bituminous coal.

The steel-tower coal distributor at the generating plant pours the coal into mountains and bulldozers and heavy movers pack the piles down tightly in the storage area to prevent possibility of combustion.

Nasser Game in Middle East May Achieve Desired Aim

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser is displaying outward calm and apparent patience over events which appear to threaten the proposed new Egypt-Iraq-Syria united Arab republic.

His waiting game may achieve what he failed to bring about in the earlier Arab federation—a united Arab community under his control.

Nasser, strong man of the Arab world since the 1952 ouster of King Farouk, suffered a blow to his prestige in 1961 when the old U.A.R. blew up.

Egypt and Syria merged into the United Arab Republic in 1958, then formed a federation with Yemen. But a revolutionary regime in Iraq turned violently against the Yemeni became distrustful of his socialism and broke with him. Finally, in 1961, a coup wrenched Syria out of the U.A.R.

BA'ATHISTS PROMINENT

The Ba'athists socialist party, the power behind revolutions in Iraq and Syria earlier this year and now in full control of both Iraq and Syrian governments, had a leading role in taking Syria out of the first U.A.R., claiming Nasser suppressed its activities.

The Ba'athists in Syria continue as the apparent fly in the ointment even though they were behind the revolutions which led directly to the new union talks in April.

Plebiscites to approve the union and elect a transitional president—expected to be Nasser—were scheduled for Sept. 17. The transitional president would rule for 30 months with a council made up of six members from each state, then elections would be held to fill the presidency and two legislative houses of the new federation.

The Ba'athists in control in Iraq and Syria could outvote Nasser 4-3 in the presidential council.

NASSER HAND STRONG

The Ba'athists support Arab unity and socialism but advocate parliamentary democracy along Western lines. Nasser wants a monolithic political machine he can control.

If he waits long enough, he may get it since he plays from a strong hand. He can manage well without Ba'athist support and, for that matter, without immediate federation with Syria. But there is no doubt whether the Ba'athists can stay in power long if the federation fails.

Nasser's patience was apparent during the weekend when he made no furious counter-attack as the Syrian National Revolutionary Council issued a statement accusing Nasser's Syrian adherents of betraying the March 8 revolution.

There followed a peace offer from Premier Salah Bitar of Syria who promised to lead his Ba'ath government into the federation, then step down.

Bitar—and Nasser—no doubt are aware that the drive for unity is among the strongest national emotions in the Arab world. It is seen as the road to power, dignity, a high and glory—and anyone who blocks it does so at his own risk.

BRING THEM BACK ALIVE could be the motto of the YMCA life-saving classes. Four Belleville teenagers last night qualified for life-saving awards, after two nights per week of training for four weeks. In the Junior classification, (14 to 16 years old), Joan Leslie, Ron Olsen and Paul Peoples passed their test. In the Senior grouping, (17 years old and over), Neil Miles qualified. One Junior failed to make the grade. In the picture, Joan Leslie is towing Neil Miles.

Chinese Look on Russia As a Loved and Respected Teacher Gone Astray

How do the Communist Chinese look on Russia in the sudden eclipse of Mary's ideological split between the two countries? In the following story a British author who has just toured Red China provides some of the answers.

By RICHARD P. LESTER

PEKING (AP) — To go to China, you stop in Moscow on the way and again on the way back. It's a good chance to look at the Red giants, old and new.

Every major city in China has its Sino - Soviet Hall of Friendship. The halls remain, but where is the friendship? Ivan, carved in stone, stands shoulder to shoulder with Chang outside, but flesh - and - blood Ivan, if he is in China at all, is not readily to be seen.

The Chinese look on Russia as a loved and respected teacher who has gone astray.

The difference in atmosphere between Moscow and Peking is evident in hospitality. China is still in the first stages of its revolution. Everyone must have enough to get and enough to wear, but there is little room for luxury.

Consumer goods can be purchased freely but to the ordinary Chinese they are hardly within the financial reach. When a bicycle or a radio costs 2½ months' wages, a TV set (nine - inch screen) seven months' wages, and a car must work for nine days for the price of a pair of leather shoes, he does not think about buying jade Buddhas.

In contrast to this austerity, the scene in Moscow looks more and more like the luxurious West.

"FACE" IMPORTANT

There's another striking difference. Chinese "face" seems more important than Russian "face." A Chinese waiter or porter will not accept a tip any more than a child a piece of candy. He is unwilling to consider anything that puts him in an inferior position.

Foreign travellers in China are rare and crowds of Chinese stare curiously at Westerners. But the crowds are neither suspicious nor hostile. These are our Western friends, they seem to say; if they were not our friends they would not come to see us.

The ignorance of the Chinese concerning the West is almost total. A Chinese who travelled with our group naturally developed a sense of belonging to the "socialist camp" and thus a feeling of confidence. At last he hesitantly asked an unforgettable question.

"Tell me," he asked, "in your country, can you still buy a slave?"

Continued Corporation Tax Requested by Credit Union

TORONTO (CP)—The entire day of the royal commission on taxation was devoted Tuesday to the question of the tax break of them, on co-operative-type organizations. And the views it heard were miles apart.

The Retail Merchants Association of Canada (Ontario) Incorporated said lack of corporation tax on co-operatives was a "grave concern" to retailers throughout Canada. The Ontario Credit Union League Limited, speaking specifically about credit unions—in effect co-operatives—presented a lengthy argument in favor of the existing system.

Is it not true, he asked League General Manager J. N. Hallinan that credit unions are in direct competition with other financial institutions? In 1960, they supplied 11.8 per cent of all loans in Canada and 14.7 per cent of the population belonged to credit unions, and they were growing at a remarkable rate.

"I'd rather look on it as these other financial institutions competing with us," replied Mr. Hallinan. He said that chartered banks didn't show any interest in personal loans until a few years ago.

ASKED ATTITUDE

D. W. Rolling, manager of the Merchants Association, was asked what his members' attitude would be if co-ops removed the tax by simply lowering prices rather than declaring patronage dividends.

Retailers are not afraid of any competition, said Mr. Rolling. All he sought were similar ground rules so far as taxes were concerned.

Mr. Hallinan for co-operatives which allow co-ops to restrict taxable income to as low as five per cent of their profits is "an extreme form of discrimination". The three-year tax exemption for co-operatives was "an extreme and indefensible form of discrimination."

SUPPORTS BRIEF

The brief was also supported by John Gorman, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., president of the association. His recommendations which outlined in the brief, were that co-ops be subject to tax before distribution of patronage dividends, that the three-year tax holiday be eliminated, and that recipients of patronage dividends be subject to the same tax as shareholders in corporations.

John Burton, assistant supervisor of examiners for the credit union league, said the concept of credit union is that members are working with each other's

Labor Leaders of Canada, U. S. Hold Parley Aimed at Ending Violence on Lakes

WASHINGTON (CP) — Top labor leaders of Canada and the United States held a four-hour conference Tuesday aimed at ending labor violence hampering Canadian shipping on the Great Lakes. They described the talks as constructive and said further meetings are planned "aimed at full resolution of the present situation."

Canadian Labor Minister Allan MacEachen said the "momentum" of the first conference justifies further meetings, expected to take place after the Norris commission report on the Great Lakes labor battle is completed. He said target date for this report is June 1.

Meeting with MacEachen were U.S. Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, Claude Jodoin, Canadian Labor Congress president, and George Meany, AFL-CIO president. Present also was sympathetic labor groups, has been tied up deposited Upper Lakes ships, delaying the company's freighters in U.S. ports.

Both Prime Minister Pearson and President Kennedy have called on the labor chieftains to work strenuously to end the strife, believing those who own and sail the ships should be free to go about their lawful business without impediment.

WANT SETTLEMENT

In short round of talks, the labor participants said both governments said the AFL-CIO and CLC "affirm the purpose and desire to reach satisfactory settlement of the current situation."

In a brief statement that referred to the Pearson-Kennedy agreement at Hyannis Port, Mass., earlier this month, they said also that interference with Great Lakes shipping is receiving the attention of all concerned and that "arrangements are being made for further meetings aimed at full resolution of the present situation."

Jodoin said he was satisfied with this first meeting. He planned to remain in Washington until Friday "on other union business" which he would not describe. MacEachen returned immediately to Ottawa.

The conference opened at 11:45 a.m. EDT, after a picture-taking session. It continued at a working luncheon and ended at 3:35 p.m. Meany broke away at 2 p.m. to attend to other AFL-CIO business.

MacEachen, talking to reporters later, said he was satisfied that the meeting was useful. He said one or two more meetings may take place in June with the four main participants attending. He said Meany spoke frankly at the meeting and that his attitude was helpful. The minister refused to say exactly what position Meany took.

Before the conference opened, Meany told a reporter he didn't know too much about the lakes problem and could not speculate what solution might be available.

MacEachen said the most important thing now is to get the Norris commission report with its findings arising from a lengthy investigation of the Canadian Seaway and its clash with the CLC - supported Canadian Maritime Union, which has the Upper Lakes labor contract.

West Germany to Press For Deployment by NATO

OTTAWA (CP) — West Germany intends to press at the NATO ministerial meeting opening here today for deployment of NATO troops and weapons up against the Communist frontier in Europe, informants say.

Such a move might leave the Canadian infantry brigade in West Germany which operates as part of the British Army of the Rhine.

Sources said West Germany wants NATO to use tactical weapons at the very outset of any Soviet attack on Western Europe, conventional or otherwise.

This runs counter to American policy of massive retaliation choice" and is unlikely to be accepted by the alliance as a whole, sources said.

The U.S. is determined to have a flexible policy by which it can choose various means of dealing with various military situations as they arise. This policy is known as "graduated response" or, simply, "stop and go."

BASED ON RHINE

But West Germany wants this defence line advanced eastward to the border of East Germany on the grounds that the U.S. "pause and go" policy might permit Russia to occupy some West German territory and not give it up.

Prime Minister Pearson has stated more than once that more conventional forces are needed in Europe to obviate the more immediate use of nuclear weapons in event of a Soviet assault.

All the moment, Canadian officials are not particularly worried about the West German plan because, they say, the U.S. has full control of nuclear warheads positioned in West Germany.

Canada has long seen some merit in the Polish plan, now dormant, for an atom-free zone in Western Europe.

Flatly, Calmly, Quite Positively Gordon Confirms an Early Budget

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet member who holds down the hot seat in the Liberal government's "60 days of decision" is playing it cool.

Finance Minister Walter Gordon is carrying probably a heavier load than any other minister except Prime Minister Pearson during the opening weeks of the new administration.

Not only must he present a budget speech by about mid-June, but he's also responsible for preparing at least two major legislative measures for the new Parliament.

"In just under two months it has to be done—it will be done," he said, flatly and calmly, in an interview.

But as a former senior partner in a leading firm of management consultants, Walter Lockhart Gordon is an old hand at advising governments how to run their affairs.

USED TO PRESSURE

The pressure of a 60-day deadline on his budget is nothing new either. As chairman of the 1955-57 royal commission on Canada's economic prospects, which conducted an exhaustive survey of the economy, he set himself a demanding 18-month deadline for his preliminary report. He reached the target.

Mr. Gordon said that setting a 60-day deadline for the new government's immediate economic program "was a good thing to have done—there was so much indecision in the past."

"If we had more time there might be advantages. But I'm a great believer in deadlines."

He doesn't expect to work 18 hours a day, as a steady diet, as did the former Conservative finance minister, Donald Fleming.

"If people work 18 hours regularly, they don't know how to delegate work," he said, sounding like the efficiency expert he is.

Mr. Gordon, a graduate of Upper Canada College, Toronto, and Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., is the father of two married daughters—"both have made me a grandfather" and—a son still at school.

He confesses to having no favorite hobbies or activities. "I usually enjoy whatever's going on."

KEY MAN IN PARTY

The new finance minister, a quiet-spoken man with a dry wit, looks like a cross between a thoughtful professor and a shrewd gentleman farmer. In fact he does have a farm at Schomberg near Toronto.

In business, however, he was a take-charge man in many industrial management problems. When he entered active politics late in 1959 he soon became a take-charge man in the Liberal party.

He was chairman of the key policy committee at the 1961 National Liberal Rally and soon afterwards was picked by Mr. Pearson as chairman of the party's national election campaign committee, a job he handled in both the 1962 and 1963 elections.

He won personal election on his first try in Toronto Davenport in 1962 with a 2,388-vote lead, and widened his margin this year to 6,500 votes.

He had been a close friend and economic adviser to Mr. Pearson ever since Mr. Pearson became party leader, and it was almost a foregone conclusion he would become finance minister in the new government.

It's a job that many people consider something of a personal liability for a politician. The man who levies taxes isn't always the most popular in government. But Mr. Gordon shrugs that off.

"That's fine for me," he said, "I'm 57 years of age. This is what I was asked to do and it's all right by me. I don't think anybody's thinking about their political futures."

PLAN LOAN FUND

Right now Mr. Gordon is thinking about his budget. Though he is necessarily secretive about what might be in it, there are plenty of clues in the party's election platform and campaign speeches by him and Mr. Pearson.

In short: Some tax incentives for industry, an effort to move closer to a balanced budget, but no big new social welfare plans this year to add to budgetary expenditures.

The Liberals have said welfare improvements will come later when they can be afforded, and that an early extension of the old age pension system will be on a contributory basis, not adding to the government's budget.

On top of the budget task, Mr. Gordon is responsible for preparing two major measures, both of which will break new ground in government activity.

One will establish a municipal development loan fund to provide low-cost federal loans for municipal projects.

The other will set up a Canadian Development Corporation for funnelling federal funds into industrial development projects where private capital is inadequate. It has been suggested that the corporation might also act as a pool for some private investment capital.

Mr. Gordon is also a key member of the nine-man cabinet committee on economic, trade and employment problems.

Thus the finance minister's office is likely to be a busy place for some time. Mr. Gordon is not worrying about that.

RESIGNED PARTNERSHIPS

"I've been senior partner of two very active firms, with 40 partners, and most of them had new ideas every minute," he said. "So things aren't going to be so different."

The firms are Woods, Gordon and Company, management consultants, and Clarkson, Gordon and Company, chartered accountants. The Toronto - born Mr. Gordon joined the latter firm in 1937 and became a partner in 1935. He resigned his partnership in both when he entered the cabinet.

The new finance minister isn't new to government service. He came to Ottawa at the start of the Second World War and helped to organize the Foreign Exchange Control Board. In 1940-42 he was special assistant to the deputy finance minister, Clifford Clark—a job held soon after by Mitchell Sharp, now trade minister.

In 1945 he was chairman of a royal commission on the federal civil service and in 1953 chairman of a special committee studying the Ontario government's organization. His firm also carried out special studies on reorganization of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and on mail-handling methods in the post office department.

But Mr. Gordon considers his biggest task, up to now, was the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects. It made its preliminary report in 1957 shortly before the election defeat of the St. Laurent Liberal government.

JOB PROBLEM FIRST

He said he feels the report is still in pretty solid, even after six years. It contained 57 proposals and suggestions.

"I wouldn't say there wouldn't be modifications I might make now. But if more attention had been paid to the report, we might have had a better time in the last six years."

Mr. Gordon sees the government's most vital task as helping to provide enough new jobs to overcome unemployment and provide places for an approaching flood of young people entering the labor market.

This means, among other things, eliminating the deficits of past years in Canada's international trade in goods and services — the balance - of - payments deficit.

"We've been importing unemployment because we've been running these deficits," he said.

But the problems of unemployment and inadequate economic growth aren't going to be cured overnight "and I don't think anybody expects us to."

Mr. Gordon foresees "a great future for Canada."

"We've got all sorts of advantages. We've got to start using our affairs in a reasonable way, put our house in order and adopt a bold and expansionist set of policies.

"This is no country to be timid in."

Prepaid Dental Plan Proposed By Association

TORONTO (CP) Prepaid dental care, under the administration of the dental profession, may be available to some groups in Ontario later this year, it was disclosed Monday.

The prospect emerged at the joint annual convention of the Canadian Dental Association and the Ontario Dental Association here.

Dr. Wesley J. Dunn, registrar-secretary of the Royal Ontario College of Dental Surgeons, said a dental service corporation would likely be set up in the province by the end of the year.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The move of the Windsor Bulldogs and the Chatham Maroons to the United States International Hockey League has triggered a double-barrelled blast at the governing bodies of hockey in Ontario and Canada.

Ontario-wise it could mean the demise of the Ontario Hockey Association senior "A" league. On the national scene it could mean that Canada would not have a team that could provide the calibre necessary for world competition.

True, next year is Olympic year and under the new set-up the 1963-63 Allan Cup champions were relegated to exhibition tours in Europe only.

As is now well-known, Canada's Olympics team will be recruited, trained and coached by Father Bauer at the University of British Columbia. And it is no secret that topflight hockey men think that this club won't stand a chance against Russian, Czech and Swedish opposition.

More important at the moment is the effect the transfer of the Bulldogs and Maroons will have on the OHA senior group.

Less than a year ago there was the possibility the entire loop would fold despite the "glowing" reports that came out of Western Ontario. The constant prodding of Windsor and Chatham operators kept the loop alive and eventually resulted in an Allan Cup for the Bulldogs.

Word from that part of the hockey world stated that the OHA was making, or would make, a determined effort to get senior "A" hockey on a firm footing this year.

Sarnia, which folded in mid-season last year, the crossed-fingers report said, has a business-minded executive working this year and would come up with a strong club. Four reinstated pros and former Bruin Bob Armstrong as playing coach were to be added.

Kitchener-Waterloo, which was on the brink last year and had woeful player trouble, was expected to come up with a competitive squad with Ernie Goman, Kitchener's Mr. Hockey out of retirement.

Woodstock would have to be wooed because the management stated it would not return unless the 54-game schedule was shortened. Galt would not be included in plans due to its proximity to Kitchener because it might constitute a personnel problem for both clubs.

Chatham, however, was another factor... The Maroons management made no bones of the fact it was disenchanted with OHA operations and deadly serious in its intention to shift to the IHL.

Now if the shift of Windsor and Chatham goes through, the OHA has indeed a serious problem on its hands as far as senior hockey is concerned. The removal of the two strongest clubs in the circuit and its best drawing cards could very well be the death blow.

One wishful thinking writer said (before the acceptance of the Windsor-Chatham IHL bids): "If the Eastern Professional League folds, and that is a foregone conclusion, it opens the way for several Eastern Ontario cities to return to the senior fold—notably Kingston and Belleville."

Don't hold your breath, bud.

From here it looks, unless Windsor and Chatham return to the OHA fold, forced or otherwise, the OHA senior league is a dead duck or will be composed of clubs senior in name only.

Maracle Tosses One-Hitter

Joyces Blast Trudeaus

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

Maracle came up with another of his patented performances at the CNRA Park last night, but spinning a seven-inning one-hitter to give Joyce Real Estate a 9-0 victory over Trudeau Motors first in B. and D. softball action.

A fourth-inning dribbler off first the bat of "Pug" Keilar was all that stood between Maracle and another no-hitter. Rain halted the game in the eighth frame.

Keilar took a full swing at a Maracle pitch with two out and a mate on dropping the ball, slowly down the third base line and beating Plane's throw to first by half a step.

Maracle struck out five and received perfect support from his mates, with all outfielders coming up with at least one sparkling catch. He issued four free passes and did not allow a runner past second base.

Meanwhile, Joyces jumped on six-mate Doug Ellis for seven hits and combined them with eight free passes and two Trudeau errors to chalk up the victory.

Ellis stayed until one was out in the seventh, striking out three. Bobby Ethier retired the last two Joyces batters.

Trudeaus found themselves on the spot with their second bad first inning in as many nights when Joyces jumped into a 3-0 lead. Kingston lined Ellis' first pitch for a double, Carr walked and Weston singled the first run across. Assistine grounded into a force play, scoring the second run, and after an intentional walk, Batchelor squeezed home another.

Joyces added a pair in the third when Assistine struck out, Batchelor tripled him home and scored later on a passed ball. Bowling Plane's throw to first by half a step.

Chuck Kingston had a good night with the bat for the winners, rapping three doubles and also walking once. Pete Weston hit a double and single, Teddy Batchelor a triple and Pat Maracle a single.

Pilous Fired, Reay Rumored Successor ★★★★★

Wanted: A Coach, Apply Black Hawks

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Rudy Pilous was the most successful coach in Chicago Black Hawks history. But today, the victim of his own success, he's looking for another National Hockey League job.

Pilous has learned the hard way that in Chicago, security as a coach is about as easy to hold as a hat on a windy day.

The Hawks Tuesday fired Pilous "because the management decided to make a change." That was the only reason given in the statement, drafted by general manager Tommy Ivan and issued in Chicago even though Ivan is vacationing in Miami.

A successor to Pilous was not named but rumors are that former Toronto Maple Leaf coach Billy Reay will get the job. Reay last season coached Chicago's American League farm club, Buffalo Bisons, to their first league and playoff title.

At St. Catharines, where he lives in the summer, Pilous said the announcement was a disappointment but not a surprise. It had been rumored for nearly a week that the 58-year-old Winnipeg-born Pilous would not be back with the Hawks next season.

SOME WERE CRITICS

Some members of the Hawks said since the 1962-63 season ended that Pilous was responsible for the club's collapse at the end of the campaign which saw Chicago drop out of first place, lose the NHL title by a point to Toronto and then be eliminated in the semi - final playoffs by Detroit Red Wings after winning the first two games against Wings.

Pilous refused to comment about the reported dissatisfaction among the players.

"I think I always got along with the players," he said. "And I wish them and the whole organization the very best of everything, including success in the future."

Bobby Hull, the dynamic left winger with the Hawks and one of the players reported to have cast disparaging remarks about Pilous' coaching ability, scoffed the report.

"We could have a bit more talent on the team," charged Hull, who has a reputation for not minding words when he doesn't think things are as they should be.

HULL COMMENTS

"It a bunch of grown men can't get up for the game themselves, it's not the coach's fault."

Hull said injuries also played a big part in the club's fall from first place. Defencemen Pierre Pilote and forwards Stan Mikita, Dan Murphy and Hull himself were among Hawks who suffered injuries in the latter part of the season.

As for the future, Pilous says he has received offers from three professional teams and a couple of organizations outside hockey. He says he will listen to any other offers that come along and then, after thinking about them for a couple of days, take some more time to make up his mind.

As for reports about reports that he will join the Leafs, Pilous said he had not been officially approached by any of the Leaf directors.

Mantle Clouts Two Homers

Orioles, Yankees Win 7 Straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore Orioles trimmed Detroit Tigers 4-2 Tuesday night with lefty Mickey Lolich the pitching victim in his first big league start. Baltimore has compiled an amazing 11-1 record against left-handers so far this year and 13 straight southpaws have failed to finish against them.

Mickey Mantle drove across five runs with a pair of well-tagged homers, powering the Yanks over Kansas City 7-4. That made the Bombers 3-for-3 against the As, a club they trounced seven times before the Yanks in the fifth when he connected with one on off Diego Segui.

Jim Bouton won for the fifth time in six starts although far from overpowering. He gave up six hits, including homers by Norm Siebern and Gino Cimoli, and five walks before being relieved by Steve Hamilton in the ninth.

The White Sox built up a 4-0 lead at Washington with the help of a three-run sixth inning, but barely outlasted the Senators.

Guards Win Over Parsons

The Canadian Guards of Picton chalked up another Bay of Quinte Football Association victory last night, defeating Parsons Cleaners 5-3 on a rain-swept Fair Grounds field.

The Guards led 3-1 at half time but the Belleville club surged back to knot the count at three-all.

Clever headwork from corner kicks by the Guards' King resulted in two goals and the victory.

Besides King's pair, Brosseau, Goodwin and Walraven scored for the winners. Korbas was a pair and Jager counted for Parsons.

The teams meet again at the Fair Grounds here tomorrow night with kick-off time slated for 6:30.

Pitching — Jim Maloney, Reds, struck out record-tying eight consecutive batters, fanned total of 16 and allowed only two hits for 3-1 innings before being relief help in 2-0 victory over Milwaukee.

Batting — Mickey Mantle, Yankees, hit his seventh and eighth homers, driving in five runs to power New York to 7-4 triumph over Kansas City.

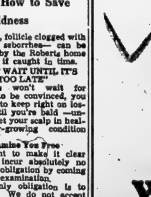
CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Lullwater Frost was the featured one-mile trot at Mohawk Raceway Tuesday night, tabbed a victory by a nose from Van's Pride C. in an abbreviated quinella.



Two late scratches cut the field to four horses and, with two an entry, the show pool was eliminated. Lullwater Frost, owned by the Armstrong Brothers of Brampton, Ont., paid $3.70 and $2.10 with Van's Pride C. returning $2.10 for a $4.80 quinella.

Hair Specialist Here Thursday

Will Show Men and Women How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

OTTAWA, Ont. New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Belleville Thursday, May 23 at the Quinte Hotel.

Specialist J. D. Alberti will be in charge, representing the dynamic Roberts Hair and Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 12.00 to 8.00 p.m.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "cure-all". It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by a Roberts Specialist.

Who Can Be Helped?

Will the new Roberts treatments cure baldness? Why? For we cannot help men and women who are slick-headed after years of gradual hair loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on slick-headedness are dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea— can be corrected by the Roberts home treatment if caught in time.

"DON'T WAIT UNTIL IT'S TOO LATE"

Baldness won't wait for anyone to be convinced, you are going to keep right on losing hair 'til you're bald —unless you get busy with healthy, hair-growing condition again.

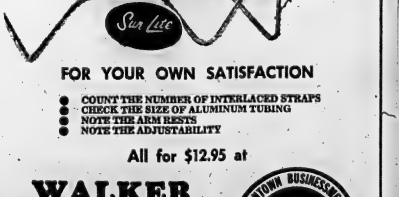
Examine You Free

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to investigate. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

Guarantee Satisfaction

The Roberts Specialists will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it will cost you nothing.



For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk for Mr. Alberti's room number. He does not make appointments, so come in at your convenience.

Examinations are given in private.

Reds' Hurler Fans 16 Braves

Eight In Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim Maloney, 22 - year - old right-hander who admits "I babied my arm too much" in his early days with Cincinnati Reds, tied the modern major league record of eight consecutive strikeouts and fanned a total of 16 in a 2-0 victory over Milwaukee Tuesday night.

Signed by the National League club for an estimated $100,000 bonus in 1959, Maloney has had a slow rise to fame, but now stands as one of the aces of the Reds' staff.

Things weren't so good for Maloney last year. "I babied my arm too much, and I learned," says Maloney, "that I couldn't last nine innings just by standing out there on the mound and humming the fast ball."

Maloney apparently learned quickly. He finished the 1962 season with Reds, posting a 97 record, and now is 6-1 with a sparkling 2.25 earned average. He is third in the league in strikeouts with 57, behind Los Angeles' Sandy Koufax and one behind Dodgers' Don Drysdale.

DODGERS WIN

The Dodgers got a five-hit pitching performance from Johnny Podres to defeat New York Mets for their seventh straight victory 4-2 and remained one game behind league-leading San Francisco. The Giants beat Philadelphia 3-2 as Billy O'Dell won his sixth without a loss.

St. Louis edged Chicago's Cubs 8-4 and Pittsburgh nipped Houston 6-5 in other games.

Maloney allowed only two hits in the 8 1-3 innings he worked. He started his string of eight straight strikeouts with Eddie Mathews in the first inning and kept whiffing Braves until Hank Aaron grounded out in fourth inning. He had fanned 15 in the first seven innings, and had a good chance to tie or surpass the single game record of 18 held by Bob Feller and Koufax. He managed only one the rest of the way, however.

Maloney left after walking two men in the ninth and running the count on Norm Larker to two balls and no strikes. Bill Henry took over and finished up without any trouble. Frank Robinson drove in both runs against Braves' starter Bob Hendley with a first inning single and a third inning sacrifice fly.

Olympic Games Of 1968

Brundage Behind Berlin Bid

BERLIN (AP)—Avery Brundage and other leading Olympic officials have thrown support behind the surprise bid of Berlin to play host to the 1968 Olympic Games.

"It would be a victory of sport over politics," Otto Mayer, chancellor of the International Olympic Committee, said in Lausanne, Switzerland, Tuesday.

He said the IOC welcomed the surprise bid of Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin.

"This would be a great triumph for amateur sports and the Olympic movement and it would put political wrangling to shame," Brundage, president of the IOC, said in Chicago.

"It would be a triumph at least equal to the triumph we had when we had East and West Germany marching together behind the Olympic flag in the last two summer and winter Olympics."

EAST MUST CO-OPERATE

Success of the project hinges on co-operation of the Communist East Germans. Their co-operation would mean, in effect, lowering the Communist wall.

There has been no official comment from East Germany, but West Berlin sources said East Berlin officials have resisted favorably to the plan.

The bid was made in a letter from Brandt to Mayer earlier in the year. The proposal was kept secret for some time, awaiting comment from East Germany.

Brandt's idea apparently is for the Olympic events to spread over both sections of the divided city.

The Olympic Games were last held in Berlin in 1936 when Adolf Hitler was chancellor and his Nazi party ruled the country.

Facilities used in those games are on both sides of the wall that now divides Berlin. Mayer said it will be impossible to hold the Games in Berlin unless both sides co-operate and make full facilities available.

Minor Softball

The Mets edged the Athletics 12-11 and the Colts whipped Pirates 23-8 in Peewee Softball action last night.

Ted Shaw pitched the Mets' victory and helped his own cause with a home run. Martin Ward was the losing pitcher. Dennis McCormick slammed a four-bagger for the Athletics.

BELL'S HORSE IS 100-1

LONDON (CP)—There's a Canadian-owned "sleeper" lining up for next week's Epsom Derby at the luscious odds of 100 to 1. His name is Count Albany and he'll carry the purple and white silks of Calgary sportsman Max Bell. The tempting odds of 100 to 1 were offered by two leading layers, Joe Coral and Ladbroke's. Two other bookmakers, Alfred Cope and William Hill, cagily offered 66 to 1. Count Albany was unraced as a two-year-old and has finished out of the money in his only two races this season, both in Ireland. The Derby is to be run May 29.

'Banquet Of Champions' Honors Athletes

Tributes, tangible and otherwise were paid over 100 city secondary schools athletes at the first annual Banquet of Champions in Moira Secondary School last night.

The students, boys and girls, were members of teams from Quinte, Moira and BCIVS, which won championship honors in COSSA meets during 1962-63.

Also honored at the banquet tendered by the Bay of Quinte High School District Board were the coaches and assistants of the teams.

The board presented athletes and coaches with handsome bronze plaques mounted on wood bearing the name of school, team and the phase of athletics.

Greetings and congratulations were brought to the athletes and coaches by Alderman Stuart Robb, representing the city; BCIVS principal A. E. Orr, speaking for the schools principals; Mr. B. E. Portt of the High School Board and by letter from Rev. Goulding of Peterborough, secretary of the COSSA.

With Mr. Orr, principals Leslie Reid of Quinte and James Musgrove of Moira heard their physical education directors, Stan Barbour, Jack Sisson and Dave Bell introduce their coaches and assistants.

The special guest speaker was Professor Wilfrid L'Heureux, head of the Physical and Health and Recreation Department of the University of Western Ontario, London, Ont.

Following his address Professor L'Heureux personally presented the plaques to the students adding his congratulations. He was assisted by Dave Bell.

Included in the championship teams were BCIVS junior football and basketball squads, Quinte senior football team, and Moira's senior and junior girls' volleyball teams, wrestlers and girls' track and field team.

Mr. Sisson chaired the banquet with the delectable turkey dinner served by the Keyette Clubs of the three schools.

THE SPEAKER

"Sport," Professor L'Heureux, said in his address, "is an educational experience regulated by school conferences and association to seek the best for the student whose major work is academic in nature."

"At the intercollegiate level all sports are directly regulated and conducted with the end in view that they contribute to the education of the student."

Unquestionably, the speaker pointed out, one of the important purposes of sport is to provide exercise which is casually linked to positive health. In its many varieties it serves this purpose well because sport is interesting, enjoyable and likely to remain with the individual.

He said the stresses, strains, tensions and testings which occur during a season of sport make it a medium for learning certain individual qualities.

These, he pointed out, are physical and moral courage, self-discipline and self-confidence.

"And with all these," Professor L'Heureux said, "our students play to win. We happen to think they win more than the games themselves."

He said that rewards tangible and intangible immediate and lasting await the school athlete who will make the effort to gain them. "You get out of a thing what you put in it."

"Most of all," the speaker told the students, "is the need for you to attain balance in school life.

There is a need to work and play socially and physically. University experience proves that average students can become doctors, lawyers, teachers and scientists while playing intercollegiate sports. We are convinced that they make better doctors, lawyers etc. for having played," he concluded.

Peter Carver paid appreciative tribute to the coaches while Sheryl Drysdale expressed the students appreciation to the District High School Board.

As a memento of his visit Professor L'Heureux was presented with a gift package of Belleville cheese by Mr. Sisson on behalf of the board, students and coaches.

Deirdre Doran paid tribute to the Keyettes and the culinary staff for the delectable dinner and service.

Two Kinds of Fans

Pitch, Bat; What Are You?

By JIM BECKER

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you a batter or a pitcher people? If you're a baseball fan you may be one or the other. Many fans are.

Try these two definitions for size:

Batter people—The most exciting thing in baseball is the home run, except maybe two home runs. Walk out on 1-0 games. In extreme cases, walk out on a 0-0 game, in the seventh inning. Like home team to win but aren't going to cut their throats if it loses, since it will probably win tomorrow. Cheer any long ball hit by either team. Think the bunt is for cowards, the stolen base for freaks. Like good outfield catches.

Pitcher people—their hearts go out to the pitcher. Like nothing better than a 1-0 game, and spend next day telling about what a tough game it was to lose, for the pitcher who lost. Die with home team. Love good infielding plays.

Generally speaking, the American League, with its outstanding example of the Yankees, appeals to batter people. Pitcher people go for the National League although they haven't made up their minds about those hard-hitting Giants.

IDENTIFY WITH HITTER

Psychiatrists say that batter people have a tendency to identify themselves with the poor lonely hitter, up at the plate all by himself, while a big strong fellow is throwing at him, and seven other players are arranged in the field to foil everything he tries to do. On top of that, there is a fellow behind his back—the catcher—crouching down and giving secret signals.

They say he sees life that way.

Pitcher people see themselves as the lonely fellow on the mound, armed only with his skill and cunning, attempting to get his best pitch past a husky fellow with a bat who is determined to knock the ball over the fences, which are much too close.

That's life to them.

Both have day dreams. The batter people hit homers almost every time up.

Some people claim they are pitcher people, and then find themselves on their feet screaming for a home run, without really understanding how they got there.

Which are you? Or do you just like a good ball game?

Will Go Ahead With Race Plans

NEW YORK (AP)—Roosevelt Raceway plans to go ahead with opening of its harness racing season Wednesday night despite an outbreak of a mysterious coughing sickness which forced postponement of the season at Saratoga raceway.

Some 800 horses currently are at the track. Fifty are being treated for the virus.

In Detroit, Hazel Park Harness Raceway suspended operations Tuesday for the next three nights of racing because of a virus epidemic that has closed down three other harness tracks in the midwest and east.

Maywood Park in Chicago, Northfield in Cleveland and Brandywine Raceway in Wilmington, Del., previously were closed due to the virus that affected horses' respiratory systems and caused coughing, high fever and weakness. Saratoga Raceway in New York postponed its opening a week for the same reason.

MONEY UNCLAIMED

Churchill Downs race track reports that 374 tickets on Chateaugay, winner of the Kentucky Derby May 4, still have not been paid off. Also uncashed are 325 tickets, worth $.65, on Never Vend, who ran second, and 195 tickets, good for $394, on the favored Candy Spots. At Kentucky tracks, winning pari-mutuel tickets are good forever. Altogether there are about 5,000 tickets worth more than $70,000 still out on Derby horses that were in the money in the last 20 years.

40 Guest Choristers Have Sung 'Along With Mitch'

By CYNTHIA LOWERY

NEW YORK (AP)—A tantalizing concept of NBC's Sing with Mitch has been the weekly appearance of an unidentified celebrity standing with the male chorus and singing along with the group.

Practically nobody who was invited turned down the chance —except former president Truman. Each celebrity was paid $500.

Judging from mail response, comedian Red Buttons was the most easily identified of the 40 (he did that ear-balding little dance) and dancer Ray Bolger, the hardest.

The guessing game worked out so well that they'll do it again next season.

It's hard to understand why the Soviet committee for radio and television asked NBC to cancel Tuesday night's special, The Kremlin, unless it objected generally to the dramatic and unusual way to the ancient Moscow fortress was presented for the first time to television audiences.

Anyway, NBC went ahead with the broadcast, stating that none of the objections were based on charges of historical inaccuracy. It was a wonderful hour. The star of the program was the beauty to be found in the 65 acres within the old brick battlements.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — On Saturday night west coast members of Actors Equity will gather at a Beverly Hilton banquet to salute the stage union's 50th birthday. An honored guest will be Ed Wynn.

Younger members of Equity probably are unaware of the significance of the Wynn honor. The fact is that Wynn played a major role in the success of Actors Equity, the first major union in show business.

I went out to Disney Studios to hear about the comedian's serious role in the union movement. He had just returned to Burbank after flying with Julie Andrews on wires for the fantasy, Mary Poppins.

"This shows you what actors have to do to get work nowadays," he commented.

He and other performers in the movie were being paid handsomely for their flights, of course. Wynn reminisced of a time when performers weren't so protected.

NO REHEARSAL PAY

"Before the Equity strike, actors weren't paid anything for rehearsal time," he said. "They might rehearse six weeks for a show that closed in a week. That meant they were paid for one week when they put in seven weeks' work.

"There was one Winter Garden musical in that time that rehearsed 16 weeks and played only two. The chorus girls were getting $18 a week. That amounted to $36 for 18 weeks' work."

He cited other grievances: Contracts allowed actors to be paid half-time for Easter and pre-Christmas weeks, traditionally the worst in show business. Some contracts allowed no pay during certain weeks; one producer invoked the clause while a show was playing in Canada.

"Some producers would cancel contracts when they felt like it," Wynn added. "Actors had no recourse."

Because of such conditions, Actors Equity went on strike Aug. 6, 1919. Although he wasn't a member, Wynn walked out of his show, Shubert's Gaieties of 1919. Broadway was virtually shut down but the theatre men stood firm.

JOINED AFL

Wynn recalled a strike meeting at which he advocated taking Equity into the American Federation of Labor.

"I was hissed from the floor," he said. "I argued that the strike wasn't going to succeed unless the actors got some support. They wouldn't listen to me until Ethel Barrymore got up. With her commanding presence, she convinced the members that my idea might have merit."

Wynn's suggestion was heeded and he personally got a charter from Samuel Gompers, president of the AFL.

Equity won the month - long strike a few days after the AFL charter was granted. And Wynn was made a life member.

Owners Meet Today

NFL Has Varying Agenda

ST. LOUIS (AP) — National Football League owners, still smarting from April's sensational betting parlay, meet Wednesday in sweeping discussions ranging from television to whether Pottsville, Pa., was unfairly deprived of the championship 38 years ago.

It is the first NFL owners meeting since Commissioner Pete Rozelle indefinitely suspended Paul Hornung and Alex Karras, and fined five Detroit players $2,000 each and the Lions $4,000 for players' betting.

On the agenda of the two-day meeting will be:

A league constitutional amendment to increase the roster from 37 to 40 players;

Whether Pottsville was unfairly deprived of the 1925 championship in which was awarded to Chicago Cardinals—now of St. Louis—on grounds it played an exhibition game in the home territory of another club without permission.

At least one pending investigation — that involving President Carroll Rosenbloom of the Baltimore Colts—is pending. When Commissioner Rozelle cracked down on Hornung, Karras and the Detroit club, he said completion of the Rosenbloom investigation could be expected soon.

Rozelle's report said Rosenbloom had denied allegations of betting on league games during a period eight to 10 years ago. Rosenbloom claimed the individuals who made the charges had committed a whitewash the allegations in affidavits or signed statements.

Chiefs Edge Closer to Top Bisons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Syracuse Chiefs have moved within two games of the Buffalo Bisons, the International League Northern Division leaders, and if they keep up the pace the Chiefs could be back on top before the week is out.

Syracuse had won five in a row before Buffalo unexpectedly derailed by Buffalo Monday night. But they got back on the right track Tuesday night with a 6-3 decision over the Bisons. Indianapolis took over second in the Southern Division with a 7-6, 10-inning victory over the Chiefs and Richmond also had to go 10 innings before dropping Jacksonville 3-2. Columbus and Toronto were idle.

The Crackers pounded Arkansas pitching for 15 hits with every man getting at least one. Johnny Kucks, the major league castoff, held the Travs to eight scattered blows while striking a pair of singles good for two runs.

Indianapolis had to rally three times to beat the Red Wings. Although they combed Rochester hitting for 17 safeties, the Indians left 14 stranded. The winning rally in the 10th was unearned.

A 10th-inning walk—issued by loser Ed Donnelly — proved Jacksonville's undoing. Tom Umphlett singled to bring in Ron Solomini, who got the free pass, with the winning run for Richmond.

4 Cars Plunge Off Washed-Out Bridge

Six Men Feared Drowned In Quebec River

Four Saved When Car Floated, Washed Ashore

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP) Six men are presumed drowned in the swirling York River after four cars plunged off a washed-out bridge Wednesday.

Another four men were saved when flood waters eroded a central pillar. Provincial police said it must have collapsed between 3 a.m. and 7 a.m. Wednesday in time to trap men on their way to work at Gaspe Copper Mines in Murdochville.

Provincial police, after checking families in the mining district 350 miles northeast of Quebec City, turned up the names of six who would have been on the road and who had not returned. Others might be missing, but they would be strangers whose movements were not known, they said.

SIX NOT COUNTED

First reports had listed as many as 12 missing but all except six eventually were accounted for.

Missing are: Robert McGoy, Barachois; Hubert Patterson, 63, Sunny Bank; Melrose Miller, 32, York; Herman Simon, 33, Wakeham; Lionel Lemieux, 35, Murdochville, and Wilson Cotton, 31, Sandy Beach.

The small car belonging to Toni Nelson, 33, of Gaspe, floated about 100 yards downstream before coming to rest on pants inside. Another belonging to Miller was recovered unoccupied. A third was found and had been partly fished out of the 25 feet of water when the current gave it away from searchers.

Nelson said his car was going no more than 30 or 35 miles an hour when it and his said morning mists partly obscured the view, and the structure of the bridge was hard to spot. It was easy to see that the first span was missing.

DIDN'T SEE GAP

Nelson did no see he gap until he was 20 feet away. The little car hit the water, went under, and floated up again. Nelson said it grated on some

Parliament At a Glance

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister Pearson declined to say whether Canada has formally committed its European air division to an inter-allied NATO nuclear force.

Mr. Pearson said a Soviet proposal for a nuclear-free Mediterranean zone will have to be considered by Canada and other nations.

Maurice Sauvé (L—Ile-de-la - Madeleine) warned the government that Quebec will wait no longer to become an equal partner in Confederation.

Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre) said the Liberals should work to restore the effectiveness of Parliament.

Board Breeds 20,000 Salmon With 2 Heads

LONDON (AP) — The Avon and Dorset River Board came up today with the fish story of the year, and maybe of any year. The board bred 20,000 salmon with two heads, but all died within a month of hatching.

The malformed fish were produced by artificial insemination of selected roe. What caused the roe to produce two-headed offspring is a mystery.

John Brayshaw, the board's fishing inspector, said:

"There is a possibility that artificial breeding was the cause of the deformities. This method has been used successfully throughout the world for a century. There have been odd handfuls of deformed salmon, but nothing on this catastrophic scale."

Electronic Aides Now Assist Deaf to Hear, Dumb to Speak

QUEBEC (CP) — Electronic aides now help the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak.

Widespread efforts are being made to create a device that will allow the blind to "read" ordinary newspapers, mail and books quickly and easily.

Dr. A. A. Beddoes, a cautious 39-year-old electrical engineer, described some of the problems involved to delegates who today at the Engineering Institute of Canada convention.

He said simple devices to translate letters into sounds, for the blind have been known since 1914. However, they turn out a complex variety of signals that make fast reading impossible.

A 70-year-old English woman using the Optophone, the oldest device, since 1919 can't read more than 60 pages daily with it before tiring. She is considered an expert.

The Optophone produces three distinct sounds for each letter and requires a great number of decisions" by the reader, Dr. Beddoes said.

He has been working at the University of British Columbia for the last three years on tonal morse and "spelled speech" systems that cut down the number of sounds, clarify them and allow fast reading.

SUGAR PRICES STILL CLIMB LIKE CRAZY

Foreign Sugar Costs 12 Cts. at Dockside

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar prices are climbing like crazy and no one seems to know where it will end.

The head of the agriculture department's sugar policy staff, Lawrence Myers, says the market is in a state of panic.

A commodity that in 1961 was worth two cents, and which was excluded from the United States except under rigid quota systems, is being pursued with ardor at about 12 cents.

That's what a pound of raw foreign sugar costs at dockside New York these days.

The American Sugar Refining Company announced Wednesday the latest increase in the wholesale price of refined sugar: By $1.75 to $16.80 a 100 pounds in the northeast. The price was about $10 in January.

The five-pound bags of sugar that sold for about 45 cents in the supermarket last year are tagged at 69 cents and up. This is below the newest wholesale price — that's how fast things are happening.

USERS ARE HURT

Especially hurt are industrial sugar users who have trouble passing the added cost along, such as candy bar and soft drink manufacturers.

The sugar industry in general dislikes doing anything to encourage existing tendencies toward non-caloric and non-sugar sweeteners.

"We've lost enough customers by that route already," said a sugar broker. "Now we're practically chasing them away."

Some bakers and other users have switched quietly to corn syrup.

Keiser and Company Incorporated, a sugar broker, suspects stockpiling by speculators who hope for profit and by users to protect themselves.

This could bring about a price plunge, Keiser says. "When for-

Birmingham Board Rebuked

Judge Reinstates Ousted Negro Pupils

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)— More than 1,500 Negro pupils, ousted from school for taking part in anti - segregation marches, head back to classrooms today under order of a federal judge who said the children were illegally arrested.

Chief Judge Elbert P. Tuttle of the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday night in Atlanta, Ga., that the city school board could not prevent the pupils from completing the current school term which has seven days remaining.

Tuttle overturned a decision by U.S. District Judge Clarence W. Allgood of Birmingham within eight hours after Allgood refused to reinstate the 1,081 pupils expelled or suspended Monday.

Tuttle said the school board's reason for its action was a policy of suspending or expelling any pupil arrested for any cause. He ruled, however, that the pupils "were engaging in legally permissible activities" and were "illegally arrested for exercising this constitutional right."

In granting a temporary injunction against ouster of the pupils, Tuttle said in an accompanying opinion "it appears shocking that a board of education . . . should thus in effect destroy the value of one term of schooling for so many children."

News of Tuttle's decision set off wild celebrations at a mass meeting and the integration leader, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., said his position had been vindicated.

Some leaders of the 1,500 pupils ousted from school for taking part in anti-segregation marches, head back to classrooms today under order of a federal judge who said the children were illegally arrested.

Pope John Seems Stronger As He Prays Before 15,000

CP from AP-Reuters

VATICAN CITY—Pope John, appearing more vigorous after a night's rest, appeared today —Ascension Day—at his studio window and gave his blessing to 15,000 persons in St. Peter's Square.

The Pope stood at the open window, bathed by a pale sun, for about three minutes. He recited a prayer in a strong vibrant voice. But he made no remarks, as he often does on such occasions.

The Pope stood silently in the window for a full minute, listening to the noise. Then he recited the Regina Coeli (Queen of Heaven) prayer. He remained at the window for some seconds longer, then withdrew behind the purple curtain.

Normally the Pope says the Angelus at noon, but during the Easter period he says the Regina Coeli prayer in honor of the Virgin Mary.

Ascension Day considered the last day of the Easter period, marks the rising into heaven of Christ from Mt. Olivet 40 days after His resurrection.

The Pope was scheduled to start on this holiday a nine-day spiritual retreat, or novena, to prepare for Pentecost Sunday, June 2. But Vatican officials announced, after the Pope's appearance, that the retreat would start Friday.

Vatican officials hope the retreat will allow the Pope to regain his physical energies. He

Tax Deductions for Foreign Charities Asked by Assoc

TORONTO (CP)—The United Nations Association in Canada asked today that the Income Tax Act be clarified concerning donations to charitable organizations spending money outside Canada.

Specifically, it suggested that tax deductions be allowed for donations to such charities.

Under the act, deductions are allowed for donations to organizations in Canada but there are no regulations about where the money must be spent.

"In practice however," the association said in a brief to the Carter royal commission on taxation, "the department of national revenue does not usually grant exemption unless a proportion of money raised is spent in Canada."

The brief said that during the war a number of charities, spending their money in other countries, were granted exemption under the Wartime Charities Act, and although this act has lapsed, the organizations still retain the exemption.

Among those organizations entitled to issue receipts for income tax purposes, said the brief, is the Canadian Save The Children Fund. But the United Nations Children's Fund does not enjoy the same privilege.

Deductions are allowed for donations to the World University Service of Canada and the Canadian Daily Bread Service Overseas, but not to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The association said the revenue department would lose little money by allowing deductions for such donations, since many organizations which spend part of their money outside the country already can issue receipts. And it would enable the department "to administer the act in a fair and just manner."

The government itself contributes to foreign aid programs, said the brief, and Canadians should be encouraged to take an interest in and support programs on their own.

GOVT. IS FACING ANOTHER TEST OF NON-CONFIDENCE

Backbenchers Make Pointed Remarks

OTTAWA (CP) — Another test of confidence, the second in 48 hours, faces the Liberal minority government tonight in the House of Commons.

The vote will begin at 9:30 p.m. EDT on a motion moved Monday by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker. Prime Minister Pearson's administration must defeat it to stay in office.

Tuesday night a non-confidence motion by the New Democratic Party protesting the government's decision to obtain nuclear warheads was defeated 128 to 113. Two Conservative and four Social Credit MPs sided with the Liberals on that one.

Mr. Diefenbaker's motion says the government has failed to incorporate all of its election pledges in the throne speech outline of legislation and has not proposed policies to continue the social and economic growth of Canada.

Wednesday the Commons heard from a series of backbenchers as the eight-day throne speech debate entered its third day. Three of them were Liberals who made some pointed, even controversial, suggestions to their cabinet colleagues.

MAYER PROMOTED

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj. P. A. Mayer of Ottawa will be promoted to lieutenant-colonel on May 27 and posted to The Congo, army headquarters said Wednesday. Maj. Mayer, deputy director of army public relations in Ottawa since February, 1961, will serve as liaison officer with United Nations headquarters in Leopoldville.

Canada Will Be One Of Countries To Contribute

Europe-Based Bombers Will Be Assigned

OTTAWA (CP)—Th way has been cleared for creation of an Atlantic alliance nuclear strike force, with Canada one of the contributing countries.

General agreement on the basic idea of such a force, to be built initially around Polaris-firing U.S. submarines and British long-range bombers, was reached Wednesday at opening sessions of the NATO ministerial council.

Canada in effect pledged that which its Europe-based bomber fleet has been equipped with nuclear weapons—negotiations to this end now are in progress with the U.S.—it will be assigned to the combined strike force.

Canada told the historic meeting that its RCAF Air Division of 200 CF-104 aircraft, expected to be fully operational by the end of this year, would be a logical addition to the NATO force, informants said.

The Canadian component of eight squadrons would be the third most powerful within the force, at least until West Germany enters, possibly next year.

FRENCH AGREE

France, although known to be jealous of its projected role as an independent nuclear power, went along with the idea of an inter-allied force at Wednesday's closed session.

Wednesday's proceedings were climaxed by a dinner given by Prime Minister and Mrs. Pearson for some 500 persons who enjoyed a menu featuring such Canadian dishes as arctic char and Ontario lamb.

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville was reported to have told the delegates of 15 nations that France had no objection to the move.

The assembled ministers unanimously approved steps aimed at "reinforcing and regrouping" NATO's strike forces—an indirect way of endorsing the creation of a force under command of supreme allied headquarters in Europe.

The force has not been given an official name. It was reported previously that the council would also formally avoid formalizing the arrangement-to the extent of providing a name, out of deference to French sensitivities.

TO OUTLINE FRIDAY

The agenda is expected to be outlined in general terms in a communique Friday following the conference here.

The meeting was formally opened by Prime Minister Pear-

Americans Reach Everest Summit By Previously-Unclimbed Ridge

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters) Climbers from the United States expedition have made a double assault on Mount Everest, with separate parties reaching the summit of the world's highest mountain from two directions, it was learned here today.

Thomas Hornbein, 32, and William Unsoeld, 36, made mountaineering history Wednesday by reaching the 29,028-foot summit by the previously unconquered west ridge route.

Radio reports from the expedition's base camp today said Barry Bishop, 39 and Luther Jerstad, 34, had earlier in the day reached the summit by the conventional south col route.

The radio reports said all four climbers spent the night at an altitude of more than 27,000 feet without sleeping bags or oxygen.

The reports said they were all well and all were now at the expedition's south col camp.

Bishop and Jerstad reached the summit at 3 p.m. Wednesday, 3½ hours ahead of the Hornbein-Unsoeld team.

Mountaineering circles in New Delhi said Hornbein's and Unsoeld's climbing of the Virgin Ridge, completing the first major Himalayan traverse, was "a great achievement."

Climbing with them as a support party were Barry Corbet, 36, of Jackson, Wyo.; Allen Austen, 38, of Denver, Colo.; Richard Emerson, 37, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and several Sherpa porters.

Expedition member James Whittaker, 33, of Redmond, Wash., was the first American ever to climb Everest when he reached the summit May 1.

The Swiss-born Dyrhenfurth said Hornbein and Unsoeld had realized a "dream of mountaineering for decades" in completing the first major Himalayan traverse.

Free Mailing Privileges Said Abused

TORONTO (CP)—New Democratic Party criticism earlier this year of abuses of the Ontario legislature's free mailing privileges apparently rebounded Wednesday night.

Provincial Secretary John Yaremko produced a letter which he said had been signed by Norman Davison, NDP member of the legislature for Hamilton East, and mailed to all constituents of his riding under the legislature's frank.

Mr. Yaremko was criticized in the legislature April 17 by Kenneth Bryden, NDP member of the legislature for Toronto Woodbine, for mailing a letter and a new Ontario road map to his constituents under the frank.

"Road maps are out, according to Ken Bryden," Mr. Yaremko told the inaugural meeting of the Progressive Conservative Association for the new riding of Scarborough Centre.

"But this type of material literature is all right, I gather."

Mr. Yaremko said the letter reported to the constituents government schemes for minimum wages, portable pensions and medical insurance, pointing out what the NDP considered as shortcomings.

Youth Steals $1,400 in Lures, Starts Business

GUELPH (CP) — Andrew John Welsh, 20, has probably learned that crime does not pay—even with the help of advertising.

Welch pleaded guilty Wednesday to theft of $2,000 in merchandise from a Canadian Tire Corporation store where he was employed. He was remanded to June 5 for sentencing.

Police said the articles, which included $1,400 in fishing lures, were advertised in a newspaper and kept on display at Welch's home. As many as nine customers looked over the bargains at one time.

White Cane Club Hears Report On Convention

The monthly meeting of the White Cane Club was held on Wednesday evening at the Recreation Centre with the president, Miss Patricia Baverstock, welcoming the 33 members and their escorts.

Clarence Morris, secretary, reported on the convention for the Canadian Council for the Blind held at Cornwall at which 31 clubs were represented. At the convention, Mr. Cowan, managing director of catering service and Mr. Campbell from rehabilitation services, told of the work of their departments. White Cane Week in 1964 will be held February 2nd.

It was decided to hold the annual club picnic at Point Anne on July 13th, and the club has been invited to the Kingston club on June 8th.

Beverley and Barbara Burchill contributed two numbers on the accordion and trumpet, while also by way of entertainment two oral contests were staged, these being won by Helen Wardaugh and Pat Baverstock.

Mrs. C. W. Coleman read a poem entitled "The Hay Bay Disaster of 1819" in which ten persons were drowned on their way to church.

Club member Dick Philbin is again in the news. Mrs. Harry Rollins, long time club worker, was absent due to illness.

Helen Wardhaugh expressed club thanks to the Kinettes for refreshments while Artie Scott thanked the guest artists and the Lions Club for looking after transportation.

Junior Sailing Program

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club recently announced its summer junior sailing program, open to students between the age of 10 and 18 who can swim.

It was stressed that parents do not have to be members of the Yacht Club for students to join in the program.

Efficient and capable instructors will handle the youngsters at a nominal cost. The hours are 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. five days per week during July and August.

Interested parties should apply to the: Junior Sailing Committee, Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, Box 363, Belleville, Ont.

B of M Opens Batawa Branch Next Monday

The Bank of Montreal will open a new branch in Batawa on Monday morning on Highway 33, Joseph P. McDonald, the manager, said today.

The new B of M will be open during regular banking hours.

Designed to meet the banking needs of employees of the Eaton Yale plant as well as residents, merchants and business men of the district, the new B of M is equipped with a streamlined counter with three tellers' wickets, a private consultation booth for safety-deposit box customers, and a steel-and-reinforced-concrete unit, to allow customers to make deposits at any time.

Parking Rules On Sidewalks Is Dangerous

This is underlined in a story that came from police headquarters, J. Claire Hayes today.

Youngsters have developed the sloppy habit of parking bicycles in he centre of sidewalks outside city stores. Failing to observe this efficiency machines are the city's blind residents, says the inspector.

In recent weeks a number of complaints have been received by police by blind citizens — both men and women — who have unwittingly walked into the bicycles.

The latest incident occurred this morning.

Inspector Hayes says he fears possible serious injury in the offing if the practice is not halted.

"This kind of thing has been prohibited in the past," he said. "And it should be borne in mind that the owners of these bicycles, or their parents, are liable for damages in the case of any injury."

Ontario TB Association Health Education Expert Heard by Hastings TB Body

A large crowd attended the annual meeting of the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association in the Quinte Hotel Wednesday evening.

Speaker for the occasion was Mrs. Lidja Berry, health education consultant for the Ontario Tuberculosis Association, from Toronto.

Mrs. Berry stated she had heard many favourable remarks concerning the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association.

"No one is immune to tuberculosis", the speaker said.

"It is our job", she said, "to meet with and encourage people to have a chest x-ray. At one time people were terrified of tuberculosis, but we don't have this problem anymore".

She said tuberculosis was found almost twice as many single men over 60 as amongst married men over 60. Tuberculosis is also more prevalent amongst young teenage girls than amongst young teenage boys.

Mrs. Barry went on to deal with various phases of the functions of the Ontario Tuberculosis Association, explaining each one.

TUBERCULOSIS KILLER

Tuberculosis is still one of the world's greatest killers. Today, in Canada alone, there are between three and four million people with living TB germs in their bodies.

About 200,000 of them have actually been ill with the disease, and approximately 7000 more will develop the disease in their lifetime, unless it is treated.

Tuberculosis is caused by a germ that can easily be spread by coughing, or another, a person with active tuberculosis sneezes or coughs and sends the germs into the air. The germs go everywhere, can infect anyone at any age.

With drugs now available, preventive treatment can be given to many of the infected, particularly young people who are in special danger of developing active tuberculosis, especially those with infection. Taking the drug for as long as a year has been found very effective in preventing infection from becoming active tuberculosis.

TUBERCULIN TEST

Tuberculosis is discovered by the tuberculin test which signals the presence of TB germs. A small amount of harmless fluid—called tuberculin is injected into the skin of the forearm. In one or three days a doctor can tell by measuring the spot on the arm whether the reaction is positive or not.

If it is positive, that means living TB germs are in the body, though not necessarily causing disease. It takes an X-ray and other laboratory tests to tell if active TB is present in the lungs.

In closing, Mrs. Berry stressed the need for volunteers in the fight against tuberculosis, "TB is not conquered yet, and the program is dead," she said. "It is the volunteers who make the public body of the tuberculosis association."

SHOWS FILM

Mrs. Berry presented a film entitled "The Quiet Betrayal." She stated this was the first Canadian TB Association movie filmed during May of last year at the Royal Ottawa Sanatorium.

The story involves a young man, with a good job, a model home and a moderate income. He develops TB and is taken to the local TB Sanatorium, where he at-first resists treatment.

After a short stay he is allowed to go home. He does not follow the treatment prescribed for him by his doctor and consequently he has to return to the sanatorium for further treatment. While discobeying his doctor's orders, his young teenage daughter catches the germ from him and is also found to the sanatorium for treatment. This would not have occurred had he followed the doctor's instructions for home medication.

A panel discussion on the subject of tuberculosis was held following the film.

The panel consisted of four panelists, including: Dr. J. B. McSherry, medical advisor to the Hastings County TB Association; Mrs. Margaret Berry, health supervisor from the Belleville General Hospital; Mr. A. N. Hallam, health education chairman, and Mr. Leslie F. Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School, with the president of the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association, Mr. George Whitman, acting as moderator.

The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. Maureen Eldge. Mrs. Berry and members of the panel were thanked by William Fraser.

REPORTS RECEIVED

One of the highlights of the past year for the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association was the many surveys held throughout the city and the county, consisting of a Joint Tuberculin test and x-ray program.

Mrs. Margaret Hallam, executive-secretary, in her report said, "the citizens of Hastings County who had any part in this survey, or who may have not, are to be congratulated. Without their help, our survey would not have been a successful flop".

Dr. J. B. McSherry, chairman of the medical advisory committee, stated in his report that during the survey 983 high school students out of a possible 1,593, were tested and 37 positive-reactors were found.

Tuberculin testing of students in grade 9 and 12 was carried out during the past year in Belleville by Dr. M. Metcalfe, M.O.H., and in the county by Dr. J. B. McSherry. Public health nurses, hairdressers and barbers in Belleville were x-rayed on a regular basis. Inmates in the jails and residents of the County Home also had x-rays taken.

Anan E. Laiter, chairman of the mass survey committee, stated in his report that last fall 31,331 persons participated in the survey. He said as a result of the survey, 30,983 persons had no reportable disease or abnormality.

There were 18 cases of pulmonary tuberculosis found in the remaining 316 persons, of which four were classed as active, one being minimal and three moderately advanced, with two persons listed as pulmonary tuberculosis suspects.

Reports were submitted in booklet form along with a financial statement.

Following the dinner hour, George Whitman, president of the association, introduced the head table guests, one of whom was Alderman Les Digby, representing the city of Belleville.

Mr. McNaughton and Mr. McNab asked that council decide almost immediately on a site for the new ferry.

Mr. Larry explained that council had been asked by traffic surveyors, to consider moving the bridge at a point where it would start at the east side of the river by Aquatic street and come out at Front street at a point across from Ford street. Council, he said, had not been impressed with this suggested location. Rather, the councillors had favored a site further north on the river where the bridge would run at the east side of Dundas street and come out at the intersection of Front and Division streets. Council, he said, felt the end entrance to the bridge would be at the intersection of Division and Front streets.

The "north" route (in which the bridge would run parallel to the CNR bridge) would lead off along the road allowance, parallel to the railway tracks. On the east side of the river, the crossing Marmora street and running west to the river, still parallelling the tracks. Much of the land in this area is town-owned in one sense or another and would not require acquisition from individual owners. The Ford - Baptista streets route would be more costly as it would entail buying up privately owned properties.

Mr. Bedell laid out costs for the alternate routes. The Ford-Baptista route would run into $1,760,000. The "north" route would cost something approximating a million. Mr. Bedell said that the two-lane bridge would be approximately 700 feet long and 30 feet wide. Whether the structure will also support a sidewalk for pedestrian traffic will be decided later. The bridge will have a 26-foot water clearance. Boats will pass under it. The bridge will not "swing" for water traffic.

WOULD SAVE MONEY

Mr. Larry pointed out that the federal government would actually be saving money on the bridge by constructing it. In the case of a bridge with a swing portion, the department of transportation would be in charge of construction) and maintenance of this portion.

Mr. Naughton agreed and said that since it was unrealistic for the department to consider widening the present bridge, a second bridge was the obvious answer.

As to when the bridge would be completed, the minister and planning engineer said that even if negotiations were started immediately, actual work on the bridge would not start for a year or more. Designs must be drawn and agreed upon. Land must be acquired. Railway track re-location must be arranged with the C.N.R. All present agencies concerned must be brought to an agreement concerning the final design of the bridge and the sharing of costs. Utilities must be re-located. A three-year limit for completion of the bridge was generally agreed upon.

Finally, council will be asked to pass a resolution, asking the DHO to go ahead with plans for the bridge and will decide on the site.

Town May Have 2nd Bridge Within Three Years and at Little Cost to Corporation

TRENTON — Trenton may have a second bridge within three years . . . and at very little, if any, cost to the town.

Ontario Minister of Highways, Charles McNaughton, meeting with Trenton council yesterday said that his department was prepared, "committed," said Mr. McNaughton) to the construction of the bridge in the light of a connecting link. As such, it would be eligible for a 75 per cent of construction costs grant from the province.

Furthermore, said Mr. McNaughton, he was willing to approach the federal department of transport, along with council and ask that the Ottawa government pick up the remainder of the million dollar tab.

Mr. McNaughton was accompanied to the meeting by deputy minister C. McVey; William Bedell, planning engineer with the department; Zisso Sandenowitch, city solicitor; West and P. D. Patterson, district expense engineer, (DHO). Also present at the meeting were the members of Trenton council, (acting mayor, Councillor C. V. Graham; C. W. Larry, clerk-comptroller; Eric Alderson, town engineer; F. B. Whitney, Trenton harbor master; Port Hope and R. J. Callighan, municipal engineer at Port Hope.

Mr. McNaughton set the amicable mood of the meeting by referring to his department and Trenton council as "partners." He said that it was quite aware that the present Trenton bridge created a "bottleneck," and that, through the "gentle nudging" of Mr. Sandercock, the department had made considerable efforts in the late Conservative government at Ottawa to pay a large portion of the cost of a bridge for Trenton. Now that the government had changed, he said, he was prepared to open negotiations with Ottawa and suggested that he be joined by the council and the Hastings South representative at Ottawa, Robert Pennock.

WANTS SITE DECIDED

"We'll join forces and descend upon Ottawa and ask that the government consider paying a normal cost sharing in this," said Mr. McNaughton.

Mr. McNaughton and Mr. McNab asked that council decide almost immediately on a site for the new ferry.

Mr. Larry explained that council had been asked by traffic surveyors, to consider moving the bridge at a point where it would start at the east side of the river by Aquatic street and come out at Front street at a point across from Ford street. Seaway Board Deep in Red

WASHINGTON (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, which operates the U.S. section of the international waterway, is in financial deep water.

Seaway Administrator Joseph H. McCann said Wednesday the corporation is unable to meet its financial commitments without a change in its loan arrangement with the U.S. Treasury department or an increase in tolls.

He said in an interview that the seaway was in financial straits because traffic and tolls far below what had been anticipated.

Because of the financial problem, McCann said, no payments can be made on loan principal for at least 20 years, under present arrangements.

Cost of Medicare Plan Sponsored by Ont. Govt. Not Excessive--Dymond

Ontario Health Minister Dymond last night in Belleville championed his universal medical plan as the only economically feasible scheme for the province.

Dismissing Opposition alternatives as illogical, the Minister said his plan, operating through private insurance companies, was a guarantee against spiralling costs endemic in any insurance scheme operated solely by government.

"I want to tell this clearly," he told East Hastings Conservative workers at Moira Secondary School . . . It is a completely fallacious idea that government can run the insurance business more economically or more cheaply than an (private) insurance carriers."

"I know of no better brake on increasing costs, or keeping out of control, as the competition of the market place."

Any government-established agency would be a monopolistic structure and thus an invitation to spiralling costs, he warned.

The Minister, who drove straight from his home in Port Perry to deliver his address spoke for nearly an hour, covering in detail all aspects of the new medical insurance law. Afterwards, he answered questions put to him from the audience, not overriding on the platform until nearly 10.15 p.m.

Dr. Dymond said the Ontario government was proceeding with caution in its new medical insurance scheme, and would not advance into any new phase until it had gained experience in that field.

"This is but the first step on a very-largely uncharted sea. We are proceeding with the launch you—the people of Ontario—on one ambitious scheme, of which we have no knowledge, until we have the opportunity to gain some experience."

Neither did the government intend introducing any plan resembling the blanket provincial medicare scheme of the Saskatchewan NDP government.

"If we as a government or any other party, should try to force on the people of Ontario a plan like the plan they introduced in Saskatchewan . . . it would flounder and fail before it got off the ground.

Doctors, said the physician-turned-cabinet-minister, will not work under any plan that imposes outside interference between themselves and their patients.

REFUTES CHARGE

Neither are critics of the scheme correct in charging its cost excessive.

"Ladies and gentlemen, again I think this is a fallacy that needs to be laid. The cost of medical care insurance is not exorbitant," said Dr. Dymond.

He reckoned the bill at about $135 annually for any family participating in the scheme—"less than the cost of a package of cigarets a day."

"Medical care insurance is neither a luxury nor is it expensive," he added.

From experience, said Dr. Dymond, "we could not possibly provide a medical-care insurance for any less than these companies are now offering."

Neither could the government extend a totally-free service.

"No level of government has any magic formula for producing money. The only formula is a time-honored one—taxes—and we cannot use too. It is taxation."

But if the government cannot provide the scheme more cheaply than private carriers "they should not take money from you and give you a service. Why should we not let you buy it for yourself."

CLAIMS CHARGES UNFOUNDED

The Minister rounded on Opposition criticisms of the plan and both Liberal and NDP alternative schemes.

Charges of huge profits accruing to private carriers under the Ontario plan were unfounded. The companies made report annually and their records will be available for scrutiny by government administrators.

"These fantastic profits which some of our opposition will tell you about are unfounded."

Charges of an undignified session last week were ridiculous true. Dr. Dymond described it as an "income test."

"I am standing unedified in asking all the adult people of the province to file an annual income return to establish eligibility," he said. Plans proposed by the other provincial parties were akin to the plan that caused "the fiasco" in Saskatchewan.

"I cannot interpret the Liberal plan. I do not think they can interpret it to this audience, "because it has changed four times since January 1 and is changing yet."

Both Liberal and NDP estimates based on a wholesale medicare program fell completely short of reality, Dymond said but figured such a scheme in its first year might cost the government between $225 and $250 millions. The Liberals estimated $175 million and the NDP $160 million.

"Where they (the NDP) got that price, unless they were clairvoyant, I certainly don't know.

The NDP says it would help underwrite such a plan by adding three per cent to the province's corporation tax structure.

NOT COMPULSORY

Such a plan would have an adverse effect on industrial replacements through the province.

"We will drive industry out and if we drive industry out we will be faced with something like 6 millions happens in taxes — diminishing returns," warned Dr. Dymond.

He refuted the point advantages of the new Ontario scheme is the fact it is not compulsory.

"Compulsory insurance . . . I do not believe and I never have believed in compulsion," said the Minister.

"No one has yet brought forth a single practical reason why medical care insurance should be compulsory."

It was unrealistic to equate the plan with compulsory automobile insurance, which was instituted to protect safety, not for the policy-owner.

The Minister, in remarks that drew loud applause, said his faith in the medical insurance scheme, also touched on most aspects of current provincial legislation.

The government's present program contains some of the most far-reaching and imaginative legislation ever drafted in the province, he claimed. This, despite, opposition labels as a "tired old government."

"When you look at the program that the Ontario government presented to you, ladies and gentlemen, no man in his right mind would dare to say in honesty this was the work of a tired, old government."

ALL ARE ENCOURAGED

However, he also had a warning for any Jack-a-dalatist attitude to contemporary economic problems. He now beheoves Ontario to make its mark in commerce and industry and its citizens must realize this.

"We cannot sit here on our rumps in Ontario and think the world is going to beat a pathway to our doors," he stated bluntly.

"We have to sell more goods outside Ontario and preferably outside Canada," since every province, to varying degrees, was facing similar problems, Dymond added.

Fruit Trees, Early Vegetables Not Damaged

Morley Webster, fruit and vegetable expert with the agricultural office in Northumberland County said today that fruit trees and early vegetables had suffered no damage in his area last night. Temperatures went down to 34 degrees. Mr. Webster said that he was keeping his fingers crossed for tonight, however, as the weatherman has again warned of frost.

The study forecaster at RCAF Station Trenton says that last night the temperature went to 36 degrees. This isn't the coldest May 22 on record as a 30 degree temperature in 1935 boasts last night. Records at the Trenton station go back to 1931.

Tonight, we're promised a low area of 35 degrees. The forecaster said that authorities at the Smithfield Experimental Farm phoned every two hours last night to check on temperatures. Early experiments with fruit trees are being carried out at the farm.

Back to Mr. Webster again, he says that the people who haven't got their gardens out yet are just plain lucky. Right now, plants are just "sitting" in the ground and won't start to grow until the weather warms up.

Rev. S. Palmer Delegate to CMA Council

The city of Belleville and community was represented during the past week at the international ecumenical assembly convention of The Christian and Missionary Alliance held at Pinehurst, N.C.

The Alliance, now sixth among Protestant churches in the international council among 24 foreign fields, re-elected Dr. Nathan Bailey of New York as its international president, and approved a foreign mission-ary budget of $4,200,000 for this year.

The delegates also named the president, Dr. Bailey, to serve on editor of the denominational magazine, The Alliance Witness, for two years, succeeding the late Dr. A. W. Tozer, who died unexpectedly on May 13. Dr. Tozer addressed the Belleville Ministerial Association last March.

Oshawa Budgie Gets Free Trip In CNR Coach

OSHAWA (CP) — A budgie on a budget recently travelled 76 miles the easy way — via railway. It fluttered into a CNR train at Oshawa, perched on a coach seat, and went to Belleville.

Conductor Douglas Young did not demand a ticket and took the freeloader to his home in Belleville.

A provincial election is in the offing—but how far off the offing may be is still the most question of the moment.

Politicians steer clear of even hinting at the answer—if there is one yet—and last night Clarke Rollins was no different.

Both Ontario Health Minister Dymond and East Hastings M.L.A. Clarke Rollins refused to commit themselves to reporters on the topic.

"My guess would be in October—but I don't really know," was Mr Rollins' reply to the query.

"I have no idea." Dr. Dymond said over a late-night snack following his lengthy address at Moira Secondary School last night. "My guess would be in the fall."

"However," he added with a change of expression, "I think we should always be ready."

Predictions that announcement may be forthcoming any time might be seen in the increased number of public appearances of politicians of Cabinet rank in the Belleville area in recent weeks. These indications also drew weight from the tone of some remarks from the platform at Moira last night.

"I feel we must not leave anything undone that will adversely affect results when a provincial election is called," Mr. Rollins told the meeting.

Dr. Dymond also had something to add to that.

"In East Hastings, I am told once a man has the (Conservative) nomination he is elected," he told the assembly of predominantly party workers and organizers.

"That is a good thing to know. Then I wonder sometimes that we don't have a tendency to become complacent or overconfident.

"That is one of the most serious diseases affecting people in politics," he warned.

Mary Pickford Seeks Memories, Finds Changes

The words can describe what happens to me when I come home," said Miss Pickford, who in early 1900s became one of the first Hollywood stars. It made her sad to find her old home on University Avenue gone. The house was demolished in 1943 to make way for the Hospital for Sick Children.

Miss Pickford, 70, was in Toronto with reporters at a press conference after her appearance here on a television show.

She recalled that city councils once discussed erecting a statue on the tragic grounds to mark her birthplace, but a few weeks later she called Montreal one of the most beautiful cities in North America and the move for the statue died quickly.

"I hate statues anyway," she said. "I'd rather see a birdbath."

Loren Gladys Mary Smith, Miss Pickford said being America's Sweetheart was not always sweet.

"In most pictures I was a demon. I threw things. I threw bricks, tomatoes . . ."

Cancer Research Body Plans Meeting

TORONTO — The fact that the American Association for Cancer Research will hold its annual meeting this month in Toronto—the first time in its 54 years of existance that the association has met outside of the United States — is seen by Frank H. Brown of Vancouver, president of the Canadian Cancer Society, as significant recognition of Canada's contribution to cancer research.

The meeting, to be attended by more than 500 delegates from Canada, the U.S. and other countries, will be held May 23-25 in the Royal York Hotel. Eighteen of the 225 scientific papers to be presented will be by Canadians.

Canadian Sugar Price Increase Below World's

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian refined sugar prices have risen less than the world price for raw sugar, Justice Minister Chevrier said in the Commons today.

He was replying to Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood), who asked the government to expedite an inquiry by the Com bines Investigation Branch into what Mr. Brewin called "almost daily increases . . . threatening to put small bakers out of business."

Mr. Chevrier said the sugar shortage was caused by crop shortages in both beet and cane sugar and Canadian consumer prices were not out of line with raw sugar prices.

The minister also said refined sugar prices were lower in the United States than in Canada because the U.S. has no tariff against sugar imports, and Canadian importers have to pay higher prices in terms of the U.S. dollar.

India Rejects Use of A-Arms As Defence

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — India rejects the use of nuclear weapons as a defence against Red China but wants more conventional arms aid from the U.S., Canada and other countries, a top official said Wednesday.

T. T. Krishnamachari, India's minister for defence and economic co-ordination, told a press conference that as far as his country is con cerned, Communist China has subsonic bombers but no nuclear weapons. He said India is "probably" in need of equivalent of Chinese equipment, plus fighter planes. But India needs more than armaments, even as a deterrent, because use of such weapons could lead to global war.

Worried about the possibility of another attack from the China, India is seeking conventional arms, mainly from the Western powers, in an effort to double the size of the 10-division Indian army and increase airforce strength by about 70 per cent over a three-year period.

Krishnamachari said his government recently purchased 18 Canadian - built Caribou transport planes, with deliveries to begin into 1964, and "we probably will buy more."

He said India's prime need is for more transport planes to lift men and supplies over rough frontier terrain. It also is seeking bombers and supersonic jets, hoping the U.S. and other friendly countries will donate much of this equipment or provide it on lend-lease terms that would not drain too severely India's foreign exchange.

At the same time India is accepting defence aid from the Soviet Union. Some of the 13 MIG jet fighters which Soviet Premier Khrushchev promised have arrived in India, and Soviet technicians are looking at Indian sites on which to build the MIG jet factory.

Kennedy Plans Hard Push for Ban on A-Tests

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy says he intends to push hard for a nuclear test ban treaty during the next few months, warning that prospects for such a ban may disappear unless there is progress in the near future.

Hinting at a readiness to consider yielding more ground on the issue of on-site inspections that would be required annually, Kennedy told a press conference Wednesday the Russians first must agree to settle details of how such inspection is to be carried out before the U.S. makes a final decision on the number of annual inspections needed.

Russia has offered three annual on-site inspections of its territory to examine suspicious explosions, but has refused to discuss how these inspections would be conducted until the Western powers accept the Soviet figure. The U.S. has demanded seven inspections but a Pentagon estimate has said six are sufficient.

NEEDS DISCUSSION

Kennedy indicated he has great confidence in the Pentagon individual, but before the U.S. would change its on-site demands it would have to discuss with Russia makeup of the inspection teams, operating rules for inspections and areas for inspections.

The pace of world events is such, he said, that unless agreement is reached now, chances of getting such a treaty would be comparatively slight.

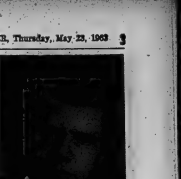
Justice Minister Says Commons Should Decide

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The government suggested Wednesday that Parliament itself make the decision on whether to establish special machinery to protect the little man from bureaucrats.

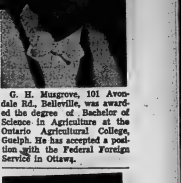
Justice Minister Favreau told the Commons its rules committee might study suggestions of creating a parliamentary commissioner or ombudsman, such as some other countries have.

The ombudsman is an official appointed by a legislature to investigate complaints from the public of cases of alleged highhandedness by government officials. Sweden has two of them, one dealing in civil and the other in military law.



A bill along these lines was introduced last session by Art Smith, Conservative MP for Calgary South who did not seek re-election. The bill died when Parliament was dissolved for the April 8 federal election.

Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur) has proposed a resolution this session to create the office of parliamentary commissioner who would examine grievances of Canadian citizens "which arise in their relations with the administration of the federal state in Canada," and report on them to the Commons.



Lawyer Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto-Greenwood), long active in civil liberties causes, asked Mr. Chevrier for the new government's views on the subject.

"It seems to me that this is a matter for Parliament to determine, rather than the minister of justice," Mr. Chevrier said.

It might be referred to the committee on procedure which is to be set up this session under the standing orders. Also the Ontario Food Processors' Association Scholarship, awarded to an outstanding student in the horticulture option.

G. H. Musgrove, 101 Avondale Rd., Belleville, was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. He has accepted a position with the Federal Foreign Service in Ottawa.

H. C. Wien, R. R. 1, Belleville, was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Mr. Wien was the winner of the General Proficiency Award and also the Ontario Food Processors' Association Scholarship, awarded to an outstanding student in the horticulture option.

M. A. Huff, R. R. 1, Bloomfield, was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture at the annual convocation exercises at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, held on Friday, May 17.

Would Make New Canadians' Wives Citizens

OTTAWA (CP)—Joe Macaluso, Liberal MP for Hamilton West, placed a private bill before the Commons today aimed at granting citizenship papers to wives of new Canadians even though they can't speak English or French fluently.

His bill was given first reading by the Commons and then added to a list of private members' bills which will be considered in special times during the Commons session.

Mr. Macaluso said wives of some immigrants failed to qualify for citizenship after five years they have been in Canada for 10 or 15 years because they haven't the opportunity to acquire the command of English or French required for citizenship.

The bill was designed to amend the Canadian Citizenship Act to recognize that some wives, particularly in isolated areas, have little opportunity to acquire sufficient knowledge of either language. They never get citizenship papers and their children are Canadian-born.

Says Fallout Not Alarming

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said today radioactive fallout in Canada is insufficient to be alarming.

Replying to questions in the Commons, she said her department is maintaining a close watch on radioactivity in air, soil, milk and human tissue, and that the government has emergency measures to adopt if needed.

Water Famine Hits Hong Kong

HONG KONG (Reuters)—This drought-stricken British Crown colony may run out of fresh water before the expected arrival of the monsoon season in July, officials said today.

Many restaurants are refusing patrons to one glass of water and the rice crop is gravely threatened.

Accompanying thirst is the threat of disease. Typhoid, dysentery and cholera are the main dangers, and only the habit of boiling drinking water is keeping them down, it has prevented epidemics.

But official appeals to families to share the same bath water and than use that water for other purposes are generally ignored.

P.M. and Premier Speak

The despicable terrorism of the Front de Liberation Quebecois is, in the final analysis, but the most extremist demonstration of the depth and strength of French Canada's dissatisfaction with an inferior role in our national life.

Thus the other day, when Canada's Prime Minister spoke in the House of Commons on the need to solve the problem of biculturalism and Quebec's Premier dealt with the urgent necessity of stopping the acts of separatism terrorists, they were dealing with the same subject.

Though both are Liberals, they come from a different background. It is, therefore, not surprising, though it is a striking example of the gulf which must be crossed, that two of their most quotable sentences should reveal diametrically opposed conceptions.

"You cannot have a bicultural country without having a country," so Quebec, to be Quebec, must be Quebec in Canada," declared Prime Minister Lester Pearson.

"They (the terrorists) are doing enormous harm to Quebec as well as to French Canada," asserted Premier Lesage.

Prime Minister Pearson, like the vast majority of English-speaking Canadians, here equates Quebec with French Canada. Its difference is plain that, since Quebec to go its own way, there would be no problem of biculturalism for the remains of Canada.

Premier Lesage, on the other hand, speaks of the harm done "to Quebec as well as to French Canada," clearly indicating that in his mind the two are not synonymous

The realist may side with the Prime Minister. The idealist must stand with Premier Lesage, and it so happens that this is the type of problem for which a satisfactory solution is only possible through idealism.

It is a measure of both the difficulty of the problem and of the possibilities for an eventual amicable solution that the more reasonable and more intelligent French-Canadian does not believe that French Canada is confined to Quebec, nor does he regard Quebec as exclusively French Canada.

The French-Canadian is aware of the scope of the measures he has taken to make an English-speaking minority feel respected as equals in Quebec. He wants the same treatment accorded French-speaking minorities, and they are considerable, in other provinces, notably in New Brunswick and in the extreme eastern and the northern sectors of Ontario.

Accepting biculturalism in Quebec is not going to be good enough. Indeed, insofar as this is achieved, this will not be a concession to French Canada but a concession by French Canada to English Canada. Matching such a concession by granting equivalent treatment to French-speaking Canadians in other provinces is going to be tremendously difficult. In large areas of these provinces the residents have had no practical experience with the nature of the problem, nor of the solution. Yet the full enjoyment of every-day living for the French-speaking Canadians depends upon its solution.

Problematic

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale is the Apostle of Positive Thinking.

The other day he told the Toronto Advertising and Sales Club:

"The fellow with 20 problems is twice as alive as the poor miserable fellow who only has ten problems."

If quality, as well as quantity, counts in the matter of problems, Dr. Peale is a most happy fellow. Possession of a thought pattern which can cherish trouble as a yardstick of animation must make him the most alive man in the whole wide world.

"Every President (of the United States) since George Washington—every President but the two Roosevelts—has at some time or another bemoaned the burdens of this curious office; which is, after all, the odd one of an elected monarch who is held responsible by the legislature, the courts, and the people for the policy and reputation of his people. John Adams, Washington's successor, wrote at the end of his first term: 'If I were to go over life again, I would be a shoemaker, rather'. Jefferson called it 'a splendid misery . . . from which no man will bring out the reputation which carries him into it' . . . A simple-minded friend asked Lincoln how it felt to be in full command at the head of his party. Lincoln replied: 'If to be the head of hell is as hard as what I have to undergo here, I could find it in my heart to pity Satan himself'."—Allistair Cooke on the BBC.

Senate Survives Efforts To Modernize Its Structure

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Governments come and governments go . . . Liberal, Conservative, Liberal . . . with them successive waves of elected Members of Parliament. But the appointed Senate goes on, forever, unchanged and unchanging.

Now in this new, Twenty-Sixth Parliament, the Senate must have that comforting feeling of knowing that come all the politicians and reformers against it, always shall it prevail, above and beyond the reach of anything . . . save, perhaps, revolution.

With Prime Minister Diefenbaker, it moved pondcrously into this new session, set even breathing hard after the 80-year-plunge escape it had from "reform" at the hands of former Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Twice, in two different Parliaments, he tried "streamlining," or "modernization," as he termed it, the unruffled and unheeding Senate, but like everybody else who has attempted what now seems clearly impossible, he got absolutely nowhere.

The Senate, which never was in any actual danger of "reform," is now more snugly secure than ever.

NOT ANY MORE

While in Opposition, the Liberals talked, very convincingly—of Senate "rejuvenation," too, and, like the Conservatives, proposed a Senatorial retiring age at 75 years, on a $8,000 life pension.

(As it is, the old political warriors live out their days on an annual $10,000.)

But then, quietly, in the campaign that followed, the Liberals dropped "reform" for their election manifesto.

Perhaps it wasn't that deliberate: they just never got around to mentioning it again.

Why should they? Anyway, with the Senate, even after six Conservative year, still the Liberal stronghold, it's safe to be so long as you admit to remembering?

There was some suspicion, too, that the Senate's successful defence of former Bank of Canada Governor James Coyne just might have had something to do with Conservative zeal for "reform."

For there are a goodly number of knowledgeable people in Parliament still who date the beginning of the Decline and Fall of John Diefenbaker from the day of the "Coyne Crisis."

Certain it is, after failing the first time, the Conservatives made no move to attack Senate "modernizing," only after the stubborn Senators had saved Parliament from dishonorable discharge, leaving him, instead, to retire in dignity, and even his own confederates and associates.

FINE TELESCOPIC VIEW

Neither time did the Senate "streamliner" bill get beyond the introduction stage in the Commons.

Even had it passed the House, it scarcely could have survived the Senate, which is used to a vote himself out of business and off the public payroll, even at $23

But had it, by some political miracle, made the legislative grade, it would have required the Senate from Liberal to Conservative. For 25 of the 29 Senators over the statutory age limit were Liberals, which would have cut their strength to 34 and with the resulting new appointments, raised the Conservatives to a majority 56.

Now aided by the years under the never-very-dark shadow of Conservative "reform," the Senate under the hard-driving leadership of Brantford's Senator Ross Macdonald, a member of Prime Minister Pearson's Cabinet, as he was of Prime Minister St. Laurent's — seems determined to justify itself through sheer good hard work, as a sort of "defence" against any possible future "modernization."

It sees itself taking on jobs which, for years, have been by Royal Commissions, the kind of assignments that are just too politically hot for the Commons to consider—and handle.

But it will take some justifying, for as that salty Senator, M. Grattan O'Leary, has put it, getting an appointment to this best-of-all-possible "gentlemen's pension clube," is like striking oil in your backyard or winning the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes two years in a row. For it takes $2,000,000, annually to keep the Senate in business, and $200,000 invested at five per cent to pay a Senator his life-time annual $10,000.

Medical Care's High Cost Effects Cures

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Much jewelry on a woman always seems to emphasize what she has or hasn't, or what she is or isn't; it makes a thin woman look thinner, a fat woman look fatter, a person who looks basically vulnerable, and an old one look grotesquely ancient.

Male hypocrisy in the realm of sexual relations was pungently put by Desmoyers when he said: "Modesty ensures the innocency of women when we are the victims; we find it charming when we are the culprits."

It is the magnitude of a fatal catastrophe that shocks and immunes us, so that even sympathy becomes statistical, and in the end it is only the "really big" hurricanes or plane crash that moves us; but mortality is not cumulative and the death rate is the same everywhere, one to a person.

The worst love triangles" are not those that among three persons, but between two — as when, for instance, I love the woman and the man are in love with him.

When you keep someone waiting, remember that you are giving him time to enumerate your faults and deficiencies, as compared with his own glowing virtues, among the first of which is promptness.

More criminals are apprehended because of other criminals than because of the police; for when a man determines to act on a Machiavellian plan, the tortured logic of his position forces him to become eventually anti-social toward his own confederates and associates.

A journalist is that odd sort of writer who begins to write badly as soon as he is given time to write well.

The things we say bear little resemblance to what is on our minds; for instance, the important questions we usually conceal some other question we are too ashamed (or too aware) to formulate in words; and this is why the answers we get rarely satisfy us, because they do not answer the hidden question, only the verbal one.

Many more people would commit suicide if they weren't afraid of what the neighbors might say; what inhibits them is fear of scandal more than fear of death.

Those who cannot stand to be alone are doomed never to know intimacy; for love, as Ortega reminds us, "consists of two solitudes that touch and cross one another."

A reward of $50 awaits the person who disposes of a wolf which is killing sheep among flocks of sheep in South Marysburgh township. In addition to the usual bounty, the township council yesterday decided to give an award of an additional $25. To date twenty-four sheep and lambs have been killed and the wolf is blamed. Foxes are also blamed for loss among lambs. When a den on the farm of William Walmsley at Milford was dug out, bones of lambs were found, having been the feast of the fox pups.

The largest docket of cases ever to be presented in a county police court here was in evidence Thursday morning when forty-nine cases were listed for trial before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd. The fact no police court was held for two weeks owing to the death of the late Magistrate E. J. Butler, accounted for the large docket assembled. The majority of the cases entered were for minor offences and multiple charges against the same parties helped materially to swell the charges.

How long has this trait been apparent? I have a strong suspicion that it appeared suddenly in the last few months. And if it did, that also should be investigated, too.

He needs to earn the knack of accepting differences sensibly. Someone who dis - grees with him isn't committing a crime. If he'll learn to be tolerant, learn to take things calmly, he'll be happier and it will be a lot easier to treat his high blood pressure.

There are plenty of people with high blood pressure who are pleasant to live with, and I hope he decides to become one of them. He can. If he wants to, that is.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please send your leaflet on "Pre-Menstrual Blues." I enclose 5 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Can an emotional upset cause menstruation to skip a month? — B. D.

Yes. This occurs quite frequently in girls starting college or nursing school — that age bracket. The condition corrects itself ultimately.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please help me overcome my aversion to hospitals because of a fear of fire. I formerly lived in a city where many deaths in a hospital resulted not from fire but from burning X-ray films. My fear is not natural and I am ashamed of it. — A.

You should be able to discipline yourself out of this fear by reproducing it for your own mind that modern hospitals are completely fireproof, and that X-ray films are now fire-resistant. They will burn only slowly, and not with the almost explosive has the earlier films did. The fire you mentioned occurred more than 30 years ago.

To Your Good Health

Tension Can Contribute To High Blood Pressure

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband, who is 51, has been under treatment for some months and with the use of drugs his blood pressure has come down to safe limits.

He tolerates no noise from the children and considers anything I do or say that he doesn't agree with to be a deliberate attempt on my part to irritate him. I cannot discuss anything with him for fear of putting him to bed for days.

He claims it is the result of his high blood pressure that he gets upset so easily. It seems to me he causes it by letting everything bother him. I almost believe he would be better off living alone. — R. D. L.

Your husband, I'm afraid, has things rather backwards.

High blood pressure doesn't make him explode temperamentally. It's the other way round. His tensions contribute to the blood pressure.

I can't agree that he would be better off living alone. He would probably stew and fret more than ever — but wouldn't have anyone upon whom to vent them on if, — — R. D. L.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A great many devotees of classical music are not musically educated but are attracted by its harmoniousness, its tunefulness, sonority, and a beauty that can be remembered and recognized, next time they hear it. They resent the modern "serious" effort for the same reason they resent modern painting and sculpture: they don't understand it.

Being one of those, myself, I challenged my young people to listen to an afternoon radio broadcast that is always devoted to symphony. I wanted them to sit and listen, and compare it in their minds with pop music and the jazz that seems to command their interest.

Unfortunately, instead of symphony, that particular afternoon was devoted to a branch of serious music with which I am not fmp. It was a program of German lieder, sung to the accompaniment of the piano, by solo performers: one after the other, men, women, baritones, tenors, sopranos and contraltos.

Of all the woodwinds sounds ever conceived, these lieder were it. Deleted from the program the singers all appeared to be trying to swallow their chins.

My demonstration was a flop.

Deseronto Board of Education held Monday in the town hall with three trustees were present. This meeting was held despite the indication by the trustees that they would be unable to attend. A request to change the date of meeting to May 17th was acceptable to the town council (who wished to have a councillor present) and to all but two members of the Board. A special meeting was set for May 17th. All interested parties were notified at least three days in advance of May 13th.

In spite of this, the co-chairman of the board assumed responsibility calling a meeting for May 13th. This man's resignation has been on file with the board since April 11th. Not only did he violate the rules governing special meetings, but sent so far, when faced with no quorum, as to declare an "open meeting". He further invited the public to the regular meeting date of May 17th. No procrastination on our part can be deduced from this.

As trustees we would like to object to the behavior of some parties at the May 17th meeting. We feel that this issue can be and must be resolved without recourse to name calling, epithets, bad language and ill humor that was evident during and after that meeting.

We would indicate further that the action of the chairman of the board has been consistently in the interests of the people of Deseronto since his joining the board in 1960.

It is now regrettable that this issue has become a personal one for so many people. Now, more than ever, there is a need to discuss the problem objectively. The attitude of many has made this well nigh impossible.

Three Deseronto Trustees Give Views

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

We feel that recent publicity concerning the school issue in Deseronto has failed to present an honest picture. We request the use of your column to help clarify misinformation and answer the criticisms levelled against the present board.

May we refer to the following statement.

In May, 1962 the sitting Board of Education for the Town of Deseronto voted the Napanee High School be closed and that the students join the Napanee School Area. This was presented to the town council, during on proper procedure, the council referred the request to the Hastings County Council. At the meeting of this council in June, 1962, the decision to keep the Deseronto High School open at that time was handed down. This decision was based on county council's belief that the issue should be resolved by the people of Deseronto.

In the general election of December of the same year, the ratepayers of Deseronto chose three candidates to the three positions then open on the Deseronto School Board. These candidates were in favor of retaining the Deseronto High School. In the face of this democratic electoral support those who wished it elected attempted to coerce the board of education through the support of some members of the school board, some members of town council, and by school leaders — and through a representative of the Dept. of education. Their arguments are as follows:

1. That the school does not provide facilities for 4-year technical and vocational courses." This is false. Under Roberts Plan I,000 students are required in one high school in order to have these courses available. At the present time, Deseronto provides tuition, transportation and related costs to Napanee and Belleville for those who wish this training. In spite of the statement made by Mrs. Wm. Schell (the Post Express of May 16) "that we

Coun-T Will Not Rejoin LODA This Year

FRANKFORD — Frankford will not rejoin the Lake Ontario Development Association for the year 1963-64, the village council decided last night. One of the original members of the organization, Frankford dropped out several years ago, and L.O.D.A. has been trying to get it back ever since. The council had considered rejoining this year, but decided that membership "does not have enough impact on the village to warrant the cost".

The Trenton, Brighton and District Retarded Children's Association had more success, in their application for authorization to hold a tag day in the village, June eighth. Council agreed, and the tags will go on sale to support the Association's work.

Also passed during the regular session last night was a motion to grant a building permit to Robert Drummond, for the construction of a six-lane bowling alley on Trent St. South, in Frankford. Mr. Drummond will also need a permit from the Department of Highways to get industrial establishment on Trent St., which is part of a provincial highway.

The Township of Sidney's Municipal park, on an island in the Trent River will continue, council decided. The project includes construction of temporary changing rooms for swimmers, lavatory facilities and a well for the convenience of visitors. The council expects part of this work to be covered by the Winter Works Program.

BESIDE A SWAMP BUGGY on the Ontario Hydro's right-of-way, north of Chisholm's Mills, Horace Brown of Toronto lays instruments on an interview with Hydro forestry superintendent Fred Simpson of Belleville and Bill Jose of Belleville, the swamp buggy operator. The recording will be used either in a Roderick King radio show, for Hydro, or a Horace Brown interview for the CBC series "Assignment."

Works Dept. Starts Repairs Of Sidewalks

Many city ratepayers might say the work is long overdue, but the city works department has commenced its annual program of sidewalk repairs.

City Engineer W. Purrell said the works department started repairs on concrete curbs some time ago, but only recently has commenced major sidewalk repairs.

In some instances complete sections of broken or damaged walk will be replaced, while in others the existing walk will be topped with new concrete.

Sidewalk repairs normally are done by the works department, but contracts for walks in new subdivisions are usually contracted.

WILL BUILD WALKS

The city this summer will contract sidewalks recently approved for the Bell Drive Street, Farley and Victoria Ave. districts.

At city council several weeks ago one alderman asked why many sidewalks built within the past few years already show evidence of rapid deterioration.

City public works committee chairman Joe Ray-croft said he would look into the matter.

The report will be ready for council at its next meeting, according to city engineers.

LIVE ON BORDER

The proud, independent Kurds today live in the borderlands of Iran, Iraq and Turkey and a few also live in the Soviet Union.

Tapes Material in District For Several Radio Shows

Nine Belleville people were interviewed, yesterday, for previous-wide and national radio shows. Horace Brown, alias Roderick King, tape-recorded material for at least four shows during a one-day stop in the city and district.

Mr. Brown works under the name of Roderick King for the Ontario Hydro, producing a weekly five-minute show on "people, places and things". Under his own name, some of his material is also carried on the CBC program "Assignment" and for special occasions, he produces fifteen-minute and half-hour shows.

Yesterday in Belleville, Mr. Brown visited Northern Electric for talks with Reginald Varcoe, Sidney Sillitoe and William Simpson, and I managed to speak to Gerry Wishart and Miss Nona Shaw, and the Black Diamond Cheese Company. Joe Raycroft said he would look into the matter.

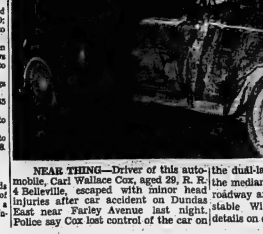
He took some time out during the afternoon to visit a Hydro line crew, spraying a right-of-way north of Chisholm's Mills, where he spoke to Hydro's forestry superintendent Fred Simpson, of Belleville, and Hydro employees Bill Jose, Doug Richardson and Carman Coon, all of Belleville.

PABLUM'S STORY

The shows, which will be edited and assembled during the next few months, all deal with little-known facts about the places, people and operations Mr. Brown visits. "You have to have a photographic memory," he explained, "and be able to remember odd bits of information. At Mead Johnson for instance, Mr. Brown continued, "I happened to remember something about Pablum being a Canadian invention. It turned out I was right—it had been developed by two doctors in Toronto. They weren't interested in producing it, so they authorized Mead Johnson to use the formula — provided the royalties were paid to the Hospital for Sick Children, in Toronto, for 25 years. Another thing I remembered while I was there was how Mead Johnson happened to locate in Belleville in the first place. Mr. Johnson was looking for a plant site between Montreal and Toronto, and was a great yachtsman. The plant was built in Belleville because Mr. Johnson liked yachting on the Bay of Quinte," Mr. Brown said.

USES NO SCRIPT

The shows — they may be either Roderick King shows for the Hydro or Horace Brown interviews for the CBC — are land all recorded without script. Mr. Brown just turns on his portable tape-recorder and starts talking. Editing the tape, back in Toronto, he can cut out any mistakes, and trim the show to the required time length.



The freedom of working without script allows shows that are recorded, because they could never be arranged. Hydro employees German Coon, for instance, was interviewed as he drove the truck carrying Mr. Brown on the cross-country route to the bush spraying site.

A radio reporter since 1938, Mr. Brown has worked for the Ontario Hydro since 1952. For two weeks at a time, he leaves his wife and three children — and his Alderman's office in Toronto — to travel through the province recording material for his shows. For months after each trip he edits the tape, and arranges the shows, in Toronto. He tapes material for up to ten shows in a single day.

From the Black Diamond plant yesterday, Mr. Brown went to a fishing camp at Consecon, where he recorded more material, and stayed the night. Today, he's off to Kingston to do a show—or several shows—at Old Fort Henry.

OFFICIAL CHARGED

WINNIPEG (CP)—A senior official of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada has been charged with the distribution of RCMP-ANAF lottery tickets on the May 29 running of the Epsom Derby in England. Edward Carter, 70, secretary of the Fort Garry unit of the ANAF, was remanded without plea to May 26 when he appeared in court Wednesday.

NEAR THING—Driver of this automobile, Carl Wallace Cox, aged 29, R. R. 4 Belleville, escaped with minor head injuries after car accident on Dundas East near Farley Avenue last night. Police say Cox lost control of the car on the dual-lane highway; it veered into the median, skidded back across the roadway and struck a tree. Above, Constable William Stephenson seeks out details on cause of the accident.

P.S. Board Will Make No Change in Admission of Eligible Kindergarten Pupils

Despite the fact the schools act permits the admission of children at January 1st, who would normally be eligible for Kindergarten the following September, the Belleville Public School Board will make no change in the present procedure.

The reason — simply finance.

Board members at their regular monthly meeting this week observed that on the average there are 50 children per month attaining school age and allowing January admissions instead of September, would require provision of ten additional classrooms above the operation at the previous December.

THREE REPORTED

The above figures compare with 4,563 pupils and an attendance efficiency of 95.28 per cent for April 1962.

Mr. Bruce Kerr, attendance officer, reported three pupils for April, eight of whom had returned to school.

The resignation of Principal R. Marner, at the Hillcrest school, and Vice Principal John Plumpton at the Cannifton and Sandra School, have resulted in promotions for three present staff members.

William A. Lott, now at Sir Winston Churchill School, will go to Hillcrest School as principal, while Walter Bailey and Greer Muir will be added to the staff of Hillcrest. Similar changes considered at the meeting included the hiring of Miss Eleanor Murphy of Kaministikwia and acceptance of the resignation of Mrs. Maxine Chapman.

Two present staff members, Mrs. Hildred Hodgen and Miss K. E. MacPherson, are retiring this year.

COMMITTEE SATISFIED

Members of the special sites and building committee are quite satisfied with the progress of Hugh Murray Ltd. in the construction of the unroomed addition to the Harry J. Clarke school.

The board had received a letter from T. A. Andre and Sons Ltd., Kingston, general contractors for the job, asking to re-examine its contract award to Hugh Murray Ltd. for the construction of the addition.

The committee reported that work is well advanced and that materials were being received on time.

SCHOOL RENOVATIONS

In the Property Committee, the Board dealt with numerous seasonal items.

1. Extensive repairs and adjustments to fencing at the Sir Winston Churchill and Prince of Wales Schools.

2. New fencing at the northeast corner of the Hillcrest School site.

3. Resurfacing floors at the Hillcrest School with vinyl tile.

4. Extensive repair to boiler sections at the Prince Charles School.

5. Sewer connections at the Avondale School to the new sewers on Avondale Road.

6. Provision of mechanical heat controls for the classrooms at the Avondale school.

7. Asphalt play areas at the Harry J. Clarke, Queen Elizabeth, Hillcrest and Sir Winston Churchill Schools, and repairs to walks at the Sir Winston Churchill School.

8. Fire Barriers at the King George School in five locations to meet requirements of the Ontario Fire Marshal's department.

REPORT APPROVED

Trustee Mae Smith, chairman of a special committee to report on recent amendments to school acts brought in a report that was approved and makes minor changes in several of the board's rules and by-laws. The board also adopted several committee proposals to otherwise bring the rules and by-laws up to date to agree with revised Board policies. A brief summary is as follows:

1. The Board's rules provide for the schools to be open in accordance with revised regulations for a minimum of two-and-a-half hours each morning and afternoon of the school year, and that the principal will provide supervision before school opening and after school closing. Authority is vested in the superintendent to implement the intent of the Board and to provide for uniformity or any special arrangements that may be necessary.

2. The requirement for a supply committee in the organization of the Board has been deleted from the rules and the superintendent will include in his functions the duties of purchasing agent.

3. The provision for a staff relations committee of teaching staff has been extended and the rules will now provide for three such committees — teaching staff as a sub committee of the management committee — maintenance staff as a sub committee of the property committee — and administrative staff as a sub committee of the finance committee.

As provided by statute the Board will move to secure group accident insurance to indemnify a member of the board in case he is accidentally injured while travelling on the business of the board or in the performance of his duties as a member of the board.

Present at the meeting were: chairman M. Loveless and trustees J. D. Brown, F. P. Clarke, L. A. Langabeer, Hazel Pugh, B.A., Geo. Olsen, Mae Smith, Dr. Lorne W. A. Vanstassel, G. H. Trill and Wm. Townson.

$500 Damage When Vehicle Slams Into Tree

Police say Richard James Kendall, R. R. 7 Belleville, lost control of the car at the south end of the lane. Damage to the car was estimated at $500.

Thurlow Township police chief James Logue investigated.

ADULT EDUCATION — It is really not what you wear, but how you wear it, that counts. I am constantly amazed and amused by the number of women, who choose pretty hats and then by a magic of their own, turn those creations into uncompromising, "dumb" lids. These same hats, when adjusted by the salesperson who helped in their selection, were becoming, even beautiful. Sometimes, there are women who will choose a bright red to match their florid complexions, or a pale blue to wash away what little color their light complexions contain. To the casual observer, it would see that these women go out of their way to select colors and clothes that will do absolutely nothing for them. They seem almost frightened at looking their best

IMPROVE ON NATURE

I really believe that every woman is born with some vanity, at least enough to make her want to improve her natural looks. She is likely to play down her bad points by accenting a good complexion, beautiful hair or a good figure. But it seems that vanity is not allowed to function.

Dose our Puritan background make many Canadian women associate the beautiful with the bad and the sinful? I find this hard to accept. Surely, we are not so familiar that we feel that we must ignore what good looks we were born with? Therefore, I am forced to the conclusion that the woman who has the talent for making the most of herself, is just too lazy or too unintelligent to care about the picture she presents to the world. It takes time and patience to learn to dress well, take any more money than it does not have to ordinarily spent to acquire an unflattering array of clothes. Some of the worst - dressed women I know are those who spend, what seems to me to be a small fortune on clothes. They choose badly, or they ignore the advice of their dressmakers or their fashion shops.

For example, you might see a short, overweight woman, wearing a mink stole or jacket, that is too large for her short frame. This could be followed by a towering hat and an expensive handbag of suitcase size. Each of these fashion[s] is an investment, but when the fashion is out of proportion to the person, the hat can only look garish, but very high, and the handbag large and ugly, the silhouette is off balance. This is a perfect example of wasted money. This same woman could be distinctive in a fur jacket designed to her height and weight with a quiet hat of good lines.

ANALYTE FASHIONS — Everyone of us must acquire our language, our general education, our special skills. Why should so many women assume that they know, instinctively, just what fashions are right for them? Why do so many of them assume, because a certain style looks right on one model, that it will look equally correct when they themselves wear it? What is wrong with being interested enough to analyze the fashion, news flashes, to study the fashion magazine and to obtain a knowledge of fabrics and accessories? What is wrong with some adult education in fashion?

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers care of this paper.

W.H.A. Holds General Meet Hears Talk on 'Citizenship'

A timely and enlightening address on the subject of 'Citizenship' was presented to the members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary at their regular May meeting by Mrs. George Hume. It was noted by Mrs. Hume that "Citizenship Day" is celebrated in Canada on the Friday preceding Victoria Day, and on this occasion many programs and projects are carried out in classrooms and communities whose purposes are to instill patriotism in youth and to honor those who have made outstanding contributions to their communities.

CANADA 1ST COUNTRY

To resolve the doubts in her listeners minds about the nature of Canadian citizenship, Mrs. Hume referred to the Citizenship Act, of 1947, which introduced the new status of Canadian people. Canada was the first Commonwealth country to pass such an act. Mrs. Hume outlined the provisions established for acquiring Canadian citizenship and noted that the act had a second important purpose, that of contributing to unity among all Canadians.

The speaker emphasized the importance of the immigrants' learning the language, English or French, contending that the language barrier is the greatest stumbling block to successful integration. The tremendous difficulties facing new-comers to this country were described, as well as their noteworthy contributions to its culture. Their experiences in their native lands and in their period of adjustment here have made the immigrants more sympathetic, more appreciative of their privileges as citizens, and, consequently ideal members of such organizations as the Hospital Auxiliary.

CITIZEN WEEK

"Citizenship Week" is designed for observance not only by New Canadians," Mrs. Hume concluded. "It is meant to be an occasion for all Canadians, whether native-born or recent immigrants of British, French or other origins, to reflect together on the rights and duties, the institutions and privileges which they share through membership in the Canadian family."

Mrs. Hume was introduced by Mrs. William Finkle and thanked by Mrs. W. Shand.

During the business meeting, presided over by the president, Mrs. Fred Beeby, reports were heard from all the committee conveners.

Mrs. Herbert Brown, convener of the Opportunity Shop, stated that a surplus of winter clothing had been sent to Indian missions on Manitoulin Island. She appealed for donations of summer clothing, especially for children, which is now in great demand at the shop.

It was reported that the Auxiliary is now operating a Coffee Shop in the out-patients department of the hospital to replace, in part, the services given by the former Coffee Shop, now closed through lack of space in the hospital. Donations of cookies, muffins or individually-wrapped sandwiches to be sold from the cart would be greatly appreciated. The cart was built by Mr. Fred Beeby and the appreciation of the auxiliary was extended to him.

BOOTEES PRESENTED

Mrs. Owen Clarke, convener of holiday treats, reported that a pair of bootees, knit by members, had been given to each patient in the maternity ward on Mother's Day. Also on May 12, Hospital Day cards had been placed on the breakfast trays of all patients in the hospital.

Beautiful hand-knit articles and sewing done by the committee of Mrs. R. E. Wood for the hospital Samaritan cupboard were on display at the meeting.

Mrs. Ben Safe, social convener, reported on the "Mother and Daughter" tea which had been given in honor of the graduating class on May 18 by the Auxiliary executive. At this delightful party, convened by Mrs. Safe and Mrs. S. Kwarda, gift links were presented to each graduate by the president, on behalf of the Auxiliary.

Decorations for the tea and for the reception following the graduation exercises on May 20 were arranged by Miss Helen Sulemanoff, R. Sloan, Mrs. G. H. Diment, Mrs. K. M. Bird and Mrs. W. C. Gault.

CRIBBAGE BOARDS NEEDED

It was reported that donations of cribbage boards and playing cards for use by hospital patients would be welcomed by Mrs. J. E. Buchan, Director of Hospital Volunteers.

It was noted that Mrs. J. B. Casey and Mrs. M. F. L. Jones, conveners of the draw for a diamond-set watch at the fall "Fashion Fiesta" were already distributing tickets to the team captains.

The film "The Sentinel That Never Sleeps," made at the Belleville General Hospital, was shown by Mrs. M. McCoy. Commentary on the film was given by Mrs. J. Lennox Smith.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Empson, Roslin, and Mrs. H. Empson, of Cannifton, were in Toronto for the funeral of Howard W. Rathman, formerly of Belleville.

Holiday weekend visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hart and Eleanor, Roslin, were: Miss Nancy Chapman, Misses Garnet and Lee Hart, of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Foote and Marlene of Sudbury on Saturday evening. Monday visitors were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hart and Robert; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hart, Sherry and Janice; Mrs. Lena Copeland of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rombough and Sharon, Foxboro. A pretty wedding was solemnized in Egmondville United Church recently when Carolyn Mary Neil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Neil, Seaforth, Ontario, was united in marriage to David Ross Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Reynolds, Belleville. The Rev. J. H. Vardy officiated before a background of Easter lilies.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by Mr. Lyle Hamwood of Seaforth, who also accompanied the soloist Mr. Robert Reid of Belleville, in his renditions of "The Lord's Prayer" previous to the ceremony and "Silent Worship" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a floor-length bridal gown of white nylon over lace and taffeta, featuring a bodice trimmed with pearls and sequins and long lily-point sleeves. Her finger top veil was held in place with a tiara of rhinestones, aurora borealis crystals and pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses accented by wisps of pleated tulle.

Miss Margaret Chesney of R.R. 3, Seaforth, as maid of honor was dressed in a gown of pink role silk organza featuring a lace bodice and bell skirt. She wore white shoes and gloves and carried a spray of white carnations. The bridesmaids, Miss Marilyn Neil of Kirkton, cousin of the bride and Miss Lorraine Talbot, also cousin of the bride, of Kippen, were attired in dresses of rose pink silk organza with lace bodices and bouffant skirts, matching petal hats and white shoes and gloves. They both carried bouquets of white carnations.

Guests were present from Belleville, London, Bowmanville, Toronto, Hamilton, Lodon, Exeter, Kirkton, Kippen and Walkerton.

Ann Landers

Widow's Undrawn Shades Attract Spectator—73

DEAR ANN LANDERS — The widow who lives next door is a woman in her 40's. She is pleasant but we have never said anything more than "Good morning," or "Good evening" to one another.

Our dining room window faces her bedroom window. Whenever my husband sees her bedroom light go on he rushes into the dining room and starts to play solitaire. The woman never pulls her shades down. She would have to be blind not to see my husband facing her window, taking everything in.

I have never said a word to him about this because I don't want to make an issue of it. He is 73, and definitely over the hill so far as romance is concerned. I hope I have made myself clear. Any suggestions would be appreciated.—OLD DUFFER'S WIFE.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR WIFE — Don't just sit there like a clam with a broken hinge. Tell him you are wise and that you hope he is enjoying his second childhood.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm not dictating this letter to my secretary because she is out to lunch. But I'm so burned up I can't wait until she returns, so please excuse the mistakes.

I have telephoned my wife 11 times this morning at fifteen minute intervals. The line is still busy. This has happened to me before. Once I got so mad I sent her a telegram and told her to get off the telephone. On another occasion I asked the operator to cut in but she said her supervisor wouldn't let her cut in unless it was an emergency. I told her it was an emergency, that somebody was going to get shot. It didn't work.

Tell me, Ann Landers, how can a person gabble on about clothes, recipes, kids, gossip and other trivia hour after hour? Don't their mouths get dry? Don't their arms get tired from holding the receiver?

Will you help me pressure the telephone company into an automatic shut-off after seven minutes? That's enough yakking for anybody. Thank you. — RUSS.

DEAR RUSS — Sorry, but you'll have to get help somewhere else. To some women the telephone is useful therapy. They are stuck at home with kids, diapers, housework, cooking and laundry. Yakking on the horn is the most fun they have.

Why don't you ask your wife to free up the phone every hour on the hour for ten minutes and then you'll be sure to get her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a mother whose heart is breaking. I raised eight children. My seventh child — a girl 18 — has just run off and married a boy none of us care for.

We believed she would get tired of him or see for herself that he was no good, so we let her spend as much time with him as she wanted. We even let her spend weekends at his home, at the invitation of his parents, of course.

My husband and I have a strong suspicion that our daughter ran off and married the boy because she is pregnant. We believe the whole mess is the fault of the boy's parents. They should have kept a closer watch. When I told off the boy's mother last week she slammed the receiver down in my ear.

Now the woman has poisoned our daughter's mind against us and she has cut us out of her life completely. What can we do? —MADE FOOLS OF.

DEAR FOOLS — Take turns kicking yourselves for letting your daughter do as she pleased — and vow to do a better job with your other children.

It is your responsibility to guide the girl and to instill in her a sense of personal worth.

Parents who allow a teenage daughter to spend weekends at her boy friends home and then blame his parents because they didn't keep an eye on them are looking for a scapegoat.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart R. Rosenberg

One has but to talk with that new breed of psychologists known as motivational researchers to discover that a great part of the American economy is kept moving by the wheels of "love". The researchers have discovered that many activities know very well that people in our society are so cramped up in the meshes of "love-as-pleasure" that they will strain in order to respond to almost any symbol which accurately stirs this theme.

While this approach may help the experts sell more products, its double-edged sword succeeds in tearing apart the togetherness of the spirit — not the commercial kind that helps sell television sets. We love our children blindly when we confuse love with physical satisfactions. We make them so dependent upon physical gratification that they will forever wrongly identify love only with what affords them sensuous satisfaction. And the day comes when parents no longer have enough of these satisfactions to offer, their old packages of love cannot compete with the fresh ones.

Another, deeper, more tantalizing "romance" must win out despite parental advice or guidance.

Parents wonder why their "love" for their children did not lead to a deeper involvement in their lives; did not, at the family's crucial moments join them together to share in the vital decision. It is their "love" which has destroyed any such possibility. At the signal moment, when true love — which is shared concern — would have won a victory, they stand wailing in feelings, with no role to play.

OLD FOLKS SHUNTED

This tragedy, which "love" has helped to perpetrate finds its echo beyond the family hearth: it extends to our whole society. The growing rejection of "old folks," their being shunted off to live or even to play only with other old folks, is a direct result of our worship of the wrong love-gods. Perhaps we have completely duplicate the social and value structures of the pre-modern world but we might learn from them. For in that world children were not left to experience their greatest, most exalted moments only in the company of children — as is so customary in our society. In our time, young people have been excluded too early from the spiritual fellowship of their parents and forever after they continue to remain strangers to each other. What children receive from parents through moments of sharing binds their lives together.

But what children receive only as a gift, without a common experience of fellowship with them, too often remains untouched and unopened, however carefully or neatly packaged. Love depends upon the hour of sharing; it may be sent through the mails but it will never be truly received.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: When I serve dinner, I always put the vegetable on a side dish, even when we have company. My daughter, who is 16, says this is incorrect, that the vegetable should be placed on the dinner plate even if it does get covered by the gravy. Would you please settle this argument for me? — Mrs. H. C., Newark, N.J.

Answer: A vegetable such as corn-on-the-cob may be served on a separate dish specifically designed to hold it, but, except for such a special dish, vegetables are correctly served on the dinner plate along with the meat.

Question: My husband is going out of town to a business meeting and I'm to join him a week later at his hotel. He'll be occupying a single room during the convention, but will be switched to a double room the day I arrive. Will I have to register separately, or will he be able to register for both of us before I get there? — Mrs. F. B., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: Your husband can sign the register for both of you when his room is switched. When you arrive, you can just tell the clerk you're joining him and he'll have you and your luggage conducted to your accommodations without further ado.

Question: When we have guests to dinner at our home, my wife puts cigarettes and ash trays on the table so they can smoke with their coffee. I don't smoke cigarettes, but prefer a pipe or cigar. But she always gives me the dirty eye if I light one or the other after a meal. If it's all right for others to smoke cigarettes, why is it so awfully ill-mannered of me to have a cigar at my own dinner table? — E. R., Stamford, Conn.

TOO PUNGENT

Answer: Simply because the smell is more pungent and is not to pleasant to sensitive noses in a small room. At formal dinners, the ladies usually retire to the living room for their coffee and leave the dining room to the gentlemen and whatever they prefer to smoke. At less formal parties, a thoughtful cigar smoker, especially if he's host, waits to light up until the group returns to the living room where the smell of cigar smoke is not so overpowering.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

Roast Chicken For Dinner

by Mary Moore

Earlier this week I gave you the recipe for a daffodil cake I made for a second wedding anniversary dinner for Pete and Margy when our friends Garny and Joe were here from Watervliet.

Now in backwards fashion I want to give you my method for a perfectly roasted chicken and a casserole of brown rice and mushrooms and some spinach which I served for the main course on that occasion.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Broiled Sirloin Steak Garnished with Cress and Lemon; Delicate Mashed Turnip; Green Beans; Lettuce Hearts with Celery Mayonnaise; Fresh Strawberry Sundae (see Wednesday); Tea.

SUNDAY: (Guests)

PERFECTLY ROASTED CHICKEN

Stuffing for one 5½-lb. young roasting chicken: Eight or ten slices of day old white bread cut into ¼" dice, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ½ cup finely chopped celery and leaves, 1 tablespoon chopped green onion or chives, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon rosemary. In large frying pan gently melt the butter or margarine and add the celery, onion or chives, salt and rosemary and when they are soaked with the butter add the bread cubes and mix gently. Stuff into prepared chicken. Close with skewers. Tie legs and wings snugly to body.

Mix together 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon dry mustard and 1 teaspoon flour. Spread this over upper breast and leg surfaces. Place on trivet in small roaster and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 2½ to 3 hours. To test for doneness twist the drumstick gently. If it moves loosely at the thigh joint chicken is done. If desired you may baste the chicken with some of the pan drippings but this is not necessary to achieve a gold crusty skin, when it is spread with the butter paste as suggested above.

I served with the Roast chicken.

CASSEROLE OF BROWN RICE WITH MUSHROOMS

1 cup brown rice (17c for 14-oz. package), 2½ cups cold water, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ lb. raw mushrooms scrubbed and sliced.

Mix together in a medium-sized casserole that has a good cover the rice water and salt. Bake covered at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1½ hours. About 15 minutes before baking time is up stir the well-washed and sliced mushrooms into rice, adding another ¼ cup water. Cover, return to oven and finish baking. Mushrooms will be a little bit undercooked but are delicious. Add butter if desired.

MAX'S SPINACH

Our second vegetable was spinach. My cousin Muriel's husband, Max, wants to be a good example to his 4 children but spinach has him licked. He said "Fix it up so I can get it down." So Paul won't call me "chicken"! So Muriel has dozens of ways of dressing it up and Max's favorite is this: Wash 2 cello-packages spinach. Drain. Without adding water, cook covered over high heat, turning spinach over completely after the first 2 or 3 minutes. Continue cooking until you can chop it with a sharp knife. Do not overcook or allow spinach to change from its bright green color. Drain well. All 1 raw egg and stir in quickly. Add ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg and if desired, 1 tablespoon butter. Mix and reheat and serve in preheated vegetable dish. This is not a new idea but it is a good one.

Chatterton W.I. Hears Talk on Home Safety

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Irvine introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Sidney MacDonald, agricultural representative for Hastings County. Mr. MacDonald spoke briefly on the subject of -safety and then showed a colored film entitled "The Safest Township Anywhere." Some of the safety points mentioned in the film were: keep cellar steps tidy and in good repair; never replace a fuse with one of higher amperage; replace worn electrical cords promptly; keep safety shields on farm machinery; keep farm ponds fenced and wells covered.

On behalf of the Institute, Mrs. Carson thanked Mr. MacDonald for the informative talk and film.

A poem, "A Frustrated Gardener," was read by Mrs. Lorne Reid. A reading, "Still Peasley for Trigger-Happiness," was given by Mrs. Douglas Prest. Current events were given by various members.

Q. Victoria Girl Pupils to Wear Tunics

The Queen Victoria Home and School Association held its final meeting of the season, recently, during which the incoming officers of the executive were installed. Those were: president — Mr. William Savage; vice-president — Mrs. LeBaron; 2nd vice-president — Mr. Coveney; recording secretary — Mrs. Bell; corresponding secretary — Mrs. Orser and treasurer — Mr. Bleekman.

Following the business meeting, several of the pupils modelled various types of school tunics and blouses. As the result of a questionnaire sent to parents early in the spring, it was decided to promote the wearing of navy blue tunics and white blouses in the fall for the girl students. The small fashion show was arranged to show the parents the different types of tunics available.

The youthful models were the Misses Lorna Follwell, Treva Smith, Dawn Batson, Wanda Batson, Anne Vardy, Ann Douglas, Debbie McIntyre, Mary Pryor, Bonnie Smith and Virginia Morton.

Refreshments were served following the announcement that the classes of Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Lyons had won the annual room count awards for the senior and junior schools respectively.

Women's Activities

ST. PAUL'S GUILD

Mrs. G. Goodfellow, Rosslin, was hostess to the 8th line St. Paul's Guild on Wednesday afternoon, for the monthly meeting. The president opened the meeting with a Mother's Day hymn, followed with prayer by the Rev. G. Black.

Letters of invitation were read from Moneymore Guild and United Church, Roslin, inviting the ladies to attend a tea and bake sale in the near future.

Treasurer gave a report on the Sale Barns and read letters of tenders on painting the church. Mr. and Mrs. C. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. N. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. S. Coulter and Mrs. J. Hart were named on committees to look after this.

Mrs. C. Hamilton reported on cards sent and it was decided to remember Mrs. Eva Wilson, a patient in the hospital. Mr. Black had received the new insertion for the Altar Book and was given a check to pay for it. Mr. Black closed the meeting.

Collection amounted to $2.90. Mrs. H. Goodfellow, leader for the program, was not present.

Readings were given by Mrs. O. Glass and Mrs. G. Goodfellow.

Lunch was enjoyed and a vote of thanks extended to the hostess.

41 Students Enjoy Top Of Montreal

DESERONTO — At an early hour on Friday morning last, some 41 students of the Deseronto High School left for a two day tour of Montreal. This tour of various places and famous projects is an annual educational event for the pupils and this year is the first two-day tour that they have been allowed. When the subject of a two-day tour was broached to the Board of Education the deciding factor in the decision of the Board was the good behavior of the students in past years.

The Board granted the students $250 towards the cost of the transportation and the students earned the remainder of the cost in various projects of their own such as car-washing on Saturdays, a home-bake sale and other student ventures. It was felt that they would be more appreciative of the tour if they were to contribute by their own efforts.

VISIT TO MOUNT ROYAL

Leaving Deserronto shortly after 5.00 a.m. the group travelled as far as Cornwall where a stop was made for lunch and then they proceeded on to their destination. The afternoon was to include a visit to Redpath Museum, McGill University, St. Joseph's Oratory and Mount Royal.

Mother's Helper

A LOVING RELATIVE or friend who has given your baby girl a ring would be pleased to see her wearing it. But don't take risks! Slip the ring on a narrow ribbon, put it on her finger, tie the ends of the ribbon securely (but not tight) around her wrist. General safety rule: don't put jewelry on babies! Keep lockets and rings for later—even for teen-age charm bracelets.

Following dinner at the Sheraton Hotel, the students could either attend the theatre in company with a chaperon or take part in an activity which was arranged by Mr. Quirk.

On Saturday the students toured old Montreal, the Chateau de Ramezay and the broadcasting station of the CBC. In the afternoon they left for Deseronto arriving home late the night.

The group was chaperoned by Mr. Quirk and the other teachers as well as some interested elders of the town.

If Discipline Is Fair, Consistent, Sure and Not Brutal, Good Will Result

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Peter G. Cranford is a spanker.

This, of course, makes him a monster in the eyes of all permissive psychologists and parents who believe a hand laid on an erring child in discipline hurts psyche as well as backside.

But Dr. Cranford, a tanned, easygoing, practising general psychologist in Augusta, Ga., thinks you hurt a child more when you let him get away with murder.

Through clinical observation of his own emotionally-disturbed young patients, he evolved what he calls the reinforcement period of discipline. He's so convinced his method works he has written a book about it called Disciplining Your Child: The Practical Way.

In New York in connection with the book's publication, he explains how it works in these phrases:

"Don't whip hell out of him, but whenever he makes a mistake just pop him. If he sticks a finger in the lamp socket 15 times a day pop him 15 times a day. Just to sting, not to hurt. But don't delay; that teaches a child to disregard functional illness is the result of a conflict situation."

FAVORS REWARDS

This happens, he says, when the actions of a child who has always done as he pleases suddenly can be tolerated no longer by parents or school authorities. When the foot is put down the child suffers a conflict he can't resolve, he develops neurosis, their life-long.

As a part of the reinforcement method, Dr. Cranford also believes in rewards—small, immediate and many — especially during the learning process. But not bribes, please.

"A child instinctively realizes his weakness," says Dr. Cranford, father of four boys, ages 2½ to 13. "He feels more secure if someone is keeping him from making a mistake. When you're disciplining a child, you're doing something for him. I don't think there is any fundamental difference between discipline and love.

Oriental Influence

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The Turkish influence is very apparent in this new jewelry conceit that was introduced in Paris. A cabochon-studded bracelet—multi-color set in gold—is attached by a fine chain to a matching ring.

The Eastern touch is also apparent in this dainty, late day clutch purse of striped Indian silk, the frame studded with small stones.

The handbag is of slipper satin with pockets on each side. It features a clasp closing and a chain handle.

The evening slipper is of brocade with contrasting satin trim at the vamp and heel, and jewels across the instep.

TULIP TIME — Garden hobbyist, John A. McIntosh, 52 Hillcrest Avenue, admires some of the more than 4,000 tulips which he has growing in his backyard. His acre of garden with flowers and shrubs now proves too much work for him and gardening assistance is needed.

4,000 Tulips in Full Bloom Make Colorful Display in Yard of Hillcrest Ave. Home

It's tulip time again and gardeners all about the city are enjoying the fruits of their past years' labor.

There are numbers of colorful tulip displays around Belleville, but possibly one of the loveliest private displays in the backyard of an East Hill resident living close to the downtown area.

The display, numbering more than 4,000 bulbs of various hues is at the home of Mr. Jack A. McIntosh, 52 Hillcrest Ave., immediately north of Tabernacle United Church.

The McIntosh tulip beds, complemented by myriad other flowers and shrubs, are the focal point for close to an acre of well manicured lawn.

STARTED AS HOBBY

It all started as a hobby, but after countless hours of attentive care over the years, Mr. McIntosh admits the job has gotten too big for just one person to handle. That's the reason for a gardener coming in two or three days a week "to keep things in shape."

The end result is worth it, but Mr. McIntosh admits it is a continual fight against the encroachment of dandelions, crabgrass and other weeds.

And even squirrels and rabbits are turning out to be enemies of the gardener with shrubs and other plants having to be protected against their foraging.

YARD STILL GROWING

But the McIntosh backyard is still growing!

Gradually over the years the abrupt escarpment leading down to Church Street below the Tabernacle United Church hill is being turned into a rock garden.

The backyard apple orchard so carefully tended by Mr. McIntosh's father 50 years ago has all but disappeared and only a half dozen or so of the old trees remain.

The trees are retained for sentimental reasons and for their beauty which is particularly lovely during blossom time.

"We don't attempt to spray and therefore the fruit is not of much use," Mr. McIntosh said.

But the neighborhood youngsters don't seem to mind and during apple harvest season swarm up in droves over the Church Street hill to coon apples.

What kind of apples are there in the McIntosh backyard?

Why, McIntosh of course!

CAME FROM FRENCH

ALIMONY IN MILLIONS — Muriel Marston Reynolds, a native of Calgary, has been awarded an out-of-court settlement of $2,142,624 in alimony from Richard J. Reynolds, multi-millionaire member of an American tobacco family. She was Reynold's third wife. (CP Photo)

Family Counselling Important Phase of Work

FAMILY COUNSELLOR RETIRES—Young couples should be encouraged to take premarriage courses, says Marjoria L. Moore, just retired as executive director of the Family Bureau of Greater Winnipeg after nearly 25 years. Miss Moore says the courses are needed because more and more couples are marrying before they gain the maturity needed to equip them for their life together. (CP Photo)

WINNIPEG (CP) — After more than 40 years of solving other people's problems, Marjoris L. Moore now has an unsolved problem of her own.

Miss Moore, retired executive director of the Family Bureau of Greater Winnipeg, an organization she headed for nearly 25 years is wondering how she is going to get along without problems to solve.

A possible answer may lie in her plans to undertake volunteer work in the same field in Toronto where she intends to live in retirement.

Miss Moore, who watched the staff of the Family Bureau grow from six to 20, is convinced that family counselling is among the most important aspects of social work.

The bureau, which charges a sliding scale of fees based on income, and is also supported by the Community Chest, counselled 2,300 families last year.

Family counselling provides what "ounces of prevention" which reduces the work of the courts, says Miss Moore, adding that its status as one of the "helping professions" alongside medicine, education and theology has been boosted by increased knowledge and acceptance of psychology and psychiatry.

ACCEPTED BY MEN

One of the great changes she found in her work over the years was the willingness of men to accept counselling alone or with their wives.

"They got used to it in the services in the war years, and counselling of couples is commonplace now."

Miss Moore is a strong believer in pre-marital courses and would like to see more such courses to meet the growing needs, resulting from the tendency for people to marry younger and raise larger families.

"Some 19-year-old girls and boys are very mature and ready to accept the responsibilities of marriage, but others, older or younger, have no idea what marriage entails."

"It's rather difficult to make a happy home when you don't know the ingredients, and marriage courses and counselling both help."

Miss Moore graduated in arts at McMaster University, Hamilton, and was working toward a degree in social work when she was asked to take a job as a neighborhood worker in Toronto.

"I never did complete the course although I have taken many lectures."

She majored in economics at McGill University and her knowledge of that subject, coupled with psychology and sociology, laid the basis for her career in social work.

She was the first social worker appointed to the family court in Toronto, serving as liaison officer between the court and social agencies before joining the Winnipeg bureau.

"I have only had three jobs in my life and my last has been my favorite," she says. "I loved every minute of it."

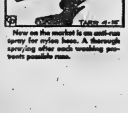
Mixed Bowling League Concludes Present Season

BONARLAW — The Springbrook mixed bowling league wound up their season with a turkey banquet held in the church dining hall on Wednesday evening with the United Church Women catering.

Following the banquet a number of trophies were presented with Mr. Roy Thompson, president, in charge.

The trophy for the winning team went to "The Jokers," with Alex Fleming as skipper. This trophy was donated and presented by Joe Thompson. The lady members on the team each received pins and the men key rings.

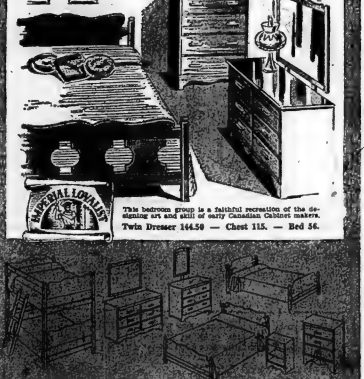
The ladies' high single trophy went to Mrs. Jack Reid; high average, Mrs. Bill McKeown, and high triple, Mrs. Carl Ray. The men's high single went to Jack Reid; high average, Jim Morton and high triple, Roy Thompson.



The members of the team, "Joe's Blows" with Joe Thompson captain, all received "crying towels" for coming a close second.

Election of officers for next season resulted as follows: president, Jack Reid; secretary Denton Meiklejohn; treasurer, Murney Mason.

Following the banquet a business meeting and dance was held in the I.O.L. hall with Mrs. Doug Jones and Charles Campion, Marmora, providing the music. Murney Bateman called the squares. Numerous prizes were given out during the evening for spot dances.



Door prizes, for the ladies, was won by Darlene Pillen, and for the men, Doug Morton.

Federation and agriculture representative, Mrs. Percy Ray, reported attending a work shop at Lansdowne in November. The theme of the study was "Challenge of Change", where study was made of publicity and local problems. News should be reported while it is news, short and to the point, including decisions and who plays the different parts. Thirty resolutions were brought in, two of these from Hastings County. At the OFA meeting in Toronto in February Mrs. Ellen Armstrong addressed the ladies' luncheon and in part said, "Home is the pivot from which many fine men and women come to take their place in the world." Your county home economist can arrange for training schools for leaders. A new course has been added "Focus on Finishes." It explains how to give your garments the tailored finish. Block printing was also explained. Better attendance at short courses may be had if invitations are sent to local church groups and by advertising in your paper.

The display table showed many fine pieces of work which had been accomplished as a result of short courses and girls' clubs. Attention was drawn to the new banner which had been used for the first time at a District Annual, Mrs. W. Roxbrough of Foxboro, favored with two lovely solos.

The 1965 Triennial Conference will be held in Ireland. Mrs. McLaren said, "Let us not become emotional over every matter brought to our attention. We have to make our own work effective, (F.W.I.O. and F.W.I.C.). Is the individual aware of her responsibility she has toward the whole organization, from where she begins to the top most level? Such a machine would cost $50,000, however, compared with the present cost of $500 for a machine like the Optophone.

The Cuban leader said trade relations between Cuba and Canada, Mexico and Brazil could serve as a pattern.

He said the U.S. people suffered because of the policy of the U.S. government. The U.S. blockade of Cuba means, he said, that Americans cannot obtain Cuban tobacco, "the finest in the world."

In addition, Castro said, Americans will find it harder than ever this year to get the sugar they need.

"The price the American people have so far had to pay in excess commodity prices for their government's blockade amounts to more than $1,000,000,000."

Govt. Is Facing

recommended a few months ago by the Glassco royal commission on government organization. The proposal kicked up such a fuss among veterans' and civil servants' organizations that the former government quickly labelled the idea unacceptable.

Mr. Deachman, who unseated former external affairs minister Howard Green in the April 8 election, also suggested that the federal government pay part of the operating expenses of universities. Direct federal aid to universities has always been opposed by Quebec on the grounds that education is under provincial jurisdiction.

The government was warned by another Liberal backbencher, Maurice Sauve, Ile-de-la-Madeleine, that Quebec voters will switch to new parties in the next federal election unless swift action is taken to decentralize taxation powers and make French-Canadians equal partners in Confederation.

CITES HOSPITAL

Mr. Deachman, 49-year-old fund raising consultant and himself an army veteran, said the 1,000-bed Shaughnessy Military Hospital in Vancouver is one of the most modern and best equipped in Canada but is occupied largely by aging veterans who stay for weeks or months.

Existing general hospitals were overcrowded and likely would not be able to accommodate the "flood" of active-treatment cases that would result from new medical care plans.

"The time is not too far distant when we must find the means to accommodate our aging veterans in adequate, but less expensive quarters and release these costly beds for the care of acute general cases in medicine and surgery."

Turning to aid for universities, Mr. Deachman said public and private funds are competitively ample for new construction, equipment, research and scholarships. But no one was showing enthusiasm for paying the universities' fast-rising operating costs.

URGES NEW DEAL

Mr. Sauve was outspoken in urging a new deal for Quebec and French-Canadians generally. The 39-year-old Montreal economist declared:

"What Quebec wants is to govern itself, in its own way. . . . We have been waiting since 1867. We have been patient. We can wait no longer."

He said all direct taxes collected in Quebec should go to the provincial government, which was better suited than the federal government to tackle Quebec's economic and social problems. The provincial government needed more financial resources to handle this job.

things as it floated, and he had the impression the things were bulks of cars that had gone in previously.

With Nelson were Wayne Miller, 22; Dean Patterson, 20, and Gordon Palmer, 24, all of Gaspe. They got out the door and swam a dozen yards to land.

The four then lit fires on the road to warm other cars that the bridge was gone.

The weather was good and the sky was clear Wednesday, although the road was slightly wet from an early rain.

RIVER BEGINS UP

The spring break-up is just taking place in the mountainous, nearly uninhabited area where the bridge stands.

There is still five to six feet of snow in places and the river is high because of melting snow from the mountains. Normally, the water would be only about 10 feet deep.

The collapse of the bridge, built in 1953, recalled the collapse of a span of the Duplessis Bridge near Trois - Rivieres, Que., in 1951, when five were killed.

Wayne Miller said the men were lucky to have had matches in a waterproof box. They dried their clothes by their fire while they waited for someone to come along.

They waited 1½ hours before a truck picked them up and took them to Murdochville.

WINS AWARD

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Dr. Helen Creighton, president of the Canadian Authors Association, has announced that Kerry Wood of Red Deer, Alta., has won the $1,000 Vicky Metcalf Award for "consistently writing of material inspirational to Canadian youth."

Synod Wants Clear-Cut Stand On Gambling

KINGSTON (CP) — Anglican clergymen and lay delegates Wednesday urged higher church dignitaries to take a "clear cut stand" on gambling for church work in parishes.

The session of the synod of the diocese of Kingston, attended by 400 delegates, recommended that a "decision for all to follow" be made at the next synod meeting.

Rev. E. Owen Johnston of Frankville said there is much confusion as to whether gambling to raise funds for church work is allowed by the church. He said a 51-year-old canon calling a stand gambling is "consistently ignored."

"I'm questioned about it—this gambling for church work—but I truthfully don't know what to say," he said.

"We don't do it in my parish, but I'm surrounded by parishes who allow it."

Canada Will Be

son in the red-carpeted Commons chamber of the main Parliament Building Wednesday morning. Other speakers at the opening were British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, current president of the council, and NATO Secretary-General Dirk Stikker.

Working conference are being held in Parliament Hill's newly-renovated West Block, heavily guarded by RCMP and other security personnel against any possible threats from separatist groups.

Having dealt with military matters, the council turns today to a review of world political developments.

Both the U.S. and Britain were understood to have formally committed powerful strike elements to the proposed NATO force. The U.S. pledged three Polaris submarines at present on patrol in the Mediterranean.

PLEDGES CONTRIBUTION

Britain committed a number of medium-range bombers, its 180-plane force of long-range bombers, and four Polaris-armed nuclear subs expected to come into service four or five years from now.

The proposed force may be the forerunner of a multi-lateral nuclear force with submarines and surface ships manned by mixed crews and with firing control exercised collectively by the contributing governments.

Some progress toward a multilateral force was reported at Wednesday's session, though the subject was not debated in depth. It is expected to be considered in greater detail at the next meeting of the council in December at Paris. Meanwhile, there will be continuing technical discussions.

External Affairs Minister Martin and Defence Minister Paul Hellyer spoke for Canada Wednesday. Mr. Martin assured the delegates that the new Liberal government intends to be an active, strong supporter of the Atlantic alliance just as Canada's last Liberal government was.

Informed sources said there was a consensus among delegates that a review of NATO strategy, force requirements, resources and propoy balance between conventional and nuclear forces is essential.

TELLS OF ACTION

Mr. Hellyer informed the council of the government's action in initiating discussions with the U.S. with a view to fulfilling Canadian defence commitments in North America and Western Europe.

He also told the council of the government's intention to establish a parliamentary committee to examine defence matters.

Any review of Canadian defence obligations would be most useful against he background of a general NATO review, and would be complementary to it.

There was reported to be a feeling among delegates that political concepts that helped form the basis of NATO 15 years ago should be kept in mind as the proposed strategy review progresses. An interim report may be ready by December.

The allied nuclear force will give additional strike capacity and greater diversity to Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer's allied military command. It will also allow fuller exchanges of information on nuclear questions and permit greater liaison between allied military headquarters and the U.S. Strategic Air Command.

Nine liaison officers from NATO countries are expected to be assigned to SAC headquarters at Omaha, Neb. Unofficial reports said Canada would be one of the countries, though a Canadian source said such speculation was premature.

Thant Calls UN Financial Crisis Most Vital Problem

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

How serious is the United Nations financial crisis?

Secretary-General U Thant calls it "possibly the most vital" problem before the UN.

He cites figures to show that, if the present sickness continues its course with no strong medicine prescribed, the UN will reach a condition where it just won't have money to pay its bills.

Some UN people say the situation is not as black as it's often painted. Others say it's very black indeed, but they shy away from such words as "bankruptcy," pointing out that as international organization with the unique character of the UN just doesn't operate the way a regular business does.

And most agree that the problem is not really money, but politics.

The question is not whether members can come up with the cash but whether, if they're not prepared to do so, it's worth keeping the UN structure in operation.

WON'T PAY UP

There is some public, well-guarded invitation directed towards a few countries that pressed for the immediate independence of Congo, voted to send a UN force to clean up the resulting mess and now find excuses when the time comes to pay up.

The UN has been useful for these countries, a Western diplomat source comments. It has also been useful for the Soviet bloc nations — although they would not admit it.

Yet as of May 13 a total of 33 UN members owed $27,000,000 to the special account for the UN Emergency Force in the Middle East and 64 members owed $72,000,000 to The Congo "ad hoc" account.

And this despite the fact that no assessments have been levied for the two forces since the middle of last year, the cost being covered by sale of UN bonds and by special U.S. contributions.

SHOULD ACT FAST

Many delegations feel that with the situation in The Congo and Middle East quiet at present the bill should be utilized to get agreement on a formula for financing peace-keeping forces that could come into play when the next crisis blows up.

Working the other way is the inevitable tendency to put off a solution until the need is desperate.

Americans feel there also is a tendency among some countries to think that the richer nations, chiefly the U.S., will always come through if things get really bad.

The immediate amount of money sought is only $43,500,000 —enough to keep forces in the Middle East and Congo until the end of the year. The U.S. national budget is more than 2,000 times as much.

But the Americans, who carried nearly half the cost when the going was toughest in The Congo, have been taking a harder line now that the worst is over. They have refused to pay any more voluntary contributions unless delinquent nations show readiness to pay.

Since the start of The Congo operation in the summer of 1960 the U.S. has contributed $73,565,272 to the force in regular assessments plus extra voluntary contributions of $30,806,396.

Industry Seeks Big Things From New Mines Minister

By JOHN E. BIRD

As minister of mines and technical surveys, he will play a major role in the next few years in the continued expansion of Canada's $2,843,000,000 mining industry.

He'll also direct the vast activities of a department that is responsible for the topographical, geological and hydrographic mapping of Canada, map production, mineral exploration and oceanography.

It's a big job—the biggest Bill Benidickson has ever tackled—but he says he's approaching it with relish.

A stocky quick-moving man —he turned 52 the day the Liberals were returned to office April 8—Mr. Benidickson says he hopes to build his ministry into one of the prestige positions in the cabinet. He feels the role played by the department in the Canadian economy has not been recognized sufficiently.

KNOWS MINING INDUSTRY — Benidickson, 52, brings an intimate knowledge of the mining industry to his job as Canada's minister of mines and technical surveys. As MP for Kenora-Rainy River a Northwestern Ontario constituency that depends largely on its mines, since 1945, he has long been associated with the industry. (CP Photo)

FRIENDLY TO MINING

The mining industry is looking for big things from the new minister. It considers Mr. Benidickson an ally because of his long association with mining, its problems and aspirations.

As Commons member for Kenora-Rainy River since 1945, the new minister has represented an Ontario constituency based to a large extent on a resource economy—gold, iron, nickel and forests. Over the years he has become intimately acquainted with the mining industry and played a major role in the post-war enactment of the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act.

Mr. Benidickson was born in Dauphin, Man., the son of an Icelandic immigrant and his Irish wife. He's the only member of the federal cabinet whose stock is other than British or French.

His father—now 85—was a merchant in Dauphin during the new minister's boyhood. He sold out in 1930 and moved to Winnipeg, where he still lives with his wife, and became a commercial traveller.

"I know all about the Depression of the early 1930s," the minister said in an interview. "There were pretty rough times for us for a while."

WORKED ON BRIDGES

However, with the help of his father and money he earned as a construction worker, he managed to get a university education. He received his arts degree in 1936 from the University of Manitoba.

It was during his first years at university that he worked for the Dominion Bridge Company as a "rivet punk."

"I helped build the two CNR bridges across the Assiniboine River in Winnipeg. I guess I carried just about all the red-hot rivets that went into those two bridges. And after the rivets had been hammered in—they had been heated and cooled, I had to paint them with red lead."

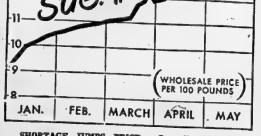
Mr. Benidickson has maintained his link with labor in his professional career. He has always run for Parliament on a "Liberal-Labor" ticket, like all other Liberal candidates in Rainy River, and he was once honorary solicitor for the Kenora trades and labor council.

After graduating from law school, he joined a firm in Kenora at the urging of his professors. In the early 1930s, Kenora was a popular summer resort for people from Winnipeg but Mr. Benidickson had never been there until he set up law practice.

"I could never afford to go. Only people with money were able to spend their summers at Kenora."

SERVED IN RCAF

With the outbreak of the Second World War in 1939, he enlisted in the RCAF as an officer and rose to the rank of wing commander before his discharge in 1945.



He served in Halifax for about 18 months as RCAF liaison officer with the Royal Canadian Navy in anti-submarine operations. Later he did similar work with the RAF Coastal Command and the Royal Navy.

The new minister takes over the mines department after years of experience in the workings of government. He was parliamentary assistant to the minister of transport in 1951 and held the same post in the finance department from 1953 to 1957. He was the Liberal party's financial critic during the Diefenbaker Conservative administration.

Mr. Benidickson is married to the former Agnes Richardson daughter of Mrs. James A Richardson of Winnipeg. With their two sons and daughter they have made their home in Ottawa for the last few years.

FAILED IN BID

In 1905 a representative in the Massachusetts Legislature failed with a bill requiring cars have a bell which would ring for every wheel turn.

SHORTAGE JUMPS PRICE — Canandian housewives are paying more for sugar because of a tight supply in world markets.

Three Montreal refineries increased the wholesale price of a 100-pound bag of sugar 25 cents to $15.15 on May 16, the 31st increase since the Jan. 1 price of $9.10. The record high was $24 in July, 1920.

Graph is based on the wholesale rate which directly reflects the supermarket price. In Toronto, for instance, the cost of five-pound bags in supermarkets jumped from about 35 cents at the first of the year to 73 cents in early May. (CP Newsmap)

PROGRESS AT BATAWA — The addition of two new conveniences to community life at Batawa will be marked by ceremonies Friday and Saturday. Top left are shown the Bata Shoe Company's new $250,000 recreation hall and, next to it, the Batawa branch of the Bank of Montreal. Hon. C. M. Drury, Minister of Defence Production, top right, will officiate at the opening of the recreation hall on Friday. Saturday bank managers from Oshawa to Kingston will gather for the opening of the bank. Embodied in the recreation hall are a gleaming open kitchen (second row, left), spacious dining and conference rooms (second row, right), and a two-lane bowling alley (bottom). The original recreation hall, built soon after the Bata firm located north of Trenton in 1939, was destroyed by fire in March, 1961.

Armored Car Guard Sought After Big Theft

VANCOUVER (CP) — Douglas John Brown, an armored car guard sought after a $325,000 theft from Loomis Armored Car Service here, was bonded for $25,000,000, Quentin M. Rochefort, a vice-president of the company, said Thursday.

Mr. Rochefort, who came here from the Loomis headquarters in Seattle, said the bond insurance will enable his company to reimburse customers for losses. The insurance is backed up by a group of bonding companies.

Brown disappeared early Sunday, 60 hours before the theft was reported to police. Because of the long Victoria Day weekend, the theft was not discovered until Tuesday morning.

A total of $325,000 of the money is missing. Brown's car, found near Vancouver International Airport, contained $225,000 in coin and cheques.

Police found $220,000 in cheques, $3,000 in coins and $2,000 in bills.

The money had been collected late Saturday from 48 Safeway supermarkets in Vancouver and suburbs.

The missing $325,000 is in bills of $1 to $20 denomination.

Police Buy Outboard for Lake Patrol

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — The provincial police have purchased an outboard motorboat for periodic patrols of small, widely-separated lakes in the Muskoka resort area.

Inspector John Clark, officer in charge of the Muskoka, Lake Simcoe and Georgian Bay holiday areas, said the motorboat will be towed by an OPP cruiser.

Insp. Clark said an additional officer will be assigned to the provincial police cabin cruiser on Lake Simcoe and the Severn River system. Radios have been installed in three inboard launches at Honey Harbor and Bracebridge.

Insp. Clark said the OPP is stepping up its patrols and improving its methods to meet a growing increase in boating accidents.

He said an experiment tried last year—radar timing of boats in speed-posted channels—will probably be renewed this year.

There has been no court test of radar, he said, and the OPP would like to see a test case.

Educational Television Planned for Ont. Within Year Minister Indicates

TORONTO (CP)—After years of discussion and experimenting, Ontario plans to join other provinces in making use of educational television.

This was indicated by Education Minister W. G. Davis of Ontario this week when he said in an interview it is hoped to have province-wide educational programs in operation in about a year.

Officials of the education department are studying what subjects should be taught and the age groups at which they should be beamed, Mr. Davis said.

They have also visited the United States and England seeking to profit by the experience of others already in the field.

The only final decision made so far is that the programs will not attempt to give basic teaching, but will serve to enrich the curriculum.

Other provinces have set the pace in educational TV. Nova Scotia, Quebec, Alberta and Manitoba beam regular shows into the classroom, and the four western provinces have joined with the CBC to establish a western regional educational series of shows.

BEAT IN METRO

Ontario has not been entirely out of the picture. For three years the Metro Educational Television Association has beamed 50 shows a year to Metropolitan Toronto, divided equally on the city's two stations. The province has contributed to this experiment.

"One of the problems we have to overcome is to make it available right across the province," said Mr. Davis.

In setting up a program for the province, the education department has to work out a program schedule with some 20 CBC - affiliated stations, plus private outlets. Establishing separate educational TV network for high school courses is considered too expensive.

Ontario university presidents would like to establish a province-wide educational television network which would offer university degrees via televised lectures from top professors.

Their idea is to build a $4,000,000 network and spend $3,000,000 a year to operate stations in three university cities and connect them with a microwave line.

More than 600 Ontario schools have been equipped with television sets. TV sets are part of equipment at teachers' colleges where student teachers are trained in their use as a classroom aid.

Convict Given An Additional Fourteen Years

MONTREAL (CP) Gaston Nicholas, 25, a ringleader in the riot that caused heavy damage at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary last June 17, was sentenced Wednesday to an additional 14 years in the penitentiary.

The sentence is to be served after completion of a six-year term for manslaughter in the drowning of his wife at Hull, Que.

Guards testified that during the riot Nicholas made the rounds of the penitentiary urging other prisoners to go on the rampage.

One prisoner was killed and 22 others wounded when guards, bolstered by the army and police, opened fire to quell the rioting.

Reeve Given $250 to Travel Ten Miles

TORONTO (CP) — Suburban Long Branch council Wednesday night authorized a $250 expenditure for Reeve Richard Ford to travel 10 miles to attend the annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities here May 28.

Mr. Ford later explained that some of the funds would be used to obtain a hotel room and purchase liquor to entertain visiting civic dignitaries.

"I don't drink myself," said the reeve.

14 Years After Revolution Communist China Making Nearly All Consumer Goods

A British author who has just completed a tour of China tells about the industrial progress made under Mao Tse-tung.

By RICHARD P. LISTER

PEKING (AP)—They call the Communist revolution in China the liberation. The date was Oct. 1, 1949, when Mao Tse-tung declared the founding of the People's Republic. As of that date there was not a single factory capable of making needles and pins.

Now, the Chinese say, a high proportion of all consumer goods and industrial equipment used in China is home-made.

Whatever view may be taken of the means used by the Chinese to hoist themselves up—the harshness of the system and its ruthlessness toward many individual lives — the achievement seems to be real and impressive. To judge the measure of its success, it is only necessary to compare the present state of China — 14 years after revolution—with that of Russia in 1931.

It is all the more peculiar, then, that the Chinese do not always seem content to let real achievement speak for itself. They are so full of their plans of tomorrow that sometimes they confuse them with the facts of today.

MILL OLD FASHIONED

There's a steelworks at Wuhan, the university town on the Yangtze—Begun in 1957, it now employs 40,000) it reminded me of the old-fashioned plant where I worked, as a trainee graduate metallurgist in England, in 1937-39.

There is nothing discreditable to the Chinese in this. The Wuhan iron and steel complex may be 25 years behind the times but not so long ago industrial Britain was 1,000 years behind. It did not exist at all.

"All the same, the Chinese are not content. The planned output, they told us, is 3,000,000 tons of steel a year. Good. When would this target be achieved? This was one question they could not answer. When pressed, they estimated the present output of this particular plant at 1,500,000 tons. But that didn't matter; what counted was the 3,000,000 of tomorrow.

They also are proud of their rolling mill but—it is not yet built.

Today the main output is pig iron and cast iron, largely in the form of parts for agricultural machinery. . .

CREATE MIRACLE

Still, they do produce steel, bar, rod and strip. And since they started from scratch six years ago, this is a miracle in itself.

Our travelling group encountered this confusion between achievement and future reality all over China. At a children's palace in Shanghai — where middle school children come after hours for the usual cultural and recreational activities with a strong ideological tinge—we asked if they were especially selected.

Of course not, we were told: children can come. Yet among the hundreds there was not one who did not wear the red neck scarf of the pioneers, the young Communist society.

There was no conscious deception here. The Chinese really wished to believe that the children's palace was open to all, just as they wished to believe that every Chinese citizen is free to choose his own work and to come and go as he pleases. As with some other peoples, what they tell themselves three times is true.

Farmers Crush Kennedy's Plan for Tighter Controls, Vote Unlimited Production

WASHINGTON (CP) — Prospects for a sharp expansion in U.S. wheat production coupled with a possible drastic drop in prices loomed for 1964 as farmers crushed President Kennedy's plans for tighter controls, voting Tuesday for unlimited production next year.

Stunned by results of the wheat referendum, the Kennedy administration immediately pledged that steps would be taken to protect other wheat-exporting countries from the confusion and chaos that may emerge from uncontrolled U.S. "over-production."

Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman announced Wednesday he will be given presidential authority to prevent dumping of U.S. wheat on world markets. This was to provide perturbed Canadian and other exporters with assurance there would be no abrupt drop in U.S. export prices next year.

Nevertheless, there was some concern in authoritative quarters whether world prices could remain steady in 1964 in the face of internal marketing turmoil in the U.S. Open markets for future sales tended to reflect this concern with sharp drops modified later by recoveries.

KEEPING WATCH

Canadian authorities were reported keeping a careful watch on the situation, ready to make representations to the U.S. should Canadian exporters be badly hurt by sudden drastic switches in U.S. policy.

Kennedy also reflected this concern when he told a press conference "we are going to do everything we can to sustain our international agreements on wheat and to prevent dumping and all the rest."

Under the International Wheat Agreement, to which Canada and the U.S. are signatories, prices range within a floor of about $1.62 and a ceiling of $2.02 a bushel, basis No. 1 Northern at the Lakehead. The current price is roughly at the midway point but some experts fear the U.S. situation may swing prices towards the floor.

Prime Minister Declines Answer

OTTAWA (CP)—Under Commons questioning by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, Prime Minister Pearson declined Wednesday to say whether Canada has formally agreed to commit its air division in Europe to a NATO nuclear command.

He said it would be improper to make public Canada's position at the NATO ministerial council here while it was going on.

Mr. Diefenbaker based his question on a Canadian Press report that the Canadian [illegible] at the NATO meeting in the west block of the Parliament Buildings—had committed the air division to the proposed inter-allied NATO nuclear force.

Cobourg Bylaw On Closing Hours Is Quashed

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal Wednesday quashed Cobourg's closing hour bylaw for stores, passed last October, on the grounds that it discriminates against certain shopkeepers.

Mr. Justice Wilfred D. Roach ruled that a section of the bylaw which exempts shops selling small articles of small value is unfair to those which deal in both small and large articles and are required to remain closed within specified hours.

He commented that the word "small" is such a vague and uncertain term that it would be impossible for a shopkeeper to determine whether he came within the exemption.

De Haviland Gets Contract From Aussies

TORONTO (CP)—De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited will sell 18 Caribou aircraft and spare parts worth $18,000,000 to the Royal Australian Air Force, the company announced Wednesday.

A week ago the company announced the sale of 16 Caribou to the Australian Air Force for $12,500,000. The two latest orders bring sales of the transport plane to $36 including about 150 bought by the United States Air Force.

A spokesman for the [illegible] ban Downsview company said the latest order will not enlarge the company's work force, but will step up activity.

Campaign Against Cigarettes Seems to Have Everybody But Manufacturers Worried

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (AP)—The British propaganda campaign against cigarettes seems to have everybody worried but the cigarette manufacturers.

The anti - smoking drive started in earnest more than a year ago when the respected Royal Society of Physicians published a report linking smoking with cancer, the most damning document ever issued in either Europe or North America.

The reaction was immediate and widespread—but not sustained. The report became a best-seller and tobacco sales graphs went crazy.

So, almost, did many of the thousands who took the pledge to quit and set out to make good their word.

Many smokers, even women, turned to cigars and pipes which the report said were not as harmful as cigarettes. Sales of miniature cigars zoomed and petite, lady-like pipes appeared in tobacco shops.

The government accepted the findings in full and gave its support to the campaign, by issuing posters—"Cigarettes cause cancer, you have been warned"—which, as it turned out, went on show mainly in doctors' offices and government buildings.

CHANGED TV ADS

To discourage young sters from taking to smoking, the government also pressed manufacturers to advertise on television only after 9 p.m. Several large firms also voluntarily removed their brands from vending machines so that children under 16, barred from buying cigarettes over the counter, could not get at them.

And the commercial TV stations and manufacturers agreed on a new set of ads which do not show people actually smoking. Many of them are animated cartoons. A few got pretty close to the real thing—a hand, a cigarette, a match, a great sigh of contentment, a puff of smoke —but still not a smoker actually smoking.

Navy personnel were used in some advertisements until an officer, also vice-president of the National Society of Non-Smokers, complained to the Admiralty.

In London, a young housewife threw half a crown (about 35 cents) down the drain every time her husband lit up. "I threw away £17 17s 6d before I cured him," she said, "but I looked on it as a long-term investment."

"It didn't matter where we were," her husband complained, "she would disappear to search for a drain."

TAX INCREASED

Shortly before the report appeared the tax on cigarettes was increased, bringing the price to 6d (about 97 cents) for 20 king-size filter tips. The combination of these two blows caused sales to plunge, temporarily. But sales of cigars, pipe tobacco and filter-tipped cigarettes almost made up for the drop in plain cigarettes.

Manufacturers say over - all cigarette sales dropped only about five per cent in the last year and that they gradually are climbing back to normal.

The Imperial Tobacco Company, for instance, increased its trading position to about £33,000,000 from £30,000,000 the previous year, their best showing since the war, because of price increases and savings through technical improvements.

On the stock market tobacco issues have accelerated their recovery and speculators predict the end of the "cancer scare" is the belief that the campaign has gone about as far as it can in warning smokers.

MORE CANCER DEATHS

Figures released in April showed there were 22,779 deaths from lung cancer last year, an increase of 1,000 over the previous year. But most doctors said they did not expect the campaign to show immediate results because the disease often takes years to develop.

They admit, however, they have found it hard to achieve a sustained impact since the shock-of the original report.

But a fresh campaign has just been launched jointly by the Central Council for Health Education and Family Doctor, the magazine of the British Medical Association.

To mark the event, they held a week-long exhibition of entries in their poster campaign. First prize went to one showing a vacuous youth with a cigarette hanging out of his mouth and the caption: "Don't be a drag—give it up—live it up."

Another showed "the big flip—a top for the smoker"—an open coffin, and a third said "He passed away on 20 a day."

Stretch Suits Just Around The Corner

NEW YORK (AP) — A businessman's suit that flexes its muscles with the wearer, expands with his too - hearty lunches, and absorbs the sag in his breeches is just around the corner.

Last winter a few men tested them, and the stretch suits are scheduled for full-scale production in the fall.

This information is treated by the industry as almost classified. Secrecy traditionally shrouds a rare men's wear innovation.

In the process of acquiring patents, DuPont Company admits that part-wool, part-synthetic fibres with elastic qualities are in the offing for men's suits from their laboratories, but declines to elaborate.

LESSON REMEMBERED

Also with patents pending, Burlington Mills has been quietly discovering an all-wool stretch men's wear material for more than 16 months. A spokesman at the company said:

"Manufacturers are not eagerly snuggling on to the market with these stretch suits, but they are being conservative. They were burned by all the noise made about so-called miracle fibres 10 years ago when the customer was disappointed. This time it's less talk, more action."

Originating in Switzerland during the Second World War, fibre with a rubbery springiness to it was monopolized by women's sportswear until recently. Exceptions were men's socks, which at first had a tendency to shrink until manufacturers found a way to stabilize sizes.

Because the narrow legs of stretch slacks do not constrict movement as ordinary materials do, the men's wear industry predicts that the currently popular narrow trousers may be trimmed even more. In fact, a fashion phase of tight, leotard-like pants, such as those worn in the 18th century, is not altogether out of the question in the future.

WON'T CLING

But stretch suits for men may be the big thing. Since certain garments can expand from 15 to 40 per cent, they automatically alter themselves on the hard-to-fit man.

A stretch suit gently adjusts, but unless the suit size is too small, it doesn't cling, manufacturers say.

When trade publications first hinted about men's stretchwear, Henry Sopkins of Atlanta, Ga., requested that a pair of tails be made for his work. In his gyrating job, he explained, the stretch suit would gear a real test.

And it has. He is conductor of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra.

Boyfriend Wild But Nice

DEAR DORIS — Last summer I went with a boy against my parents' wishes. They did not want me to see him because he drank, belonged to a wild bunch, and did not have an especially good education. But when I was with him he was always nice. We broke up because my parents were continually nagging me.

Then he started going with another girl. This hurt me very much. When I tried to talk to my parents they became very angry. To add to this, I can't even talk to him, as the girl he goes with is the jealous type. He says that he wants to go with me again, and I miss him. What should I do? — MIXED UP.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR MIXED UP — Drinking, wild bunch, education questionable? Take another look. Your parents could be right. Don't waste too much time over him, when you could be learning about other boys by giving them the pleasure of your company.

DEAR DORIS — I have the problem of wrinkles and deep furrows running from my nostrils to the corners of my mouth. Are there any exercises for sagging muscles of the face caused by dieting? — SAGGING.

DEAR SAGGING — Try these facial gymnastics for the chinline (supplied by health authority):

(3) Clench the teeth and tighten jaw so that the cords in neck are pulled taut.

There are more, for facial contours, which are on their way to you. But there's no substitute for a good diet and fresh air, when it comes to invigorating the skin.

SONS MAKE GOOD — The sons of Gratien Gelinas, well-known Canadian actor, producer and author, are making their own mark on Canadian theatre. Theatre Is a Family Affair For the Artistic Gelinas

By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP) — Yves Gelinas is an intense, blue-eyed missionary for Canadian theatre. But his enthusiasm for the art isn't surprising — the Gelinas family is one of the most theatrically inclined in the country.

Yves, 24-year-old son of Gratien Gelinas, well-known Canadian actor, producer and author, won recognition when he was awarded the Adjudicator's Prize at the Western Quebec Regional Drama Festival held here in March.

He directed the prize-winning festival play, Le Veau Dort, written by another young Montrealer, Claude Jasmin. Adjudicator Guy Beaulne called it "a work of importance in the Canadian theatre."

It was indeed an event of importance for the Gelinas family. Pierre Gelinas, 20-year-old student, won the award for the best visual production. Michael Gelinas, 22, was in charge of technical production — a difficult task in this case. Le Veau Dort won four regional festival awards, including the prize for the best Canadian play.

The elder Gelinas watched from the audience while his sons, clad in corduroys and T-shirts, stayed on stage to receive their awards. Was he proud of them? He was more relieved, said Yves, that they could win recognition on the strength of their own talent.

STARTED AT BOTTOM

The earnest young director was interviewed after a rehearsal of the play which La Jeune Comedie, the troup he collected for the production, played for Montreal audiences for a week as part of the award agreement.

"I have a conviction in Canadian theatre," he said. "The theatre is a reflection of a country—and people want to see themselves."

Le Veau Dort is the first play Yves directed alone, although he has assisted with La Comedie Canadienne productions.

"I've done everything but compose music,— even tallied numbers on seats," he said, munching a pizza and giving suggestions to the lighting technician between bites.

"I've done that, too," he laughed, as he watched another brother, Alain, sweeping the stage.

Yves studied drama for three years at the Quebec Conservatory, has had acting parts in two CBC television serials, and works with La Comedie Canadienne part of the time.

PLANS NEW PLAY

Jasmin's play was a challenge made to order for the young director. The Jasmin, 32-year-old CBC set designer and art critic for the French-language newspaper La Presse, had written the work 10 years ago and tucked it away in a desk drawer. It was resurrected when Yves was looking for a Canadian play to produce.

Le Veau Dort (The Calf Sleeps) is a series of satirical sketches in revue form.

The work! is a tragi-comic commentary on modern man, reminiscent of German playwright Berthold Brecht's social drama. Clownish characters make their way through grotesque scenes on everything from love to law and labor unions. The ugliness and futility of war are frequent themes.

"Jasmin has something to say," remarked the young director thoughtfully. "His work is a tragedy, but he tried to bring out the humorous to make it bearable."

Young Gelinas is waiting for another Jasmin's plays — written specially for him to direct.

Of the talented father, Yves said simply, "It would take six of us to do what he did alone." There are six young Gelinas, incidentally, and already three are well on their way to enriching the Canadian theatre in the best tradition of Gratien Gelinas.

Free Enterprise Booster Likely Adenauer's Heir

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN (AP) — Ludwig Erhard, the man usually credited with West Germany's "economic miracle," says there are no such things as miracles.

"But," he adds, "there are results that border on the miraculous, which come from a consistent policy and the efforts of a whole people."

Consistency and effort have brought this quiet, unpolitical research economist to the almost certain leadership of West Germany's next government.

A chunky man with lots of chins, almost no neck and a broad, ready smile, Erhard looks a good deal fatter in his pictures than in life. He doesn't seem to mind. He enjoys the role of the hearty, prosperous German merchant, with a taste for creamy pastry and big black cigars.

"I have absolutely nothing of what you need to be a capitalist," he says.

Before he took his present job he spent nearly all his working life making market surveys in provincial Nuernberg. For the last 16 years he has set the direction of his country's booming economy but he has not been in business himself.

FIGHTS CARTELS

He has worked hard for free enterprise and even freer enterprise—hard enough to earn the enmity of many German businessmen who would like to organize the economy in a thorough-going cartel system. Erhard calls any such attempt to control prices and divide markets a "sin against the holy spirit of life."

Some critics say the boom would have come under any other policy, given the German talent for hard work and the billions of dollars contributed by the United States. But the average German gives Erhard the credit.

Ludwig Friedrich Wilhelm Erhard was born 66 years ago in Fuerth, Bavaria, the son of a dry-goods dealer. He might have taken over the business but he suffered a bad foot wound at Ypres in the First World War. Standing behind a counter was too painful.

Instead he went on with his studies, at Nuernberg Commercial College. In 1923 he married a classmate, a neighbor from Fuerth—Luise Lotter.

He got a job in a small market research institute, supported by the city of Nuernberg, and kept it for 16 years. When the Second World War broke out he got into trouble with the Nazis and friends set him up in an institute of his own.

FORECAST DEFEAT

One of the things he used it for was to draw up a plan of what Germany's economic future might be after a defeat, which he saw as inevitable.

He sent it to Karl Goerdeler, the mayor of Leipzig, an old friend who was the civilian chief of the 1944 conspiracy against Hitler. Goerdeler was arrested after a bomb failed to kill the dictator. From prison, he smuggled out a note approving Erhard's ideas.

Goerdeler was executed but the Nazis apparently never discovered Erhard's connection with him.

When the defeat came in 1945, American occupation authorities picked Erhard as economics minister of Bavaria.

Two years later he was running the Special Section for Currency and Credit of the British and American occupation zones. That was virtually the same job he still has—minister of economic affairs for West Germany.

DIAPERS, COFFIN SCARCE

His first major move on the job set the line for this future career. It was 1948 when German industry was producing only enough diapers for every fifth baby and a coffin for every third corpse.

The allied occupation authorities and Erhard worked out a major currency reform for West Germany. At the same time, but without asking the Allies' opinion, Erhard suddenly announced the end of all rationing and price controls. The British authorities were strongly opposed but they could not get American consent to interfere.

A remark attributed to Erhard at this time has gone into German legend. He was asked, the story goes, why he had acted so suddenly. He is supposed to have answered:

"If you have to cut off a cat's tail, why do it in little pieces?"

His method caused hardship at first but soon goods began to appear in the shops, goods that previously could only be bought on the black market. All anyone needed to buy them was money, and that too began to be available. Unemployment gradually decreased.

LINKED TO POLITICS

In Erhard's view, the emphasis on free enterprise is the economical counterpart of the political freedom West Germany is trying to foster in the long history of authoritarianism. This is a powerful argument among German politicians. With an eye on sensitive world opinion, they are likely to ask of any proposed policy—will that be considered democratic?

Erhard has not always been able to carry his ideas through as he would have liked. He succeeded in getting parliament to pass a strongly-worded anti-trust law but has been compelled to permit many exceptions to the provisions.

In recent years Erhard has been struggling hard to hold down wages and prices against business and labor opposition. His watch word is "hold fast, restraint." It has worked fairly well but there has been considerable resentment.

"Self-restraint" could well be his personal motto, too. For the last 10 years he has lived in a comfortable but far from elegant six-room house on the Viernuberg, hill overlooking Bonn. Mrs. Erhard says they have pretty much the same furniture as when they were married.

OWNS NO CAR

The house has a garage but the Erhards do not own a car.

Mrs. Erhard used to drive one—her husband does not know how—but she gave it up when the boom began crowding Bonn's narrow streets with more scooters and automobiles.

For vacations they have a small bungalow on Lake Tegern, in the Bavarian Alps.

The Erhards have one daughter, married to a businessman, and two grandaughters. Erhard likes to cook pancakes for them when he visits them in Stuttgart.

Erhard has a lot of nicknames, not all of them complimentary. In Bonn he is often referred to as "der dicke" (the fat man), as Adenauer is called "der alte" (the old man). Cartoonists like to portray him as "Mr. economic miracle," often in the shape of a coin.

Detractors have called him "the rubber lion," because of the many times he has been needled by Adenauer and done nothing about it.

Adenauer is convinced that Erhard lacks political talent and says so often in public. He came out with it again at the party caucus that picked Erhard as his successor. Two days later, he repeated it on television.

Pentagon Thinks Bombers Will Remain Prime Threats For Many Years to Come

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — The electronic eyes and ears of North American air defence against aircraft are gradually being reduced as the main threat of enemy attack switches from bombers to intercontinental missiles.

The Pentagon estimates bombers will remain a prime threat for some years yet, but the growth of the Soviet missile force—with no indication of any large new increase in bomber production—has caused Pentagon planners to rush more effort on missile defences.

Thus, the Semi-Automatic Ground Environment system is marked for a thinning out. Conceived in the early 1950s and built at a cost of about $3,700,000,000, this cross-country network of giant electronic computers linked with huge radars was designed to detect approaching enemy bombers and launch fighter-interceptors and local missile forces—including Bomarcs—directing them into positions to destroy the enemy.

ONE IN CANADA

The U.S. currently has 22 such SAGE directional centres and Canada has one at North Bay—SAGE fed in with the NORAD command headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo. By next fall, four of these 24 SAGE air centres will have been closed. Other shutdowns could follow later. But those remaining will be strengthened by a network of supporting electronic computers and their geographic responsibility will be increased to fill in the gaps left by the shutdowns.

As announced late last month, the four SAGE shutdowns at air bases in California, Washington, Michigan and New York will be accompanied by the closing of more than a score of manned and unmanned radar sites linked to the directional centres. An air division also will be eliminated and there will be some minor changes in NORAD regional headquarters.

But the Canadian SAGE will not be affected. In fact, because it is located underground at North Bay, the Canadian SAGE will increase in importance, designed as a possible alternate combat centre in the event the main NORAD headquarters is knocked out in an attack. All the other U.S. SAGE centres are above ground and so considered vulnerable to enemy missiles.

ALMOST OBSOLETE

This vulnerability — along with a Pentagon desire to pare some defence costs—is among the reasons for the shutdowns. The four selected for closure are near cities or near U.S. strategic bomber bases that would be prime targets in the event of war. The Pentagon view is that if missiles land at or near these targets, the SAGE centres also would be destroyed.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara told Congress of some of the SAGE shutdowns earlier this year and drew the retort from some SAGE critics that the system had become obsolete before it was even fully operational.

"The remaining centres do serve a purpose because they do increase the effectiveness with which we control the interceptor aircraft, assuming they continue to survive," McNamara said. "They also are needed to maintain surveillance of our air space in peacetime.

"The great problem is that in a missile age, we must assume the Soviets will first attack with missiles before their bombers attack and almost certainly among the targets for their missile attack would be our SAGE centres. In which case they would be out of operation before the bombers arrive. . . ."

NO MISSILE DEFENCE

McNamara estimated the SAGE shutdowns will save the government about $20,000,000 a year.

Warning against an intercontinental missile attack comes through huge, powerful radar fences constructed in the far north, in Alaska and Greenland. These are linked to similar construction in Britain to be completed next year providing an estimated 15 minutes' warning time in the event of a missile war.

No accurate Western way of shooting down these intercontinental ballistic missiles exists as yet. Research on an anti-missile missile is receiving the highest priority in the Pentagon.

The Nike-Zeus missile has been tried out but it has no way of picking out a real ICBM from a decoy. Research men now are working on a new version known as the Nike-X which could move with high speed to hit an incoming missile as it reenters the atmosphere. But this is only a concept which has not yet been proven feasible in the field.

Heart Patched Successfully By Surgeons

NEW YORK (CP)—Heather Breitschneider lived a normal life for more than 23 years with a hole in her heart.

But there was always a fear that her condition would deteriorate and her life might be cut short.

Today, the young dental assistant from Turpato and Montreal can look forward to a normal life without that fear—her heart has been patched successfully.

Mrs. Breitschneider underwent heart surgery in Mount Sinai Hospital last week and a team of 18 doctors and technicians spent 11 hours correcting a ventricular septal defect—a hole about the size of a quarter between the two lower chambers of her heart.

A spokesman for Dr. Robert B. Litwak, former associate professor of surgery at the University of Miami, Fla. and Mrs. Breitschneider's surgeon, said Tuesday the young woman is doing "very well" and probably will be able to leave hospital in about a week.

HUSBAND TELLS STORY

The 24-year-old husband, Lane Breitschneider, a New York floor - covering salesman, told the story of her operation in an interview here.

Breitschneider said he and the former Heath Shulman were married two years ago after meeting while attending the University of Miami. His wife was born in Toronto, lived in Montreal for seven years and then returned to Toronto where her mother still lives.

Doctors detected the heart defect when Heather was an infant. That was six years before the heart-lung machine discovery began lessening the risk in open-heart surgery.

A decision to operate on Heather was put off as doctors found no signs of lung damage and heart enlargement, but a New York cardiologist recommended surgery this year.

Mrs. Breitschneider entered hospital May 5, underwent the lengthy operation May 14, and this week was able to leave the cardiac intensive-care unit for a regular hospital room.

Besides the receptions and luncheons, the visiting mayors have been invited to make suggestions as to any particular places they would like to visit.

"Most of them have said everything we arrange will be fine with them," a spokesman for the Corporation of London said recently. "Actually they seem a bit shy but we wish they would make some suggestions and we'd see what we can do."

Mayor C. Horace Rolvin of Granby, Que., booked for the 2nd soo, will visit various soos and also will be guest of the Zoological Society at luncheon.

The mayors of Montreal and Quebec said they could not make the trip but have been invited to send representatives. Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa, a recent visitor here, has not announced whether she will return. Sir Ralph and other London officials will be her guests in Ottawa later this summer.

Mayor John Lloyd of Halifax, recently elected Liberal member of Parliament, will not be attending. A reply will is awaited from Regina.

Charge Whites Blocking Social Growth of Indians

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — A prominent educationist says the white man is holding back social development of Canada's Indians by insisting on giving Indian children the same kind of schooling that white children receive in the cities.

Rev. Andre Renaud declares white teachers will have to learn more about the culture of the various Indian tribes and adapt their classroom techniques to this culture.

"The teachers must become conscious of the individual personality and the history of each tribe," he said in an interview.

Father Renaud is the retiring director of the Oblate Fathers' Indian and Eskimo Welfare Commission, which administers Roman Catholic schools in the far North. Previously, he was a teacher, and a missionary at Dawson City, Yukon.

He said the children of Indian trappers and fishermen see no point in learning about the War of the Roses or the chief industries of southwestern Ontario. They are dropping out of school at "a fearful rate."

PROGRESS IN ARIZONA

Even today few Indians go beyond eighth grade and many leave school earlier, he said. Without education, the Indians will continue to depend on the federal Indian affairs branch the ecoomomic and social guidance.

Father Renaud formed his conclusions during a six-week tour of Indian settlements in Western Canada and the North and six more weeks of travelling in the southwestern United States on a Canada Council grant.

He says the Indians of Arizona and neighboring states are fast becoming a potent economic and political force, largely because they have discovered the advantages of education and self-government.

For example, the Navaho tribal council has an annual budget of $8,000,000 and is spending more than $1,000,000 a year on college and university scholarships for promising Navaho youths.

The tribal council operates schools, courts, a police force, banks, motels, restaurants, service stations, handicraft tourist shops and a weekly newspaper.

Father Renaud says the council is elected every four years and has a $30,000-a-year president. The council controls the exploitation of natural resources such as oil, gas, coal and uranium, which have been discovered in the Navaho reservations.

JOHNS UNIVERSITY

A 43-year-old Montreal native with a friendly, direct manner, he will have a chance to practise what he preaches this summer. He is joining the faculty of the college of education at the University of Saskatchewan and will specialize in special courses for teachers working at Indian schools.

He says he will tell his charges to concentrate on the history, culture and current problems of Indians. Scientific and technological subjects could be brought to the Indians' level through application of local improvement projects and the administrative problems of the respective reservations.

An educational program better suited to Indians would accomplish three things:

1. Captivate the Indians' interest and reduce the school dropout rate.

2. Encourage more Indians to seek college and university training.

3. Train a new class of leaders who could raise living standards and more effectively administer reservations.

Indians should be encouraged to stay together in large reservations and develop the natural resources in the area, Father Renaud says. It was a mistake to disperse the Indians in struggling cities and cut them off from their cultural roots.

British Election Date Baffles the Soothsayers

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — It takes a sharp-eyed soothsayer to read the electoral signs the way they're clouding up the crystal ball these days.

For the last few months party strategist Iain Macleod has been going around confidently predicting that the long-awaited British election will be held next year.

Now he is reported as reversing his field and confiding to party workers that they should be ready for an autumn election.

But in the same week, Conservative losses in local elections are interpreted by commentators as finally squelching the prospect of a ballot in the fall.

And when a bewildered reporter seeks guidance in Whitehall, he may be told that it is all a game of bluff and counter-bluff.

The sophisticated explanation is that Prime Minister Macmillan hasn't made up his mind, and that references to possible election dates, whatever their sources, are tossed out merely as political teasers.

These tantalizing references, it appears, are deliberately designed to keep the political opposition in a state of uncertainty. Already the word has gone out from Labor party headquarters to prepare for a nation-wide vote in October.

POSSIBLE BLUFF

But maybe even Labor is bluffing, trying to convince the Tories that it is banking on a fall election while secretly timing its preparations for a later date.

Amid all the moves and counter-moves, what is known is that the election must be held before October, 1964. Therefore Macmillan must make up his mind within the next few months whether to go to the country this year or wait until next spring.

After the disastrous winter of 1962-63, the Conservatives presumably will want to wait until the last ticking second in the hope that their luck will turn. But delay may involve a big gamble. If the weather in the winter of 1963-64 turns out to be as bad as last year, and if the Tories make as many blunders, there will hardly be time to retrieve their fortunes in 1964.

Perhaps the best bet is that if the sun shines warmly this summer and the opinion polls show a swing back to the Conservatives, the election will be held after all in October, confirming the guess forecasters have been making ever since election speculation started.

Sport Slices . . .

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It was the consensus of the sports world at large that when Roger Bannister, the famous British distance runner, first broke the four-minute barrier it was a case of intense physical training.

I had the pleasure of talking with Professor Willard L'Heureux the other night at the "Banquet of Champions" tendered the city's secondary schools' COSSA title-winners.

Professor L'Heureux, head of the Physical Education and Health and Recreation Department of the University of Western Ontario, gave me an insight into what was behind this intensive physical training.

"There were psycho-somatic overtones in the training, in other words, whatever is felt in the mind is quite literally reflected in the body, and vice versa," the professor said.

This mental concentration, direct and deliberate on a goal is a valuable asset not only in sport but in the world of study and research as well. It involves tremendous mental effort while perfecting the body.

Development of strength, speed and endurance results in a physical efficiency and the scale of fitness that brought Astronaut Gordon Cooper to the top, the professor told me.

He said today's young athletes are developing useful physical movement skills in sprinting, dodging, jumping, lifting, and hand-and-eye reaction. "Our modern athletes are making remarkable improvement over those of the last generation."

In his address to the student champions, Professor L'Heureux said, "One purpose of school is to produce young men and women who are responsible persons; who have a set of ideals, who are moral and ethical persons; things like honesty, justice and the rights of others."

He said it is in the nature of sport to cause situations to occur where choices must be made on ethical grounds. There is the tension caused by rules and the testing of prowess one against the other.

"There is the tendency to "push" in basketball; to elbow smash in football; to retaliate in the manner in hockey and to quit became some other player had been picked ahead of you."

Little incidents, perhaps, he said, but the opportunity is presented for the athlete to "learn by doing" to develop self respect—and another old-fashioned word, "honor."

Sport, he pointed out, is highly emotional and lessons of self-control are not always easy. Perseverence is an important facet of self-discipline which in itself is the ideal of maturity.

"Self-confidence," the professor told the students, "is the poise that comes with an all-out effort—and so it can be with you when you make the team and eventually reach the championship. Athletes are the only students who put out an all-out 100 per cent effort all the time they are competing. Academic efforts range between 50 and 60 per cent."

It is the nature of play to absorb the entire attention of the athlete, to focus mind and body on the object of the game. This concentration on something other than the serious business of going to school is nothing the short duration of actual play. It is a well known ingredient of success.

"It will dawn on you many years from now," Professor L'Heureux concluded, "that these athletic experiences you have gained are really the precious stones of your school life. It may be years before you appreciate to the full the precious stones of sport you have played in school."

Smokies Hit Back At Brass ★★★★★

CAHA Blames Trail Coach For Loss

By KEN CLARK

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association blanked coach Bobby Kromm for sounding off about Trail Smoke Eaters' flop at the 1962 world hockey tournament and in turn has been accused of acting irresponsibly.

The CAHA reopened the old controversy over responsibility for the Smokies' fourth-place finish at Stockholm by ticking off Kromm Wednesday for statements he made accusing the association of failure to support the team.

Smoke Eaters president Andy Soles promptly retorted that the censure of Kromm was "hardly the action of a mature or responsible body" and called for a retraction.

Delegates to the CAHA annual meeting here said early today. He is not going to get one.

Kromm himself just said at Trail he'll think things over for a day or so before commenting on the hockey heads' resolution rapping him for "improper and erroneous" statements to the effect that the CAHA failed to give his team adequate players and financial help.

CAHA president Art Potter of Edmonton not only absolved the association of Kromm's charges but said Canada failed to win the title at Stockholm because of Kromm, whom he accused of poor judgment in picking players.

CRITICIZE ACCOUNTING

CAHA executives at the meeting also were critical of the Smoke Eaters' financial accounting for the unsuccessful expedition — which produced another counter-blast from Trail, where Soles called the statements "misleading and inaccurate."

Potter said the Trail executive would "do well to investigate" certain listed expenses for the team, and secretary Gordon Juckes also questioned the financial statement showing a $7,100 deficit on the tournament and world tour.

The CAHA had paid for some of the expenses listed and Juckes suggested the deficit figure should be around $1,600.

Trail submitted the statement to back up its request that the CAHA ask the federal government for a grant to help cover the deficit.

Juckes said bluntly "we would have difficulty substantiating our claim (for a grant) to the government on the basis of the figures presented."

The CAHA gave the club $500 which matches a similar grant from the British Columbia Hockey Association.

CALLS CRITICISM GUFF

Juckes said he does not mind criticism, but about Kromm, he added: "I don't think we should back and take this guff from people who don't know enough to get their facts straight before they speak."

The CAHA decided that on future similar overseas trips the CAHA man along should look after press relations, rather than the coach.

Soles said he was appalled at the CAHA censuring his coach. He said he told Potter in a telegram that "no organization can be free of criticism, not even the CAHA," adding:

"To censure Kromm for criticising your group is hardly the action of a mature or responsible body. To lay the blame for the loss of a world championship on Kromm is both unfair and unsportsmanlike.

"These unworthy comments should be retracted."

"The telegram was in the strongest terms I could use," Soles said.

"It seems to me the senior Amateur Hockey Association has acted irresponsibly in this regard."

NOHA Bid Rejected By CAHA

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Wednesday rejected a bid by the Northern Ontario Hockey Association to form and become a full branch member.

For 40 years, the NOHA has been an affiliate of the Ontario Hockey Association which is much larger and more powerful.

Jim Aspin of North Bay, NOHA president, said his group wanted independence because "we are now playing pure right and left to the OHA clubs in Juvenile, midget and probably lower than that."

Only representatives of Ottawa and Maritimes Hockey Associations voted in favor of making the NOHA a full branch member on a par with the OHA.

Mantle Blasts 'Cooper' Homer

Hardest Ever Hit

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mickey Mantle's hero is his fellow Oklahoman, spaceman Gordon Cooper.

Mantle was watching television Wednesday afternoon as Cooper was honored by a Manhattan ticker tape parade for his 22-orbit flight. Wednesday night Mickey almost launched his own space missile.

Mickey crashed a letter-high fast ball thrown by Kansas City's Bill Fischer against the facade of the right field roof in Yankee Stadium, 117 feet up and 200 feet away. It was the closest any man has ever come to hitting a fair ball out of Yankee Stadium.

"The hardest ball I ever saw Mantle said.

"The hardest ball lever saw hit," said Jimmy Dykes, Kansas City coach who has spent 50 years in baseball.

The blow came in the bottom of the 11th inning, and rescued an 8-7 Yankee victory over Athletics. Yankees had blown a 7-6 lead with the assistance of some rare infield errors.

REMAIN IN FRONT

Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox, tied for first place in the American League one game ahead of Yankees, kept pace with Victories.

Orioles won 2-1 over Detroit Tigers, as Steve Barber notched his eighth win, tops in the majors. White Sox trounced Washington Senators 9-3, while ex-manager Mickey Vernon sat in the press box and the new manager, Gil Hodges, who will take over today, watched from the stands.

Los Angeles Angels squeaked past Cleveland Indians 7-6 in 11 innings and Minnesota Twins trimmed Boston Red Sox 3-1.

Mantle's homer, his ninth for the season and third in two days, was the second he has hit against the right field facade He is the only one to perform that feat.

His previous facade homer was off Washington's Pete Ramos on May 30, 1958, but it was a high fly that hit on the way down. The blow off Fischer was still rising and would have sailed out of the Stadium if it hadn't hit the concrete and dropped into the third deck.

Yankees chased starter Ted Bowsfield who had given up only one run in the previous 18 innings. In a seven-run second inning. The uprising featured two singles by Joe Pepitone and some erratic field by Athletics.

SCORE SIX

Yankees returned the compliment when the As erupted for six runs in the eighth, making their first errors in six games. A two-run homer by Gino Cimoli started the scoring for the As, who had been held to three hits for seven innings. Ed Charles tied the score with a two-out ninth inning homer.

The win was the eighth for Yankees in their last nine.

White Sox handed Senators their 10th loss in 11 games. Joel Horlen won his third without a loss, with relief help from Gary Peters.

Los Angeles first baseman Lee Thomas, in trouble for getting his hits, got hit with a pitched ball by Garry Ball of Cleveland in the 11th inning to force in the winning run. Angels had been up 4-0 then.

Southpaw Jim Kaat threw a seven-hitter against Red Sox for Minnesota, who won sixth game in their last seven.

Two Twins' runs resulted from extra base hits that crowned off the gloves of Boston fielders. Kaat singled home the first one himself.

Lu Clinton's homer ruined his shutout.

Bobbles Prove Costly

Flyers Shade Bobcats 3-1

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

TRENTON — A pair of unearned runs in the first inning proved the margin of victory here last night as the RCAF Flyers nipped Belleville Bobcats 3-1 in a B. and D. softball league game.

Bobcats make their first home start against Joyce Real Estate at 6:45 tilt at the CNRA Park tonight.

The Flyers made the most of four infield hits, and four Bobcat errors to chalk up their second win in as many starts.

Infield errors put the first two RCAF batters on base in the first inning and both scored, aided by sacrifices and infield singles by Mitts and D. Cole.

The winners moved in front 2-0 in the third, Drake leading off with a single, reaching second on an error and romping home on Wannamaker's base knock.

Bobcats, who had trouble solving Howie Cole's slants, got to him for their lone run in the fifth, also an unearned marker. Cliff McGrimmon was safe on an error, "Shiner" Murray walked and Brown slammed a double for the 3-1 score.

Both clubs missed a number of good scoring chances, leaving ten runners stranded per side.

Howie Cole bounced four ball over the distance to register the victory. He struck out nine and walked four.

Junior Day gave up nine hits over the route for Bobcats. He fanned four and walked two.

Donnie Cole collected three RCAF hits without getting the ball out of the infield, while Billy Mitts contributed a couple of singles. Lem Mowatt had a double, Gil Grover, Roger Drake and Leroy Wannamaker a single apiece.

Earl Cousins had two of the Bobcat safeties while "Weiner" Brown had his run-scoring double and Junior Day a single.

Opening ceremonies were held in near-freezing temperatures prior to the game and RCAF centre-fielder Billy Mitts was presented with the Lahatt Trophy as the loop's 1962 batting champ. Nick Stefan made the presentation.

Wet Greens Will Suit USA Golfers

TURNBERRY, Scotland (CP-AP)—Dick Tufts, captain of the United States Walker Cup golf team, said Wednesday the holding greens on the Turnberry links would suit his team in the two-day match against Britain Friday and Saturday.

Heavy rain soaked the 7,025-yard course earlier this week and made it possible for players to play target golf—a common style in the U.S. but unusual in Britain.

"We can shoot for the pin and know the greens will hold," said Tufts. "This is a big advantage for us."

The British team was hopeful that sunshine which lashed the course Wednesday would continue, drying the greens and making them faster.

The British have won only once in 19 Walker Cup matches. That was in 1938.

The cup will be decided over 36 matches with four scotch foursomes and eight singles on each day of play. All matches will be 18 holes instead of the 36 in previous Walker Cup play.

British, U.S. Golf Bodies

Recommend Changes In Rules

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP)—There will be a two-stroke penalty in medal play for hitting an opponent's ball on the green with a shot from a hazard if a recommendation of golf's rules makers is approved.

This was one of the proposals made by negotiating committees of the United States Golf Association and the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews at meetings this week.

The suggested amendments are subject to final approval of appropriate committees of the two bodies. Any final action cannot be taken until late September. Changes would not be effective until next Jan. 1.

The joint proposals are of a minor nature, dealing with play on the putting green.

They are:

1. Removal of prohibition against stepping on a ball mark. The present rule says a player may repair damage to the green caused by impact of the ball but may not step on the damaged area.

PROPOSE DEFINITION

2. Clearer definition of time allowed to determine whether the ball is at rest when overhanging the hole.

The rule now reads that a player shall not play until his opponent's ball is at rest. This has enabled players to wait for several minutes while waiting for a ball on the lip of the cup to fall. The new rule would put a clearer definition—though no time limit—when a ball has stopped rolling.

3. Extension of two-stroke penalty in stroke play for striking a fellow competitor's ball from the putting green or within 20 yards of the hole to include play from a hazard.

There is no penalty at present from a hazard.

The negotiating committee took no action on raising the number of clubs which may be carried in the bag (14) and rules concerning unplayable lies, provisional balls and the flagstick, which had been under discussion.

DAVIS FUNERAL

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—Thousands of persons paid tribute Wednesday to football star Ernie Davis at the largest funeral in the city's history. Approximately 1,600 persons jammed the sanctuary and the basement of the First Baptist Church and more than 3,000 stood solemnly in a park during the 15-minute service, conducted by five ministers.

Ice Star Helps Fund For Arena

TORONTO (CP)—A year ago Don Jackson returned to Canada as the world champion figure skater. There were celebrations in his home town of Oshawa ,but no arena where the 22-year-old champ could show his world championship stuff to doting fans.

Now, all of this may be changed.

Jackson made a second visit this week after a triumphant United States tour with a professional ice show and with a personal $1,000 cheque to help off a citizens' drive to build a $1,000,000 arena in Oshawa.

"This is a good starter, tabbed by many experts as the greatest skater of them all, will join scores of other well-known athletes—amateur and pro—in a mile-long parade Saturday to officially open the drive for funds.

"This is the least I could do," Jackson said in an interview.

Included among marching athletes on Saturday will be Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks and goalkeeper Jacques Plante of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League and Nancy McCredie of Brampton, double gold medal winner in the 440-put and discus in the recent Pan-American games at Brazil.

Alex Oakley of Oshawa, winner of the 20-kilometer walk in the Pan-Am games, will receive a gift from the city.

The city's old arena, home of Oshawa Generals of the Ontario Hockey Association, junior A series, burned down 10 years ago Since then various moves to build another have failed.

Two Bantam Coaches Needed

If the Bantam baseball division of the Belleville Minor Sports Association is to begin as scheduled next Tuesday, May 28th, two additional coaches must be secured before that date. All six Pee Wee teams have been assigned coaches as have two of the four Bantam teams. However, two coaching vacancies still exist. If you would be willing to coach a Bantam baseball team, please contact the Recreation Centre immediately at WO 2-1403.

Jet Traffic Ineligible For Plate

TORONTO (CP)—Jet Traffic, winter-book favorite for the $80,000 Queen's Plate, Wednesday was ruled ineligible for the Canadian classic June 15 at Woodbine race track.

The announcement came following a meeting at Greenwood Race Track of the board of directors of the Jockey Club Limited, which said the owner did not authorize the entry.

John J. Mooney, managing director of the club, said authorization is a rule of racing. Jet Traffic is owned by Russell A. Firestone Jr. of Dallas, Tex.

"Quorum of the board present," Mooney said, "said club president George C. Hendrie. "The quorum was made up of eight members and the decision was unanimous."

Frank R. Conklin of Brampton, Ont., is the principal breeder of Jet Traffic. The directors noted that Conklin sold the foal to Warner J. Jones Jr. of Goshen, Ky., in the fall of 1960. Jones, in turn, sold the colt yearling to Firestone in July, 1961.

The yearling, it was added, was nominated for this year's Queen's Plate on Nov. 30, 1961, by Conklin in the name of Jones. This was more than four months after it had been sold to Firestone.

The directors ruled the nomination was in contravention of the rules because Conklin had not been deputized by Firestone nor had Dominion Farms Limited been authorized as an agent by Firestone.

RANGERS GET PLAYER

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers of the National Hockey League acquired Dick Meissner, 23-year-old right winger, from Boston Bruins Wednesday. The Rangers took an option on Meissner last winter as part of a deal that sent Dean Prentice of Boston in exchange for Don McKenny.

Canadian Press Sports Editor

When you and I were young, daddy, the big names in Canadian track and field were Phil Edwards, Johnny Loaring, Sammy Richardson, Harold Brown, Eric Coy, Harold Webster.

Those were the days when Canada could expect at least one gold medal at British Empire and Olympic Games. These people were the track heroes of the '20s.

Now, another generation has come along and track officials are busting with pride. They may be a little premature in their enthusiasm, but they can name a few athletes they regard as world-class or on the fringe of select circles.

They mention Bruce Kidd, Dave Jones, Nancy McCredie, Harry Jerome, Bill Crothers, Abigail Hoffman, Alex Oakley. It has taken up to 30 years for Canadians to be able to say that, once again, their track and field athletes have something more than distinctive fire engines and uniforms to identify them in the crowd.

PLAN TWO MEETS

Folks have been saying for a couple of years that there is a great upsurge in track and field in Canada. It has arrived.

The signs are apparent, particularly in Toronto, where two big-quality international meets are scheduled—in the next few months—Tuesday, June 25, and Friday, June 12. If the promoters get the international known athletes they're after, the 27,000-seat Varsity Stadium could be a sellout each time.

Apart from the 1954 British Empire Games at Vancouver, Canada hasn't dared to stage a meet where sponsors thought in terms of wrestling Canadians with world and Olympic champion class opposition.

"There will have been no point to it," says Ken Twigg of Toronto, national track and field chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union. "Our athletes would have been clobbered. Now, no matter who we bring in for certain events, we know we have athletes who can give them a good run for their money and even beat them.

"There has been nothing like this since before the Second World War."

"Amen," says Fred Foot, coach of Kidd and Crothers. "This thing has come spontaneously. We didn't have to drum it up. Our athletes generally have been successful in the past couple of years or more and the people of Canada haven't been living on promises of gold medals; they've been seeing these things."

OTHERS TAKE NOTICE

One other point. Canadian athletes the last few years have been receiving invitations to compete in the United States and Europe. This didn't happen in the immediate post-war period and up to the late 1950s.

For instance, Kidd and Crothers were invited to the British championships this year but they passed them up for the July 13 meet here, which is sponsored by the Toronto Globe and Mail. In August, they are going to Norway and Sweden and most likely will be invited to a few other countries for an extended tour.

Here are a few athletes the sponsors of the June 25 and July 12 meets are after:

Livio Berruti of Italy, 1960 Olympic 200-metre champion; Murray Halberg of New Zealand, world three-mile record-holder and British Empire Games three - mile champion; Peter Snell, also New Zealand, world record-holder in the 880 yards mile and Olympic 800-metre champ; Suzanne Allday of England, British women's champion in the shot-put; Gary Gubner of the U.S., the world's top shot-putter.

Kidd, British Empire Games six-mile champion, would meet Halberg. Crothers, tabbed by Jamaica's George Kerr as a medal winner over the half-mile in the 1964 Olympics, would meet Snell.

STEEN NEAR RECORD

Steen, of Burnaby, B.C., has been tossing the shot-put nearly 62 feet, just four or five short of the world record. Miss McCredie, the 18-year-old Brampton, Ont., miss, has been throwing the discus more than 160 feet in practice, ranking her as definite world class. Miss Hoffman, 16, of Toronto, took almost 11 seconds off her British Empire Games time of 2:21 in the women's half-mile while winning the recent Pan-American Games gold medal.

Jerome of Vancouver, now representing from a serious leg injury, shares both the world 100-yard and 100-metre records, and Oakley of Oshawa, Ont., was sixth in the 1960 Olympic 20-kilometre walk, won the gold medal over that distance in the Pan-Am Games and has been improving steadily.

Here's what those pre-Second World War athletes did:

Edwards, Montreal: Third, place bronze medal winner in the 400 metres in 1932 Olympics and 800 metres in the 1936 Games.

Loaring, Windsor, Ont.: Second-place silver medal in 400-metre hurdles in the 1936 Olympics.

Richardson, Toronto: Gold medallist in the 1934 British Empire Games in the broad jump.

Brown, Meaford, Ont.: Gold medallist in the 1938 British Empire Games in the broad jump.

Coy, Winnipeg: Gold medallist in the 1938 British Empire Games in the discus.

Webster, Hamilton: Gold medallist in the 1934 British Empire Games.

Many more can be added, including Duncan McNaughton, Vancouver, gold medallist in the 1933 Olympics in the high jump.

The Trots

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Speedy pacer Little Filly, owned by Ruth Herbert, of London, Ont., won the featured Campbellville Trot at Mohawk Wednesday night.

The trot was the first stakes event of the season for juvenile trotters and none of the five entrants had started previously.

Silk Hanover paid $9.20. Johnnie Laird was second and Our Patricia third.

Travelers Blanked By Crackers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It seems that southpaw Harvey Branch is making a habit of pitching 3-0 baseball victories for the Atlanta Crackers.

Branch has hurled three such victories this season, his latest being Wednesday night in the opening game of an International League doubleheader which the Crackers swept from the Arkansas Travelers.

But in two of the decisions, Branch, now boasting a 4-0 record, has had sterling relief from Bruce Tiefenauer, and both times in the ninth inning. Tiefenauer saved Branch Wednesday night with a ninth-inning double play.

The Crackers won the nightcap by a 3-2 margin, thus increasing their Southern Division lead over Indianapolis to four games.

LOSE TO CHIEFS

The Indians dropped a 3-2 decision to Rochester of the Northern League while Jacksonville beat Richmond 1-0 in other action.

Southpaw Bill Short had a one-hit shutout going for Rochester until the eighth. The Indians scored on singles by Ken Berry and Don Buford, with a walk in between. Charley Smith's home run in the ninth accounted for the other tally. The Red Wings scored in the fifth, seventh and eighth.

Dodgers Win Eight In Row

Giants' Haller Hits Grand Slam

Yanks Infield Now Worth $6,500,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph Houk has raised the price on his $5,000,000 New York Yankee infield.

The Baltimore Orioles had said that if the Yank infield is worth that, Houk's worth six—million, that is.

Houk smiled Wednesday and said: "I don't want to start an auction. But mine is worth $500,000 more than anybody else's."

"And I wouldn't trade even up with the Orioles," he said. "Although I wouldn't be surprised if they would be willing."

Houk made his $5,000,000 estimate earlier when he compared his group with the old so-called $100,000 infield of the 1930 Philadelphia Athletics. He said he was talking in terms of today's inflated prices.

Baltimore president Lee MacPhail upped the ante to $6,000,000 for the Orioles infield which he said is the best in baseball.

The Yankees have Joe Pepitone at first, Bobby Richardson at second, Clete Boyer at third and Tony Kubek at shortstop.

The Orioles offer Jim Gentile, Jerry Adair, Brooks Robinson and Luis Aparicio at the respective positions.

Jack Sanford freely admits he owes much of his pitching success to Tom Haller, the other half of San Francisco Giants' thinking man's battery.

Sanford took care of the pitching, Haller took care of the brainwork and chipped in with some brawn by hitting the first grand slam homer of his major league career Wednesday as the San Francisco leading Giants whipped Philadelphia Phils 10-2.

"We won another," Sanford will yell after returning to the clubhouse, then will explain that means "Haller and me. you don't think I could do it all by myself, do you? Tom may call some pitchines you wonder about, but they work."

They worked 24 times last year and they've worked seven times so far this season. Not a bad performance for a youngster from Lockport, Ill., who got his start one day when Papa Giant Manager Horace Stoneham and spent $68 on baseball equipment.

The triumph against Phillies kept Giants one game ahead of the runner - up Los Angeles Dodgers who won their eighth straight by beating New York Mets 7-3 behind Don Drysdale's two-hit pitching.

CARDINALS DEFEATED

The third-place Chicago Cubs edged Houston 4-3 on Lou Brock's 12th steal as the Cardinals 7-6 in 11 innings and Pittsburgh Pirates downed Houston Colts and Pete Rose's bat 4-3. The Cincinnati-Milwaukee game was postponed due to wet weather.

Haller, a 25 - year - old left-handed swinger who has hit .250 for a career, is as intellectual as Giants because he keeps his own book on the batter's strengths and weaknesses. It's no doubt been helpful to Sanford, who has a 7-1 record with five complete games and a 2.45 earned run average.

Sanford's pitching, giving last year's 25-game winner a 5-4 record, was a rather unusual affair in which both hits were homers by former Dodgers. Duke Snider connected for Mets in the second and Clarke Harness a native of Lachine, Que., hit one in the seventh with a man on.

Dodgers, who have won 11 of 13 games in their current tussle with home stand since the club moved to Los Angeles in 1958, put it to Mets against Curt Willey. Tommy Davis hit a two-run homer in the first inning burst.

ASPROMONTE DELIVERS

Ken Aspromonte hit a pinch single to drive in the tying run for Cubs in the ninth, then stole glied across the deciding run in the 11th. Bedrock Aspromonte's pinch hit. Cardinals had pulled out front in the eighth on consecutive homers by Bill White and Stan Musial, the sixth for each. Don Elston was the winner, Bloomdale, Ohio lawyer.

Nottebart shut out Pirates on five hits for eight innings, and held a 4-0 lead, built mainly on a four-hit performance by Al Spanger. Bill Mazeroski started things for Pirates with a double with a double, Willie Stargell walked and Smoky Burgess singled one run across. Dave Clendenon singled another across, and after Don McMahon relieved Nottebart, threw a no-hitter in his last start, Roberto Clemente stroked a clinching two-run single.

Replaces Mickey Vernon

Hodges Senators Manager

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last-place Washington Senators hired old Dodger hero Gil Hodges as manager of the American League team Wednesday, replacing Mickey Vernon.

Hodges, who played with Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers before going to New York Mets last season, said he was first asked about managing the Senators Tuesday by Washington general manager George Selkirk.

He will take over as manager tonight in Baltimore. Coach Eddie Yost served as acting manager against the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night while Hodges watched with Selkirk.

Vernon, the only manager the new Senators have had since they were established in 1961, will remain as administrative assistant to Selkirk.

Under Vernon, the Senators finished last in the two seasons since the old Washington club moved to Minnesota. Currently the Senators, in the league cellar, having lost nine of their last 10 games.

EXPECTS HUSTLE

"I could tell to get our club hustling," Selkirk said. "But I don't anticipate that he'll have any trouble with the club that was acquired with a long-range program in mind."

New York Mets released Hodges as an active player so he could accept Selkirk's godden offer to manage Washington. He had been on the disabled list with an injured knee.

Hodges, 39, said he had no plan to play any more. He had been coaching the Mets in the special National League draft in October, 1961 for $75,000.

Hodges was given a contract

Dallas Texans Move to Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Millionaire Lamar Hunt, owner of the American Football League champion Dallas Texans, moved his club to Kansas City Wednesday, admitting defeat in the three-year dollar-war with Dallas Cowboys of the rival National Football League.

After three years of losses at the gate, operating at $1,250,000, Hunt said he was convinced that two pro teams could not prosper in Dallas. In 1963, a Dallas entry in the NFL lasted only a half season.

Several months ago, Hunt said that if Kansas City would purchase 25,000 season's tickets he would move the club there. The original deadline found only 13,025 such tickets sold but Hunt made the move anyway.

Bowling Roll-offs Here Saturday

Bowlers from 250 Ontario bowling establishments will be participating in the final roll-offs of the "Player's Bowling Festival," May 25, at 27 roll-off centres across the province.

More than 3,000 Ontario bowlers will be among those rolling off across Canada May 25. Prizes in the best-your-average competition are 60 expense-paid vacations for two to the Caribbean. Each Festival winner receives a 12-day holiday for two in Jamaica.

Throughout the event, bowlers compete against their own scores. In the first step, they bowl against their average as of November 3, 1962. In the finals they bowl against their second step score with the trips going to those beating their average by the greatest average number of pins.

Bowl-O-Drome in Belleville will host five-lane Festival finals from Bancroft, Belleville, Stirling, Peterborough, Springbrook, Picton and Trenton.

Expect 25 Starters For Derby

LONDON (CP) — Thirty-five horses stand their ground for next Wednesday's Epsom Derby but only about 25 are expected to go to the post.

On the third forfeit stage, published Wednesday, 35 of the 497 horses originally entered were still listed. Two of these have already been scratched however and perhaps half a dozen others will drop out before the big race next week.

Among those still entered and likely to run, is the Canadian-owned Count Albany, a 100-to-1 shot that has never been closer than fifth in all his three races to date.

Count Albany is owned by Max Bell of Calgary and trained by F. J. (Paddy) Prendergast, the talented horse handler from County Kildare in Ireland who has three other horses in the race for different owners.

Some Television Programs Have Been Memorable Ones

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — What makes a great television program?

There are almost as many answers to that as there are viewers.

But in the special area of the news and public affairs shows, most people on both sides of the screen agree about what makes that television. A lot of talk by "experts," analyzing and second-guessing.

Some television programs of the past are memorable. Who will forget, for example, the exchanges between the late senator Joseph McCarthy and lawyer Joseph Welch during the fascinating Washington hearings? Or listening to the rather breathless voice of Mrs. John F. Kennedy pointing out the restoration of rooms in the White House? Or the quick shot of a dying bird kicking futilely in the recent television treatment of the pesticide controversy?

Gerald Green, best - selling novelist and NBC producer of Friday night's The Quiet Revolution," insists that television is not able to take any subject, any question or any problem and build on it a satisfactory program.

SOME TOPICS IMPOSSIBLE

"The most impossible subjects are abstract ideas," he said. "All you can do is line up some experts, but a camera can not let them talk about it.

"News makes itself, but it isn't good television when you set up the experts to talk about it second-hand. I've thought for a long time that there should be a really fine program on subjects like What's Wrong with Congress? Or a really thoughtful treatment of the labor unions. But, although both have been tried, none of them has come off as real television. Maybe it can't be done."

Marilyn Monroe's Career Traced Via Movie Clips

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marilyn is the title of a new movie that 20th Century-Fox has fashioned out of some old ones.

It is an account of the sexy career of Marilyn Monroe as seen in the films she made at Fox, where she did nearly all of her major work. The span reaches from Ticket to Tomahawk (1948), in which she played the chorus girl on the right, to Something's Got to Give" (1962), from which she was fired.

As film entertainment, Marilyn has its limitations. The only element that ties it together is a murky narration delivered with as much grace as possible by Rock Hudson. The film concentrates only on the Monroe acting career, which had little variety. Her personal life, which was more dramatic than anything she ever played on the screen, isn't mentioned.

Despite all this, Marilyn has a certain fascination as a saga of sorts.

TURNS ON PERSONALITY

First we see Marilyn, still in the chorus line, using the personality like chorus girls from time immemorial. Then she steps up in class with a bit in All About Eve. (The Asphalt Jungle, an MGM film, first caused her to be noticed.) Despite the competition of a high-powered cast, she made her brief scenes count.

Then comes Love Nest as the sexy other woman in the marriage of June Haver and William Lundigan. The sex image continues to build as Marilyn plays a beauty contest winner in We're Not Married and a street-walker in O. Henry's Full House.

Her first drama is Don't Bother to Knock; she enacts a poor girl enjoying her first taste of high life.

She plays a comic sexpot in Monkey Business with Cary Grant and Ginger Rogers, then in Niagara, her first starring role. Here is Marilyn Monroe—the wet and crimson, platinum hair and the walk.

Now she is on top. She is starred with another reigning sex queen, Jane Russell, in a jazzed-up version of Gentlemen Prefer Blondes. She demonstrates in How to Marry a Millionaire that comedy might be her strongest suit. That she is wasted in a super-star musical, There's no Business like Show Business, in which she does a tasteless Heat Wave number.

PLAYS CHARACTER ROLE

The vintage years. The Seven Year Itch brings her flowering as a comedienne. In Bus Stop she plays her first character role and carries it off. Not included in Marilyn: Two unentertaining United Artists films, Some Like It Hot, her greatest success, and The Misfits, a notable failure.

Finally, the prophetic Something's Got to Give." We see the famous nude bathing scene, though it is not as revealing as the still photos that were released.

Then there comes the most remarkable segment of the whole film. It's not a scene from the film, but only a test for wardrobe and hair style. Tests are usually dull affairs, but not this one.

Marilyn walks to and fro, to demonstrate the frock she will wear in the film. She turns her head in a screen-filling closeup, to show the hair style. From every angle. In these simple moves she communicates an enormously appealing woman.

No wonder she was a star.

NFL Gets Intelligence Arm

By TOM PENDERGAST

ST. LOUIS (AP)—In the wake of sensational betting scandals, the National Football League set up an intelligence arm Wednesday with the appointment of a police officer "to prevent undesirable associations" by players.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle, in announcing James E. Hamilton of Los Angeles will become a special aide June 1, said the move would "augment the system of surveillance we have had in effect for more than a decade."

Rozelle said Hamilton, former chief of the Los Angeles police department intelligence division, will be "especially valuable in liaison work with law enforcement agencies." Rozelle declined to pin the move directly on April's betting scandal, but said it "should prevent recurrence of such unfortunate events."

The commissioner made the announcement at a meeting of NFL club owners, first such gathering of league chieftains since he indefinitely suspended Paul Hornung of Green Bay Packers and Alex Karras of Detroit Lions April 17. At that time, Rozelle also fined five Detroit players $2,000 each for betting on league games and the Lions $4,000 for failure to exercise proper supervision of their players and the bench.

WILL TRAVEL

Rozelle said Hamilton, 53, will travel to the 14 NFL cities at least two or three times a year. He would meet with players and coaches "to prevent undesirable associations" of which the players may be unaware.

"The move is more intelligence than investigative, but there may be some investigations."

Rozelle said no NFL players were under investigation now. "But we have felt all along that we never can do too much surveillance, and this special aide.

Rozelle said another betting deal, allegedly involving president Carroll Rosenbloom, of Baltimore Colts, would not be brought up at the meeting. Rosenbloom has denied he placed bets on games eight to ten years ago.

Prince Sees 'Rasslers' for First Time

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Philip watched grunt-and-groan wrestling at Royal Albert Hall Wednesday night. Wrestling enthusiasts said it was the first time royalty had watched a professional wrestling match since the reign of Henry VIII from 1491 to 1547.

Proceeds from the entertainment —at close to £19,-000—will go to the Duke of Edinburgh's award plan for young people who show initiative.

DESERONTO

Deseronto Council Votes To Request County Council For Leave to Close School

DESERONTO — At its regular meeting Tuesday the council of the town of Deseronto passed a motion to override the Board of Education and have four members of the town council attend the Hastings County Council with a request for permission to discontinue the Deseronto High School and join the Napanee Area. A copy of this resolution is also to be forwarded to the Department of Education in Toronto.

This action resulted when the special committee that met the Board of Education last Friday night presented its report to council. A petition from some ratepayers was also presented at the meeting stating that the Board of Education rectify the courses available at the Deseronto school as they are not provide anything but an academic course. Some 501 names were attached to the petition which, according to Councillor Marks included the names of some 270 parents.

The town hall was packed. One of the spokesmen for the petition was D. S. Armstrong who was defeated for Board of Education in Je election last fall, when his wish was for joining the Napanee area. The three members, who were elected to the board last fall all had as their platform the retaining of the local school.

J. W. Spence, president of the Canada Optical plant, spoke briefly to council on behalf of the report of the inspector who asked if it were economically sound to provide education in Deseronto.

COMPARES COSTS

D. S. Armitage had a prepared poster outlining the cost of education for the various municipalities which form the Napanee area and compared Deseronto to N. Fredericksburg which is assessed for $1,559 and pays $19,463 yearly to the Napanee Area. Another poster showed the distances in the route to Belleville and he stated that the majority of the people attend were in-favor of the Napanee area.

Council decided to ask the school board to meet with the town hall on Wednesday night and not at the school, as had been agreed on at the meeting of the school board.

Charles Gray, manager of the Ideal Vendors plant told council that the existing high school keeps people away from Deseronto as they know that they had lost several qualified men from his plant because of the education standards there. He said industry would not come unless there were adequate facilities.

The vote of the council on the motion was a four to four, later F. Brooks advised the crowd he was with them.

Another spokesman for the Napanee area was a student. Miss Ann Joure, who stated that at Napanee she repeated Grade 9 so that she could take a commercial course. She said that she came right in her class at Napanee and that the teachers were interested in the pupils. She also said it was wonderful to attend school at Napanee.

The majority of those present at the meeting were in favor of closing the school. Apparently those in favor of keeping the school remained away from the meeting, for last November when three candidates for the Board were in favor of closing the school and three candidates were in favor of keeping the school, the three in favor of keeping the school were elected by comfortable majorities.

VON TO GIVE S'RVICE

Other council business occupied very little time. The V.O.N. Board from Napanee was granted permission to attend their services to Deseronto for a three month trial period.

The Ideal Vendors plant, Reeve Charles Gray, notified council that the company would not dispose of the old plant on Main St. for a meat packing plant, due to the objections of a number of residents.

Reeve Lolt introduced a motion that council request a grant from the Water Resources Commission to discuss water filtration and sewage disposal. On the recommendation of the fire and police committee, council accepted the tender of J. D. Dawson for a new police car at a cost of $5,020.80 and the old car.

The Ratepayers' Association was granted the use of the council hall for its meetings on the fourth Monday of each month.

William Higgins thanked council before adjournment for hearing the people and their petition regarding the school question.

About sixty-five persons were in attendance at the meeting, a much smaller crowd than attended the last meeting of the school board when both factions were represented.

Lady Smokers This Is For You

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals for the lady smoker is that of taking care of the lady smoker.

One of the fringe benefits of manhood — and the sternest test of gallantry — is the privilege of helping the girls through the ever-special rites of the nicotine habit.

Here are some types of lady smokers familiar to most men:

"Perky Pam" — This little doll thinks it is cute to droop a cigarette from the corner of her mouth, stand on tiptoe, look you square in the adam's apple, and then demand in a sexy growl: "Light me, big boy, light me."

"Sandra Showoff" — This female always likes ostentation as well as attention. She waits until she's at the far corner of the room before pulling out her cigarette, thus forcing you to gallop over before everybody to ignite it.

"Golddigger Gertie" — No matter where you meet her, the cigarette she pulls out is always her very last one. Somehow, somewhere, you have to manage to get her another pack immediately— if you're any kind of man at all.

"Thelma Twitch?" — The gabby type. Keeps talking as you try to light her up, and the cigarette bobs around in all directions like a weathervane. When the match finally burns your fingers and you cry "ouch!," she cries loudly: "What's the matter? Got the shakes again? Maybe you'd better lay off the stuff for a while."

"Exotic Erica" — Can't stand anything except highly perfumed Oriental cigarettes which she puffs away at from the near end of a two-foot black and silver holder. After half an hour by her, you reel away smelling like an old Chinese tempe.

"Bertha Beatnik" — She's the Bohemian type. Thinks cigarettes are strictly for the cowbirds at the party. Prefers herself an imitation corncob pipe encrusted with rhinestones. Gets ashes on rug by knocking pipe against her shoe heel. One nice thing about Bertha: Your wife never invites her back again.

"Smoke — pot Nell" — This human chimney is a chain smoker who feels socially insecure unless she has at least three cigarettes going for her at all times. A man really needs a blow torch to keep her lit up.

Traffic Deaths Would Have Been Higher Without Effect Of Safety Propaganda

By DENNIS ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The number of cars and trucks on Canadian roads increased five per cent last year. The number of deaths in highway accidents leaped 13.2 per cent.

How do the safety experts reconcile the apparently lengthening odds against survival on the roads with claims that safety promotion and education save lives?

An executive of the Ontario Safety League says the carnage of traffic accidents would have been three, or four times as great without the combined effect of improved roads, better-trained drivers and safety propaganda.

Fred H. Ellis, OSL general manager in Toronto, says a true measure of safety efforts can't be found in a glance at final statistics.

The grim battle to keep motorists alive shapes up as something of a defensive battle, he says.

Every new vehicle put on the road multiplies, instead of just adding to, the chances of "conflicts" between vehicles—from a little fender rubbing to headon collisions.

The success of safety activities by private and government agencies lies behind the headlines, in the number of Canadians alive today who would have died considering the skyrocketing odds of more vehicles threatening the roadways.

Vehicle registration, rising by about five per cent each year, have so far overpowered the best efforts of safety experts to reverse the trend to greater and greater loss of life.

This year there will be about 135 cars on the country's highways for every 100 that offered a potential accident threat in 1962.

What are the chances of holding deaths below the statistical toll that might be expected? Safety officials work always in hope of proving the statisticians wrong.

They hope to turn the tide of a widening gap between the percentage increase in cars and in the annual death toll.

In 1962, there were about 5,500,000 cars and trucks, about four per cent more than the previous year's total. Accidents killed 3,421 persons — roughly the same percentage rise.

Last year's motor registrations climbed another five per cent to 5,800,000. Traffic deaths leaped ahead 13.2 per cent to a record 3,873.

QUEBEC HARD HIT

A Cross-Canada Survey by Canadian Press shows Quebec accounted for the largest numerical increase — 222 deaths, more in 1962 than in 1961—for more than half the jump in the national toll.

Ontario recorded a 115-death increase and British Columbia a rise of 66 to contribute substantially to the record-setting slaughter.

Quebec, with a 25-per-cent increase from 1961, British Columbia, with about 20 per cent, and Prince Edward Island, with a 50-per-cent increase, from 16 to 24, were the only provinces whose percentage rise in deaths topped the national increase. Saskatchewan came near the Canadian average with 12, and Ontario and Nova Scotia increases were about nine per cent.

The outlook for 1963?

Fatalities, based on figures available from eight provinces, were up about seven per cent in the first three months this year —584 compared with 547 at March 31, 1962.

Plans to curb the rising wastage of human life are as many and varied as the factors that can hurl a B.C. and a Newfoundland family together in the grimmest of interprovincial accidents. Each will to car grill on a super-highway.

JUDGES TOUGHER

Plans to curb attorney-general's department is stepping up highway policing activities and making the courts a lot tougher with convicted traffic offenders.

"Many judges are willing to comply because they understand this is one of the best methods to cut down on the accident toll," says Deputy Attorney-General J. A. Cathie.

In 1961, only 5,000 Quebec drivers had their licences suspended, compared with 15,000 suspensions in Alberta which has one-fifth the population.

More recently, in the face of mounting bloodshed on the highways, judges have been suspending licences for up to 10 years for serious offences.

Commenting on the 1962 toll, Prudentia, a Quebec safety organization, said: "If such a death rate were attributed to some contagious disease, people would scramble to get vaccinated. Immunization against human error is within reach of everyone, but no one cares to take advantage."

Prudentia says: "The only protection against potential killers is defensive driving and strict observance of the highway code."

Quebec's deputy transport minister, Jacques Verreault, says of drivers in his province: "They are crazy."

STRESS TEACHING

Heaviest emphasis in most provinces is placed on safe driver education, sponsored either by government or private safety organizations.

In Ontario, Mr. Ellis says "very few persons drive as well as they are capable of driving."

He believes many motorists lack adequate "conscience" behind the wheel. To instil this "we need greater improvement in training young drivers."

The OSL offers free summer courses in driver instruction to secondary school teachers. But the safety organization feels efforts are partly frustrated by promotion of teachers trained to instruct young drivers in non-teaching positions. And, not all school boards are willing to accept driver instruction in schools.

The Manitoba government plans to extend driver - training to high schools this year.

Saskatchewan, which like Alberta and Nova Scotia has driver education in high schools, has trained 4,000 young drivers in the last three years and expects to graduate another 3,200 this year.

Newfoundland plans to embark on high school driver education this year, with courses initially in about 20 interested schools across the island.

SLOW DRIVERS FINED

Most provinces have no new legislative measures aimed at safer driving, although Ontario adopted an amendment allowing fines of up to $50 for conviction of obstructing traffic by travelling too slowly while Manitoba plans to make the same abuse a careless driving offence under the Criminal Code.

All provinces have continuing programs for reducing road hazards and improving safety aspects on new highways.

Most Canadians within sound or sight of mass communication outlets will continue to be urged to drive safely, with special caution on those long summer weekends.

Last year, the fatality total rose in eight provinces, dropping back only in Newfoundland and New Brunswick. In the first three months of this year, New Brunswick held its total below the same period of 1962, joined by Alberta and Nova Scotia.

Fatalities by provinces in 1962 (with 1961 figures bracketed):

British Columbia 386 (320); Alberta 272 (270); Saskatchewan 191 (171); Manitoba 146 (134); Ontario 1,353 (1,268); Quebec 1,121 (889); New Brunswick 239 (154); Nova Scotia 166 (149); Prince Edward Island 24 (16); Newfoundland 49 (50).

The B.C., Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec figures are record highs.

Deaths in the first three months this year compared with the same period in 1962 (Manitoba and Newfoundland figures not available):

British Columbia 73 (63); Alberta 29 (43); Saskatchewan 24 (24); Ontario 346 (222); Quebec 165 (132); New Brunswick 24 (25); Nova Scotia 18 (35); Prince Edward Island 5 (3).

This is an artist's sketch of the prototype hydrofoil craft which is to be designed and built for the Royal Canadian Navy. The 150-foot craft is expected to be capable of speeds in excess of 50 knots. The project is the result of extensive research carried out by scientists of the Defence Research Board, with the object of producing a relatively small, high-speed, low-cost vehicle capable of efficient anti-submarine operations on the high seas. The DeHavilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., Toronto, is the prime contractor, with other Canadian industries contributing. (National Defence Photo)

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For May 24

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Day to break out of rut. Try the new. Stress versatility. Could be temptation to "bog down," but just hugging security is not enough. Take a chance on ideas, abilities.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Not so good for approaching ones in authority on subject of money. Wise course is discretion. Display sense of humor and responsibility. A little patience gains much in end.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Cycle very high. Those who attempt to talk behind your back are reprimanded by one in authority. Day to shine. Means do tasks with thoroughness, special skill.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Do some checking on statements, promises. Get behind-the-scenes. Have a look for yourself. Be amiable, but alert and "sharp." You might learn something of value. Exercise intuition.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Take care in dealing with friends. Petty jealousy could rear its ugly head. Be diplomatic. Permit others to do the "showing off." Your key to success is adjusting to current situation.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Good Mercury aspect stimulates thinking ideas. Look to future instead of brooding over past. Fine for new contacts. Seek company of those who share same interests.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Older individual appears to be intruding, but indications are he wants to help. You would be wise to listen. Day to show that you are not afraid of challenge, responsibility.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Accept certain restrictions as being temporary. They are there; they exist. Don't attempt to buck brick wall. Straighten out finances by planning. Bring forth a realistic budget.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Way you appear to associates, friends, fellow workers is important today. Could be clash of ideas. Show respect for rights of others and you will earn their respect. Avoid petty bickering.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): By giving a little extra, you make valuable point. Day to be determined, especially where finances are concerned. Be practical in entertaining. Avoid extravagance.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Today avoid extremes. Don't wear heart on sleeve. Keep some things to yourself. Good for being with "special person." But stay away from those who provoke you-to-anger.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Whatever you do, do it with gusto. Nothing halfway. Show strength of convictions. And make sure others fulfill past promises. Best to attend to details early. Tonight — relax.

If today is your birthday . . . you require "harmony" not only in family circle but in business . . . You enjoy and appreciate friends.

General Tendencies: Lunar cycle high for Gemini, Cancer, Leo. Special word to Sagittarius: Think before acting.

BATTLEFIELD A-ARMS STAY OUTSIDE ACCORD

U.S. Keeps Control Of Tactical Arms

OTTAWA (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk tipped in battlefield weapons in Europe will remain outside any NATO atomic organization.

The possibility has been suggested that the new structure for NATO's nuclear striking forces — bombers, fighter-bombers and U.S. Polaris submarines—might be extended to include a variety of bombardment missiles based in Europe. But it has been made clear the highest authority that such weapons as the 75-mile-range Sergeant missile, a fast-flying weapon recently sent to Europe, and the 500-mile-range Pershing, due to follow, will be excluded from any such NATO framework.

U.S. authorities consider it vital to keep these weapons—and the older, slower - firing liquid fuel rockets they are replacing gradually—with ground units.

U.S. RETAINS CONTROL

Presumably this also will apply to such missiles already supplied to Allied armies committed to the defence of western Europe, including the Sergeants which the West Germans are receiving from the United States.

The nuclear warheads will remain under U.S. control.

According to the latest estimates, the number of nuclear warheads for U.S. ground weapons in Europe has increased by 60 per cent during the last 24 to 28 months.

High U.S. authorities are pleased with the progress made at the NATO meeting ending today.

PROGRESS SEEN

Although some critics say the new framework for the NATO nuclear striking forces amounts to little, U.S. officials say a look back over the last two years show otherwise.

Two years ago, the Americans claim, it would have been considered out of the question for the non-nuclear allied countries in the role they will now be allocated in targeting, or for them to get the vast amount of information on nuclear forces they now can expect from the United States.

U.S. leaders feel the proposal for a NATO fleet of surface ships bearing Polaris missiles and manned by mixed crews may have advanced a step although there was no decision one way or the other on this at the Ottawa meeting.

TWENTY MILES OF HIGHWAY 401 TO BE WIDENED

12 to 16 Lanes Will Be Constructed

The $63,000,000 scheme will mean reconstruction of a 20-mile stretch of Highway 401—Metro Toronto's northern bypass—and when completed the highway will have 12 traffic lanes and at some sections 16 lanes.

The new highway, which will have nine new bridges, and four new railway overpasses among the 76 new structures, is expected to be build for 12 years.

After that period, income from gasoline tax and licence fees will considerably exceed depreciation and maintenance costs and will contribute a major economic boost to provincial income.

In a special report on the new highway, an Ontario committee said the highway has been designed with 1980's traffic volumes in mind.

"The explosive growth of traffic volumes on the section of Highway 401 recently through Metropolitan Toronto has far outdistanced all predictions by the most advanced experts in highway planning, municipal administration and related fields," their report said.

The reconstruction — between highways 27 and 48—has been made necessary by the present congestion on the four-lane highway which has a practical capacity of 48,000 vehicles a day, but carries traffic at a rate of 75,000 a day and sometimes 85,000 in peak hours.

Heavy traffic has brought countless accidents. Only one section of 401 the accident rate is nearly twice the rate for the province as a whole from the Quebec border to Windsor.

The report says further increase in traffic volume is virtually impossible." The report calls for the Toronto bypass section of Highway 401 has over the last eight years absorbed the entire increase in the economic, business and social life of Metro Toronto and the surrounding municipalities.

The design of the new highway includes six central lanes, two in each direction for through traffic and six outer lanes, three in each direction, for commuter or short-distance traffic.

Army Sergeant Shot Dead, Two Escape Killer

No Charges Laid In Either Incident

CAMP BORDEN, Ont. (CP)—Police today were investigating two separate shooting incidents —one in which an infantry camp sergeant was killed and another in which the wife of another sergeant at the same school was shot at but not injured.

Sgt. Herbert S. N. Wilson, 30, of the Queen's Own Rifles, was killed by a single shotgun blast Thursday as he sat in the sergeant's mess in the Royal Canadian School of Infantry here, 15 miles southwest of Barrie.

Police said that an hour earlier, Mrs. Leonard R. Demille, 30, wife of another army sergeant attached to the infantry school, was shot at in a Barrie barbershop.

No charges have been laid in either incident.

Provincial police said Sgt. Wilson, a weapons instructor at the infantry school, was shot as he talked with friends in the mess after dinner.

Sgt. Wilson, whose divorced wife and four children live in Calgary, gained that rank at 22 and was the youngest sergeant in the Canadian Army when appointed, Sydney Wilson, lives in Hamilton.

Police said the gunman walked to the mess hall after the shooting and ordered a drink. A cook with the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps was being held following the shooting.

GUN MISFIRED

In the shooting incident at Barrie, Lawrence Girdler, a customer at Mack's Barber Shop where Mrs. Demille works as a barber, said a man came in with a shotgun. The customer said the man pointed the weapon at Mrs. Demille and pulled the trigger, but the gun misfired.

Charles McNiven, another customer in the shop, threw his clippers at the gunman and Girdler and Mrs. Demille escaped out the door. Girdler said the man fired at them through the glass in the door, but the pellets missed.

The gunman had fled by the time police arrived. No one was injured.

ARREST LAWYER

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican State Attorney - General Louis J. Lefkowitz's former law associate was arrested Thursday, accused in a plot to bribe an assemblyman with a $50,000 liquor authority. Some $7,200 was said to have changed hands. Lefkowitz, a member of Governor Nelson Rockefeller's official family, was not cited in any way in the indictment. The defendant is Hyman D. Siegel, 57, active for 27 years with Lefkowitz in law firms that had died many cases before the SLA. Lefkowitz dropped out of the practice when he became attorney-general in 1957.

GOVT. SURVIVES NON-CONFIDENCE VOTE 147-76

Only Conservatives Voted for Motion

OTTAWA (CP)—The fledgling minority Liberal government easily survived its second test of strength in two days Thursday night when the Commons rejected a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence, 147 votes to 76.

Only the Conservatives voted against the government this time, in contrast to Tuesday night when the government managed a slim 11-vote margin on the issue of its decision to cut off further wrangling on Canadian soil.

Both the Social Credit and New Democratic parties lined up behind Prime Minister Pearson's government Thursday night.

Calculations were academic Thursday night in view of the two-sided result but 18 Liberals and Conservatives were sidelined by the device of "pairing", an absent member straighting with an opponent to abstain.

"Paired" were three Liberals and two Conservatives.

The issue was Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's motion that:

"While recognizing that Canada's economic growth during the year 1962 exceeded that of any country in the western world, this house regrets that the policies made by the prime minister and his colleagues have not been incorporated in the government's declaration of (legislative) intention as outlined in the speech from the throne, and further regrets that the policies announced fail to provide full opportunity for the people of Canada to continue the social advance and large economic growth of the past years."

Tuesday night's nuclear vote has been rolled on a New Democrat motion. The Social Credit party refrained from any non-confidence vote in the throne speech debate, an eight-day affair pinned on last week's outline of government legislative planning in the throne speech, at Parliament's opening.

In the Commons Thursday—fourth day of the debate—some of the rank-and-file MPs domi-

RUSK PROMISES PEARSON AID IN LAKE ISSUE

SIU President Upsets Peace Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson has asked the U.S. government—again — to use its influence to stop union harassment of Canadian ships operating into American ports on the Great Lakes.

Mr. Pearson raised the lake shipping problem at a special meeting Thursday night with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Mr. Rusk promised to take up the matter with Washington immediately.

The Pearson-Rusk talks on the dispute were held against the backdrop of worsening relations between the Canadian Labor Congress and the Seafarers International Union of North America.

SIU President Paul Hall upset peace talks by vowing to support Hal C. Banks of the Canadian SIU "to the hilt" and to continue to try to tie up ships manned with crews of the rival Canadian Maritime Union.

Meanwhile, the CLC told the government it may be forced by the U.S. harassment to take retaliatory action—a boycott of American ships in Canadian ports and in the St. Lawrence River.

USED POWER PLAY

The CLC used this power play last year to force a federal investigation of the SIU and Great Lakes labor troubles.

Mr. Hall statement, made in an interview with The Canadian Press in Washington, provoked meetings Thursday of CLC vice-President Claude Jodoin, Labor Minister Allan MacEachen and Mr. Pearson.

It was followed up by Mr. Pearson and Mr. MacEachen in their hurriedly arranged "chat" with Mr. Rusk at the prime minister's residence. Mr. Rusk is in Ottawa for the NATO ministerial council meeting.

Mr. Pearson said the Hall statement did not reflect a desire to work out a solution to the dispute. It was the kind of statement that could do "nothing but harm" efforts to resolve the situation.

The long-festering dispute has been the subject of high-level

Can Reduce Lung Cancer By Less Cigarette Smokers

TORONTO (CP) — Cigarette smokers have been offered yet another inducement to quit the habit.

A British doctor said Thursday that smokers who stop now and continue to refrain from smoking for five to 10 years will reduce the risk of developing lung cancer by 50 per cent.

Dr. Richard Doll of the medical Research Council's statistical research unit in London added that another five years of nonsmoking would reduce the risk by another 30 per cent.

Dr. Doll was speaking at the annual convention of the American Association for Cancer Research. Richard Doll and others studied some 700 of the world's cancer research specialists.

He said he and his colleagues believe in the element of induced risk "with complete confidence" after studies of the smoking habits of 40,000 British doctors during a seven-year period.

Since cigar and pipe smokers seldom inhale, Dr. Doll said, there are small risks in smoking pipes and cigars, but these risks do not rate at all against those of cigarette smokers."

The convention also heard that there has been "no major breakthrough" in the search for the cancer-causing agent, a virus carried by insects, although teams of scientists have sought such a connection in Africa.

Dr. Gregory T. O'Conor was commenting particularly on research by Dr. Denis Burkitt, an English surgeon working in Uganda who, since 1957, has been studying incidences of certain cancers in African children which follow closely the geographic spread of sleeping sickness.

Sleeping sickness has been blamed on a virus carried by the tsetse fly. Dr. O'Conor said a similar insect may be carrying a cancer-causing virus.

Dr. Burkitt's studies had shown that the cancerous growth occurred almost entirely in hot and humid climates where disease-carrying insects existed breed.

"However, it is difficult task to prove that such an insect-and virus relationship is involved in the human problem," Dr. O'Conor commented.

Corporation Tax Hard Hit Before Royal Commission

TORONTO (CP)—If a layman had to write a report after attending hearings of the royal commission on taxation for the last six weeks, his first recommendation would probably call for the elimination of the corporation tax.

Of the many issues raised so far during the hearings the corporation tax stood alone in being unopposed from all sides. Consumer groups, various associations, labor and management all have studies of the tax.

The 3½-week Toronto hearings, which ended Thursday, featured presentations of nearly this particular tax—set at a flat federal rate of 50 per cent on profits over $25,000. Provincial taxes add up to two percentage points on this.

The main argument is that corporations cannot be taxed, only individuals, and that consumers probably bear the brunt of the levy.

But the argument that appeared to carry the biggest impact came from Frank S. Capon of Montreal, vice-president of DuPont of Canada and a chartered accountant. He appeared before the commission in Montreal as an individual and said corporation taxes contributed to "gross inequities."

Because corporations know the government will take half their income, they regard a dollar as being worth only 50 cents, Mr. Capon said. They spend more on such things as lavish offices, company cars and planes.

They would be more inclined, he suggested, to tag the individual directly rather than in an ineffici. indirect manner.

The same suggestion came before the commission again in Toronto when Silverspar Corporation (Canada) Limited recommended that a surtax be placed on personal income as a substitute for corporation taxes.

H. D. Lightfoot, a professional engineer in Montreal, called for the elimination of the tax on the grounds that it is hidden and that all taxation should be in the open so taxpayers can as-

Trade Minister Sharp announced a trade mission will go to Hong Kong next month seeking a new wheat sales deal with Communist China.

Labor Minister MacEachen reported the unemployment insurance fund had a $23,000,000 deficit at the end of April.

Justice Minister Chevrier said increases in Canadian sugar prices are not out of line with higher prices on the world market.

Commons voted 147 to 76 against a non-confidence motion by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker. Only the Conservatives backed it.

It Is Record-Smashing Weather We Are Having -- Cool, Man, Cool

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario today emerged from its second straight night of unseasonably cold weather with records smashed in several areas.

The arctic blast, which hit most of the province, sent temperatures tumbling and frost was widespread.

The mercury dropped to 29 degrees above zero in London, breaking the record there for the date. The old record, set in 1925, It was 29 in Hamilton, five degrees colder than the old record set in 1925 and tied in 1956.

The temperature also hit 29 in Peterborough. The old record of 32 had stood since 1956. The 32 degrees logged by Trenton was the record of 32 established in 1956.

The cold wave extended from Newfoundland to Ontario bringing a continuation of unseasonably low temperatures to most Eastern provinces.

Frosts along the St. Lawrence Valley with warming temperatures early today.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan, with generally sunnay weather Thursday, are promised a fresh outbreak of cold Arctic air in northern sections for today as a wave sweeps down from the Northwest Territories.

Tobacco, Grape, Strawberry Growers Hard Hit by Frost

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS.

Heavy crop losses—too great to be yet assessed—have hit Ontario tobacco farmers in a second straight night of record low temperatures spread frost through much of the province.

Losses to the St. Catharines area grape and strawberry crops are estimated at 75 per cent.

Tobacco growers in the Brantford - Simcoe - Delhi area estimated a loss of $400,000 from damage to three-quarters of their plantings.

Temperatures dropped to 32 degrees in parts of the Niagara Peninsula fruit belt and to 30 in the Holland Marsh market gardening area north of Toronto. Ground temperatures in the Delhi tobacco area were as low as 19.

Smudge pots and old rubber tires were burned in fields through the area and in the Niagara Peninsula wine companies and growers began chartered planes to fly over the area.

A small air armada took off from Niagara District Airport in an attempt to mix up the air and prevent further temperature up. Twenty fixed - wing planes and seven helicopters flew low over the fruit belt from 4:15 a.m. to 8:05 a.m. and did their best to save the threatened crop.

Eight of the planes were chartered by G. Sright and Company Limited, 12 were provided by the St. Catharines Flying Club and three by Canadair of their plantings.

Goes Home Loaded With Medals

Castro Makes Cuba Full-Fledged Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP)—Through his richly ballyhooed visit to Russia, Fidel Castro has apparently converted Cuba into a full-fledged satellite of the Soviet Union.

If this means he now is going home to Havana, loaded with Soviet medals, to launch aggressive Communist operations against other Latin American countries, the world may well face another and far graver military crisis than that of last fall in the Caribbean.

For President Kennedy has made it clear to the Communist leadership that peace in the Caribbean can be preserved only under two conditions. One is that Premier Khrushchev must not ship nuclear rockets to Cuba again. The other is that Castro must avoid hostile actions against neighboring countries.

The assumption in high Washington quarters is that Khrushchev wants to preserve Castro's Cuba as a showplace of Communist conquest far from the shores of the Soviet Union. If this proves to be correct, it is expected that Khrushchev will keep the Cuban prime minister under a tight leash indefinitely.

In the course of farewell ceremonies for Castro in Moscow Thursday, Khrushchev renewed his previous pledges to come to Cuba's aid if it is attacked. He said that any future crisis over Cuba would be harder to solve than that of last October, when he agreed to remove his nuclear missiles and nuclear-capable bombers from the Caribbean island.

His words as to the gravity of a future crisis were reminiscent of warnings issued earlier this year by President Kennedy to the effect that any new aggressive move by the Soviet Union against the United States through Cuba would confront the world with the most dangerous crisis it has known.

Car-Plugged Driveways At Hospital Cause Concern

Car plugged driveways leading to patient admission entrances and around to the rear of Belleville General Hospital are causing worries for hospital officials — and also for the city fire and police departments.

And the hospital board of governors are going to be asked to do something about it.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance has complained to the Hospital Board that parked cars so clutter up hospital driveways that it would be impossible for fire trucks to move freely if a serious fire were to occur.

At the present parking is permitted on one side of the driveways, but double parking often makes it impossible for another vehicle to get through.

"Many times I have visited the hospital only to find that it would be impossible to move a fire truck around the building," stated Fire Chief Vance.

And Inspector J. Clair Hayes of the city police department, has the same complaint.

So a written request asking for a section of the parking along certain driveways is to go before the hospital board.

And Hospital Board chairman J. N. Yanover says as far as he is concerned the request will receive "every co-operation."

75 Members Of C of C Have Not Paid Dues

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce shows about $1,000 surplus income over expenditures for the past four months, in its financial report, but the directors still aren't satisfied. About 75 members haven't yet paid their dues.

These dues are among those payable through the Downtown Businessmen's Association, secretary-manager told the monthly meeting of the Chamber board of directors yesterday, and the Chamber has been hesitant about how to collect them. It might be necessary to bill delinquent members on a separate basis, he said.

"By all means, go ahead," said Chamber of Commerce director Irving Schulman, who is also a director of the Downtown Businessmen's Association.

The Chamber directors decided to go ahead with their own collections of delinquent dues, but not before Mr. Schulman had pointed out that the new members brought in by the Downtown Businessmen's Association were more than enough to counterbalance the overdue dues.

C of C Secretary Will Represent Local Chamber

Belleville Chamber of Commerce representation at the annual meeting of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce has fallen to Earl Dichnoether, secretary-manager of the local chamber. The decision was made at the regular monthly meeting of the directors of the Chamber, yesterday afternoon at the Quinte Hotel.

Irving Schulman was selected, and he accepted the job, but he learned yesterday of developments which would make his attendance at the meeting — May 29, 30 and 31 — impossible.

Earl Dichnoether, as secretary manager of the local chamber would have attended the meeting anyway, but his selection as official representative of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce will allow him to present resolutions and vote at the meeting.

Recreation Highlights

Bruce Jarvah, Assistant Director

A greater interest in track and field, both on the part of local high schools and public schools alike is becoming increasingly evident.

For many years now, high schools in the district have submitted entries in the COSSA meets held during each year, and those participating in such events have brought untold honors both to their schools and to themselves.

It is because of this increasing interest in outdoor sports that the Recreation Division of the East Central Ontario Zone, have decided to begin preliminary work on an extensive track and field program to be continued this season.

Recent meetings held at Cobourg and attended by Recreation Directors and assistants from surrounding communities have produced some positive results.

DAY-TIME MEETS

It was urged that as much as possible, meets should be arranged for the playground age groups. This would undoubtedly involve a little effort in providing transportation, but this presents the best opportunity and adequate facilities are completed meets. It was also suggested that evening twilight meets should be continued and expanded for the older groups. One major point expressed was that more emphasis in all committees is needed on the following: girls track and field competitions, trials at all distances and age groups, and hop, step and jump.

It is the general opinion of the directors present that the best method of holding a district championship meet is on a two day long meet, would be a series of three twilight meets, dividing the events among Trenton, Marmora, Oshawa, and Cobourg, with the total results to constitute the championship standings. All communities in the district would be eligible to enter competitors in these meets. The division of events would be primarily on the basis of facilities available in each community.

Each year on local playgrounds a wide and varied program is carried out by the attending director, that is a basic program that has not been carried out to any great extend, however, is an outdoor track and field program. It is hoped that this year because of the experienced staff available that some type of this program may be available to some or all of the local playgrounds. The program would not in any way be competitive, but would be made available to these boys and girls who do possess an interest in outdoor summer sports.

DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIPS

Regular meets could then be encouraged between surrounding playground groups, with a final district championship meet late in the season, preferably before the end of August.

Much can be done to better the facilities now and already available each season and it is hoped that by the presentation of such an outdoor track and field program that this can be counted on as one step farther in the direction of better health and recreation for the children of Belleville.

Jaycees Will Look After Trash Barrels

Belleville Chamber of Commerce likes the trash barrels they have distributed through the city, according to Chamber president Ben Corke. He spoke of his tender feeling for the trash barrels yesterday, at the monthly meeting of the directors of the Chamber.

Don Burt, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, had suggested the Jaycees take over the barrels, replace them and provide for their maintenance, as part of the Jaycee's "clean up — paint up" campaign.

"That's a difficult request," replied Mr. Corke, "we hate to give those things up."

"I'd be happy to see the Jaycees take over," suggested J. B. Houston, and he moved they be allowed to do so.

So the Jaycees will take over administration of Belleville's trash barrels.

RELIGION SHOWS

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Judge W. H. Fox of the London juvenile and family court noted Tuesday that of the 600 boys and girls who have appeared in the last two years, only two were Jewish. He attributed this to the concentrated religious training received by a Jewish youth.

Hearing Will Be Set Next Week by Court

The date for a preliminary hearing against Spiros Kristor, Belleville chef, charged with fraud after a fire at his Victoria Avenue apartment, will be set next week.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills remanded Spiros, now on bail, one week when he appeared in city court today. The magistrate told him a specific date for the hearing would be set next Friday.

"It can be a fairly lengthy preliminary," added Crown Attorney John Pringle.

New Trucking Regulations Not Favored

Sparks may fly at the annual meeting of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, in Toronto May 29 to 31, when one Belleville-prompted resolution is presented.

Sparks nearly flew at the monthly meeting of the directors of the local chamber, when G. A. Wishart told the directors about the resolution.

It applies to a new regulation issued by the Ontario Minister of Transport, which requires all commercial truckers who operate more than four vehicles to file their rate schedule with the provincial government. After the rates are filed, they can be changed only after payment of a five dollar fee, and a specified waiting period. Mr. Wishart suggested this regulation would work in favor of the big trucking companies, and might pave the way to eventual government control of trucking rates.

He added that the new regulations, now in effect, would tend to equalize all trucking rates — at the rates now charged by the least efficient carriers.

Several local firms, Mr. Wishart said, had written Premier Roberts, protesting the regulations, but they found the premier's reply unsatisfactory. The government's position, according to Mr. Robarts, is that the new regulations are designed to promote greater stability in the trucking industry, and that there will be no interference with rates.

After discussion, the directors of the Chamber agreed to support a motion requesting the government to reconsider the rates of the new regulations. Local representatives in the Provincial House may be asked to 'look' into the matter.

ONTARIO'S NEW WAGE PROTECTION PLAN

One of the most important pieces of Labour Legislation affecting Ontario wage earners comes into effect JUNE 1ST when new amendments to The Wages Act become law. This Legislation specifies in detail what every employer must do in providing employees a full statement in writing of wages earned and deductions made. The statement must be made at the time wages are paid. Employers and employees are urged to study the following rules, regulations and penalties.

Hon. H. E. Bowman,
Minister of Labour.

(1) Every employer shall furnish to every employee at the time wages are paid to the employee a statement in writing setting forth,
  (a) the period of time or the work for which the wages are being paid;
  (b) the rate of the wages to which the employee is entitled unless such information is furnished to the employee in some other manner;
  (c) the amount of the wages to which the employee is entitled;
  (d) the amount of each deduction from the wages of the employee that is not authorized by the employee or required by law and the purpose for which each deduction is made;
  (e) any living allowance or other payment to which the employee is entitled; and
  (f) the net amount of money being paid to the employee.

(2) Every employer who fails to comply with subsection 1 or who furnished any employee with a false statement under subsection 1 is guilty of an offence and on summary conviction is liable to a fine of not more than $500.

For full details on The Wages Act, reference should be made to The Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1960, Chapter 417 and to The Statutes of Ontario, 1962-63, Chapter 142.

This law becomes effective June 1st, 1963

AT LAST — 16-year-old Roy Paul, of 123 Humewood Drive, Belleville, was presented with the Governor-General's Certificate of Meritorious Conduct yesterday, in recognition of his rescue of four girls, lost in the Northwest Territories, more than a year ago. Making the presentation are Percival Pickering, President of the District Council of the Boy Scouts, and Murray Maw, Boy Scouts District Commissioner.

Governor-General's Award Finally Catches up With Whitehorse Scout Hero

It's official now. Roy Paul, 16, of 123 Humewood Drive, Belleville yesterday was finally awarded a Certificate of Meritorious Conduct from the Governor-General for the rescue of four young girls lost in the night and the snow near Whitehorse, N.W.T. during March of 1962.

Roy was Patrol Leader Roy Paul at the time, a Queen's Scout in the scout troop at the RCAF Station at Whitehorse. The four girls — all about 12 years old and one of them Roy's sister, started to walk from the married quarters of the station to the Department of Transport area. They chose to walk directly, crossing through a cleared area of bush, rather than follow the road. They left about three o'clock in sub-zero weather.

When the girls didn't return for supper, at about six o'clock, J. Leslie Paul, Roy's father, set out to look for them. He drove along the road the girls should have followed, and saw the tracks where they had cut through the brush. He tried to follow, but broke through the crust on the snow and floundered waist-deep. He returned to his home and set about organizing a search party.

While the search party was being organized, Roy put on his own snowshoes and set out to track the girls. He found them within an hour, huddled in a three-sided shelter, cold and tired. They had lost their way less than a mile from the houses of the married quarters.

There was nothing Roy could do for them, so he walked back out, and returned with the search party. The girls were carried home, by the search party, about 10 o'clock.

Roy was recommended for the Governor-General's Award, in recognition of his act, but a hitch came up when the award was to be presented. Such awards are normally presented on Feb. 22 — Lord Baden Powell's birthday — but Roy had moved to Belleville by then, and was no longer associated with scouts.

The award was forwarded to Belleville and finally presented yesterday by Percival Pickering, President of the District Council of the Boy Scouts, and Murray Maw, Boy Scout District Commissioner, in an unofficial ceremony.

The presentation came just in time — next month Roy will be moving with his family to Penticton, B.C.

ROBERT TEMPLE

South Hastings Member Makes Maiden Speech

OTTAWA (Special) — South Hastings MP Robert Temple, formally bowed into federal affairs today with a sharp reminder that individualism and national progressiveness must be a working combination for Canada of the future.

In his maiden speech before Parliament, the new Liberal member emphasized:

(1) Need for new markets and expanded trade as a safeguard against reversion to an economic class system, and,

(2) That "higher" education is a must to this end.

But these guarantees of national economic safety were also given with a warning.

While government sets about these goals, Mr. Temple warned against any walkover of individual rights.

"We must encourage private initiative and the rights of the private individual must be protected zealously," he said.

"If we lose this we have lost all."

Mr. Temple confined his first speech to remarks centred around his trip of points on trade, education and individualism.

Within those brackets, however, he managed to acquaint the House in a few tidy sentences concerning his constituency—one of the prime needs of any member taking his first bow. Particularly, was this evident as he reviewed the government's trade proposals thus far in the life of the Parliament.

NEW MARKETS NEEDED

However, Mr. Temple also seized the opportunity in mentioning local industries in his constituency, to make some points on the international trade complex.

"We must trade and open new markets," he told the House.

He warned that failure to expand trade and national business would once again lead to a decline in national earnings and thus re-open the economic "great gulf" between Canadians.

This "disparity of wealth" could, he asserted, lead to one class eventually asserting itself over a less-economically-privileged group.

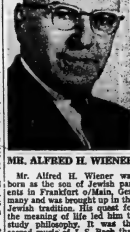
One of the farreaching solutions to economic dilemmas could be gained through education.

A look to the day when we Canadians will observe university education the same way we look upon high school education," he said.

"The nation, he claimed, could not afford to be left in ignorance.

"If we rely on yesterday's knowledge we are out of touch with reality."

In traditionally local vein he reminded the House of his constituency's current contribution to the country's business—with some new comments reflecting on trade.



BIG CHEESE PRODUCERS

A number of industrial enterprises in his riding were already—and by long distance—contributing to Canada's exports.

These included Bata Shoe, Stephens-Adamson and Northern Electric.

"Northern," he said, has designed and now is producing a switching system of importance to TV networks.

Inevitably, he turned to the most publicly-acclaimed export from his constituency—cheese — almost half of the 115 million pounds exported last year from Canada was produced in East and Central Ontario. And in this context, Hastings County also was the fourth largest producer of cheese among Ontario's counties, said Mr. Temple.

MR. ALFRED H. WIENER

Mr. Alfred H. Wiener was born as the son of Jewish parents in Frankfurt a/Main, Germany and was brought up in the Jewish tradition. His quest for the meaning of life led him to study philosophy. It was the sacred music of J. S. Bach that directed his attention to Christ. His encounter in Hitler's Concentration Camp Buchenwald became the turning point of his life and faith. Mr. Wiener left Germany in 1939 and came to Canada where since 1945 he is associated with the "Hope of Israel Movement, Inc." proclaiming the Gospel of Love to Israel and also ministering to Christians on behalf of the Jewish people.

Mr. Wiener will be in Frankford on Saturday, 8 p.m. in Frankford Free Methodist Church — Sunday 11 a.m.; 2.30 p.m. and 7.30 p.m.

Trenton Council Is Elated As Minister Pledges to Pay 75 Per Cent of Bridge Cost

TRENTON—Trenton council voted last night to express its appreciation to Ontario Minister of Highways Hon. C. S. McNaughton, his staff, and Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A., Hastings West, for co-operation regarding a proposed second bridge across the River Trent.

Another resolution called for the co-operation of Hastings South federal member Robert Temple with the town and the Ontario Department, when it come to approaching the federal government for part of the cost of the bridge.

A third resolution set the route of the new bridge at a point where it would take off across the river from the east, close to the CNR four-bridge and come out at the west side of the river at the juncture of Front Street with Division Street.

The resolutions came as an outcome to Wednesday's meeting of council with Mr. McNaughton and Mr. Sandercock. At this meeting, Mr. McNaughton committed his department to pay three-quarters of the cost of the bridge.

Last night, council was told that the Ontario Department of Highways was also agreeable to paying 75 per cent of reconstruction cost for work on Dundas Street East and Dufferin Ave. The town must consult the Ontario Municipal Board on the matter, as the work would conceivably be carried before the OMB received the town's proposed capital spending budget for the next five years.

ANNEXATION SNAGS

Snags are beginning to appear in the town's forthcoming annexation of parts of Murray Township, adjacent to Trenton's borders. Annexation date, as set by the Ontario Municipal Board, is Jan. 1, 1964. Left to the town and township councils to iron out are compensatory payments to the township. The township wants the town to pay its share of school debenture costs. To this, town council is agreeable. The township also wants the town to compensate it for a loss of assessment as applied to certain road areas which the town is unwilling to do. Murray council wants an answer as to the town's attitude in the matter by May 31.

"You need to be a good horse dealer when dealing with those birds out in Murray Township," was all Councillor Burtt had to say on the subject.

A meeting between the councils will be set up.

Wasil Sidor, developer of Westmount Park residential development, west of the town has written to council to ask, "To whom should I pay rent for hydrants in my sub-division; installed by myself and owned by myself?" Mr. Sidor says that the bad indeed installed the hydrants. Now, the Trenton Public Utilities Commission, he says, wants to charge him $35 per year "rent" on the said hydrants and $5 per hydrant for turning on water to service them. "It's hardly fair for me to install the hydrants then pay rent," said Mr. Sidor. "Should I pay rent to myself?"

Council will inform Mr. Sidor that it's strictly a two-way agreement between him and the PUC.

WANTS HEALTH UNIT

One letter, addressed to council, will be passed on to the board of health.

Mrs. Winnifred Donaldson, Reg. N., of Belleville, called for council's support in the formation of a Hastings County Health Unit. Mrs. Donaldson said that there was such a need for a unit that some Hastings County residents went to other counties for service. She said that a unit would be very beneficial in helping to cope with water pollution in areas frequented by summer cottagers. Medical officers of health in the area are busy men, Mrs. Donaldson said and would appreciate the assistance a health unit would give.

Councillor Weaver's absence from last night's meeting was noted. The item of four items on the agenda seemed to fall under the jurisdiction of his particular committees and when he returns to town next Thursday he will find a considerable amount of reading and writing him.

One item that cannot wait for Councillor Weaver's return is a meeting between council's finance committee and the public utilities commission.

The PUC told council, in a last night, that since council has now asked the commission to turn over "surplus funds" annually, the commission claims has been used in the past to finance capital works). The PUC has suggested all projects until it is assured, in writing, that council has set aside the necessary funds for such projects. The PUC notes, in the letter, that it has not provided for a long list of projects on Sidney St., asked for by the town, in its 1963 budget.

A meeting with the commission will be arranged for next Tuesday.

PROTEST CONTRACT

Council voted to buy a King-Seagrave pumper for the Trenton fire department for $31,941, provided the Ontario Municipal Board approves of the purchase.

C. E. Hickey and Sons Ltd., a firm which supplies such equipment, had written to the council to protest the awarding of the fire truck contract to the King-Seagrave company.

Mr. Hickey claimed that his firm had tendered on the purchase of the truck, had the lowest tender and then lost out because the King-Seagrave firm had offered a trade-in allowance on the old truck.

"This is unethical," claimed Mr. Hickey. "We weren't given an opportunity to offer a trade-in. We strongly protest that new tenders should be called. I am looking forward to your reply with a great deal of interest."

Council's reply will be to the effect that Chief Fire Marshall Ellis liked the King-Seagrave pumper the best of all offered, and after all, the chief's recommendation in such matters is the prime consideration.

An April call-out into the township of Sidney responded to by the Trenton fire department, was noted and will be queried.

"How'd they get out there?" asked acting mayor C. V. Graham.

"Sidney's got a truck of its own," contributed Councillor Ross Burtt. "We'll have trouble collecting our fee."

DRAINAGE PROBLEM

Gould St. residents, who have complained about the lack of proper drainage in their area, will be accommodated by a temporary pipe in the water-course. The job will suffice for five years, or at least until development on Sidney St. permits the installation of a more permanent drainage agreement.

Council voted to adopt recommendations from the Trail Tie Committee that traffic lights at the corner of King and Division Sts. be left on throughout control from 7 a.m. to 9.30 p.m. and that the school guard at Prince Charles School be discontinued (when 2 operated lights have been installed) be permanently removed at the end of June.

A recommendation from the Trenton Parking Committee that Trenton Chamber of Commerce be permitted to "take over" the operation of parking meters for not more than a three-day period for the sum of $100 per day, during a week-end sports, planned for "sometime before September," was endorsed. It is understood the chamber intends to give free parking privileges to shoppers for the period in question.

Council also voted to proclaim June 2 to June 8 "Senior Citizens' Week."

Civil Service Assoc. Local To Hold Meet

TRENTON — On Saturday, delegates from all over Eastern Ontario will converge on the Trenton Legion Hall to attend the annual meeting of the Quinte local of the Civil Service Association of Canada.

An all-day workshop is planned, (starting time; 9 a.m.) during which such subjects as prevailing wage rates, regulations, grievance procedures, negotiation and arbitration will be discussed.

National officers expected to attend are Ralph Combs, assistant national secretary and J. J. Waddell, Regional vice-president. James Brooks will also be in attendance and the delegates will be welcomed by Harold Tuckaberry of the local.

Cost of V.O.N. Service Will Be Increased

TRENTON — An increase in the cost of V.O.N. service in Trenton was reported by the treasurer, Garry Shore, at the monthly Board meeting held on Tuesday. The cost has jumped from $3.13 per visit in 1961, to $3.31 in 1962, while the full fee charged to patients has remained at $2.50.

Since National office strongly advocate a policy of making charges correspond with costs a motion was passed at the meeting to increase the charge per visit to $3.50, to be effective July 1.

Mrs. James Utlee was present at the Board meeting to make final plans for the tag day to be held Friday, May 31 and Saturday, June 1. Mrs. Utlee is convening the tag days.

In the report of nursing service for the month of April, Miss Ann Stewart, nurse in charge of the Trenton Branch, noted that a total of 194 visits were made, 77 of these were nursing care visits. The rest were for health instruction.

The course of pre-natal classes has terminated and was most successful, with an enrollment of 17.

Miss Grace Kidd of Trenton, a post-graduate public health student from the University of Ottawa, is with the Trenton branch of the V.O.N. this month for field experience.

Councillor Ross Burtt Wants Extensive Committee Probe

TRENTON — Is it true that "someone" is trying to block construction of D. H. Hahn's "maisonettes" all over town?

Councillor Ross Burtt is wondering.

He told Trenton council last night that it looked to him as if this were the case and he called for an extensive investigation by council's Economic and Industrial Development Committee, headed by Councillor C. A. Weaver.

The maisonettes were first introduced to the civic scene in March, 1962. At that time, the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board approved of a plan to place the row housing opposite Coulter Crescent on Dufferin Ave.

The then council first approved, then rejected the idea. Coulter Crescent residents objected strongly.

A few months ago, the maisonette sponsors seemed to have found the ideal spot for the development on North Sidney St. But tests revealed the land to be too "wet" for construction. A further deal to place the maisonettes on North Byron St. (Wooler) was made the developer couldn't get clear title to the land.

Now, Mr. Wasil Sidor has offered part of his land, west of the town and south of his Westmount Park development, for the maisonettes. Since the land is in Murray Township, the township must give its consent for approval. Council, conscious that this land will become part of Trenton within the Jan. 1, 1964 annexation, suggested that the Trenton planning board investigate the proposal.

In an aside to a reporter, Mr. Sidor stated, "Council may be interested in turning this development. There's always the possibility that supermarkets could be built in this area."

"Isn't it time that Trenton's problems were looked into?" asked Burtt. "Isn't it time that we had a committee to look into the whole idea.

As for council:

Councillor James Duncan said that he couldn't see council arguing with a unanimous decision of the planning board.

"Not without creating another hassel," agreed veteran councillor Ross Burtt.

Then, Mr. Burtt called for the investigation by Councillor Weaver's committee. (Councillor Weaver was absent from last night's meeting.)

H. T. Law, representing the developer, told council that in 1962 the planning board, (at least, a number of its members) had approved the area in question for multiple housing use.

"The letter's on file," said Mr. Law.

Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry pointed out to council that it was at the moment no direct control over Mr. Sidor's property, as it is still a part of Murray Township.

Mr. Sidor, also present at last night's meeting, asked to have the terms of his agreement with the town (re sub-division be received). By the terms of the agreement, he is permitted to erect single family dwellings and commercial buildings.

In an aside to a reporter, Mr. Sidor stated, "Council may be interested in turning this development. There's always the possibility that supermarkets could be built in this area."

Liberals Clear Highest Hurdle

Facing the highest hurdle much earlier in the race than many had expected, the new Liberal government of Prime Minister Lester Pearson has survived a vote on its nuclear weapons policy.

The New Democratic Party moved a motion of non-confidence expressing regret at the government's decision to allow nuclear arms on Canadian soil. This was no more than might have been expected—opposition to such a policy was one of the main planks of the platform on which the NDP fought, and lost, the election.

There is nothing inconsistent in the decision of the Progressive Conservatives to endorse this expression of regret. Efforts to further delay a decision on this issue were responsible for the defeat of the Diefenbaker Government. But the Conservatives could easily have side-stepped the issue at this time, because the motion as presented flatly expressed the conviction that accepting nuclear weapons would result in "lessening the chances of nuclear disarmament and increasing the danger of nuclear war." Official Conservative policy never went that far when they were in power. The most that was argued was that acceptance might bring such undesirable results.

Indeed, the most interesting and revealing feature of the voting on this motion was the manner in which the Conservatives voted in a body, with only two exceptions and a dozen abstentions, for the NDP motion.

It is extremely doubtful whether any such unanimity existed within the party, or even within the Cabinet, prior to the crisis which resulted in the Diefenbaker Government's defeat in the House.

That development, and the resignations of Defence Minister Douglas Harkness and Trade Minister George Hees, appear to have crystallized the opinion of the rank and file in a rather surprising manner. Though he went down to personal defeat at the polls, External Affairs Minister Howard Green appears to have won in adversity a prize he could not attain in the days of his good fortune—the endorsation by the party of his personal views on this question of nuclear arms.

Familiar Tune in Turkey

Another attempted revolt has been crushed in Turkey.

There is always something hauntingly familiar about political developments in that country. They seem to follow a set pattern. Inevitably, they involve the military.

Looking around at other countries in this Minor, though, it becomes evident that little similarity exists between their troubles and those which disturb the Turks. The strife in Lebanon a year or so ago, for instance, centred not around the armed forces, but on differences between the Christian and Moslem communities.

Then, if one lets one's mind stray, one discovers why the Turkish pattern seems so well known. It is practically identical to that which recurs, time and time again, in many Latin American lands.

One would not expect much similarity in national characteristics between the people of South America, largely of mixed Spanish and Indian blood, and those of Turkey. The explanation, perhaps, lies in another area. Turkey, once considered "the Sick Man of Europe," (much of the Turkish empire lay across the Dardanelles in those years), was yanked from the past into modern times by the iron will of a progressive-minded dictator, Kemal Ataturk. Probably, it could not have been reformed so rapidly in any other way. But it would appear that Turkey today is paying the price for the methods used to achieve a worthwhile objective. The land was conditioned to accept autocratic methods applied in the name of democracy—and ever since lesser men have been using similar methods to further less clearly desirable aims.

"During my six weeks' stay in Greenland, from early July until mid August, I experienced the peculiar joy of spring, high summer, and the coming of autumn, in terms of climate and plant variations. Indeed, I found this one of the most fascinating things about the country; the ever-changing vegetation as plants sprang up, bloomed, and changed to vivid autumnal colouring in a matter of weeks, as the sun changed its course from an almost static position overhead for twenty-four hours of each day to a low, wide circle, sometimes above and sometimes below the horizon."—Howard Brunton, British geologist.

Brutal Boxing At Home in Our Violent Times

By Sydney Harris

Several readers have written in lately to remark their surprise that I have not commented on the proposals in various states to outlaw professional prize-fighting, following the recent deaths of a few boxers.

In all honesty, I cannot get exercised one way or the other about prize-fighting in our society. Assuredly, as the Pope has observed, it is a brutal and dehumanizing activity (not boxing itself, but its commercial ramifications) — yet why waste any indignation on it?

We live in an extraordinarily violent society. America may be a non-violent country in its foreign relations (though some might doubt this too) but our internal relations are filled with race, bitterness, hostility and the kind of incivility that is only a hairs-breadth removed from psychical conflict.

Big cities are not safe at night. New York's magnificent Central Park in the heart of the city, cannot be walked in with ease — a fact which would shock and disgust not only every European but even observers of what we call "primitive" societies. The American style of life has become more of a jungle than the modern jungle.

If people as a whole have no outlet for their repressed aggressions, and they can gratify their blood-lust vicariously, watching two men bash each other's brains out, I see no reason to put an end to such a spectacle. It is barbarous, but it is confined to adults who know what they are doing — like playing around auto racers — and are well paid for the chances they take.

Indeed, I would like the fatalities in professional boxing is as pointless as pointing out that cigarette smoking be stopped because some drivers are killed — while still some 50,000 people, mainly homicide on the highways increases every year with no effective program of prevention.

What is stupidly hypocritical about professional prize-fighting is the insistence by its proponents that is is a "sport" of any sort. It is nothing of the sort. It is a legitimized way of permitting the public to give vent to its savage instincts. This is why everyone at a fight wants a knockout — which is a temporary murder. If it is a good fight, no matter how inexpertly conducted, is one in which the maximum of punishment is given and received.

Those who attend fights want to witness death, like the ring — just as those who watch a high-wire performer are waiting for a fall. When the fall happens, the cry that goes up from the crowd is horror and delight. Until we know this, we do not know ourselves at all.

Rent Land For Boquet

Pembroke Observer

It is part of the charm of the United Kingdom that many old customs remain.

Where else in the Western world, for example, would you find the Chancellor of the Exchequer each year paying a property company in Lincolnshire a cheque for £75, payment for the maintenance of a castle which never existed. The imaginary castle was created by Charles II (1660-1685) in order to get more money from the Privy purse. The British Treasury continues to pay this sum as part of the obligations taken over on lands which now belong to the State.

And where but in England would there be a small garden fete which each year pays one shilling or a "bunch of flowers in season" as a rental for the land? Or the modern free-wheeling, big-dealing real estate tycoon who pays nominal claims from a London brewer an annual rent of "one quart of the finest English ale" for a public house he incorporated into a new office block?

Nor could anything be more of an oddity than the annual visit to the law courts paid by the comptroller and solicitor of the City of London Corporation. They go to pay a "quit-rent" for land in Shropshire and for a vanished forge. The rents amount to a bag of six horseshoes and 61 nails.

"I thought they'd never stop listening to you."

Canning factory men in Eastern Ontario were told here Friday by Alex McLaren of the Ontario Farm Labor Force, that labor problems confronting district canning factory proprietors for the coming canning season must be solved from within the community without drastic transfer of workers from outside points. Speaking at a special meeting of canning factory owners which was called to discuss labor needs, Mr. McLaren stated that although authorities recognized the seriousness of the situation, no really concrete solution has been offered. Responsibility for the initiative in securing what help is available in each community must come from the canners, however, he stated.

With an apparent desire for a "chicken dinner," a trio of juveniles stole three roasted chickens from the kitchen of Dickens Front Street tea room late Friday afternoon. Many Suffer Boredom

Vallejo, Calif., Times-Herald

It is astonishing how often the word "boredom" pops up in efforts to explain the ills of our scientific-industrial society.

Educators say the school dropouts are bored.

Specialists say boredom is a "big factor in juveniles' search for "kicks," a quest that sometimes leads them into crime so vicious that it staggers even criminologists.

Scholar Erich Fromm comes along now and says it may be that 20th century man has helped to construct a civilization whose crucial elements largely bore him to tears.

Countless factory and office workers find little interest in their work, which often is so beautifully organized that the juices are squeezed out of it.

Untold numbers of Americans are dulled, if not irritated, by tedious hours of commuting by rail, bus or bumper-to-bumper private car.

All this is not a new problem, except perhaps in magnitude. Many people feel they make no personal imprint on life. They are cogs in the wheel, among like chips in a millrace. There is little they can conquer.

Efforts to stir interest in active, creative sidelines seem to many a patch on life that does not stick.

So, as the kids seek "kicks", the adults chase excitements. They collect experiences to offset the dullness and fill out the day. They move about just for the sake of moving . . .

It's no wonder some of the murder and mayhem that energetic plunge into politics. There a man conquers, gets a grip on something that is big, and man can make an imprint. Reward is personal.

The question is big. Have we gone far forward removing the drudgery from scratching a living, only to find that in its place man without the hard stimulus that this effort provided? Have we necessitated and automated ourselves into a condition of physical and mental freedom that we don't know how to use?

We'd better turn up some answers. The hobbies and vacation spins are not enough. It is time, with the hands and the brain, that must be creative — and fully challenging. Today too little of it is.

Policewomen Follow Trend

Tailor and Cutter, London

The ladies on the beat are trying to be lovelier.

According to a report in a Sunday newspaper, the constabelles of Nottingham wish to wear their skirts shorter than the force permits and have been showing more than the regulation length of leg by tucking their skirts over a few inches at the waistline and increasing the distance between hem and ground.

Nottingham goggles, Imagination boggles.

Trace the psychological reasons for this little touch of fashion consciousness and you come out with the rather touching conclusion that even a policewoman wants to be loved — and does not mind a follow up your reasoning with the simple question: "Then why did she the police force?"

For there is no doubt that among the enforcers of the law is no place to make your fortune if you are a confirmed Popularity Jack.

Reds Accept Blue Jeans

Watertown Times

Americans probably couldn't care less, but for the record Yankee-type blue jeans have finally been recognized and accepted in the Soviet Union. This followed a long period of disdain.

"Blue jeans are not worn by Hollywood parasites as previously believed but by western cowboys in honest and hard work," the newspaper Izvestia has informed its readers. The editor of Izvestia, in his way, is Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's son-in-law.

Apparently Khrushchev researched the matter during his recent tour of the United States back in 1959 when he spent considerable time in midwest and western territory.

What Khrushchev and Izvestia don't know is that blue jeans started out as work clothes during World War II when Rosie the Riveter borrowed the rugged denim trousers for assembly line. And when the men came home, she continued to don hers for spring housecleaning, for painting and gardening. Meanwhile, men began to adopt them for fishing, hunting, hiking, boating and riding — as well as work.

Eventually, blue jeans became part of an anti-snobbism trend, called "the poor look." The girl who everyone knew could well afford chic, more expensive sportswear chose her tattered (on purpose) jeans. And recently the Ivy league crowd began to turn up the cuff a bit knee, leaving the edges frayed in bibbish fashion. Needless to say, the girls did them one better by cutting them shorter.

Just in case the Russians might grow to like blue jeans so much they may one day get around to cloning the fabric invented then, this notation should be made: A Virginia City, Nevada, tailor found a way in 1880 to manufacture his now famous copper-riveted "pants" back in 1880, more than 100 years ago.

Doctor Explains Closed Chest Resuscitation

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please comment on the newest method of resuscitation for the suspected heart attack victims.

I think it is a timed process of pounding firmly on the chest with the hands. — F. R.

This is called closed chest resuscitation. It has been developed in the last several years, but some words of warning concerning it are in order.

It is not for suspected heart attack victims. It is an emergency measure for use when the heart stops. There's a difference. The majority of people who suffer heart attacks survive.

There are many cases of the heart stopping, and being kept pumping by "massage" until it resumes normal beating.

By the open chest method, the doctor swiftly opens the chest, reaches in and squeezes the heart rhythmically about once a second. Since the valves work automatically, responding to the pressure of the blood, it is squeezing keeps it flowing. In fact, that is how the heart normally works. It "seats" by contraction of the heart muscle.

The closed chest method was devised for the same purpose, but to avoid the necessity of surgery. This is performed by pressure on the sternum — the breast bone. Both hands, one atop the other are required because good pressure is important.

In the heart attacks or other forms of collapse it is sometimes the case that the heartbeat is faint, but it is present nevertheless.

Respiration must also be provided. The lungs require fresh oxygen. Therefore mouth-to-mouth respiration or some other method must be used at the side air.

Iron Curtain Cost Is High

Montreal Gazette

The criticism that the Soviet Government has been unfair directed at writers or artists who adhere "decadent" and "bourgeois" tendencies has caused wonder whether the Iron Curtain is not again be drawing shut. It has not been open in any unrestricted sense. But in the past ten years a considerable amount of travel has taken place, and Western influence, in the form of ideas, has been important. Will a new attempt be made to choke off this Western penetration?

It might well be possible for the Soviet Union to be again cut off from the outside world. American literary, musical and artistic influences. But in the fields of science and technology, the Soviet Union might enter a period of intense isolation only at great cost, and great loss, to itself.

For apart from politics and government control, the field of science, engineering and economic development, the Soviet Union is drawing ever closer to the West. In this area, it has more in common with Europe and North America than it has with China. And just as it is necessary, as well as desirable, for Westerners to follow closely scientific developments in various Western countries, this may now be essential for the Soviet Union also.

Lack of knowledge about many developments in the West may be costly and wasteful for Russia. For example, a physicist visited the United States, and was impressed by the important research done at American universities, rather than being done primarily in special institutes as in Russia. And this has resulted in greater university research in the Soviet Union.

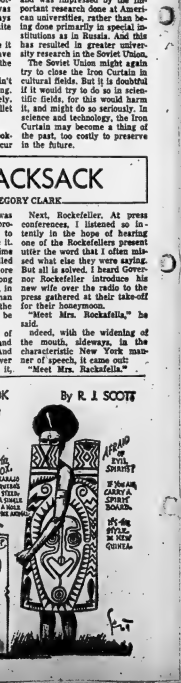
The Soviet Union might again try to close the Iron Curtain in cultural fields. But it is doubtful it would try to do so in scientific fields, for this would harm it, and might do so seriously, in economic development. The Iron Curtain may become a thing of the past, too costly to preserve in the future.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When a young reporter, I was anxious to know how to pronounce Roosevelt. I wanted to be heard a Roosevelt pronounce it. Up here in Canada, in the time of Theodore Roosevelt, we called it Rooce-velt. Some of the more knowing university types among us leaned towards Rose-a-velt, with the impression that the German "v" is sounded "f". But the Roosevelts turned out to be Dutch.

Finally, all the Roosevelts of note were Grad and gone, and I got into the dictionaries. And there it is. Rozn-velt. I never hear a Roosevelt pronounce it.



Next, Rockefeller. At press conferences, I listened so intently in the hope of the sort of one of the Rockefellers present utter the word that I often missed what they were saying. But all is solved. I heard Governor Rockefeller introduce his new wife over the radio to the press gathered at their take-off for their honeymoon.

"Meet Mrs. Rockefella," he said.

Indeed, with the widening of the mouth, sideways, is the characteristic New York manner of speech, it came out: "Meet Mrs. Rockefella."

Gives Strap For Crimes Of Violence

KITCHENER (CP) — Magistrate H. J. R. Kirkpatrick said Thursday persons convicted of robbery with violence or armed robbery likely would receive the strap as part of their penalty in the first departed in his court.

He made the remark while sentencing a Kitchener youth to four months in jail and 12 strokes of the strap for a conviction of armed robbery.

The youth, Arthur Paradis, 18, was also sentenced to four months definite and 18 months indeterminate.

Evidence showed that Paradis and another man, to date unidentified, robbed a third man of $60 at knifepoint.

Reeve Charges P.C. Nomination Meet 'Packed'

NORTH BAY (CP) — J. R. (Jack) Gorman, former North Bay alderman, was chosen Progressive Conservative candidate for Nipissing riding in the next provincial election at a Thursday night nominating convention which one candidate charged was "packed."

W. Forth, reeve of West Ferris Township, claimed prior to balloting that the credentials committee for the North Bay Men's Progressive Conservative Association gave credentials only to delegates who pledged support for a "certain candidate."

"I was under the impression that an election of this type could only take place in a Communistic society but apparently that is not so," Reeve Forth said. He said after the nomination he will give serious consideration to running as an independent Conservative.

Mr. Gorman defeated Mr. Forth and Reeve J. W. Bolton of Widdifield Township.

The seat is held by Liberal Leo Troy of North Bay.

'Just Once in My Life'

By ROY L. SMITH

The little sob-sister from the evening paper had come out to interview me concerning a matter just then occupying the mind of the public. And when she had forgotten her "story," she hesitated for a moment, as if loath to leave, and finally said.

"I was delighted when the managing editor told me he wanted me to come out here and get this interview because it gives me a chance to ask you a very personal question."

Then I had assured her that I had no objection to answering such a question, she explained, "You see, I was brought up in the home of an atheist. My father hated the church, and everything for which it stood. He ridiculed religion until he planted within me a deep prejudice toward all things, religious, and all religious people.

"But since I have become a newspaper woman I have had to visit a lot of churches, and meet a lot of church people, and I find my viewpoint changing a great deal. That's why I wanted to ask you my question."

She hesitated for a few seconds, as if she might be having some difficulty in finding the exact words, and then, suddenly, she blurted it out. Have you ever prayed?" she asked, and there was a profound intensity in her voice as she uttered the words. "Why, certainly, many times," I replied. "Did you ever make God hear?" she continued. "There is no question in my mind about it." "Did it ever answer you?" "Yes."

Suddenly she grew tense, as if under the spell of a great emotion. Looking at her searchingly, I could see she was making a tremendous effort to control her emotions. Finally, when she could trust herself to speak, she said, "If that could happen to me just once in all my life, it would be worth living three lives to have it happen."

JUST ONCE AT CHURCH

Something about the little sob-sister's excitement over prayer appeared in the comment of a much longer individual, and his wife, who came to greet me at the close of the service in a great city church.

After the usual polite greetings the man said, "We live way back in the country and do not get down to the city more than once a year. And his is the first church we have spent in town in four years.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 26: "Worship in the House of God." Psalms 84:1-12; 122: II Chronicles 5 and 6.

"We have known for six months that we were going to be here over Sunday, and we have tried to imagine what it would be like to sit among hundreds of worshippers, and listen to great music and an inspiring sermon. But more, even, we have wondered what it would be like to enjoy the company of fellow Christians, even though we did not know a soul among them.

"And it has been glorious. The music was good, but we have been better than good on radio. The sermon was as good as we had hoped to hear, but we can hear a lot of good preaching from our radio, up on the side of the mountain. But the best of all was to feel the fellowship of a host of godly people who believe as we do, who pray for the same things we pray for, and who adore the same Lord we adore.

He paused a moment, and could not help seeing the effect upon me. But his wife was willing to do so.

"Think of it!" she said. "All these people have a chance to go to church like this every week!"

I CAN FEEL THE CHURCH

I was one of a party of nearly 50 tourists, visiting the city of Canton, before the Communists took over. A charming Chinese youth, about 22 years, had been showing us the fabulous wonders, and the shocking miseries, of the great metropolis. And he done it well. Quite evidently, he was enormously proud of Canton in spite of its squalor.

Sometime, about the middle of the afternoon, he dropped back and walked beside me for a little distance. Finally, he said, "You are a Christian, are you not?"

"Yes," I answered, "I am a clergyman.

He walked in silence for a few steps, and then I felt his hand groping for mine, and grasping it in a firm clasp. I waited for him to speak, and he walked thus for a distance of perhaps 75 feet. At last, he pulled himself together, and said, "I hope you will excuse me, and hope you are not offended. But I, too, am a Christian, and I am very lonely. You are the first Christian with whom I have had the chance to really talk for days. Forgive me if I embarrass you. But as I hold your hand it gives me the feeling that I have hold of the Christian Church. And that is a great feeling."

The one chance of the week to feel he had hold of the Christian Church, a man who stands for godliness must feel very lonely at times. And Sunday morning, at church, he has the chance to feel he has hold of the hand of a congregation of godly people.

Two Warned Jail Sentence Awaits Them

Magistrate T. Y. Wills this morning warned two young Belleville men he will send them to jail for contributing to juvenile delinquency.

He remanded Joseph Morris King and Rose Richard Tryon, both in their early twenties, for sentencing Tuesday.

"You are both going to get some sort of sentence—there's no doubt about that," he told the pair who pleaded guilty last week to the charge involving a 15-year-old girl.

Tryon told the court today he was under the impression the girl was older.

"She told me she was 18," he said.

Mother's not the same, somehow

Mom discovered adventure this year. So did Dad.

Adventure that's beautiful and powerful and streamlined and carefree and has 28 horsepower. It's called Evinrude. Now everything is different.

Mother can do a racing skiff. Dad can be serious. They both look fine and healthy.

And meals are always late.

Adventure is fine. But it's supposed to be for young people. It always was, until Evinrude came along and changed everything.

Now look at them:

They go flying off every morning, for fishing or cruising around the lake like a couple of teens. Sometimes they don't come back till after lunch. Everyone's happy.

They've changed. When they're not out on the lake, they dance. Or go to the movies. They both look fine and healthy.

And meals are always late.

What has Evinrude done?

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Ernest Henderson, the bride was radiant in her white sateen bridal gown fashioned in classic simplicity with, wing-shaped neckline, fitted bodice and bell-shaped skirt, having a front panel finished with a double panel of imported Swiss appliques and hand-detailed with bows. FASHION MISTAKES

A fashion mistake is the investment in any sort of wearing apparel, which goes unworn or unused, because of some fault not noticed at the time of purchase. A large amount of money is wasted on garments which don't wash well, or which need more than the, and we quote from bandages — "Little or no ironing required". This may be true for the first few washings, but the amount of ironing required, increases with the number of times the garment is laundered. After or several washings, this miracle turns out to be the equal of the plebeian garment which calls for a hot iron and a certain skillful guidance the same to arrive at a presentable appearance. With summer just around the corner, care should be taken to avoid intricate styles in new summer dresses and sportswear, keeping the above in mind.

One of the great advantages of living in eastern Canada, is the annual coming of new found freedom, that comes each spring. At last, we rejoin the human race and walk on side walks free of snow and slush. Our feet are freed from those instruments of torture called anything from snow-boots to overshoes. Our joy is so intense that we have a rush to the nearest shoe store. So great is our eagerness that we buy the first pretty pair of shoes we see. They look so fresh and appealing beside our winter shoes, that we buy them in a daze, not bothering to really check their fit. The resultant blisters only add to the pain of having wasted money on another fashion mistake.

RESTRAINT NEEDED

Once we shed our heavy winter coats, this same feeling of freedom, causes us to commit fashion error after error, all part of our annual spring madness. Howling blizzards of winter forbid the wearing of wide-brimmed hats, so the gentle breezes of May bring out these glamorous chapeaux. These are most becoming, except when worn with huge handbags, too much jewelry and fancy high - heeled shoes. A little restraint is called for even in the merry month of May. Turquoise is fresh and spring-like, but it loses all of its appeal, when accessorized with yellow or pink. You had better stick to quiet beige, navy or black, but must be careful in design and color, if they are to be worn with poise. There can only be one such accessory as any successful fashion costume. One big, bold and beautiful pin, worn on the lapel of a suit, will add a lot of fashion. But when it's coupled with a hat of the same character, the wearer is drowned in all this splendour, even in May.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers care of this paper.

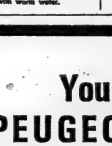
Callow; 1st vice-president — Mrs. Everett Robinson; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. Rogers; treasurer — James Callow; secretary — Mrs. Joe Jackson; corresponding secretary — Mrs. Gerald Vandusen. Executive committee — Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bowerman, Mr. and Mrs. J. Moxam and Mrs. Strike. This report was adopted.



Mr. Fawcett introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Grace Corchick, who pointed out the different aspects of the school health program.

Anne Hilliard and Patty Allison put on a dance routine.

After the meeting adjourned, refreshments were served in the home economics room.

BROUGHT RHUBARB

Rhubarb was introduced to the United States by a Maine gardener near the end of the 18th century.

For an easy lemon facial, beat the white of an egg until stiff; rub it on your face and neck. When it's half dry, then wash it off with warm water.

Are You Thorough?

— TEST YOURSELF — 5

By WILLIAM BERNARD and JULES LEOPOLD

Many an otherwise gifted person fails short of genius because he lacks thoroughness. And less-endowed folks sometimes come through with amazing successes simply because they perform their tasks thoroughly.

Can you devote to a task the care it properly deserves—enough to get results, yet not so much as to become more fussiness or repetitious thinking?

Test yourself in this regard by taking the quiz below.

TIME LIMIT: 3 MINUTES

How many dots are there—

1. ——In the square—but not in the triangle, circle or rectangle?
2. ——In the circle—but not in the triangle, square or rectangle?

QUESTION:

Would you have a recipe for Lasagna? If you could print it in the paper some night I would be grateful — L.S.

ANSWER:

Please include your name and address next time you write because most of the time we do not have space for all the requests.

However, I am pleased to give this recipe for Lasagna because it is one of the gourmet specialties the Glenbyrd committee served at their annual antique show and sale in Brantford earlier this month.

LASAGNA (courtesy Glenbyrd Art Council):

½ cup chopped onion, 1 clove garlic, very finely chopped; 3 tablespoons olive oil, 1 28-oz. can tomatoes (break up), 2 6-oz. cans tomato paste (Italian), 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon basil, pinch of oregano, small piece of bay leaf (¼), 1 lb. Lasagna noodles (see note), 1 lb. Ricotta cheese (see note), 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon oregano (second amount), 4 cups diced cold meat (turkey, chicken, pork or veal), ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese, ½ lb. Mozzarella cheese, sliced.

To Make Sauce: Sauté onion and garlic in olive oil, add stew, tomato paste, tomato paste, salt, pepper, water, basil, oregano, bay leaf and simmer together for 1 hour.

Heat oven to 350 deg. Fahr. Grease a 13 x 9½ x 2" baking dish. Cook Lasagna noodles in boiling salted water until tender — drain. Mix Ricotta cheese, parsley and 1 teaspoon oregano. Put ingredients in prepared pan in layers in the following order (repeating until all ingredients are used): sauce, noodles, turkey (or other meat), Ricotta cheese, Parmesan cheese, Mozzarella cheese, ending with sauce. Bake 30 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

NOTE:

The noodles and various cheeses and tomatoes and olive oil may all be purchased at Italian grocery stores. If you cannot buy Ricotta cheese, substitute cottage cheese.

Dance Recital By Youngsters Much Enjoyed

PICTON — Well over one hundred were in attendance when Miss Caristine Mitchell held her first annual Dance Recital, Wednesday evening at Queen Elizabeth School.

About twenty of Miss Mitchell's pupils, ranging in ages from two-and-one-half to 12 years, took part in the colorful and enjoyable program.

The costumes, all designed by their capable teacher, gave rise to many admiring comments by the enthusiastic audience. Mr. Allan Anderson was the excellent emcee for the evening and introduced the youngsters as they appeared. Mrs. Jim Scott played the piano throughout the recital.

It was evident by the applause that the audience thoroughly enjoyed themselves, finding the small boys and girls irresistible, and the well planned program really delightful.

Miss Mitchell herself appeared in several tap numbers, also a spectacular flash Indian dance. The routine was executed in the dark with only her flashing twirler and her colored lights at each end visible.

A special guest was Miss Lynn Gardiner who appeared twice. In smart red velvet with a white fur trim Lynn tap danced to the old favorite "Whispering". Her other appearance was a dancing "couple," which she called Mortimer and Gertrude. An exceptionally clever costume and Lynn's natural talent combined to make this an outstanding number. Both dark-haired Christine and blonde Lynn are students at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute.

During the intermission Mrs. Bill McWilliam played popular tunes on the piano accordion, assisted by Mrs. Jim Scott on the piano. They were great favorites with the audience.

Among the pupils appearing on the program, each doing very well were: Bonnie Pearsall, Brenda Pearsall, Beverley McGowan, Laurie Scott, Janet Buchanan, Donna Harvey, Rhonda Lee Williams, Lee Ann Courneyes, Pauline Soules, Andrea Branscombe, Connie Wight, Eric Gallant, Ann Gallant, Stephen Pipe, Colleen Pipe, Beverley Andrews, Robby Claxton, Robin Wannamaker, Debbie Lappin, Betty McIntyre.

PRESENT FLOWERS

Before the final curtain, Miss Mitchell, lovely in an avocado green semi-formal gown, was presented with a gorgeous bouquet of red and white carnations and baby 'mums, caught with red satin streamers, by Pauline Soules on behalf of her class. Miss Mitchell expressed her sincere thanks to all.

Mrs. Jim Scott, who has been a great help not only at the recital but at regular lessons, was presented with a beautiful corsage.

Miss Mitchell teaches every Saturday afternoon at Bessey Park, and deserves much credit for her work with the youngsters, climaxed by Wednesday's fine variety program.

The Victoria Day theme was represented by favors of the Canadian ensign and the Union Jack made from marshmallows, and place cards were crowns in blue, red and white. Mrs. Tom Proctor and Mrs. Alfred Mead escorted guests to their tables.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Floyd Carnahan, Mrs. Earl Brummell, Mrs. Fred Jay, Mrs. Willard Metcalfe, Mrs. Clem Proctor, Mrs. Mead, Misses Joan Brummell and Valerie Vader, Mrs. A. S. Horsey and Mrs. Joseph Wiggins.

New Building For Commission Is Proposed

PICTON — A building to house Picton Public Utilities Commission offices and its other services can be erected at an estimated cost of $84,000, according to a report of architects received yesterday. It would be 8,000 square feet.

Whether or not the building will be erected lies in the hands of town council which has not yet considered the matter.

The Utilities Com and occupy a block on Main Street but feel a building is needed where all its services can be under one roof. Several lots of Elizabeth Street were purchased three years ago and houses demolished as a site for the proposed new building.

However, the Commission is not unanimous over the project. The Commission chairman, Gordon Nourse, is vigorously opposed to any capital expenditure at the present time, pointing out several heavy major expenditures already being undertaken by the town.

At last month's Commission meeting, Mr. Nourse voted against spending $500 for architect's plans, but was outvoted by the other members, Mayor H. J. McFarland and Jack H. Ward, and the architect was given orders to proceed with plans. Mr. Nourse is standing the fight against any further steps being taken, and a survey of opinion among ratepayers he can expect strong support there.

Councillor George Morden said, "We must list our needed capital expenditures projects, present them to the future, and undertake them in order of their need and as finances permit. It appears there are, at present, more urgent needs than a new building for the Commission.

Camp News of Guards

PICTON — Friday, May 17, was a big day for twenty-eight of the Canadian Guards Battalion's Junior Non-Commissioned Officers. Having completed twelve weeks of intensive and rugged training at Petawawa they had their graduation parade. All successful candidates will be congratulated on a fine showing, especially L.-Cpl. G. W. Tully who finished first on the course.

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING

The cross country team recently won two important runs. The first was held in Picton and by winning the battalion became the Eastern Ontario Area champions and won the right to advance to the Command run at Camp Borden.

At Camp Borden the team was again successful and are thus the reigning Central Command champions. The individual star was Gdsm. Hildreth who finished first in the area run and was a very close second in the Command run.

AREA RIFLE SHOOT

Last month last week the Eastern Ontario Area rifle match was held. The battalion team shooting consistantly came out on top by a healthy margin of 299 points. Top individual shot for the team was Gdsm. Lee who was third high in the match. Last year's champions, 38 CDO from Goubourn, were the second place finishers. Final standings were:

1 CDN. GDS—3333 points; 2 CDO—3034 points; 1/Sig. Unit—2570 points; RCS of S—2573 points; RCEME (8) —2565 points.

BATTALION SPORTS MEETING

On Wednesday the eliminations were held for the Sports Day scheduled on Friday, May 24. A heavy track and a high wind combined to hold the athletes to comparatively slow timings and no records were threatened. Nonetheless competition was keen as the company teams strived to get as many competitors as possible qualified for Friday's finals.

Only the finals were decided on Wednesday, the hammer throw and the 3 mile run. In the hammer Sgt. Mackie won with a throw of 115' 11", followed by Sgt. Skehan at 104' 2". In the 3 mile run L-Cpl. Kennedy lapped the field, except for the second man, Gdsm. Hildreth and finished in a time of 18 mins. 11.2 seconds.

talks between Canadian and American government and labor leaders.

It was raised at the Hyannis Port meeting by Prime Minister Pearson and President Kennedy, at Ottawa discussions between Labor Minister MacEachen and U.S. Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, followed by Washington talks involving the two labor ministers, CLC President Jodoin and AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Mr. Jodoin and Mr. Meany then took the matter up with Mr. Hall at a secret session in Washington Wednesday.

Up to that point, there appeared to be some hope that a peace plan could be worked out to end SIU harassment of CMU-manned ships in the fleet of Upper Lakes Shipping Limited of Toronto.

Then Mr. Hall shattered this possibility with his promise to keep trying to tie up upper lakes ships in U.S. ports. He also fired some strong criticism at CLC leaders, saying the CLC executive was made up, for the most part, of "scabs."

He accused the top brass of the 1,050,000 - member CLC of siding with Upper Lakes in a "fix" against the SIU.

"The CLC has never been in cahoots with a company," said Mr. Jodoin, denying charges made of Mr. Hall, who is also an executive vice - president of the AFL-CIO.

Mr. Jodoin said harassment of Canadian ships must be stopped."

The fight between the CMU and the SIU under Hal Banks was "demoralizing" and "serious a dictatorship organization."

The congress claims Mr. Banks runs the 15,000-member Canadian SIU as a "hoodlum empire" and wants it outlawed from Canada.

This was the position taken by the CLC before the seven-month Canadian marine inquiry held by Mr. Justice T. G. Norris, whose findings are expected in less than two weeks.

The Norris report takes on new importance now that Mr. Hall has dashed hopes of a compromise settlement in the dispute.

Fined $2,500 For Obscene Literature

TORONTO (CP)—The former owner of a Toronto publishing firm and bookstore was fined $2,500 Thursday for possessing obscene literature for distribution.

John A. Nelson, 35, pleaded not guilty to 26 charges, but Magistrate P. J. Bolsby said the material had been proven obscene "beyond all shadow of a doubt" and convicted him on 25 of the charges.

The former owner of Universal Press, a mail order firm, said he published the material "for monetary gain" but he thought it was legal because much of the material had been judged not obscene by other courts.

In St. Thomas, George Demeyers, chairman of the Ontario Flue Cured Tobacco Marketing Board, said that about 200,000 acres, or 20 per cent of the 1963 crop, had been planted. Many farmers in the Tillsonburg and Delhi districts had their whole crops planted and about 15 farmers had some plants in the ground.

The tobacco crop can be replanted, although the loss may create a shortage of plants, and the harvest will be delayed.

Other crops reported damaged by frost included tomatoes, corn and peppers. Other crops have been set back and some, like sweet corn, farmers estimated, will be on an out-of-town trip.

sess their fiscal responsibilities.

A group of private citizens appeared in Toronto and said corporation tax was "evil."

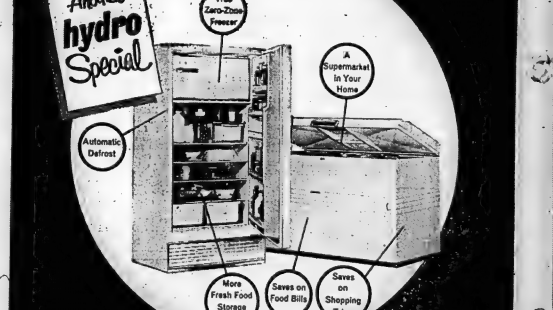
While there appeared to be a fair measure of agreement on the undesirability of the tax, there were wide differences as to how it came to existing situations. Some asked for huge taxes on the now-untaxed undistributed earnings of companies, others advocated a stiff capital gains tax and several favored higher income taxes.

Toronto Mayor Will Pay Wife's Expenses

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Donald Summerville of his wife will attend a Commonwealth Mayors' conference in London this summer, but the mayor said Thursday night he will pay Mrs. Summerville's expenses himself.

The city of Toronto board of control voted unanimously March 6 to pay the expenses of both the mayor and his wife on a trip to London. The decision was not made public and city council was not notified.

Mr. Summerville said he "wouldn't think of promoting" the London trip and will pay his wife's expenses from the authorization. He said the visit is at the invitation of the lord mayor of London, and mayors from five other Canadian cities were expected to attend.



It is the first time in the city's history that officials agreed to pay the expenses of the mayor's wife on an out-of-town trip.

nating this phase of Parliament harkened back to Tuesday's events.

Jean Chretien (L—St. Maurice - Lafleche) said he campaigned against nuclear weapons in the April 8 election and he still is opposed in principle. But he had voted with the government because he felt Canada should stand by its commitments.

Jack Bigg (PC — Athabaska) said he supported the New Democrat motion against nuclear arms although he favored Canada acquiring them.

Gerard Girouard (SC — Labelle) said he had a commitment to his riding—one of Canada's two Bonarc bases is located at La Macaza there—to vote against nuclear arms. But he had disliked the NDP motion because it was socialist, inopportune in coming just before the NATO conference discussion and ridiculous in that it might have defeated a government with a nuclear policy four months after the Conservative government was defeated for not having a nuclear policy.

John B. Morison (L—Wentworth) said the Conservative government had taken a negative approach to world trade developments. If Canada is to prosper she must be ready to bargain and sell in export markets, he said.

Commonwealth preferences were deteriorating. The world was becoming less and less tolerant of Canadian anti-dumping laws. Canada now needed a "positive attitude" to trade and would get it from the Liberal government.

James Brown (L—Brantford) said representations will soon be made to the government for the deepening of the Grand River. The economy of the whole Brantford area would be stimulated if the river was restored as a navigable link in the Welland Canal system.

Mr. Brown opened his speech in French and expressed the hope that the royal commission on bicultralism will produce worthwhile results.

Worries Over Trivialities

DEAR DORIS — There hardly ever passes a day that I don't worry about something I do or say incorrectly. I think back and say to myself what I should have said. Of course, I seldom, if ever, go and say it later because it is of no use to talk about it the next day.

DORIS CLARK

At night I think about certain incidents so much that fear often comes in sight and I am torn between the devil and the deep blue sea. Then it becomes a worry which hinders all my progress for several days. And when it comes to talking to the person concerned, I find I am too disturbed and sick of that topic. I want to forget it if at all possible. This worry makes me very unhappy.

Please help me! — GRATEFUL.

DEAR GRATEFUL — A favorite question on personality tests is "Can you forget your social blunders?" We all have our moments of embarrassment. It's so easy to think back on what you should have said!

Remember two things the other person probably gave the whole thing very little thought; and nobody is expected to be perfect.

You are dwelling too much on trivialities. Fill those worry-spaces with a new absorbing interest.

DEAR DORIS — I have been going with a boy for nearly a year. He hasn't asked me for a real date since New Year's, yet he thinks he can take me home from all the dances and parties.

DEAR ANNIE — Don't talk, act. Go home with the girl you came with, or with some other boy. If he objects, explain that any time he would like to take you to a dance, you would be glad to go, and to stay with him all evening.

Apple-Eating Psychiatrist Perturbs Paying Patient

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Don't tell me to see a psychiatrist. My problem is a psychiatrist.

I have been in analysis for almost seven months and have made good progress. I'm able to get out of bed in the morning and go to work, which is more than I could manage a year ago. But—I pay my doctor $25 for what is supposed to be a 45 minute session and he never gives me more than 35 minutes.

During those 35 minutes he accepts telephone calls (last week three) and he made one telephone call on his own. He frequently excuses himself to go to the washroom on my time. Last week he left and was gone for 12 minutes.

Yesterday while I was free-associating he ate an apple and read the newspaper. I don't think he heard a word I said.

May I hear your opinion on this? — RIGHT OR WRONG?

DEAR RIGHT OR WRONG — The next time you free-associate," unload your feelings and let him have it with both barrels. And eat an apple while you're at it.

If the analyst feels you should see someone else he'll tell you. I am not suggesting a change of doctors, however, since you seem to be making progress and this is what really matters.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Counting my husband, I have five kids. Don has always helped at home cheerfully and willingly and I thought it was mighty nice of him until I learned what a big deal he was making of it at the office.

One of Don's colleagues informed me "for my own good" that he should not be doing my work because he is too important a man in the business. "He should be saving his energy for his career," she said. She also volunteered to give him the "rest" he deserved if I should feel inclined to set him free.

Miss "Goodheart" was transferred out of town last year but they still keep in touch professionally.

This summer my husband gets an expense-paid trip to Europe. He has been promising for five years that if the company ever sent him abroad he would take me along. Well, you guessed it. Now we can't afford it — unless I decide to use the money we have saved for a bigger house.

"Miss Goodheart" will of course be in Europe at the convention — with bells on. I'm dying to go and the decision is mine but we need a bigger house and it will be another year before he can afford it if I blow the money on the trip. What do you say? — GREEN EYES.

DEAR EYES — Start packing. You've lived in the house this long, so another year won't kill you.

And when you tell your husband of your decision, leave "Miss Goodheart" out of it. No man has to go to Europe to see abroad.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — This letter is from a teenager who agrees with you nine times out of ten.

My question is this: Why is it that when you print something that supports parents they can't wait to shove it in our faces? More than once I've found your column pinned to my pillow, or lying on my dinner place. Yet when you stick up for teenagers my parents never say a word. Sometimes, in fact, they try to ditch the newspaper.

I say if you are going to be used as the authority then your advice should be accepted all the time, and not just when it suits our parents' purposes. Please comment — BATTLING BONNIE.

Dear Bonnie — No advice should be followed slavishly because circumstances alter cases. But a parent who is unwilling to give an inch/oor admit.. that teens do have a point, will lose out because he will be considered opinfonated and unjust.

Modernizing Jobs Get High Priority

Napoleon said an army "travels on its stomach" — and most mothers will tell you that the same thing is true of a family. Which makes the cook and her "theater of operations" mighty important, and is why so many families in setting up their schedules of home improvement, give top priority to the modernization or remodeling of the kitchen.

A good approach to the whole subject of "re-doing the kitchen is to ask yourself this question— if you were buying a new home, what kind of kitchen would you want? Then compare this "dream room" with your present kitchen. The chances are the two rooms are not very much alike, but they could be.

Remodeling and modernization can change the size, shape and efficiency of your kitchen as well as its appearance, at a cost that may well be considerably less than you now think.

One of the first things you should do is make a list of everything you wish to replace together with all of the additional appliances or fixtures you want.

Very early in your planning, it is a good idea to consult with specialists. There is an abundance of professional help available to you. You can work with an architect or kitchen designer, a kitchen cabinet dealer, a store which may offer you a complete "kitchen package" or the home economists of a utility company. Be sure to indicate to ask for bids or estimates, especially if the job will involve major structural changes.

STEP-BY-STEP PLAN

Depending on financial or other factors, you can do an overall job of remodeling or modernization at one time, or can make your desired changes a step at a time, major appliance center by appliance center, until the job is finished.

If you take the latter course, be sure to plan ahead for the future installation of wiring and plumbing that will be required to complete the picture of your "dream kitchen."

The newest concept in kitchen planning is to analyze the kitchen according to work areas, which are basically three in number, (1) the stove or cooking area, (2) the sink or cleaning area, and (3) the storage area.

A dining and food planning area is often included. To plan a kitchen that is easiest to use, is really what is needed in each area. The best coordination of the work areas with one another will follow naturally.

Worth considering in planning a program of kitchen modernization are these basic characteristics of the up-to-date kitchen.

(1) Step-saving. Kitchens are planned for time-and-step-saving convenience. Appliances, counter space and storage units are grouped so that the housewife can quickly turn from one to another, enabling her to prepare a meal in a "turn-around" basis.

(2) Easy-to-maintain surfaces. Plastic laminates are used extensively for cabinets, wall surfaces and countertops. The housewife appreciates the advantages of a surface that can be kept clean with a damp cloth.

(3) Lighting where it should be. No homemaker likes to work in her own shadow. For this reason the trend is to get away from center lights and instead have them under the cabinets. The ideal arrangement is to have a light for every counter.

MAJOR APPLIANCES

With respect to major kitchen appliances, manufacturers are offering a wider variety of sizes than ever before, and designing concepts that can be used for many chores, rather than several units for several different chores. Whether these units are free-standing or built-in, they have a built-in look for easy coordination.

Compact units mean less steps and more room for storage. The variety of design means that it is possible to find just the right unit or appliance for the needs of the family.

A good example of the trend to multi-functional units is the new type of range that does a number of cooking tasks, from baking and broiling, to grilling to range-top cooking.

WHERE TO STOP

Never stop painting in the middle of a wall or large panel. Instead, stop at a corner, door frame or some kind of break. Ceilings should always be finished completely across, once started. This will prevent lap marks.

Canadian Garden Service

NO RUSH

Despite the natural urge to get out with a spade and rake the first time the sun really gets warm, there is no need to rush. Most plants prefer warm air and warm soil and will only lie dormant until these conditions are met. Very often things planted several days or even a week or so later will catch up and do better than those rushed into the ground while the soil is still cold and damp. There are a few exceptions of course, like grass seed, sweet peas and nursery stock, but generally speaking it is best to err on the late than the early side. Furthermore the gardener who gets the most satisfaction out of his hobby never plants all the seed of any flower or vegetable at the same time. He spreads out the plantings making at least two and sometimes three or four from 10 days to two weeks apart. In this way he is making sure that if the first planting gets frozen or washed out or trampled on, he will still have one in reserve. More important, he will have something coming on all the time, fresh corn and peas not just for a few days but for many weeks and bouquets of beautiful flowers too. With plantings well spread out the garden will be blooming and producing abundantly from late in June until snow.

FOR SEASON-LONG HOMES

New homes often look bare for several years until trees and shrubbery start to grow but they needn't if one uses plenty of big quick growing annuals. In a few weeks these will make quite a showing. To take the place of perennial vines, we can plant scarlet runner beans, hops morning glories or other quick growing climbers. For shrubbery we go through the seed catalogue and select those things that grow two to five feet tall, giant marigolds or zinnias, cosmos, ithonia, cypress, dahlias, cleomes, celosia and scabiosa are some of them. These big bushy annuals, planted in clumps within two or three feet of walls and fences, will change a new house from a raw building into a real home and do it in weeks, not years.

Let Wallpaper Key Your Color Scheme

Whether you are decorating one room or the whole house, almost the first thing to consider is the color scheme. With today's wide range of new colors and unusual combinations, the choice is often difficult. How to choose colors that combine well and are neither too strident nor too nondescript?

Choosing a color scheme can be looked at from two angles: first, if you are starting completely from scratch with all new furnishings, and second, if you do have existing furnishings to consider, such as draperies, carpet or upholstery.

If you are starting from scratch, you will find that wallpaper can be a good starting point.

Today's wallpapers have a range of color and design to please all tastes: when you have selected your pattern, choose a major color in the pattern for your main color. Use this on the floor, which is the next largest area to your walls.

Then choose a second color from the pattern for your second color areas, such as large upholstery pieces in the living room, the bedspread in the bedroom, and the draperies.

Finally choose a third color from your pattern for accent, to be used in small effects, such as lamps, cushions and accessories. Remember these patterns are created by trained artists who know how to use colors: you are using their knowledge to create your own color scheme.

LIVING ROOM DECOR

For example, you might choose for your living room a traditional medallion pattern that uses burnt orange, black and beige against a warm tan background. By using warm tan for the carpet, black and beige for the large upholstered pieces and draperies, and accent touches of burnt orange, a harmonious color scheme is acheived. If a more vibrant look is desired, then the burnt orance could be used for the carpet, with the other colors used for major furnishings and accents.

If you already have furnishings that must be used, wallpaper can help you set your scheme around the existing colors.

Supposing you have a leaf green rug in your bedroom. Choose a wallpaper design that includes this color, and you may be sure that the other colors in the design will be a good color scheme that ties in with your rug. Your choice might be a pretty floral design in sky blue, lavender and leaf green against a white background.

COLOR COORDINATION

By using the blue for the bedspread and curtains, with accents of lavender in lamps, small chairs and accessories, your bedroom will have a new and attractive color scheme, even though your green rug is still with you.

If you have more than one color to consider in your present furnishings, you can tie these together by choosing a wallpaper that incorporates both these colors. If they are unusually strong and vivid colors, however, you may prefer a neutral background.

School Children Carefully Guarded Down Communist Road Set by Marx, Lenin

A British author who has just concluded a tour of Communist China tells how school children are carefully guided down the Marxist-Leninist road.

By RICHARD P. LISTER

PEKING (AP) — A nation undergoes a great change; suddenly everything is new. But within a few years there appears a generation to whom the new and revolutionary is the old and familiar.

We tourists visited the Middle School at Ming Hung, a new industrial and residential area —a satellite town — outside Shanghai. The children now entering the school, at 12 or 13, were born since the red revolution. None of the pupils can have any real recollection of the old order.

It is an old — established school, built in 1865. The principal, Mr. Yeh, was more determined than most Chinese not to impress us with the correctness of his ideology. Before the "liberation," he told us, all the students were from the landlord class or the bourgeoisie. Now, 86 per cent are from worker or peasant families.

There are 1,900 of them, and most live here during the term. They live nine in a room—eight rooms, with double bunks on each side and a single bed almost filling up the remaining space.

LEARNING AND LABOR

The aims of the school? To form the citizen morally, intellectually and physically, we are told, cultural and scientific knowledge must be taught, but education must also develop the desired working-class outlook, and some time must be devoted to productive labor.

Every student spends three or four hours a week either cultivating the school fields, working in the shops, or on domestic duties—cleaning or in the kitchen.

We visited the workshops. A line of 14 trucks was drawn up in the yard, engines and chassis only. Girls and boys were cutting the steel angles and sheet for building the bodies. Productive labor is strictly practical. Down the road from the workshops we found the school piggeries, and enclosures for ducks and chickens.

The children must learn to serve the Communist reconstruction of the country, so there are two hours a week of classroom instruction in Marxism-Leninism, and two more hours are spent in discussion or political study. Politics start. Three to five days of the vacation are spent in militia training.

SOME SHORTCOMINGS

An how do the pupils — to a class—fare in the world? There are still shortcomings. Mr. Yen told us. In one class discussion, he found students who will fail their examinations. Still, if a student fails or has a bad record, everybody in his class is to help him. It's the best appeal to public opinion," however narrow, which is supposed to influence the backslider, Yen.

The teaching staff appears to be well paid by Chinese standards. One woman had taught for 30 years, including 20 at this school, received 157 yuan a month (about $70), the national average wage of 70 yuan.

It does not seem as if the schoolchildren of China have a gay life. Yet they look happy—the charm of the children is perhaps the happiest impression the visitor to China carries away.

Armed Robbery Charged After Two Arrested

BEAVERTON, Ont. (CP) — Two Toronto men were charged with armed robbery Thursday following a $4,000 robbery at the Beaverton branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Three bullets were pumped through the windshield of a police cruiser during a high-speed chase of a stolen car.

Police said two men entered the bank shortly after it opened. Bank manager John Martin said one gunman remarked "what a helluva way to make a living."

Mr. Martin, a customer and five staff members were herded into a vault, two shopping bags were filled with money and the vault door slammed shut. Ten minutes later Mr. Martin and the staff got the door unlocked and called police.

Ontario Provincial Police Const. William Bowles was standing at a roadblock at Atherley, east of Orillia, when five other officers when he saw an old car coming at them.

"It didn't seem to be slowing down like the other vehicles," he said.

When the car was about 20 feet away a man sat up in the passenger seat and fired a shot through the windshield. "He missed me, but I don't know how," Const. Bowles said.

Const. Bowles and Const. Howard Raymer jumped in a cruiser and drove after the car, with two more cruisers behind.

During the chase, one of the men in the car fired at the lead cruiser through the back window. Three bullets smashed through the windshield but missed the officers.

The car headed into Orillia. Const. Leslie Robertson of the Orillia police grabbed a shotgun from a cruiser and fired one or two blasts into the side of the vehicle as it approached a roadblock. The car swerved into a ditch and the two occupants surrendered.

Steps Taken to Repair Damage to West Alliance

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Two baby steps have been taken, in document at Ottawa and Geneva, to repair some of the damage in the Western alliance caused by the rejection of Britain from the European Common Market and the French determination to build an independent nuclear force.

Both decisions are by no means of historic dimensions for a great breach in the alliance still remains. French President de Gaulle is as adamant as ever and there is no reason to suggest the Ottawa North Atlantic Council meeting dispelled de Gaulle's suspicions of U.S. nuclear intentions.

In the French view at least, the Ottawa decision is no more than the mere reshuffling of bureaucrats at the NATO defence headquarters so that all organizational work of the various NATO elements in the NATO force can be handled in one efficient division.

AGREE ON AREAS

Britain does not give up its sovereignty and control over its Vulcan bomber fleet and the U.S. does not yield authority over its three Polaris submarines in the Mediterranean. They and the countries controlling the tactical air elements of NATO areas have agreed on a specific area of patrol and specific areas of targeting.

But the fact that France did not attempt to impose a barrier on the Ottawa nuclear decision—as stated as this decision was—is significant. The opportunity was there for an expression of dissension. France refrained.

In the same way at Geneva, despite the threat of a great thunderbolt of trade war, the Common Market — of which France is a major partner — and the U.S. worked out a compromise formula for ending massive tariff reductions next year.

The formula has a lot of loopholes in it. Instead of complete slashes of all tariffs at one stroke, it will open the way again for tedious and time-consuming item - by - item negotiations on a large number of higher U.S. rates. There will be room during the 1964 negotiations for France and other countries to raise objections of all descriptions.

As President Kennedy stated, the alliance will therefore have a long road to travel before it can taste the benefits of lower tariffs and the possibility of expanded trade that these lower tariffs may bring.

Nevertheless, the elements of greater unity and warmer transatlantic relations are there. In Ottawa and Geneva, initial steps have been taken that open the road to greater progress.

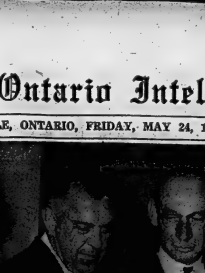
No one at this stage can predict, for example, just when NATO will have a true multilateral nuclear force, such as the mixed-crews force proposed by the U.S. France has indicated she is not interested. There is no indication at this time that the alliance will be able to blind such a force even at the next NATO council meeting in December.

But the initial effort has been made. At Ottawa and Geneva there has been a turning point.

Automation, Social Change To Be Discussed at Parley

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government will sponsor a three-day conference on automation and social change in Toronto in 1964, Premier Robarts announced Thursday.

At a press conference, Mr. Robarts said the conference session would result in formation of a special committee of the Ontario legislature which would recommend to the government ways of dealing with problems arising from automation.



Representatives of industry and labor would be asked to attend, along with delegates from education and other fields concerned with the impact of automation on society, report on manpower training and the federal-provincial vocational training program—would be the major subject for the third day of the conference, he said.

It was expected the federal government would have observers at the conference, because the federal government co-operated with the Ontario government in several programs aimed at combatting unemployment.

Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree told the press conference that prominent speakers of international reputation would be asked to speak at the September conference, but no speaker had yet been confirmed.

Mr. Robarts said the first day of the conference would attempt to define automation and outline its broad effect on society. On the second day, labor and industry representatives would "attempt to define their area of responsibility" for problems arising from technological change. The role of government in dealing with automation—with special attention to a select committee report on automanpower training and the federal-provincial vocational training program—would be the major subject for the third day of the conference, he said.

It was expected the federal government would have observers at the conference, because the federal government co-operated with the Ontario government in several programs aimed at combatting unemployment.

Hastings and Land O 'Lakes Tourist Council Gets Cheque For $5,000 From Minister

The importance of the tourist industry which last year is estimated to have netted Ontario close to one billion dollars, was emphasized last night by Hon. Bryan L. Cathcart, Minister of Travel and Publicity, as he spoke to a dinner at the Hotel Quinte.

The occasion was the presenting by Mr. Cathcart of a cheque for $5,000 to the Hastings and Land O' Lakes Tourists Council for the furtherance of tourist promotion in the region.

The Hastings and Land O' Lakes Tourist Region is made up of the Highlands of Hastings County Association and the Land O' Lakes Association.

Both organizations have raised $2,500 each for the promotion campaign just night by Hon. Bryan L. Cathcart, Minister of Travel and Publicity, as he spoke to a dinner at the Hotel Quinte.

The occasion was the presenting by Mr. Cathcart of a cheque for $5,000 to the Hastings and Land O' Lakes Tourists Council for the furtherance of tourist promotion in the region.

The Hastings and Land O' Lakes Tourist Region is made up of the Highlands of Hastings County Association and the Land O' Lakes Association.

Both organizations have raised $2,500 each for the promotion campaign just night by Hon. Bryan L. Cathcart, Minister of Travel and Publicity, as he spoke to a dinner at the Hotel Quinte.

Mr. Cathcart said that according to border crossing entries American tourists last year spent $375,000,000 in Canada of which 73.4 per cent was spent in Ontario.

WILL BRUSH OFF

But this figure represented only the spending of American tourists in Canada. In addition to the money Americans spent in Canada, there were thousands of Canadians from other provinces who took vacations in this province estimated as close to the billion mark.

Consequently the money would brush off in the Hastings and Land O' Lakes Tourist Region if the area was given the right kind of publicity, Mr. Cathcart said.

Mr. Cathcart paid tribute to the work of local tourist organizations which, he said, were helping to attract more tourists into the province. He urged business people generally to get behind tourist promotion as tourist money could mean dollars in their pockets.

He said that Ontario was fortunate in that it was so large and had such diversified information.

"Regardless of what other countries have, we have it here. We can match it," he said.

Mr. Cathcart reviewed the accomplishments of the department noting that 311 historical plaques had been erected throughout the province with close to 20 border crossing information booths being maintained.

There were now 32 regional tourist councils set up to which grants amounting to over $200,000 had been given.

PLAQUES ERECTED

Mr. Cathcart said he was grateful to those who had formed the Hastings and Land O' Lakes Tourist Region and said that in a brief period which the organization had existed a "remarkable job" had been accomplished.

The local tourist region was one of the leaders in requests to establish information booths at service centres along 401 highway, he said.

"I hope they will be satisfactory in attracting more tourists to this area," he said.

CITES ACCIDENTS

He said that these information booths would be one way of getting in contact with tourists who otherwise "would be going right by your door."

And the value of local promotion by "unpaid ambassadors" could not be over-emphasized, he added.

As an example he cited one instance in which local member "Sandy" Sandercock had encouraged a carload of American tourists to take a trip through the north of the county instead of continuing through to Montreal.

"They were so pleased with their trip that they returned by way of Belleville to personally thank Mr. Sandercock, the speaker said.

But Mr. Cathcart also had words of appreciation for two other local members attending the presentation dinner, Clarke Rollins, MLA for Hastings East and Hon. Jack R. Simonette, of Frontenac. They were always ready to lend assistance to his department, he said.

MUCH TO OFFER

Mr. Cathcart said he could see great financial returns for this district if the interest highlights were known and the Hastings and Land O' Lakes Tourist Region had much to offer.

Included among the interests were the Bancroft area, north west of Madoc, owned by the Moira River Conservation Authority; the Deseronto and Bay of Quinte Iroquois Trail; Richardson's Gold Mine at Eldorado, the first gold mine in Ontario, and Bon Echo Rock, commonly known as the Gibraltar of Ontario, on Lake Mazinaw.

And in addition there was good fishing, beautiful scenery and good accommodation.

Grant McKitterick, president of the Hastings and Land O' Lakes Tourist Region also emphasized the value of tourist promotion, noting "You-sweet makes a man what you have to sell and also where to find it."

75 IN ATTENDANCE

The nonetheless of tourists and vacationers to a district was indicated by the fact that 75 persons including 46 per cent of the total assessment was vacation property.

Very few persons in the area did not benefit to some extent from the tourist industry, he said.

Mr. Earl Dicknoether, secretary manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, chaired the dinner meeting, with headtable guests being introduced by Verse McMurray, president of the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Association. Welcome was expressed by Deputy Mayor Ben Corke of Belleville and by

Parliamentary Notebook

OTTAWA (CP) — The parliamentary merry - go - round has completed another turn with everyone still grabbing for the brass ring on a river pollution bill.

The bill, authorizing $25,000 fines for anyone guilty of polluting a river which flows across provincial boundaries was first introduced in the Commons in 1955.

It has been re - introduced every session since then. It has been supported by every party, while in opposition. But it is again far down on the commons order paper and may not make any more progress this session.

It was first introduced by John Diefenbaker, then back bench Conservative MP for Prince Albert when his home town was troubled with pollution of the North Saskatchewan River which flows from Alberta.

WINS SUPPORT

Mr. Diefenbaker, proposed making it a criminal offence to pollute an interprovincial river. His bill won support of other opposition parties but didn't make any yards with the Liberal government of that day.

Then, in 1957, Mr. Diefenbaker became prime minister. H. W. Herridge, then the CCF

Parliamentary Secretary Raises Question of Govt. Getting Out of Business

OTTAWA (CP)—Jack Davis, 45, the economist who is Prime Minister Pearson's parliamentary secretary, has raised the idea of the government getting out of paying businesses and also those that own a subsidy burden on the taxpayer.

Mr. Davis admitted he was interested in seeing public regulation to his suggestion, made in the Commons Thursday.

But the extent to which it reflects administration thinking remains uncertain. As a parliamentary secretary, Mr. Davis might be considered to be testing the political winds for an idea the administration doesn't want to be too closely identified with yet.

Mr. Davis, MP for Coast Capilano, said he thinks "we should develop a mechanism for selling off these Crown corporations." The corporations he meant particularly were those helped over uneconomic periods by the government but now earning big sums while enjoying special tax advantages over private industry.

MAKES GOOD PROFITS

Polymer Corporation of Sarnia, Ont., a synthetic rubber producer which yields the federal government profits of several million dollars a year, was one Mr. Davis agrees would fit his definition.

"I think it should have been sold in the early 1950s," he said in an interview after his Commons speech.

Polymer was set up by the federal government to produce rubber and other synthetics during the Second World War.

The West Coast MP regards it as essential to devise ways of getting government out of business as well as into business, ways of creating Canadian ownership and retaining that ownership in Canada.

Perhaps the politically more difficult part of Mr. Davis' suggestion involves subsidized industries which are on the decline, such as coal mining.

'THEORY MISTAKEN'

He argues that many of the subsidies were undertaken in the mistaken belief that coal was passing through a difficult, uneconomic phase which would be corrected by growing demands for all forms of energy.

His suggestion is that Canadians must reconcile themselves to old and less economic industries dying. And in doing so, he urges that they be left in the private sector of the economy where substantial government assistance is not always necessary.

Whether the ultimate death of the industry such as coal mining would be acceptable to those dependent on it for a living is a major political problem.

With coal, the federal government in the past has tended to shy away from making the decision Mr. Davis suggests must be made. It pays coal-shipping subsidies totalling more than $17,000,000 a year.

Mr. Davis made no immediate proposal for the task of replacing the lost jobs and income involved in his plan.

Demonstration Points Up Need for Controlling and Eradicating Certain Insects

WASHINGTON (AP) — A transparent case filled with lively, scrambling male cockroaches shared the spotlight with two cabinet members and senators Thursday at a hearing on dangers to man and animal from chemical poisons.

Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman produced the insect demonstration to point up need for research to develop safer eradicating insects and other pests which threaten the food supply.

Freeman defended use of "nonselective" chemical warfare against insect and other destroyers of crops, food, feed and fiber and against disease.

He said a ban on use of the chemicals—some of which in large doses can be fatal to animal and crop life—might cause food costs to soar and reduce production.

The cockroaches were used by Dr. Edward Knipling, a research scientist at the agricultural department, to demonstrate methods of luring cockroaches and other insect pests to traps and controls.

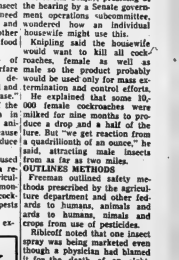
Air scented with a solution extracted from female cockroaches was squeezed from an eye dropper over the top of the case. The scores of male cockroaches went into a frenzy, spreading their wings and trying to climb nearer.

Senator Abraham Ribicoff (Dem.-Conn.), presiding at the hearing by a Senate government operations subcommittee, wondered how much individual housewife might use this.

Knipling said the housewife would want to talk to male roaches, female as well as males, for the product probably would be used only for mass extermination and control efforts. There are about that some 10,000 female cockroaches were milked for nine months to produce about one half of the lure. But "we get reaction from a quadrillionth of an ounce," he told Ribicoff. Also of synthetic insects from as far as two miles.

OUTLINES METHODS

Freeman outlined a variety methods prescribed by the agriculture department and other federal agencies to animals and birds to humans, nimals and crops from use of pesticides.



Ribicoff noted that insect spray was being marketed even though it was learning had blamed it for the death of an eight-year-old girl.

Ribicoff said he would introduce legislation today to prevent such sales "under protest registration."

Freeman promised full co-operation of the agriculture department in developing any techniques for reducing hazards in use of the chemical sprays and grants it gives.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Cookie jars will be raided; the "dresser" separated from the "ness" in the family wallet; detachable shirts will be taken out of the attic, and for people like me the big "guessing game" will start at the Fair Grounds come eight o'clock tomorrow evening.

For what is hailed to be the greatest harness racing season ever held on a Belleville track gets under way under the aegis of the Quinte Riding and Driving Club.

The inaugural meet opens the door to fifteen others scheduled for the summer which means that racing buffs can top off the Saturday evening beans, brown bread and bath with a fling at their favorite sport.

Personally, I'm digging the red flannels out of winter retirement since I've learned that screa of officials are considering putting ice back in the creaky old shack.

On the other hand I might accept Gerald Vance's invitation to don the harness trappings of a pacer and "warm-up" lugging a sulky around the track.

"We'll put blinkers on you," quipped the rotund fire chief, "so they won't recognize you. In fact the oldtimers might mistake you for 'Rip Van Winkle,' an ancient nag who raced here forty years ago. You'll find his remains in the glue pot on your desk."

In fact he suggested a special heat between me, "Adios Phararo" and "Gratten Mahoney," a couple of wheezy old nags who might go a quarter-mile despite spavins and the heaves.

Don't rush to the pari-mutuels. The odds respectively are 300-1, 200-1 and 201-1—that no one will finish. Take it.

Seriously, the Driving Club will present a card tomorrow night that includes the best harness flesh in the district. Four races are scheduled, the first getting under way at eight of the clock.

The club's race secretary, Mrs. E. Zebedee, a highly efficient lady, tells me the races will come under the new ruling of the Canadian Trotting Association as far as classification is concerned.

The "A", "B", "C", "D" system is now extinct and the races classified on a non-winner at certain purse levels basis, and winners in excess of certain amounts.

For instance, the first race tomorrow night is for "non-winners of $200 in 1963", the second, for "non-winners of $600 in 1962"; the third "for non-winners of $2,000 anytime," and the top race of the meet for "Winners in excess of $2,000 anytime."

And, Chief Vance adds, "the Carver-O'Hara-Mahoney RamDiction" is for non-winners of "no race at no time."

Some twenty-four horses are entered at this writing, but, Mrs. Zebedee informs me, there will be not a few added by racetime. Well over thirty pacers and trotters are expected to be on hand.

The pari-mutuels will be in operation and an illuminated "tote-board" placed across the track from the grandstand where all can view it. Odds will be posted as changed.

In reply to a number of enquiries the track will not be illuminated this year. Infield floodlights will be used. Failure of the Parks Board and the Driving Club to arrive at a lighting agreement has postponed the venture for this season at least.

Scores Hole-In-One

Nicklaus, 7, Share Lead

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus blasted in a hole-in-one, then closed with a saving birdie and led a cluster of eight touring pros into the first-round lead of the Memphis Open golf tournament Thursday.

The jovial Nicklaus and his seven colleagues toured the 6,501-yard, 34-35—70 par Colonial Country Club course in three-under-par 67s.

Sharing the lead with Nicklaus were Jerry Edwards, Rustler Cupit, Fred Hawkins, Dick Mayer, Gary Middlecoff, Johnny Pott and Tony Lema.

Bunched at 68 were George Knudson of Toronto, Jack McGowan, Dave Hill, Miller Barber, Don Sikes and Mike Souchak.

An early morning chill and a stiff breeze prevented a repeat of last year's spectacular opening when 37 golfers broke par in the first round.

A welcome afternoon sun warmed the competition and sent 71 contestants under par this time.

Charge 'Being Held Up To Ridicule' ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

CAHA Turns Censure Guns On Emms

By KEN CLARK

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association heard criticism — and praise — Thursday for Coach Hap Emms of Niagara Falls Flyers and then agreed to a motion deploring actions which "degrade" the game.

CAHA president Art Potter told the annual meeting that the Niagara Falls coach held the CAHA up to ridicule. Discussions dealt with Flyers' actions at Edmonton earlier this month during the Memorial Cup final in which the Flyers were beaten by the Edmonton Oil Kings in six games.

Delegates unanimously passed a motion, which did not name Emms, saying the CAHA "deplores the action of any club official which degrades our game as in the last Memorial Cup final."

The motion asked that in such cases of improper action the branch involved should bring the matter to the attention of the official concerned.

It was the second time at the annual meeting the CAHA hit out at a club official.

KROMM CENSURED

Coach Bobby Kromm of the Trail Smoke Eaters was formally censured for improper and erroneous statements about the CAHA.

Kromm had claimed the CAHA failed to give Trail adequate players and financial assistance for its trip to the 1963 world championship tournament at Stockholm. Trail represented Canada and finished fourth.

While the CAHA motion arising from the Emms case did not specifically name the eastern coach, the wording made it clear who it was aimed at.

Potter made it even clearer calling first for some sort of censure motion against Emms. "His actions were childlike," Potter said.

The coach, he said, took no notice of the CAHA at the junior final, complained wrongly about the lack of hospitality and "set the CAHA up as a farce."

WANTS NO RIDICULE

Potter said "we should not allow a coach, and more particularly a manager, to ridicule the CAHA and its officers as Emms did."

Emms, Potter said, called him a "dictator" and a "boner" for publication and did a great deal of damage to the national junior final.

Potter said Emms claimed of a lack of hospitality, but a special bus tour arranged by the CAHA for the Niagara Falls team fizzled when players failed to show up.

Another Emms complaint was that goal-line at the Edmonton rink was 15 feet from the back boards rather than the regulation 10 for amateur hockey.

Emms told Potter that his club was playing the series under protest because of it.

Potter said Emms was technically correct about the goal-line, but it was impossible to change it. "We would have had to take out the ice and start all over again."

HE'S FINE FELLOW

Lloyd Pollock, former president of the Ontario Hockey Association, said Emms was a "very fine fellow" but "does get tremendously worked up for his hockey club."

Pollock said Emms was a solid backer of the CAHA and "I hate to see the man publicly brought to task because he is one of the good amateur hockey operators in Canada."

Jim Brown, president of the Alberta Hockey Association, said Emms comments were magnified 100 per cent by the press.

End Of Line For Canadian?

Folley Teaches Cleroux Lesson

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — This could be the end of the line for fighter Bob Cleroux.

It was clear he was in way over his head Thursday night against Zora Folley.

In the aftermath there were indications that maybe the French - speaking Montrealer now feels he was cut out for some other field of work.

Folley, the stylesmaster of the heavyweight division, artfully evaded Cleroux' lumbering rushes and lashed out with stiff counter-punching for a conclusive 10-round decision.

The square-shouldered Canadian took a fearful pounding. His was staggered twice in the opening round and nearly went down. His left eye was puffed close. His body was a mass of red splotches. And he was bewildered at the end.

In his dressing room later Cleroux said he wanted a long rest before he started thinking of his future. Then he stomped off to the showers, ignoring the questions of reporters.

FA SAYS QUIT

"I tried to get him to quit long ago," said his father Maurice, onetime policeman who worked in the corner.

An attempt meanwhile is being made to coax Sweden's Ingemar Johansson to Montreal for a match in July against Folley, a ring-wise campaigner from Chandler, Ariz., who celebrates his 31st birthday Monday.

It was Folley's first appearance here but his superb display against the onetime Canadian champion obviously won a following for him.

Johnson, 29, announced his retirement earlier this month after a dismal, albeit winning, performance against Britain's Brian London. But he indicated later he was reconsidering.

For his end of the Johansson fight purse Folley wants the same terms he had Thursday night, a $7,000 guarantee with the option of 30 per cent of the gate. The cut was the same for Cleroux.

Both undoubtedly took the option because the card drew a standing room crowd of some 6,000 for a gate of something more than $40,000 with tickets scaled from $3 to $12.

Soaring Orioles Hop Into Lead

Win 9 In 10

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

On the strength of his first night on the job, Gil Hodges appears to be in no danger of having to leave the country.

Hodges, moving from cellar to cellar, took over as manager of the last-place Washington Senators Thursday night, shifting from New York Mets who occupy a similar position in the National League.

Before the game, the appointment came up for discussion in the hall of Congress, where one representative said if Hodges can do anything with the slumping Senators he will be just the man to take over the U.S. foreign aid program.

Gil seems to be safe at home for a while. Senators responded to new leadership by rolling over quietly before Robin Roberts and Baltimore Orioles, 6-0, for their 11th loss in their last 12 games.

Roberts held Senators to two hits, both by shortstop Ed Brinkman, and didn't walk a man as he pitched his third straight complete victory. The 36-year-old right-hander lost his first four this season.

MOVE INTO FIRST

The victory, Baltimore's ninth in 10 games, moved Orioles a half game in front in the American League over the idle Chicago White Sox.

The other two games on the slim baseball card also produced shutouts, both in the National League.

St. Louis Cardinals moved back into third place with a 6-0 victory over Chicago Cubs, and Cincinnati Reds defeated Milwaukee Braves 2-0.

Ernie Broglio, the Cardinal ace, ran his record to 5-1 with a five-hitter. Lefty Dick Ellsworth, who allowed only four hits in seven innings, was the Cub victim. Catcher Gene Oliver's homer in the fifth accounted for the only run.

Jim O'Toole won his seventh against three losses on a three-hitter against Braves. Denny Lemaster, the loser, threw a four hitter. Reds scored in the fourth on an error and a pop double by Daryl Spencer. They added a run in the ninth on another error, a stolen base and a single by Ken Walters.

GET TWO HOMERS

Senators wasted little time showing their new manager how life is lived in the other cellar. Starter Claude Osteen gave up all six Baltimore runs in the first three innings. Solo homers by Al Smith and Jerry Adair and a two-run double by Jack Brandt were the big blows.

Hodges and the Senators had come under Congressional scrutiny during a House of Representatives committee hearing on foreign aid.

AFL-CIO chief George Meany asked if Hodges would make a good manager of Senators.

Rep. Edna Kelly of Brooklyn, noting Gil's long service with Dodgers when they occupied that area, said: "Anybody from Brooklyn is bound to do a good job."

Rep. Wayne Hays of Ohio said: "All I can say is, if he does, we ought to get him to run the foreign aid program."

Actually, about the only managerial move Hodges was allowed to make turned out well. He yanked Osteen in the third for Jim Duckworth, who blanked the Orioles the final 6 2-3 innings.

Osteen was the 14 consecutive left-hander who failed to last against Orioles, who are 12-1 against southpaws. But Osteen was selected to pitch before Hodges took over.

Holoway Tosses 3-Hitter

Joyces Defeat Bobcats 8-1

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

The three-hit pitching of young Don Holoway and a bag full of Bouncer errors provided Joyce Real Estate with an 8-1 B. and D. Softball League win over Temple's Tabbies at the CNRA Park last night.

Joyce's pulled into a tie for the loop's top spot with RCAF by virtue of the victory and the two clubs meet head-on twice next week. If it is as cold as has been the case this week all games may be played on skates.

Bobcats and Joyces fought through three scoreless innings before the losers fell apart in the fourth, paving the way to three Joyce runs. It was 6-0 before Bobcats bagged their loner in the bottom of the sixth.

Don Holoway, still of juvenile age, pitched one-hit ball over the first five frames and gave up two more safeties in the latter stages. He struck out seven but also issued seven free tickets. Joyce's second errorless effort in a row helped his cause considerably.

Gerry Genereaux toiled in a loaing cause, allowing seven hits, five of them coming in the final four frames. He slipped three on strikes and walked four while the club was charged with seven errors. Lefty Bob Green retired the final two Joyce batters.

A pair of infield errors put two on for Joyces in the fourth with one out. Batchelor lined a single to centre, plating one run, but the ball got through Clapp permitting another to score and the relay home evaded Murray to let Batchelor come all the way around.

Carr's single, a walk and an error on Muirhead's sacrifice loaded the bases again in the sixth. Faulkner drove home two runs with a double and Horwood's fly ball upped the count to 6-0.

Brown drew a walk for the Bobcats in the sixth, went to third on Clapp's double and scored on a wild pitch. A two-base error and Muirhead's double got that back in the seventh while Plane tripled off Clapp's glove and scored on Horwood's single in the final 8-1 count.

Jim Horwood, with a double and single, was the only Joyce player with two hits. Ralph Plane tripled, Bert Faulkner and Stu Muirhead doubled, Ted Batchelor and Claude Carr singled.

Earl Clapp and Jack Hughes with doubles, and Don Gardiner with a single, accounted for the Bobcat safeties.

"Will Fight CAHA Decision"

North Protests Over Status Rejection

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association and its affiliated Northern Ontario group will get together soon to discuss player transfer problems, OHA president C. G. Patterson said Thursday.

Patterson said in a statement he will call a meeting between committees of the two groups to talk things over.

The Northern Ontario Hockey Association asked the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at the parent body's annual meeting here for permission to break away from the OHA and become a full branch member. The CAHA turned down the request Wednesday.

Jim Aspen of North Bay, NOHA president, made it clear his group wanted the new status to prevent a steady drain of players to southern Ontario teams. Full - fledged membership would bring strict player transfer rules into effect.

Patterson said in his statement he felt that "both organizations can get together and solve the problems of the NOHA" and give the northern body player protection.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Northern Ontario hockey men fighting to keep their players from being scooped up by Ontario Hockey Association teams in the south are raising a storm of protest over the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's refusal to grant them separate branch status.

In North Bay, Pete Palangio, owner-manager of the junior A Trappers and local arena manager Morris Snider said Thursday they will lead a bid to have the CAHA decision reconsidered immediately.

If the CAHA—holding its annual meeting in Brandon, Man., this week — had allowed the Northern Ontario Hockey Association to split with the parent OHA, the southern teams' drafts from the north would have been limited to the two branch-to-branch transfers a year allowed each team.

Mr. Snider said: "Many cities in the north now have $1,-000,000-arenas which depend on good hockey for their existence. We need the protection of separate affiliation in order to develop junior hockey and keep our junior players in Northern Ontario."

Timmins Mayor Leo Delvillano, NOHA convener for the area, said: "I don't think the CAHA went into the proposal deeply enough. Northern Ontario is already divided, as the Thunder Bay district is a separate branch. The NOHA should enjoy the same set-up."

GUIDOLIN OBJECTS

Referee Bep Guidolin, a former National Hockey League player now scouting for Boston Bruins, said:

"It's too bad the bid failed. If we had broken away we would be able to keep our own players. The OHA retains the affiliation as they know the importance of getting players from the NOHA."

Northern hockey men say they are at a loss to understand why the Western Canadian clubs, who have called for years for the OHA to be broken up, didn't vote for the split.

Fred Butterfield, president of NOHA Senior A Kapuskasing Kaps, said:

"We are large enough to look after our own affairs. We don't need a parent to look after us. We produce many of the good players in the game today and want to hang on to them."

Wic Haneberry, a midget and juvenile coach, said: "We are part of the OHA but we don't even have representation on the OHA executive."

'Super-Cargo Officials'

Kromm Blasts Back At CAHA

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Hockey coach Bobby Kromm defended himself Thursday with the same vehemence that resulted in his censure-by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Kromm, who coached Trail Smoke Eaters, repeated earlier statements that the CAHA failed to give his team adequate players and financial assistance for its trip to the 1963 world hockey championships in Stockholm.

The coach turned his defence into a blistering attack on he CAHA and singled out President Art Potter of Edmonton.

"I asked Mr. Potter to see if he could help on the Bert Olmstead case, a player who would certainly have helped our cause, and he declined," Kromm said.

"He said he would rather see us do it our way as the CAHA did not get along with the pros."

Trail was seeking Olmstead, retired veteran of Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL, but could not get his release to play amateur hockey.

Commenting on financial aid Trail received, Kromm said:

"Whatever we received from the CAHA...we earned."

He said the CAHA should leave what he described as "super-cargo" officials at home and give the money spent on them to clubs representing Canada in the world tournament.

Says 'Boomer' Will Be With Leafs

NEW GLASGOW, N.S. (CP) Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman Kent Douglas predicts that Montreal Canadiens' right winger Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion will be with the Leafs next season.

Douglas said in an interview Thursday that Geoffrion is going to be traded from the Canadiens "and it looks like he'll be joining us."

He said the Canadiens are interested in several Leaf players but wouldn't suggest who would be sent to Montreal in exchange for Geoffrion.

Douglas this season became the first defenceman in the NHL to win the Calder trophy as the league's top rookie.

He was guest of honor at a banquet in Stellarton Thursday night and addressed a gathering of minor league hockey players.

In Montreal, Ken Reardon, vice-president of Montreal Canadiens, refused to comment on Douglas's statement.

Still Going Up At 367 Feet

Mantle Blast Awes Mates

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle's homer Wednesday night left even his own teammates in awe. The screaming liner off the facade of the third deck missed by six feet being the first fair ball hit out of Yankee Stadium since it was built in 1923.

Mantle hit the ball in the 11th inning of the game with Kansas City, breaking a 7-7 tie. With one swing, he also shattered Bill Fischer's perfect 6-0 pitching record.

"That was the hardest ball I ever hit," said Mantle, who has hit some hard ones, including a 565-foot job at Washington, Apr. 17, 1953. He also hit one off the same stadium facade, May 30 1956 but that was a fly ball coming down. This was a liner still going up. No telling how far it might have gone if it hadn't hit the facade, 367 feet out and 100 feet up.

"I saw it in the haze that comes over the roof when the lights are on, he said. "I knew it was going places. I wouldn't have been surprised if it had gone out of the joint."

HOUK HAS IDEA

Ralph Houk, Yankee manager, had a realistic comment. "I wish it could have been cut into singles and we would have had enough hits for a week.

"Mickey now has beaten his record. That's the most."

Frank Crossetti, veteran Yankee coach who dates back to the Babe Ruth era, said: "That's the hardest I've ever seen anyone hit a ball. Jimmy Fox, Ruth, anybody. I don't believe a man can hit a ball harder. It went out like it was shot from a cannon."

Over in the other clubhouse, the Athletics also were shaken.

Eddie Lopat, ex-Yank pitcher who now manages Kansas City, has seen many a booming drive in Yankee Stadium.

"I'm a pitcher," said Lopat when asked his reaction. "I know the sound. I just turned my back."

Country Club Golf Chatter

(By A MEMBER GUEST COLUMNIST)

TO TEENS AND PRE-TEENS IN THE GOLF FIELD

Epicurus once said "Gratitude is a virtue with profit attached to it."

The gratitude of the adult playing members of the Golf Club, to the junior and young adults, beginning, (or continuing in the beginners' league,) by adhering to and respecting the ground rules of the game, can be most profitable.

The under-thirteen group are welcome assets to any club, because they, and their children, are the future membership, and 20 ago groups takes their golf quite so seriously as this one.

But at the same time, being serious golfers, they are still easily distracted, by a flying butterfly, a jumping frog, or collecting bottle caps.

Now this in no way affects THEIR game, but to the adults playing behind them — well — maybe its the one day they have been able to play that week — let them through, kids — your parents humor you, be big, and humor us "old ones"!

To the teenagers; and we all should temper our judgement that we were there once too, yeah, a big welcome to the game, with a few words from a long ago teenager:

The boys tend to become the better golfers of the two genders in the teen group, playing each other, they mix socially, and it ceases to be a golf game and becomes more of an outdoor ambling date.

I must be fair, and point out that possibly only two or three, or maybe one, is a member, entertaining the others, and we welcome them as guests, if only for the nostalgic feeling of watching them, but it's up to the member of the club in the group to keep his or her guests informed about the rules of the traps, the greens, and the unwritten ethics of the game.

Your profit is our gratitude.

Brando Talks Philosophy Of International Politics

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—He spoke with a slow, painful intensity, like torturing his mind to get the right word, the exact phrase to express his meaning.

"People want identity more than they want money or anything else in life," said Marlon Brando. "And that hunger for identity and self-respect can have disastrous political effects.

"Where people have weak identities of their own, they will seek identity with the strong. But nationalism is on the swing everywhere now."

Brando, who portrayed a fighting diplomat in Southeast Asia in his latest film, "The Ugly American," has been keenly interested in politics for some time.

Something of a rebel all his own life, he has been openly critical of the U.S. government's treatment of minorities at home and its attitude toward revolutionary movements that have sprung up abroad since the end of the Second World War.

"We've called ourselves the saviors of the democratic way of life," remarked Marlon, "and I think we must now simply implement and literally support that point of view—or abdicate from it."

MUST SPEAK UP

Movie idols don't usually spout off on political issues, and Brando acknowledged that, it had been suggested to him he'd do better to button his lip except when before the camera lens.

"I've been asked: 'Who are you to shoot your mouth off? You're just an actor. Your rightful organ of communications is the scandal sheet, or the movie magazine.'

"But if me and my family—and my country—are going to be threatened by extinction, I've got something to say about it. I just can't blithely stand around and accept whatever Mr. Big has fed me.

"I have as much right to my opinion as a U.S. senator has to his."

The truth seems to be that Brando thrives on controversy as some people do on praise. Listening to him, you get the feeling that he himself is still groping for the real nature of his identity. He feels too many people today are measured by price tags.

"People don't realize how much of our lives is controlled by money generally," he said, stabbing thoughtfully at the remnants of a $5.50 luncheon steak.

"Everything is bought and sold today — people, magazines, new ideas, motion pictures, whisky and motor cars. And very little distinction is made between the merchandising personalities—ideas, people and material things."

'Happy To Play For Casey'

Mets Buy Jim Piersall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jim Piersall, who gets into trouble about as easily as he snags fly balls, was sold to New York Mets by Washington Senators Thursday, apparently in exchange for release of Gil Hodges who is to become Washington manager.

The terse announcement of the deal, for an unannounced amount of cash and a player to be named later, didn't tie the two developments together but there were strong signs that they were connected.

Thus, a few hours before Hodges took charge of the last-place Senators for the first time in a night game at Baltimore, the veteran slugger lost the services of a top outfielder.

The Piersall deal left Washington with 23 players, two below the American League limit.

General manager George Selkirk of the Senators and Barry Shetrone from Columbus of the International League to replace Piersall and pitcher Pete Burnside as a free agent. He also optioned pitcher Art Quirk to the Senators' York, Pa., farm team.

"I've been in baseball 16 years," said Piersall, as he collected his equipment before leaving to join the Mets. "You never know what's going to happen.

"I'm happy to go play for (Casey) Stengel. He was my biggest booster when I was a rookie. He made the complaints on my fielding that caused people to take notice of me."

Piersall, 33, still is rated one of the top defensive centrefielders in baseball, even though his hitting has been below par the past two seasons.

Scientists Probe Golf Mysteries

LONDON (AP)—Some of Britain's top scientists are putting their minds to a problem that has been puzzling many of their fellow countrymen for a number of years —how to play golf.

One of the main points at issue in a three-year study of the game is the difference in performance of the big American ball and the smaller British one, and just how to swing a club.

Dr. Alastair Cochran, 33-year-old atomic scientist, told a conference on science and sport at the Royal College of Advance Technology Thursday:

"It is the ultimate and perhaps naively ambitious hope that it will be possible to describe in scientific terms the best method of swinging a golf club and recommend the adoption of it by professional teachers."

Dr. Cochran and the other scientists in their golfing experiments are such non-British players Dai Rees, Mike Lunt and Joe Carr. Findings of this scientific research are to be published in a book.

But complained Dr. Cochran: "I have been so busy working on the research that my own game has deteriorated."

AT THE PARK — Dueling against three opponents at once is only one of the many daredevil feats accomplished by Stewart Granger in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's swashbuckling drama, "Swordsman of Siena," showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program Hell and Heroism on the high seas in MGM's "Seven Seas to Calais", starring Rod Taylor, Keith Mitchell and Irene Worth. Both features are first showings. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00. Doors open 12.30.

Cartwright of Bonanza May Take Wife Next Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Some pretty upsetting news has come out of the Old West: Adam Cartwright, the soulful, dark and rather brooding son of the Ponderosa, will take a wife sometime next season.

The marriage has been arranged on a high level—it was announced by Bonanza's producer and NBC—and auditions are in progress to find just the right girl for Adam. But as a veteran viewer, I couldn't make any bets on Adam's Eve ever reaching the altar.

In the first place, who ever heard of a married western hero. From the days of William S. Hart and Tom Mix, these brave boys in the big hats have lured their heroines, their cattle, their land, justice and underdogs. Although they could get mighty attracted to the local school marm or a neighboring rancher's daughter, when the windup came, they'd sadly but bravely climb back on their faithful steeds or ride off into the setting sun.

Two years ago, a scheme to get a shady girl and perhaps even a wife ultimately for Chuck Connors, the whisper of The Rifleman, just didn't work out.

Matrimony, as a matter of fact, is a stultifying for more than western heroes. Originally lawyer Lawrence Preston of The Defenders was supposed to have a wife, but he suddenly became a widower after they shot the film.

On Bonanza of course, it probably wouldn't matter so much if one of the three brothers had a wife—there are still left thrice-widowed father Ben played by Ottawa-born Lorne Green, girl-shy Hoss and gay blade Little Joe.

A number of performers have observed that regular roles in an unsuccessful television series have no bad effect on their careers. Now comes actor James Francicus to prove it: He is winding up a starring role in the film, Youngblood Hawke, just in time to start making a new television series, Mr. Novak, a big item in next season's CBS schedule. And Francicus was a co-star in last season's The Investigators which had a short, rough trip on CBS' channels.

Walker Cup Golf Said Best Ever

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) Captains of the British and United States Walker Cup golf teams studied the draw for today's opening matches and agreed the 9th cup meeting will be among the most interesting ever.

"It's this new system everybody gets a game," said Charles Lawrie, non - playing captain of Britain, after the draw was made Thursday.

Twelve matches will be played today and another 12 Saturday. There will be four scotch foursomes and eight singles matches each day. All competition is over 18 holes, with 24 points at stake. Previous matches have been 36-hole events, with a total of 13 points at stake.

"These matches are about as interesting as anything anybody could imagine," said Dick Tufts the non-playing U.S. captain.

The two-ball foursomes will be played in the morning and the singles in the afternoon.

Since this amateur golf competition was started in 1922, the U.S. has won 17 of 19 matches, losing only in 1935 at St. Andrew's. British bookmakers have made the Americans 2-to-1 favorites to retain the trophy.

The greens turned fastest Thursday. Weeks of heavy rain soaked the course until a couple of days ago. Suddenly the rain turned to sunshine and the course has been drying out.

NEW DISNEY FILM AN ACTION DRAMA

In "Miracle of the White Stallions", the stirring tale of a courageous man who risked his life to save Vienna's priceless Lipizzan horses from destruction near the close of World War II, Walt Disney will appeal to all ages especially adults.

Opening yesterday at the Belle Theatre, the Disney adventure-drama is based on the fantastic real-life story of Colonel Alois Podhajsky, director of Vienna's famed Spanish riding school.

Two of Hollywood's most versatile and popular stars, Robert Taylor and Lilli Palmer, are teamed for the first time as the courageous Colonel Podhajsky and his beautiful ife, Verena. Taylor makes an impressive return to motion pictures after three years as the star of his own television series. Probably the only major actor in the film world with the combined dramatic and equestrian ability required to play Podhajsky, Taylor scores heavily on both counts.

Lovely Miss Palmer is perfect as the Colonel's lady, adding another sensitive portrayal to a long and memorable list of screen characterizations.

Well known European actor Curt Jergens makes a fine performance as the sympathetic part of German General Teilheim, a man torn between loyalty to personal friendship to Podhajsky and loyalty to a cause he really despises.

Veteran performer of stage, screen and television, Eddie Albert gives one of his most moving performances as Otto, head rider of the school and close friend of Podhajsky.

James Franciscus, talented young star of such popular TV series as "The Naked City" and "The Investigators", and scheduled for his own series next season makes his screen debut as Major Hoffman, the rugged American officer who brings about the daring rescue of the Lipizzan mares from behind enemy lines.

Arthur Hiller, in his first assignment for Disney, directed the Buena Vista film with taste and sensitivity. Frank Tashlin, brilliant Technicolor, the film story was written by A. J. Carothers.

Intermission at the Belle Theatre was especially effective in capturing the beauty and pageant of the Lipizzan horses as expertly trained white stallions and their dedicated riders in their magnificent white, Baroque hall in Vienna.

Folk Musicians Moved Out Of Coffee Cafes Into Bigtime

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The fastest growing segment of the entertainment industry is folk music.

Folk records sell in the millions. Folk festivals are popping up all over. Folk musicians have moved out of the coffee houses and into the bigtime. Every college campus has its crew of guitar - and banjo-thumping folkers, eternally hopeful of being tomorrow's Kingston Trio or Peter, Paul and Mary.

A high priest of the folk movement is Edwin Pearl.

He operates the local Ash Grove, which has spawned Bud and Travis, the Limelighters and many another top act. It is says Pearl, the only night club in the United States that regularly presents pure folk music. By pure he means that the music is the real McCoy, with no help from Tin Pan Alley, and the instruments are never, never amplified.

SEARCHES FOR TALENT

Pearl has scoured the hills of North Carolina, Kentucky and Boher origins and is folk pure authentic musicians, importing some to Los Angeles virtually barefoot.

"Things are happening so fast I can hardly keep up with them," said the dark, intense, 30 - year - old native of Los Angeles.

Pearl explained that he has been running the Ash Grove for five years, and there were times when the operation was touch and go. Lately it has been all go. He admitted that the Kingston Trio was the prime force in selling folk music to the masses, though like all purists he disapproves of their commercial style.

"I give them credit for helping the movement along," he conceded. "They certainly have a lot of fun performing, and that's one quality that folk music should have."

ELEVEN WAS LUCKY

GRERRY HILL, N.J. (AP)—The winning numbers in double numbers were 11 and 11 Thursday at Garden State Park, when Mrs. Zai took the first double. Mr. Auwah captured the second for a record $3,214.40-for-$2 payoff.

16 Teams Share Big Profit

BRANDON (CP) — Sixteen teams shared a $103,793 profit in senior and junior interbranch hockey playoffs in Canada in 1962.

Figures were released here Thursday at the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Biggest take went to Edmonton Oil Kings who defeated Niagara Falls Flyers in six games for the national junior hockey title.

The Detroit farm club picked up $31,231 as their share of the gates after deductions for rink charges and expenses. The Flyers got $17,971.

TURNBERRY, Scotland (CP-AP)—The United States took a 2-1 lead over Britain in the Walker Cup international golf competition today by winning two of the Scotch foursomes in the opening day's play and having another split.

Bob Gardner and Dr. Ed Updegraff halved their match with a British's David Madeley and Ronnie Shade after being 2 down at the 13th hole.

Micrael Bonallack and Stuart Murray turned in the only British victory, beating Billy Joe Patton and Dick Sikes 4 and 3.

In the Scotch foursomes, players on each team take alternate shots with one ball.

Learning to Act The Bilingual Way

By JACK HUTTON

A small graduating class of about 30 students from the only school of its kind in Canada is all set to show the rest of the country what it can do.

The National Theatre School — possibly the only such bilingual school in the world — is looking forward with pride to taking the wraps off the first graduates of its three - year course.

It looked near impossible three years ago. But the young people who started in the Montreal school have reached that magic moment. Many already have attractive offers.

I talked with Jean Gascon, one of French Canada's best comedians and also a director of the school, for his reactions. He was, by the way, in Stratford, Ont., where the students will complete their course this summer.

"We're very proud of them," he said. "Some, in fact, won't even be with us at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival. Heath Lambert, one of our graduating students, will be out in Vancouver playing the title role of "Peter Pan."

"Gary Learoyd and Dianne Leblanc have been offered acting roles in Halifax. And others will be working with director John Hirsch in Winnipeg. It's wonderful to see them accepted."

Success must taste especially sweet to these students. For the past three years none of the students have been allowed to accept outside acting roles because the experience might interfere with their training.

Instead, helped by some of the finest experts in Canada, they've concentrated on basic acting techniques, improvisation, voice control. And because the school is bilingual, they've learned about Canada's two cultures.

It hasn't been easy. Quite a few visitors have gone away marvelling after seeing students sleeping on the floors between lessons. The young actors found it a quick way to relax.

One visitor, for example, watched Powys Thomas direct a scene in which students played survivors in an open boat in a rough sea. The students later looked as tired as if it had really happened.

How does one enter the school? While I spoke to Mr. Gascon, James Domville, the school's administrator, and an assistant were in Western Canada interviewing applicants for next fall.

"The qualifications look quite simple," said Mr. Gascon. "Our applicants must be between 17 and 24 years of age. And they prepare one scene from a classic play and one from a modern play for an audition."

About 250 young people, representing almost every part of Canada, applied this year. Only 30 of them will finally be chosen by the school's directors after cross-Canada auditions.

The new group will enter the school's gruelling routine, sometimes starting at 8:45 a.m. and finishing after 6 p. m. in a schedule that includes fencing, ballet and constant exercises.

It won't be easy for most of them — financially or otherwise. But at least they have a faith that theatre and acting opportunities are going to keep developing in Canada.

The best of luck to each one of them!

UN RECORD

I've just heard a rather sad story about a record which should be selling well in Canada but isn't.

The record is called "All Star Festival" and includes the efforts of a blue ribbon group of entertainers, including Ella Fitzgerald. All of the talent was donated without charge so that every cent of profit could go to the UN Refugee Fund.

I thought the idea was a good one when I first heard of it. And most people thought the record would sell as well in Canada as anywhere else.

The sales statistics, which were recently released, tell a different story. The record has been at the top of Jaan's popularity charts for some time and West German music lovers have bought more than 140,000 copies.

Dutch record fans have been buying the record at the rate of 1,000 a day. So far they've bought about 100,000 discs and sales are still booming.

What about Canada? No one knows exactly but about 100 copies a week are being sold across the country. We've a solid reputation for supporting the UN in Canada — but apparently his doesn't extend to music lovers!

TOP TWENTY TUNES

1. I Will Follow Him—PEGGY March. 2. Can't Get Used To Losing You — Andy Williams. 3. Puff (The Magic Dragon) — Peter, Paul and Mary. 4. Pipeline — Chantays. 5. He's So Fine — Chiffons. 6. If You Wanna Be Happy — Jimmy Soul. 7. Don't Say Nothin' Bad About My Baby — Cookies. 8. Surfin' U.S.A. — Beach Boys. 9. On Broadway — Drifters. 10. Watermelon Man — Mongo Santamaria. 11. Baby Workout — Jackie Wilson. 12. Mecca — Gene Pitney. 13. Foolish Little Girl — Shirelles. 14. Rev. Mr. Black — Kingston Trio. 15. Chopsticks — Bobby Vee. 17. Young and In Love — Dick and Dee Dee. 18. Losing You — Brenda Lee. 19. Take These Chains — Ray Charles. 20. Tom Cat — Rooftop Singers.

Ella Fitzgerald is one of many entertainers who have been recorded on a special disc for the U-N Refugee Fund. Teen-Age Canada reveals that the record, however, is not selling well in this country.

One Dollar Gets $20,300 If You Win

LONDON (CP)—One dollar will get you $20,300 if a unique "Canadian double" comes off at Epsom racecourse next week.

That would be the payoff in the unlikely event of a Derby victory next Wednesday for Count Albany, owned by Max Bell of Calgary, and an Oaks triumph a week from today for Bally Free, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto.

Count Albany, a brown colt by Doutelle out of Safaniya, is listed at 100 to 1 in the Derby betting and Bally Free, a bay filly by Ballymoss out of Fair Freedom, is a 200-to-1 chance. Hence the $20,300 parlay.

Trying to win a small fortune by coupling the winners of the two classic races is a popular British pastime, but betting offices haven't reported any rush to back the Toronto - Calgary combination.

Count Albany never has been in the money and Bally Free appears to be outclassed. Seldom favorite for the Oaks is a Mossborough filly named Noblesse, widely regarded as a worldbeater.

Crop Damage From Frosts May Reach Huge Sum

Early Tobacco Plantings Will Be Total Loss

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario fruit and tobacco farmers counted crop losses of at least $2,500,000 Friday, and feared the damage from severe early morning frosts may go far higher.

Estimates of the loss in Niagara Peninsula grape and strawberry growers were more than $2,000,000. Early plantings of flue-cured tobacco in the Delhi-Simcoe-Brantford area will have to be almost completely replaced at a cost of around $400,000.

Still to be assessed is the loss in tree crops—cherries, peaches, apples and plums—but some damage began to appear Friday afternoon. It takes several days for frost damage to become apparent in the orchards.

"If the tree crops have been hit hard," said Keith Mattle, secretary of the Ontario Tender Fruit Marketing Board in St. Catharines, "the damage might reach $5,000,000 or even $1,000,000. It's impossible to tell."

Temperatures dropped to 22 degrees in the Niagara Peninsula fruit belt and to 20 in the Holland Marsh market garden area region north of Toronto. Ground temperatures in the Holland Marsh area went down to 19.

HITS TOBACCO

About 15 per cent of the province's flue-cured tobacco acreage had been planted and it was almost all wiped out. The loss may create a shortage of tobacco plants for the growers, said George Demeryes, chairman of the Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Growers' Marketing Board.

Most Ontario housewives the fatal black centres that appeared in the strawberry blooms Friday will certainly mean higher berry prices this summer. Imported fruit, however, will replace some of the loss, said Mr. Mathie.

Fruit prices will be more expensive, and the season for home-grown vegetables will be shorter than usual.

In eastern and Northern Ontario crops—held back by the late spring—were not far enough advanced to suffer damage. The south western end of the province escaped the frost altogether.

GOVERNOR MAY NOT COMPLY WITH ORDER OF COURT

Vows to Keep Negroes Out

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Governor George Wallace, challenged by the U.S. government on his pledge to block integration at the University of Alabama, planned his next move today in his sovereignty dispute with federal authorities.

He had no comment on whether he would comply with a federal judge's summons to court.

The segregationist governor, himself a former state judge, was ordered Friday by U.S. District Judge Seybourn Lynne to appear in Birmingham for a June 3 injunction hearing.

Lynne set the hearing on a justice department petition for legal restraint of Wallace, who has vowed he will keep Negroes out of the University of Alabama.

TWO WILL TRY

Scheduled to seek enrolment for the summer session starting June 10 are Miss Vivian Malone, 20, of Mobile, and David McGlathery, 27, of Huntsville. Miss Malone will attempt to enter the main campus, McGlathery the Huntsville Extension Centre.

A federal judge ruled this week that racial unrest in the state could not be considered and he refused to delay enrolment of the Negroes.

The federal government moved to curb Wallace four days after he declared: "I embody the sovereignty of this state" and pledged to bar personally the entrance of any Negro to the state university.

In the justice department proceedings against the governor, the federal government asserted its supreme power or sovereignty and said a governor "has no authority by proclamation' or otherwise to obstruct or prevent the execution of the lawful orders of a court of the United States."

U.S. WILL TEST

Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, who signed the complaint, said in Washington the action is aimed at testing Wallace's announced position of "legal resistance and legal defiance."

In Greenboro, N.C., about 900 young Negroes, ignoring an unofficial endorsement of integration by the city council, marched quietly into the downtown area Friday night, a few hours after the council made its endorsement.

Only token attempts to enter segregated businesses were made by the marchers, most of them of high school age.

Tranquil Night Spent By Pope

CP from AP-Reuters

VATICAN CITY—Pope John spent a tranquil night and is showing improvement today in his relapse, Vatican sources said today.

The Pope, who began a nine-day period of spiritual retreat and fasting Friday, said morning mass in his private chapel as usual.

No official announcement was made here on the condition of the 81-year-old pontiff who suffered a severe relapse four days ago in his illness, a stomach disorder believed to be ulcer or cancer.

'Beaver' Observes 84th Birthday 'Another Bonus From Almighty'

LONDON (CP)—Lord Beaverbrook, who once said he is ungrateful for each birthday after 70 as a bonus from the Almighty, collected another dividend today.

He celebrated his 84th birthday but he did so without fanfare. In a departure from previous years, no party was planned and the only visitors were his grand - daughter, Lady Jean Campbell, who flew here Friday from New York.

Beaverbrook takes things quietly these days. He suffers periodic attacks of bronchial trouble and makes public appearances only rarely.

He spent the day at Cherkley, his country residence near Leatherhead in Surrey. Also staying at Cherkley is Lady Dunn, widow of Sir James Dunn, the Canadian steel magnate who was one of the Beaver's closest associates.

K ACCEPTS INVITATION TO VISIT CUBA

Renews Pledge To Defend Island

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev today accepted an invitation to visit Cuba and renewed his threats to unleash Soviet nuclear power to defend the Caribbean island against invasion.

Both pledges came in a joint communique at the end of the public phase of the nearly month-long red carpet reception for Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Castro and Khrushchev now plan a rest in the south.

The communique, issued by the Soviet news agency Tass, said Khrushchev accepted "with gratitude" Castro's invitation to visit "the first socialist state in America." No date was mentioned.

Turning to the defence of Cuba, the communique added:

"In the course of talks between comrades N. S. Khrushchev and Fidel Castro it was confirmed by the Soviet side that if an attack was made on Cuba, which God forbid, the commitments undertaken by the United States president not to invade Cuba, the Soviet Union will fulfil its international duty to the fraternal Cuban people and government in order to render necessary aid for the defence of the freedom and independence of the Cuban republic with all the means at its disposal."

POSES MISSILE THREAT

"The centres of aggression should remember that an invasion of Cuba will place mankind before the devastating nuclear missile war."

(A state department spokesman in Washington challenged the communique's reference to a commitment by President Kennedy not to invade Cuba. He said the no-invasion pledge was offered "for something the Russians never delivered—that is, on-site inspection in Cuba" to verify the removal of Soviet offensive weapons.)

The communique's hard language and heavy stress on Soviet pledges of aid to Cuba against any attack appeared designed to soothe the still-ruffled feelings of Castro at the withdrawal of Soviet missiles last fall.

But Western observers here said Khrushchev's efforts to woo Castro during the last month have paid off. The consensus of opinion of a dozen important diplomats was that Khrushchev had pulled himself out of political trouble.

APPROVES ACTION

In a long speech at Lenin Stadium Friday before 125,000 persons, Castro indicated approval of Khrushchev's actions in defusing Cuba.

"The policy of the United States against the Cuban revolution," he declared, "suffered a complete fiasco and led the government of that country to a grave international crisis."

Economic agreements also figured prominently in the Castro-Khrushchev talks.

The communique said Khrushchev has agreed to alter a trade agreement with Cuba in order to pay the Cuban's the full world price of sugar, now about $300 a ton. This means the Russians will take over to some extent the support the United States has given Castro Cuba by supporting the price of his prime crop.

There was also speculation that Khrushchev agreed to increase to nearly double and extend in time the Soviet economic aid to Cuba estimated to be costing the Russians about $1,000,000 a day now.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis — Except for scattered showers, another warm day is expected over most of the province today but maximum temperatures will be somewhat lower near the Great Lakes. The cold weather in Northern Ontario will not progress much farther south than the White River and Cochrane regions Sunday, so that another pleasantly warm day is due for most of Ontario.

Price of Sugar Has Almost Doubled in Last 6 Months

MONTREAL (CP)—The price of sugar in Canada has almost doubled in the last six months.

Consumers who this week were paying $1.79 or more for 10 pounds bought the same amount to make their Christmas cakes for 90 cents or less.

"The increase has been so drastic the government admits it is keeping an eye on the situation, although its investigators have found the rises are not out of line with the increasing price of raw sugar on the world market.

The higher consumer price is a direct reflection of a jump in the wholesale price.

Fifteen months ago Montreal refineries were selling 100 pounds of sugar for $6.46 a day a 100-pound bag was worth $17.50 to $17.65.

Why?

Basically, said an official of one large Montreal refinery, it's a classic case of supply and demand.

Fifteen months ago, he said, the world simply had too much sugar. Consumption had

SIU President Gets Blast From U.S. Labor Secretary

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz has accused Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers International Union of North America, of "failure to recognize the gravity" of a dispute between U.S. and Canadian unions affecting Great Lakes shipping.

Wirtz accompanied his blast at Hall with a call for prompt convening of a new meeting of Canadian and U.S. labor leaders to seek a settlement of the union rivalry at the base of the dispute.

Informants said they expect meetings in the next few weeks will point the way to a final settlement of the rivalry between the Canadian branch of the SIU and the Canadian Maritime Union, supported by the Canadian Labor Congress. They described the outlook as still encouraging.

Wirtz publicly rapped Hall for unleashing a volley of 138 Bushworkers Fined $200 Each for Unlawful Assembly

TIMMINS (CP) — Magistrate W. S. Gardner fined 138 bushworkers $200 each or three months in jail after convicting them Friday of unlawful assembly.

The magistrate gave the convicted men until June 29 to pay their fines.

Similar charges against 38 other members of Local 2995 of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' Union (CLC) were dismissed.

The charges were laid following an early morning clash Feb. 11, in which three members of striking Local 2995 were shot to death at an independent lumber stockpile at Reesor Siding, 32 miles west of Kapuskasing and 855 miles northwest of Timmins.

The independent bushworkers were stockpiling logs at the siding during a strike by the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' local against Spruce Falls Power and Paper Company at Kapuskasing.

Magistrate Gardner ruled that the unlawful assembly slogan at several union halls in Kapuskasing, continued — as "tarheads of union men moved to Reesor Siding and culminated in a riot

Ben Bella Declares War

Calls For Action In Angola, South Africa

CP from AP-Reuters

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — Premier Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria issued a virtual declaration of war against Portugal and South Africa Friday at the African summit conference. He called for immediate military action.

The fiery 46-year-old revolutionary won the greatest ovation yet given in the 31-nation conference and immediate support from the moderate president of Tanganyika, Julius Nyerere.

Ben Bella announced Algeria, which cast off French rule last year, has 10,000 volunteers ready to battle the Portuguese in Angola and he demanded that the conference "extend immediate aid to liberation fighters" there, in Portuguese Mozambique and in South Africa.

Speaking off the cuff, he called on all Africa "to die a little" for freedom of areas remaining under foreign domination. He urged the adoption of a charter for African unity, but added:

"Our charter will be a weapon against us unless we establish a bond of blood with those who are fighting in South Africa, Angola and Mozambique."

Nyerere also drew thunderous applause with his response.

"I want to assure our gallant brother from Algeria, brother Ben Bella, that we are prepared to die a little for the final removal of humiliation of colonialism from the face of Africa," the Tanganyikan said.

NUCLEAR ARMS BACK BEFORE HOUSE MONDAY

Liberals to Form Defence Committee

OTTAWA (CP)—An issue that just won't die, the acquisition of nuclear warheads, will come up in the Commons again next week.

The government's decision to commit nuclear forces to the NATO and NORAD alliances is certain to be debated again when Prime Minister Pearson moves for the establishment of a special Commons committee on defence.

State Secretary J. W. Pickersgill, government House leader, announced Friday night that the motion for a defence committee will be the first item of government business sponsored by the new Liberal administration.

The defence debate will start Thursday if the throne speech debate lasts the maximum eight sitting days.

Mr. Pickersgill told the Commons the government was gratified if the wide-ranging throne speech debate ended before the midnight hour on Wednesday, so that the House could get down to business that night.

IS UP TO MEMBERS

He added that the length of the debate would be entirely up to the members and the government was not trying to hustle them.

The government's throne speech. There was no comment from opposition benches.

The minority Liberal government survived two opposition non - confidence motions this week and is expected to weather the next vote.

Mr. Pickersgill also announced that the government will seek next Friday an interim supply vote to cover the government's day-to-day expenses for June and July. Another interim supply motion would be introduced in July.

Interim supply is a parliamentary device to enable government spending when department estimates have not yet been approved. The June and July estimates have not been approved because of the last two elections and the Liberal estimates are expected to be tabled shortly.

The government's nuclear policy and the intention to unify agriculture ministers came under fire from Conservatives Friday.

R. G. L. Fairweather (PC—Royal) said the government apparently believes the theory that a nation cannot be a first-class power without adopting nuclear Trade Minister Sharp said agreement on tariff negotiations reached at Geneva was "a tremendous and heartening superlative."

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker contended Parliament has a right to know Canada's position on NATO discussions already given to the press.

Immigration Minister Guy Favreau said Weldon Chan, Chinese United since 1959 for deportation, may be given immigrant status.

H. H. Partridge (NDP—Kootenay West) urged that the Columbia treaty be rewritten with Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton advising Canadian negotiators.

A. D. Patterson (SC—Fraser Valley) argued against the government decision to approve increased Japanese fishing rights in the Pacific.

NATO Alliance On Road Toward A-Deterrent

Force Will Take Long Time to Materialize

OTTAWA (CP)—The Western alliance is today launched on the road toward a multilateral nuclear deterrent.

The beginnings of such a force were proclaimed Friday in a communique issued following three days of intensive talks among ministers representing the 15 member states of NATO.

"Ministers . . . approved the steps taken to organize the nuclear forces assigned to or to be assigned to the Supreme Allied Commander Europe (SACEUR)."

With these words the North Atlantic Council announced the birth of what is generally referred to as an inter-allied nuclear force—it was not given a name in the official communique.

High conference sources described the arrangement as a start toward a genuine multilateral force, with a mixed-manned nationality manning the nuclear weapons delivery systems.

WILL TAKE TIME

There was general agreement, however, that the envisioned force will take a long time to materialize, if in fact the many obstacles to its establishment can ever be overcome.

The communique listed only two countries as contributing to the newborn inter-allied force: Britain with its V-bombers and the United States with three Polaris submarines now stationed in the Mediterranean.

However, Canada is expected to assign its European-based fleet of 200 low-level jet bombers which have become fully operational and equipped with nuclear weapons toward the end of the year. And, probably, the Netherlands, Italy and possibly France are expected to assign tactical air units.

Friday night and today, hundreds of persons belonging to the various member delegations and their staffs, as well as officials of the NATO secretariat from 15 countries streamed out of Ottawa to return to their home bases.

Canada's external affairs minister, Paul Martin, described the conference as a good one and said the inter-allied fosse will strengthen the Western alliance. Mr. Martin and Defence Minister Paul Hellyer spoke for Canada at the meetings, which took place in the heavily-guarded West Block

Wanted For Half-Million Theft, B. C. Man Is 'Kidnapped' in Brazil

NEW YORK (CP)—Douglas John Brown, 33, wanted by Vancouver police in connection with the theft of more than $500,000 from the Loomis Armored Car Co., was returned here from Rio de Janeiro today by police.

When Brown alighted from the plane at New York's Idlewild Airport he was accompanied by an Interpol policeman, Alvaro Lessegue, who immediately marched him into customs and immigration.

More than $500,000 in cash and cheques was stolen from Loomis in Vancouver last year-end. About $300,000 of this, mostly cheques, was found in a bank deposit box in downtown International Airport. Police identified the car as belonging to Brown, a Loomis driver.

It was learned that a man using the name Brown had bought a return ticket to Rio for $1,400 in $20 bills. Rio police reported Brown arrived there last Monday by plane from New York.

Canada and Brazil have no extradition treaty, and Rio police apparently shunted him out of the country without legal formalities.

The money stolen had been picked up from Vancouver supermarkets last Saturday. About $325,000 in cash still is missing.

THREE BODIES NOW RECOVERED FROM RIVER

Jury Finds Deaths Were Accidental

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP) Searchers have recovered the bodies of three of six men missing following the collapse of a bridge over the swift-running, flood-swollen York River near here.

The two bodies recovered late Friday were identified as Herman Simon, 33, of Wakeham and Wilson Cotton, 31, of Sandy Beach. The body of Robert McCoy, 23, of Barachois was found Thursday.

Hubert Patterson, 63, Melrose Miller, 32, and Lionel Levesque, 35, are still missing.

The six men were believed in have died in the mishap early last Wednesday. Police said four cars, three of which have been fished out of the rivers, were known to have plunged in from the bridge.

All the missing were on their way to work at the Gaspe Copper Mines in Murdochville.

Cpl. Hector O'Neill of the Quebec Provincial Police is in charge of the search.

He said it is "very difficult to say" if any more cars belonging to outsiders travelling through the area might have plunged into the river.

Murdochville is 350 miles northeast of Quebec City on the Gaspe Peninsula.

PILLAR NOT CHECKED

Jean Garon, Que., Friday, Benoit Chretien told an inquest into McCoy's death that a pillar that was swept away, causing collapse of the bridge, had been reinforced two years ago and hadn't been checked since.

Mr. Chretien, head of Quebec provincial public works in the Gaspe, said the pillar had to be reinforced because it had shifted from its proper position and the concrete around it had sagged where it met the road.

The jury found McCoy's death accidental.

He said the nameless NATO nuclear force is unnecessary from a military standpoint. Some countries were playing "keeping up with the Joneses" with destructive nuclear arms.

Gordon Aiken (PC — Parry Sound - Muskoka) said Americans believe rightly or wrongly that they won the April 8 Canadian election by defeating former prime minister Diefenbaker. They were "waiting for the country to be delivered to them," he said, urging the Liberal government to blend firmness with its stability in dealings with the U.S.

Robert Temple (L—Hastings South) in a maiden speech praised the new government for exports to reduce tariff walls.

Viateur Ethier (L—Glengarry-Prescott) said family allowances are too low.

Took Long Way to Get His Loving

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—John Nasternak hopes the local call he tried to make from his own telephone Friday night won't cost him a fortune.

"I found I was talking to someone in Atlanta, Ga.," Nasternak said of his first attempt.

He hung up, waited, then tried again.

"It was Cleveland, Ohio."

For 45 minutes afterward, Nasternak and his friend, Wayne Loving, tried to make the local call.

They got operators and persons trying to make directdial long distance calls in New York City; Salt Lake City, Utah; Anaheim, Calif.; somewhere in British Columbia and South Dakota.

Nasternak attempted unsuccessfully to get a local operator. Finally, he went next door and completed his call.

The phone company's explanation: A malfunction.

Two Conquerers Suffer Frostbite In Open Bivouac

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—The American Mount Everest expedition has called for an emergency helicopter flight into the Himalayas to pick up two conquerors of the world's highest mountain who suffered frostbitten toes during their descent.

Expedition Chief Norman R. Dyhrenfurth radioed from base camp Friday that Barry C. Bishop of Washington, D.C., and William Unsoeld of Corvallis, Ore., suffered frostbitten toes during a night of bitter cold which they spent unprotected at 28,000 feet on the way down after their triumphant climb.

He asked that the helicopter pick them up Sunday at Pherlche, a Sherpa village between the base camp at 17,800 feet and the main Sherpa centre of Namche Bazar. It would fly them to hospital in Katmandu.

Unsoeld, 36, was one of the two-man squad that reached the 29,028-foot peak by the previously unclimbed west ridge. Bishop went up the more usual south route.

There was no indication that the other two men who made the spectacular two-pronged assault on Everest suffered any injury. They are Dr. Thomas Hornbein, 32, of San Diego,who made the ascent up the west ridge with Unsoeld and Luther Jerstad, 26, of Eugene, Ore., who was with Bishop on the south col.

The four men started down the south side late Wednesday night after their meeting near the top of Everest. Because of darkness, they couldn't find the camp at 27,400 feet where protecting tents and sleeping bags awaited them. Instead they camped out in what Dyhrenfurth called the world's highest bivouac.

It was there that the two suffered frostbite.

Hold Last Round Of Kenya Vote For Self Rule

NAIROBI (Reuters) — The last and most vital round of Kenya's three - stage national election for internal self rule takes place today and Sunday as 2,500,000 voters go to the polls to fill 117 National Assembly seats.

Jomo Kenyatta's Kenya African National Union, also known as KANU, is considered the likely winner.

The victor in the National assembly elections will lead this East African colony to full independence from Britain, possibly late this year.

The colony's security forces were standing by to quell any disturbances following how-and-arrow riots in the northern frontier district town of Isolo Friday in which four Somalis were killed and nine seriously wounded.

The casualties occurred when police fired on a crowd of about 1,000 Somalis who surrounded polling booths in what police said was a deliberate attempt to intimidate 300 Turkahs and Nera tribesmen.

The Somali demonstrators, who want the right to secede from Kenya and join Neighboring Somalia, boycotted the elections. Police said the Somalis attacked the tribesmen with axes, slingshots and bows and arrows.

There are 185 candidates in today's election from the three major parties — Kenyatta's KANU, which seeks a strong central government; Ronald Ngala's Kenya African Democratic Union (KADU), which wants strong regional government; Paul Ngei's African People's Party (APP), and minor party candidates and independents.

KANU has 88 candidates in the field, KADU 57 and APP 40 candidates.

Results of the election are not expected to be known until Monday night.

Lesage Says Canada Has Two Choices

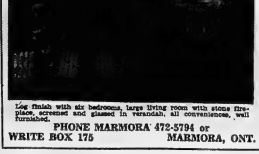
LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec said Friday that if Confederation ever breaks up it will be because a Way to keep Quebec in it has not been found.

Addressing the spring convocation of the University of Western Ontario, where he receives an honorary degree, Mr. Lesage said Canada has two choices:

"Either we accept the coexistence of two cultures and we then must accept its logical consequences, or else we do not believe in it and then the French Canadians appear as a minority that is tolerated but which has no use or reason—the political voice of French-Canada has separated from it.

"It will be because the way to keep Quebec in it has not been found," said Mr. Lesage.

The premier, who spoke in English, said many French-Canadians "do not really feel at home in the Canadian Confederation." This feeling wasn't new.



"What is more recent, however, is the awareness that has suddenly appeared in French Canada, and particularly in Quebec, of the part which French-speaking Canadians should play from now on in our country."

Mr. Lesage said there must be a "radical reorientation" of the present federal system.

Charges of rioting against 179 union members were dropped following disposition of the unlawful assembly charges.

Magistrate Gardner said the outcome of the mass trial could reflect in "a very great prejudice towards courts in this district" in future.

In convicting some of the men and dismissing charges against others, the magistrate said, "the result is most unsatisfactory." He said those convicted might wonder why they had been found guilty while others had been acquitted.

The trial had begun April 22 in a theatre in Kapuskasing but was adjourned after four days.

MEN NOT PRESENT

None of the accused men was present Thursday during the hours of legal argument in which Defence Counsel John Brooke of Toronto said the vast majority of the defendants committed merely that they had been at Reesor Siding.

Some of the statements made to provincial police following arrest of the defendants specified that when they were at the settlers' stockpile site, Mr. Brooke argued that time was an important factor because had the accused arrived after the shootings they could not have participated in the unlawful assembly.

In handing down the convictions Friday, Magistrate Gardner criticized the method in which investigative police took statements from persons at the scene of the shootings, for which 20 settlers now face charges of non-capital murder.

He acknowledged that none of the statements given by the accused to police at the scene contained the time, and added that police testimony during the trial also did not specify the time nor the means of identification for persons said to have been at Reesor Siding at the time of the clash.

Thursday, Crown Counsel S. A. Caldbick reviewed the sequence of incidents preceding the Feb. 11 shootings and said evidence plainly showed that an estimated 500 strikers went to Reesor Siding "to knock down the piles of pulpwood to prevent the settlers from carrying on the work they had been doing."

Transplants Feature Busy Market Here

One of the biggest markets of the season was seen here this morning, possibly due to the warm spell of weather. According to Picton area farmers, rain has been badly needed and the showers last week brought along young plants.

Although the market square was not overcrowded this morning a steady stream of customers could be seen coming to and leaving the square, generally with transplanting vegetables or flowers.

Taking quick glance around the square, one might think of it as being a greenhouse, with its rows of colorful flowers of various sorts and stacks of small boxes containing little cabbage plants, onion plants and other transplanting vegetables, generally selling from 25 to 35 cents a box.

Potted geraniums, the majority of them red, blended nicely with the purple, blue and yellow petunias to make it a scene of beauty

The garden-fresh table onions were offered this morning at 10 cents a bunch. Potatoes in No 2 size sold at half peck and parsnips sold at 25 cents a half peck. Rhubarb sold for 10c a bunch.

Fresh asparagus, in great quantity, sold for 20 cents a half pound. Apples, including McIntosh and Spies, sold from 75 cents a six-quart basket and $3.75 a bushel, Ontario.

Eggs dropped slightly in price this week, selling at 45 cents a dozen for Grade A large and 40 cents for medium size.

Honey was offered at 90c a four-pound pail and 45 cents for two pounds, and comb honey brought 75 cents a comb, or three for $1.

A large assortment of fresh, home-baked pastry was also offered.

FATAL WRECK — A 26-year-old railroader died in the wreckage of this car after it spun out of control and rolled on a Thurlow township concession road last night. Diemer Geertsma, Tyendinaga township, was on his way home when the accident happened. He was thrown from the automobile as it flipped at least four times.

Driver Killed When Car Rolls Over Out of Control

Police today are still puzzling the cause of an accident that wrecked a car, fatally injuring its 26-year-old driver on a dusty country road five miles north-east of Belleville last night.

Diemer Geertsma was returning alone to his home on Tyendinaga Township's fifth concession when the fatal incident occurred.

Scene of the accident was the fourth concession of Thurlow Township, a half-mile west of Tyendinaga's township line, about 6:15 p.m.

For some reason Geertsma lost control of the car on the gravel road. It rolled over at least four times throwing its driver about 50 feet against a rock. Provincial police said the automobile rolled about 100 feet, before coming to a halt nearly 400 feet from where it first veered out of control.

Local residents heard the accident and police and ambulance were called from the nearby general store at Bleasington.

Geertsma was rushed to hospital but is believed to have died en route.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Geertsma of Tyendinaga township, he was born in Holland and had lived in the Belleville district for the past 13 years. He was employed at the Canadian National Railways rail yard in Belleville and was a member of his department's union. He was a member of Maranatha Christian Reformed Church.

Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, Martin of Cannifton, and Jake of Tyendinaga, and four sisters, Mrs. William (Betty) Prinzen of Bloomfield, Mrs John (Audrey) Prinzen of Oshawa, Mrs. Wybe (Grethe) DeVries of Toronto, Ariz., and Mrs. George (Hilda) Vos of Belleville.

School Addition Well Ahead Of Schedule

Despite a rainy spring which made work conditions more difficult, construction of the new two-room addition at the Harry J. Clarke public school in East Belleville, is proceeding ahead of schedule.

Mr. William Watson, of the firm Watson and Wiegand, architects for the project, said today the operation was "well ahead of schedule" and that he was optimistic the addition would be ready for school opening in September.

General contractor for the school addition is Hugh Murray Construction of Belleville.

The new school addition will make the Harry J. Clarke school a 21-room building, including kindergarten, home economics, industrial arts and auditorium. The addition will be of two-storey construction.

Work was started on May 2 and the foundation has now been completed with the prestressed concrete sub flooring slabs being slung into position yesterday.

Heap Powerful Medicines Chief Stirred Up

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—It was heap powerful medicine that Chief William Cameron and his Bay Mills Indian council braves stirred up with a sun dance.

Friday, after a week of overcast weather and rain, the sun finally shone brightly in a cloudless sky for the official opening of the $20,000,000 international bridge here—just as Chief Cameron predicted it would.

Thunder, rain and low temperatures which followed the braves' dance around a drum-skin drum and a pine tree Monday had sent officials, who asked them to ensure good weather for the ceremony, into a mild panic.

Chief Cameron wasn't perturbed. "The general idea is to get all the rain and snow and frost out of the air during the week so that by Friday there will be none left, he told them.

He was right.

May Be Able To Come Out Of Hiding

OTTAWA (CP) — Fugitive Welden Chan, the Hong Kong Chinese who "vanished" 3½ years ago to escape deportation, may soon be able to come out of hiding.

Immigration Minister Guy Favreau told the Commons Friday that the question of giving landed immigrant status to Chan is "presently under serious consideration."

If the immigration department decides to give Chan the status of a landed immigrant it would automatically quash the federal deportation order issued in November, 1959, against Chan, his wife and daughter. They had entered the country on visitor's permits.

Chan vowed then that he would never be deported and promptly dropped out of sight. Since then he has evaded the RCMP, immigration authorities and other police forces who have a warrant for his arrest.

Teen-Age Square Dancers Complete Their Instruction

Last night was square dance night for Belleville teen-agers. Two clubs active in the city, "Quinte Young Timers" and the "Y.M.C.A. Swingin' Eights," completed their instructional courses on the same day.

The two courses started on the same day too, January 18. Both the Y.M.C.A. and the Quinte Twirlers had lamented the lack of instruction for teenagers and pre-teens in square dancing last year, and neither had known the other was planning to do something about it this year. By the time they found out, it was too late, and both clubs were operating already.

Each club has been meeting on Friday nights; the Swingin' Eights at the Y.M.C.A. and the Young Timers at the Recreation Centre. Both were actually operated by Quinte Twirlers' members too. The Y.M.C.A. lacking square dance instructors, has recruited Mr. and Mrs. Merril Gordon, members of the Quinte Twirlers, to operate their course. Bob Williamson, president of the Quinte Twirlers, calls for the Quinte Young Timers.

The two clubs have operated along roughly similar lines, although the Swingin' Eights include more round dancing in their programs, but the organization is slightly different. The Swingin' Eights operate from the top down — regular classes, and certificates for those who attend regularly with parents invited to watch the "graduation". The Quinte Young Timers are organized from the bottom up — the kids come when they want to dance, there are no diplomas and when the parents come, it's to join the dancing. Cost of the Y.M.C.A. course is 50c per Friday evening for Y.M.C.A. members, 30c for non-members. The Quinte Young Timers operate on a flat charge of 15c per evening.

There is obviously room for both clubs in the city though, and both plan to continue for another year. The Swingin' Eights will resume operation—as an advanced club—Sept. 13 and a new beginners' club will start at the Y next year. The Quinte Young Timers will begin a new class next week, and the older members of the group are talking of forming their own—more advanced—club.

PROMENADE — 11-year-old Karen Faulkner, of Grove Street, and 10-year-old Ross Riley, of Strathcona Drive, both members of the Y.M.C.A. Swingin' Eights square dance club, were among the club members who received their certificates at the club "graduation". In the background, Merrill Gordon, of the Quinte Twirlers square dance club calls the steps.

Square Dancers Hold Annual 'Open House'

TRENTON — The Air Force Square Dance Club held their annual open house Thursday at the No. 6H.D. Recreation Hall. A large turnout of local residents filled the Recreation centre to witness Modern Square Dancing demonstrated by the host Club, the Pairs and Squares and also aptly demonstrated by a large number of youngsters, junior members of the Square Dance set.

Ernie Dempster, "caller" for the Pairs and Squares, invited one and all to join in many of the dances and the floor was filled each time as the guests participated in some of the popular square dances. A pleasant mixture of "Rounds" taught to all present provided a delightful change of pace in the evening program.

Callers participating with children's Square Dance sets were Geoffrey Brogden, Leslie Jackson, Bruce Wright, Nel Wright and Ernie Dempster. These "callers" all members of the Pairs and Squares, have devoted much of their time in teaching these youngsters how to dance and are congratulated for their efforts and interest in the younger set.

Guests for the evening also included members of the Trent Valley Squares with their "caller" Douglas Waddell, members from Belleville's Quinte Twirlers and members of the Quinte Curling Squares, a recent addition to the list of area Square Dance Clubs.

A delicious variety of home baked sweets and coffee, arranged by the ladies of the host club provided the necessary refreshments and a fitting close to a very enjoyable evening.

Seven Long Years

One of the cardinal principles of the British conception of justice is that justice delayed can easily mean justice denied.

A federal judge has refused to permit the University of Alabama to delay admitting two Negroes.

Governor George C. Wallace of Alabama says that he will "be present to bar the entrance of any Negro who seeks to enrol at the university."

Newspaperman sampling the sentiment of university students and faculty members say that the white students are willing to accept Negro classmates peacefully.

It is pointed out that this would be in contrast to the rioting which occurred when a Negro girl, Autherine Lucy, was admitted to the university under federal court orders.

It is noted, in passing, that this rioting occurred seven years ago.

Seven years! Can there be any more striking commentary on the snail's pace at which integration is proceeding in the South than the realization, here brought forcibly home to us, that in seven years little has changed at the University of Alabama and even less, to judge from the Governor's attitude, in the State of Alabama!

Some people criticize the Negro leaders for resorting to demonstrations at a time when, it is said, moderate elements amongst the white population are being won over to acceptance of desegregation.

But seven years is a long time to wait between the acceptance of one Negro girl into a university, to the accompaniment of riots, and the prospect of the acceptance of two Negroes with nothing more than the stubborn resistance of the Governor of the State.

With progress at this rate, the southern Negro must figure that the children of Israel received "most favored nation" treatment when they were forced to spend only forty years wandering in the wilderness.

Hamilton May Day

A two-storey house was burned to the ground in Hamilton Tuesday morning, the aftermath of mob violence during the Victoria Day celebrations. Police and police dogs had previously held a mob of about 600 teenagers and adults at bay, while firemen extinguished burning tires and flaming gasoline in the area. A small fire in the ground floor of the later-destroyed house was also extinguished.

Earlier in the evening, about 100 youths of the same mob attacked three policemen who were attempting to arrest a youth. A radio station reporter, who called reinforcements over a patrol-car radio, later required police protection himself, when someone in the mob tried to assault him.

That such events could happen in Canada would have been considered unthinkable, at one time. Now, even the bombing of an armory in Montreal is only a part of the story of mob and terrorist violence, on one holiday.

If similar events occurred in another country, Canadians would feel very superior and civilized. Such things happen, Canadians realize, in the less civilized countries of the Middle East, and Latin America.

But the unrest and the mob violence are closing in, and violence in Canada is just a part of the daily news.

Communists are waiting, according to some theorists, for the eventual, and inevitable, moral breakdown of capitalism. Events in Birmingham, Montreal and now Hamilton can hardly be said to seriously undermine such a belief.

Expensive

Reeve Leonard Ford of Long Branch will attend the annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities. The conference will be held in Toronto. Toronto is ten miles from Long Branch. Reeve Ford has been voted $250 expense money by the Long Branch Council. Not all of it, however, will go to defray travel expenses. Some of it will be used to obtain a hotel room and to purchase liquor to entertain visiting civic dignitaries. "I don't drink myself," says Reeve Ford. Nobody can deny, however, that he has all the attributes of a good mixer.

Elizabeth Taylor has already been paid more than $1,700,000 for her starring role in the movie "Cleopatra." This is another striking case of inflation. Despite her glamorous reputation, the original Cleopatra could probably have been acquired for less than that. Miss Taylor makes the Aga Khan look like a bargain basement proposition. As Cleopatra she is worth approximately 25 times her weight in gold.

Diefenbaker Now Exhibits Cool, Controlled Restraint

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — While it still may be a little early to know for certain, the Sessional shape-of-things-to-come in the Official Opposition could be starting to take definite form.

With the opening session of the new Parliament only seven days old, you hear stories — and see some evidence — that Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker is emerging as an almost new, and certainly different man.

This is not the same Diefenbaker as in the six existing Prime Ministerial years.

The hot, impassioned impatience is cooling . . . the hard intolerance of anything less than perfection among aides and associates is softening . . . the often cruel and cutting edge of sudden anger is not so sharp.

And it is not the same post-election Diefenbaker, either.

The long, galling night of post-election brooding seems over, the bitterness gone.

A coldly reasoned, carefully calculating and exceedingly canny warrior, wise and well experienced in Opposition, now leads his Tory troops.

QUICK CHANGE:

This has been something of a surprise. In the recent weeks, some people who have talked with Dief — and for the most not-so-important of reasons he was not seeing many newspapermen — came away with an altogether different impression.

It was widely believed — and from here he himself had dropped — that here was a man aflame in a white heat of rage and bitterness, ready to rush headlong into the House and take vengeance for the bitter disappointment, the awful humiliation and even what he regarded as the unlucky injustice of defeat.

The Commons, in 20 years, has never seen Diefenbaker's like as a fighter — and the hypercal in - fighter in the Commons.

Free from the responsibility of Prime Minister, he could turn the place into a legislative shambles.

But it is not going to be that way.

John Diefenbaker is going to be tough in Opposition, but not destructively so.

He has little patience with the spirit of the political "honeymoon" which Prime Minister Pearson is enjoying, and is openly contemptuous of what he regards as the "love affair" going on between "Mike," as they call him, and much of the Press.

He has already opened the Liberals in the last Parliament of such obstruction as completely to frustrate the Commons, he will be careful that in opposing, he stops well this side of obstructing.

A GOOD SHOW

This should be something to watch.

On the pleasant business of the Prince Minister's political honeymoon, Opposition Leader is rejecting what appears to be the popular appeal for non-partisan "peace" in Parliament.

The cry seems to be to forget party differences, and to get on with the job . . . to pass the Liberal legislation for no other reason than to maintain the Government . . . in short, to rubber stamp Pearson policy for the sake of political stability.

Understandably, Dief wonders how come, all of a sudden, are the approved political fashion to be so helpfully co-operative, when only yesterday they accepted thing to do was to kick and scream and throw any handy monkey wrench into the legislative works.

Stability sounds appealing, especially after the election in nine months and four campaigns in six years.

But the Chief and his lieutenants say Dief now looks at it, the Opposition — not amongst in modern political history — was not elected to support Mike Pearson, come what may; nor to give him free rein to run the country how and for as long as he wishes; but to do what it thinks is best for Canada.

Stable government, readily agreed the Opposition Leader, is important — but not as important as good government.

CAN'T LAST:

And on this basis, the Opposition will oppose. Vigorously. Probing punches. But stopping safely short of irresponsible obstruction.

Dief believes — and who should know better — that political honeymoons do not last, and love affairs between a Prime Minister and the Press grow cold quickly.

Through 1957 and after the '58 landslide, no Prime Minister ever enjoyed such a period of political bliss as John Diefenbaker.

And no Prime Minister in this political generation ever entered the East Block so warmly buddy - buddy, so simply sympatico with so many of the Parliamentary Press Corps.

This was a working newspapermen's kind of Prime Minister. Hadn't he rallied around and partied with them? Laughed, and lived good, interesting, if sweaty times with them, knowing their individual deadlines and news demands, some for as long as 20 years?

And look what happened. He still believes they pecked him to pieces on their typewriters . . . and he still knows that though the mutual affection and esteem many now be, the relationship is inevitably will be like Pearson's.

For he has learned that his own-personality successor soon must — that the interest of a Prime Minister and the working Press is inherently unsatisfy the same. It is often so. Prime Minister's desire to keep things secret, and the longer he remains in office the more things he comes to think are nobody's business but his own, and, except in time of war in matters of national security, it usually is the duty of the press, in the public interest, to make things known.

And there comes the point, Dief, as Opposition Leader, now seems more content to wait.

Status Starts At $4,300

Stratford Beacon-Herald

For anyone who worries about his financial status, and feels anxious about whether he is getting ahead or falling behind in the race for dollars-per-annum, there are some encouragement guides in the latest survey done by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, of the income status of Canadians.

As a starting point for a study of the way the typical Canadian spends his money, the Bureau had to decide what is the typical Canadian. Their answer to that first question is that he is by far the most typical of the typical Canadian. Their answer to that first question is that he is by far the most typical of the typical Canadian taxpayers who declare income of at least $4,200 a year, but not more than $4,299. There were 39,270 Canadian taxpayers in this group, at the most recent count, and from that by simple proportioning, there should be about 100 in Stratford who are in the same or a neighbor more nor less income that falls in the range elected for study. The average income of these taxpayers paid by this group is $187 in income tax, amounting to a fraction of the taxes that come out of income. If the taxpayer has dependents, he can claim the $187 of income tax, and his local municipal tax, as the visible taxes. The taxes he pays like include $71 of tax hidden in the $189 he spends annually for gasoline, $11 in tax hidden in the $42 he spends for liquor, $36 in tax hidden in the $1,170 he spends for tobacco, $11 in hidden tax included in the $1,000 this typical taxpayer pays for his used car; $62 in tax hidden in the $385 he spends for clothing. Considering all the taxes visible and invisible, it appears that this Canadian of typical income works at least 4 weeks in every 52 for the tax collectors.

Anyone with an income above the $4,229 upper bracket has the privilege of paying proportionately more taxes, and is entitled to pat himself on the back for patriotism, as he works for longer than 11 weeks in each year to keep feeding the tax-collection machines.

Best in Town

Brockville Recorder and Times

It is interesting to note the comments of a local doctor in relation to harse fatalities. He said, This doctor, following a survey of fatalities in Eastern Ontario, came to the conclusion that it is nearly useless to build such a home in a rural area. He noted that most old people wanted to "be in town." They don't want to get too far away from friends and activity although they'ste themselves may not be active. The committee should keep this in mind if and when they come to a decision on a site.

Tax Bites Compared

New York Times

The American taxpayer who seems to take a perverse pride in the thought that he pays the world's highest taxes would be surprised to learn that this isn't true.

A study of Canadian and British tax systems shows that national government levies in those countries are higher than those in the United States. These facts were not altered by recent tax reductions.

Americans pay more tax in many cases because average incomes are higher here than in the other two countries. The average personal gross income in the United States in 1962 was $3,297.78, in British £1, 969.82 and in Canada $1,428.42, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The Commerce Clearing House, a tax and business news publisher compared data and learned that a married man with five children under 21 years of age and who filed a joint return would pay $60 to the United States tax collector on a $5,000 income.

His Canadian counterpart would pay $208, and his British father would pay $400, even after the tax reduction announced in the new British budget.

At the $10,000 income level, the United States father pays $976, compared with the Canadian father's $1,323 and the British father's $1,901.

If there are only two children in the family, the United States father would enjoy a tax advantage over his Canadian counterpart until the income exceeds $15,000.

At the $10,000 income level, the father of two children in the United States pays less than the Canadian and $903 less than the British. In the $25,000 bracket, he pays $1,587 more than the Canadian and $2,990 less than the British.

The British father pays the most in all situations.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The trouble with earthquakes, according to an elderly lady of my acquaintance who has spent most of her life as a mining engineer husband in Peru, Chile, India, Japan, and other unstable regions of the world, is that they knock all the pictures crooked on the walls.

"Oh, yes," she said, when I expressed some natural astonishment, "that is the least of the big ones. But that is different. They knock walls down, too. When there is a really big earthquake, I had something else to think about. But it is these milder little earthquakes that they keep having in those parts of the world that are really aggravating. I get up in the morning, and there, every picture in the house is crooked!"...

After a little pause into space, remembering all those aggravations, she went on:

"I told my husband to fix my pictures with that single hanging device, a sort of tab. He is an engineer, and you would think he could hit the middle. But he never did get them so they would hang straight with only one hook. So I had to go back to the usual picture wire, and I've spent forty years of my life straightening pictures!"

So, to relieve her mind we had tea.

FRANKFORD — One hundred Scouts, Cubs, Rovers, and fathers sat down to a sumptuous banquet, prepared and served by the mothers of the Scouts and Cubs, on May 16th in the United Church Hall, Frankford.

Due to the absence of the group committee chairman, Mr. Fred Payne, who was hospitalized, Mr. Kenneth Lawrence, past committee chairman, acted as master of ceremonies.

The Rev. C. R. Judd said the Grace and the head table guests were introduced, including the Rev. C. R. GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. W. J. (Scotty) Broughton, past district commissioner and presently the group committee chairman of the 1st Brighton Scout group committee, was guest speaker and kept the attention of the boys and the fathers, when he explained Scouting and what Scouting meant to the boys. The speaker was introduced by Mr. Kenneth Lawrence and thanked by Mr. Holt Madill.

During a short intermission, a sing-song was conducted by Rover Lyle Williams, accompanied on the piano by Mr. Ken Coverdale.

Short skits by the Scouts and Cubs proved most interesting.

Waste paper will be collected from time to time and anyone having paper and wishing to dispose of it before a collection may contact the committee chairman, who will arrange to have it picked up whenever convenient.

Price Of

climbed steadily since the end of the Second World War — it was about 53,000,000 metric tons last year, but production had been staying ahead of it.

Early in 1962 the situation started to change.

While consumption continued to climb the European sugar beet harvest declined sharply. Cuba, which had produced 6,800,000 tons of sugar in 1961, produced less than 5,000,000 tons.

The European sugar beet industry was crippled for the second year in a row by one of the worst winters in a century. Cuba's production in 1963 may fall below 3,000,000 tons.

As a result there is barely enough raw sugar to meet world demands and world market prices have skyrocketed.

If the wholesale changes prices will decline. The two major markets—London and New York—both fell sharply Friday and one company said that if the trend continues when trading resumes Monday in Montreal sugar prices undoubtedly will go lower.

The wholesale prices can — and have—changed daily. Canadian refineries generally buy their raw sugar on a day-to-day basis. They pay the going rate on any given day, passing the increase or decrease along to the retailers.

So far, not all the wholesale increases have been passed along to Canadian consumers, since some retailers still are selling supplies purchased at lower wholesale prices. Soon, however, retail prices of all sugar products will have to go up to take care of the higher cost.

The industry reports that there have been no indications of consumers stockpiling sugar or switching to other sweeteners despite higher sugar prices.

There is almost no possibility of a sugar shortage in Canada, since supplies are guaranteed under the Commonwealth trade plan.

Canada gets about 85 per cent of her raw sugar from Commonwealth countries, primarily The West Indies and Australia. Sugar beet production in Canada—about 15 per cent of the total needs—has no appreciable effect on the country-wide price of refined sugar.

Prices are set by cane-sugar production and the sugar beet crop is absorbed into the overall picture.

Treasury Bills Move Down in Yield Again

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prices were slightly lower in quiet trading on the Canadian bond market this week.

Treasury bills moved down in yield again with the 91-day bills averaging 3.23 per cent compared with 3.28 per cent last week and the 182-day bills 3.36 per cent compared with 3.36 per cent.

Dealers inventory in the short-end market declined some $40,000,000 during the week as chartered bank interest in treasury bills increased. The short Canada market was extremely quiet. Financial commercial paper rates were forced down wards as a result of a consistent flow of municipal funds seeking investment.

On the long-term government market the new five - per - cent June 1, 1968, issue was quoted around 99¾-101¼, and the 4¼-per-cent 1963 issue at 94¾-95.

The corporate market eased with losses of ¼ to ½ going to T. Eaton Acceptance, Rio Algom Mines and George Weston Ltd. all issues are 5¼-per-cent bonds due 1983.

Aluminium Ltd. is expected to offer shortly 1,500,000-convertible preference shares of $40 par value for a total par value of $60,000,000. It is expected the preference shares will be convertible into common shares on a share-for-share basis for a 10-year period from the date of issue.

Here's How City Could Set Up Useful Bureau for Retired

By THOMAS COLLINS

A city government, with a yen to do something for its retired citizens, has come up with an idea for a "Referral Service for Senior Citizens" . . . and wants to know how to set it up.

The city is on the right track, because before long every progressive town in the country will be doing something for its retired people. And its thinking is right, because the service it is contemplating — not checkerboards in the parks — is what the retired people need.

The only thing wrong is the "Referral Service" bit. That's a public welfare term, and to most retired people it has a stigma. Maybe "Information Service" or "Senior Citizen Service Bureau". Not "Referral Service".

Here's what this city, or any other of like mind might do. And perhaps the business concerns which still seek an answer to their retirement problems can find a point or so in it.

START PROPERLY

1. Get the panty-waist element out of the shrinking goosers out of the program before it starts. Hire one sophisticated person — and make it a man and make him intelligent — and give him about three months to gather information before he opens the Service.

2. Set out briefly and specifically what the policy of the Service will be — that it will not be to organize square dances and promote hobbies, that it will be to provide retired citizens with vital information they are not getting elsewhere.

3. Set up as the basic structure of the Service the following departments:

Legal—With the help of the County Bar Association get a list of lawyers who want the low-fee business of retired people and who deal in wills, estate sales, and such other problems older people have. Give out the lawyers' addresses, phone numbers, and customary fees along with this list.

Medical—With the help of the County Medical Society, get a list of doctors who cater to the ailments of retired people (eyes, ears, arthritis, blood pressure, etc.), and along with phone numbers and portable fees make it available to retired people. Attach to this a description of what accommodations are available and at what prices in all local hospitals; also all literature available from insurance companies on what health insurance costs.

Housing—Set this up as an exchange service, primarily for older women who no longer want to live alone or can afford to, and who wish to share housing with another woman. Allow women wanting to move into someone's home, or wanting someone to move into theirs, to register at the Service office. Along with this "Exchange" provide a weekly listing from the real estate community on low-cost housing coming on the market, and current information on available trailers and trailer parks.

Social—Make no effort to organize those calling at the Service office into a social club of older people. Instead, be familiar with all the organizations in the city and refer the retired people to that club or organization which provides what the retired person wants. Golf clubs for the golfer; business clubs for the retailer; welfare, sewing and gardening groups for the women. Give the name and phone number of the person to contact to join such organizations, along with the dues.

Political—With the consent of each person calling at the office, give his or her name to the Liberal or Conservative leader in his neighborhood — which will provide the retired person a major opportunity to get his teeth into an activity and make some friends.

Educational — Every six months hold in City Hall a one-week course on railroad pensions, veteran pensions, and general pensions.

Employment—This would be the key bureau of the Service. Use the political clout of City Hall to get jobs for retired people in the county, city, and federal governments, as well as in the city. Maintain a constant survey of job opportunities in town for older people, and use City Hall's influence to urge companies and institutions to hire them. A job befitting the status of a retired person could cure half the problems he or she ever has.

WILL BE BUSY

The man hired to set up this Service office for the city will be overwhelmed with work very soon — if he has set things up right and gotten the word around the city that he is in business. Then, from all the retired professionals coming to the office for information — the personnel expert, the lawyer, the public health officer, and all the others who happened to become 65 years old — he will hire his staff.

The development of the Service will depend on its value to the retired citizens. But if it is good it will in time be giving authoritative information on retirement homes available to people in the city; on welfare benefits; on investments (with the help of brokers); on baby-sitting and in fact on everything a retired person needs to find a better life.

Maybe, even, in time, the names of the Hobby Clubs and a road map to a fish pond. Maybe.

TRIFLES TO TROPHY

"The secret is to make a city, not to rest in it." — Thornton Wilder in Ides of March. What do you do when you find yourself in another town, say for a couple of hours? Shop? Browse around? Or perhaps sit in the car watching the people?

In Kingston the other day, we made a point of going into Cooks, that renowned grocery store; a gourmet's paradise, where one Mrs. Carrigan "Trade" would come with her mine and sit at the long wooden counter (that selling extended the entire length of the store without an opening) to order groceries from clerks who never ventured from their side of the counter. There was no need. For young boys efficiently waited over, back and forth with each order to be stowed away in grandy's carriage — counter boys, they were called.

Today, the counter has passageways. Clerks come forth to attend your needs as you survey up-to-date shelves stocked with fabulous staples; from exotic teas to watercress soup.

Again, the old blends smoothly with the new, across the street, at the famous Shop; an ultra modern gift shop operated by a very young wedded couple whose taste for modern glass turn an old interior into an atmosphere as bright as it is inviting.

Enthusiasm and ingenuity are everywhere; from high waist "papered" with bamboo matting and soft shades of burlap; intriguing stained stairs strung with iron rods to the floor above; dividers inserted with segments from an old wrought iron fence; right down to the foot square chipped granite blocks centred with holes I've found them in the wall, as insulators for the stove pipes of long ago? now fitted with copper cups partially filled with white marble gravel for floor ash-trays.

Interspersed between low benches around the walls the display handicrafts (such as Philippine Monkey Pod hand carved bowls, exotic bowls once planted over 400 years ago by the Conquistadores to shade their gardens and even the typical sarn), are city busts by an Hungarian artist, now living in Smiths Falls. "He's giving an exhibition here soon."

In a corner stands an Arthur Johnson iron sculpture; a Kingston artist whose studio is a garage, his tool an acetylene torch and his medium old scrap iron.

TRIFLES TO TROPHY

Later, down Princess Street, we entered the newly opened "old" antique store and noted a fine reproduction of the first Parliament buildings in Kingston, and a Salisbury Clock made by famed Kingston clock - maker, before a crackling roar split the air like a burst of thunder and shook a glass plate, which fell but did not break.

"It's just a bit breaking the sound barrier," said the new owner. He is 22-year-old Phil Koven whose marriage takes place next month. "In a way, I've the Air Force to thank for my owning an antique store.

"When I was an Air cadet," he continued," the Canadian government selected and sent a group of us abroad, for nine weeks, where we did some flying and were entertained by people from all walks of life. In London we met and had tea with Prime Minister Macmillan. In Glasgow we were entertained by the Lord Mayor at a munificent luncheon, with 25 waiters served us in a Hall filled with fine crystal, chandeliers and sumptuous. Separately we might be entertained at one man's estate for a whole day, and on the next be with a tobacconist in his shop.

In Europe we were also entertained, and observed ways and customs there. The beautiful object d'arte; furniture china, carpets, tapestries, paintings which we saw. I guess was the beginning of my collection. All of which was somewhat aided by my father's Canadians Shop connected with his department store in New Brunswick.

"Someday, I hope to have a room of Canadiana, a room for fine crystal and china, a Louis XIV room, as well as a Roman garden court; to make this a place of Eastern Ontario. In the meantime, if any society or organization in Belleville giving a fashion show, a play or what have you and would like "props" we will be most pleased to provide them (if we have them) gratis . . . .

On returning to Belleville was enhanced by the wonder of youth's miraculous gift that unerringly fashions modern concretions from old, forever strung like beads of a necklace on the gold thread of responsibility.

Strange, is it not, that youth, so fond of freedom and liberty, would seek just that — responsibility? What is its mysterious trophy (it overrides even monetary rewards) for which youth eagerly contributes to the good of a community, a town, a city, and calls forth pride in and the glory of Mankind?

Could it be, as Thornton Wilder reminds us, in his plays, that responsibility makes one aware of ones mind and calls for making decisions. The more decisions that one is forced to make alone, the more one is aware of his freedom to choose.

It is in this sense says Mr. Wilder that responsibility is liberty — the love of all men.

W.I. Plans Future Tea, Bazaar

WELLINGTON — The regular monthly meeting of the Wellington Women's Institute was held on Tuesday evening in the Legion Hall. Mrs. Bruce Wilson, 1st vice-president, was in the chair and opened the meeting in the usual way. Twenty members were present, two guests, the Gilead Home Making Club and their leaders, Mrs. G. Spriggins and Mrs. Cassidy.

The business period was short a "Tea" and "Food Sale" was planned for early June. A letter was read regarding the Folk School being held in the county. It was arranged to have a film on Cancer and TB at the next meeting.

Mrs. Wilson gave current events. Mrs. Bolton read a "Poem of the Month" and Mrs. Allan Pettingell sang "The End of a Perfect Day".

Mrs. N. Foster called on Mrs. Springings, who thanked the W.I. ladies for sponsoring the girls' club. Each girl told of the work she had done during the past season and modelled the blouse she had made. The girls had on display their wardrobe in color scheme that they had made, also first aid kits, receipt files and charts.

Miss Faye Cassidy gave the speech she had given at "Achievement Day".

Mrs. Foster thanked the girls and their leaders and congratulated them on the fine work they are doing.

A contest was enjoyed by all with Mrs. Bolton and Mrs. R. Smith the winners.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Spencer and their group.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

Question: When we have one or two other couples in for an evening and I serve a late supper, I usually set up a card table and set it very simply with coffee cups and saucers and plates. I don't use a cloth because I've never considered it necessary for such an informal affair. Recently, my sister criticized me about this, so I told her I'd put the question to you. Is it necessary to use a cloth on such occasions? — Mrs. B. H. New Haven, Conna.

USE TEA CLOTH

Answer: Even though the service is very informal, a cloth should cover the café table. As I've said many times, cloths and mats are not necessary when a table has a lovely finish that should be shown off. This applies even for more formal occasions. But a card table rarely has a flawless surface, and should be covered.

Question: May paper guest towels correctly be put into the bathroom for use by company? I usually use a soft paper variety with a pretty pattern that blends in with the rest of the decor. A friend says only cloth towels should be used and the only place paper towels are permissible is in a beach house or a vacation bungalow. Is this so? — Mrs. T. C., Bayonne, N.J.

Answer: No, it isn't. Paper guest towels may be used at any time and in any type of home, not just a vacation. They should be of the best quality, though, and in a pattern that's compatible with the design of other towels.

FASHIONS IN MANNERS

I have often wondered about those women, who say that they don't like other women. It used to be considered very sophisticated and very "in" about twenty years ago, to make this claim, on the grounds that no intelligent woman had anything in common with other women! Even then, when I was considerably more naive and much younger than I am now, such statements always jarred me. I could always detect a certain heartless, selfishness about such women. Sometimes, they dressed in an aggressively feminine style, which did not suit their unfeminine manners. In these days, women were trying to prove something in the business world and that was just where the majority of these types seemed to abound. Today, there is a faint air of old lace and lavender about this claim that women have nothing in common.

HARMONIOUS RELATIONS

The idea that women are people first, and women second, is gradually being accepted. Many a firm is still finding it difficult to adjust to this idea, especially in Canada. Of course, very few firms pay women the same wages as men, for the identical work load. A woman still must work harder than her male counterpart in order to rate promotion. Even so, we have made vast strides in the last 20 years. Part of this advance can be attributed to the fact that women in business have formed the habit of helping each other.

Among readers, who are interested enough to write for fashion information, are many women who are mothers of small children. They are excellent housekeepers, active in their communities and either full -or part time job holders. The fact that these busy,young women take the trouble to write for special information, pertaining to their own fashion problems, is a sign of their interest in every phase of the life of the modern woman. My question is, where do they find the time?

CO-OPERATION

A little research into the question has unearthed one interesting answer. The time is found by co-operating with other women. The active group, living in one of Hamilton's suburbs, who have banded together to form a nursery school for their pre - school age children, is typical of this new co-operation. The members of this "co-op" rotate duties at the school, with their own more specialized interests — art classes, adult education and part time jobs. None of the group is housebound and all of them are more interesting people. Can you imagine a woman who felt she did not have anything in common with other women, fitting into a group such as this?

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers care of this paper.

Legion L.A. Reviews Activities

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion had a month of activities. Beginning on May 3, when a presentation of all the sunkist friends took place for Comrade Soule, who faithfully took charge. She was presented with a purse of money.

On May 9 a special meeting was held at the Legion Hall of the Auxiliary. All reports were read. Five ladies of the Auxiliary donated an afternoon to the Dancer Society. Those who attended were: Comrades Bradford, Jeffs, Meeks, Rachotte and Woodcock, all of which time a pot-luck dinner was enjoyed. A presentation of a beautiful mauve wool blanket was made to Comrade Elsie Soule, who is leaving the community to take up residence in Oshawa. Our Comrade Soule has been a most faithful member of the organization and will be greatly missed.

NEW MEMBERS INITIATED

On May 21st a goodly number of members attended the usual meeting held in the Auxiliary held at the Legion Hall, when two new members were initiated. On March the yearly rally was held when plans were completed with approximately 25 members in attending to attend at Marmora. A transfer of membership was sent to Comrade Mrs. Lawrence Armstrong, (formerly Elsie Soule), the former president of the Auxiliary. Convener for dances is Comrade Begley. A dance was held on the Tubercular Veterans' Summer Camp and plans continued for a dance to be held from 10th to 22nd of June.

POT-LUCK DINNER

On June 19 a pot-luck dinner will be held in the Legion Hall for members of the Auxiliary and their families. A special euchre is also being planned later in June, at which time special prizes will be given out. The afternoon euchre will be a stand out event. Question: I have never been able to make a meringue stay up although I have tried every means I've been told or read. I need something fool-proof. That is why I never serve a meringue-topped pie to guests unless I cover it with whipped cream. It is years since I have written to you but none the less have never failed to read your column, and take delight to hear about your grandchildren. I have two now, a girl and a boy; my daughter Anne has been married three years. Margaret is in Grade XI. I was so delighted to hear of your piano lessons as I've always wanted to learn . . . Enclosed are two candy recipes calling for mashed potatoes which you requested . . . Judith M.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Lasagna (see Friday); Fine Shredded Cabbage and Parsley Salad with Italian French Dressing; Jellied Fruit; Allspice Fudge Squares (see Friday); Tea.

POTATO FUDGE (courtesy Judith M.)

¼ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces; dash of salt; ¼ cup hot mashed potatoes (no seasoning added); ½ teaspoon vanilla; 1¼ cups sifted icing sugar; 2 teaspoons melted butter; ½ cup walnuts (optional); 1½ cups coconut.

Grease 8 x 4 x 2" loaf pan. Melt chocolate over hot water. Stir in potatoes, salt and vanilla with butter. Gradually beat in sugar, vanilla and salt, and coconut. Pack into pan. Spread with melted chocolate and sprinkle with chopped nuts. Cool and cut into squares.

POTATO KISSES (courtesy Judith M.)

Put 2/3 cup hot cooked potatoes through ricer. Beat in 2 tablespoons melted butter. Add 1 lb. icing sugar, sifted. Beat well. Add 3½ tablespoons cocoa or 1½ squares melted unsweetened chocolate. Beat well. Mix in 1 teaspoon vanilla, dash of salt, ½ lb. moist cocoanut. Drop by teaspoons onto waxed paper. Place in refrigerator to harden.

Answer: Believe it or not! Just seeing your handwriting reminded me of your name before I turned the page and saw your signature. Welcome back.

How To Make Meringue: (Use one not fail, weep, toughen, or become sticky)

3 egg whites; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, 6 tablespoons sugar. Add the salt and cream of tartar to the egg whites and beat until quite foamy. Then while beating add the sugar gradually and beat until all sugar is added and meringue is very stiff. When putting meringue on filling on pie (I think filling should still be quite warm) be sure to seal it carefully all round the crust edge by piling the meringue on the centre of the pie, then working from the centre to the edge. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 18 minutes.

Thank you so much for the Potato Candy recipes you enclosed.

Successful Living

By DORIS CLARE

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Seeking A Double Career

DEAR DORIS — I am very interested in the possibility of combining a career of nursing with social work. Could you please send me your leaflet on social work and any other material that might be of help?

I have applied to a school of nursing for the fall class. I am wondering if there might be any type of job available for a high school graduate for the summer months in the field I have mentioned above.

DORIS CLARE

I believe you, as a social worker, are doing a great service to our province by your helpful and practical suggestions. Thank you for setting such a fine example for us. — STUDENT.

DEAR STUDENT — This is a wonderful combination and has led to satisfying careers for some of our young people. One social worker-nurse I know heads up a school of nursing and herself instructs in the social aspects of nursing. I am sending you my leaflet on both careers.

A summer job in social work is something else again. It takes skill to do most of the jobs. Yet in some centres provision is made for a few summer students. Visit your local family or child care agency and ask about this.

Another thought: What about camp counselling? Ask your nearest Y.W.C.A. about this. Camp directors look for girls with a definite interest in people, to do this work.

Confidential to 13-YEAR-OLD — Next time talk to your shy friend — about sports, music, lemon pie — whatever interests him. Telling him you like him is corny. It won't take too broad a hint to get him up on the floor.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — My daughter, who is 16, refuses to talk to me; about anything that matters, I mean. When I try to find out where she goes or what she does, she answers in monosyllables and pretty soon walks out. Yet you say we should discuss things. How? — TWARTED.

* * *

DEAR TWHARTED — Opening up communications is still more up to parents than children. After all, you've been through the mill.

Sweet sixteen has plenty on her mind. But unless you've been talking all your lives, she'll see you as shockable, or not understanding, or just prying.

What gift from you would speak for you? A new lipstick? A touch of your fine style on a special date? An invitation to dinner for her current B.F.? Once she really believes you are on her side, she'll open up.

When she does, listen with all ears. Hear what she says, read it. And grant her privacy. Bite your tongue off before you rush in too soon, with your anxious advice. Even if you disagree with her.

DEAR DORIS — One of our local factories pulled out and went to another town some years ago, leaving a lot of over 50 year-olds unable to get a decent paying job.

I advertised in our local paper several times offering to make dolls' clothes, children's clothes, or do quilting. I got lots of enquiries but only one quilt to do. I did not make even enough to pay for the advertisements, although people tell me I do lovely quilting and sewing. I do not overcharge.

Have lots of time to work, as my husband works nights and I have to be quiet so he can sleep. — RED HEAD.

DEAR RED HEAD — It's better to make up a sample and display it if you can. Discuss this with a hobby centre or Y.W. I am sending you my leaflet on part time work which has a few other ideas you might like to try.

* * *

TO MERRY WIDOW — Your girl would make a charming attendant. If your father is in good health and would not be too excited to walk down the aisle with you, this would be a nice thing to do. However, in second marriages, it is not essential for the bride to be given away.

* * *

TO BORED AND STIFF — Look, if M.S. patients can do it, you can. I attended a sale of items made by branch members of the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada. Want to know what I saw? Chess boards, small tables, cribbage boards, tables, bed ends, booteeg, mitts, sock and sweater sets, pot holders, woven stoles, driftwood centrepieces! One double amputee I know says you are only handicapped if you think you are. How about that?

* * *

DEAR DORIS — Before we were married I had kissed my wife goodnight but no more. Now we have been married seven months and she has not permitted me to consummate the marriage. She has been attending the local mental health clinic for six months but is unchanged.

Would not this problem have been averted if we had waited until she permitted me to make love to her before we got married? — PUZZLED.

DEAR PUZZLED — I doubt it. In a society where we encourage self-discipline and chastity outside of marriage, it may take time for spontaneous expression, even of affection.

Your wife's problem may be unusually acute; may spring from a deep-seated revulsion about sex. Work closely with the clinic so that you understand what is happening and can co-operate every step of the way.

* * *

Confidential to ANXIOUS MOTHER — Your husband forgave you for that one misstep and took you back to his bed and board. This erases any possibility of his using it against you in court forever after. Since his was the greater guilt, and yours the patient struggle, I can't imagine any court in Canada awarding the children to him.

Take your first step towards a more bearable life by consulting a lawyer.

(Do you wonder why people act as they do? Ask Doris about what's bothering you. And remember that five-cent-stamped envelope.)

GARDEN NOTES

HELPING YOU CHOOSE A ROSE

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

In the past eight years The All-American Award Selections have included eight floribundas, four grandifloras, six hybrid teas and one climber, no tree roses.

The hybrid tea is the most popular but the others have their place too. A hybrid tea is better able to resist the cold than the tea rose from which it descends. They are noted for their large perfect blooms and long stems.

Florabundas bloom in sprays or clusters, blossoms are smaller than those of the hybrid tea but are more abundant. They are usually fragrant, are adaptable to border or massed beds.

Grandifloras are a cross between hybrid teas and florabundas. They are a little taller than the florabundas, bloom continuously and may have one or several blooms to each stem.

Climbers include the ramblers, large flowering climbers and the everblooming climbers. Some types bloom more freely than others. Most climbers need winter protection.

KNOWN AS STANDARDS

Tree roses are one or more hybrid teas, or florabundas grafted onto a hardy stock. These are also known as standards. Tree roses need winter protection.

There are many fine roses that do not make the grade of being chosen for the All American Rose Selections but those that do are outstanding in quality and should be considered. They are grown for two years in the trial gardens throughout the United States before they are listed. The following are the selections since 1955.

1956 — Circus yellow blend.

1958 — Fashion med. red. Gold Cup deep yellow. White Knight.

1959 — Ivory Fashion. Starfire Med. red.

1960 — Garden Party Ivory and pink. Sarabande med. red. Fire King brilliant red.

1961 — Duet salmon pink. Pink Parfait.

1962 — Golden Slippers red orange. John S. Armstrong dark red. Fing's Rendezous yellow. Christian Dior crimson.

BALANCED DIET

Feed your roses a balanced diet. No matter how rich the soil was when the roses were planted they will use up the nutrients and will need two more feedings before the fall. Established roses need it in early spring, after the big June blooming period and again in July or early August. Do not apply later or you will have soft growth that will not harden before frost.

The natural nitrogen in the soil is not available to plants until the soil has warmed up to 80 degrees. The early spurt of growth needs a good supply to develop healthy foliage. Roses need phosphorus and potassium as well as minute quantities of trace elements. A complete plant food is better than one you mix yourself from several ingredients.

Aphids, leafhoppers, spider mite, rose slug and many other pests prey upon roses. Perhaps the greatest threat is from black spot.

Use a fungicide spray once a week for black spot and you will control most of the diseases. An all purpose spray, or dust once a week will keep your roses healthy and vigorous. This program needs to be carried on until killing frost. The enemies of roses are many and tough. Fight them hard and

Ancient Part of London Town Changes Slowly or Not at All

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

LONDON — Beyond the familiar charms of the tourists' London, a city landscaped by Hyde Park, decorated with the Houses of Parliament, and peopled by guards in scarlet coats, there lies another London, less glamorous, but more real.

This is the London of Dickens and Miss Doolittle and even Jack the Ripper, a bewildering and ancient urban sprawl of neighborhoods and villages, the Bronx, Brooklyn, and Lower East Side of London.

Its curious names may be vaguely familiar from the signs on the double decker buses: Tooting, Finsbury, the Angel, Islington, Camden Town, Whitechapel, Holborn, Bermondsey, St. Pancras. Nay, they do not ring with the overtones of class heard in Westminster, Mayfair and St. John's Wood.

These are the places of Charles of Charles Addams architecture, grimy kids playing street games of Elizabethan origin, pushcarts and street markets and "goods stations", a few remaining gas lamps and flowery cast-iron letter boxes, horse troughs, Georgian tenements and postage stamp gardens behind wrought-iron fences. Some of it looks like pictures of New York or Chicago's south side 50 years ago, but most of it was ancient when Indians camped on Lake Michigan's shore.

This London changes slowly or not at all. It has survived the Great Fire, the Plague, the Fire, and the Blitz to an astounding degree. There are few new buildings. What there is of a monstrous Victorian vintage: mammoth and cavernous suburban railway stations of ugly red brick, heavy with Gothic arches, dark windows, and lofty towers; abandoned public markets under vaulted steel and glass roofs; and sagging, half-timbered Tudor facades.

Here, too, survive the last of all but forgotten London traditions, the elaborate "public convenience". Some still have Edwardian brass gas lamps and fittings, marble stalls, stained glass windows, and fish bowl flush bowls, and fine metallic scrawlings on the walls that—in the opinion of an attendant — "would make yer blood run cauld, it would". A few still are privately operated.

Scattered throughout these sections — most are to the east and north of the West End — are the true pubs of London. They invariably strike the visitor as the best-kept buildings in London, as they serve a dignified function as the working man's "club". It is not uncommon to see a sign on one read-

A Lift for Living

Purpose in Work Necessary Or It Becomes Intolerable

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

No sane person can work long at a task which is meaningless. When a man has a mental collapse or a nervous breakdown, the doctors in a sanitarium may set him doing almost anything to keep his hands busy, but if the cure is to progress, he must eventually be given to see purpose in his work. Without purpose, work is intolerable. As Professor Dan Dodson says, it doesn't matter whether a person rides an ox cart or an intercontinetary missile if his travel is purposeless.

To keep us going temporarily we can take jobs that may have no connection with our continuing purpose in life. For example a student during college vacation may do things that have no relation to what he wants to do in his ultimate career. For one summer, when I was a student in college, I sold (or rather tried to sell) aluminum cooking utensils. I had no intention of becoming a cook, and I soon discovered that I had no aptitude for becoming "sales executive." But it was a job that made money enough to get me back to school. For a time we can do this kind of opportunist labor. But sooner or later a person wants to find that which is his life work. When I think of what a difficult time I had in finding my vocation, I am deeply sympathetic with the students in this highly complex time when see their efforts to find their life work. I think one of the great advances in education has been the more intelligent attention being given to vocational guidance.

ADD UP TO SOMETHING

But suppose we do find a job that we think is our vocation. We may like it so well that we never look at the clock. But the time comes when we do look at the calendar, and ask ourselves, what is the use of it all? What does it all add up to? And unless it seems to add up to something, unless it seems to be getting us somewhere and going ahead, it is intolerably meaningless.

Just think how petty work can be if it lacks any divine purpose. Just a day-to-day money-grubbing and money-grabbing, keeping our eyes on the grindstone to what our talents for more money-making. What is the use of it unless it leads to something more? Dr. Karl Jung, the eminent psychologist, said that the majority of his patients were men who had made a success in business, but were disillusioned and bored by the life they lived.

Sooner or later we must learn that successful living consists not in how much money we make but in how much we make of our money. Jesus closed His parable of the dishonest steward with the plea to "make friends for yourselves by means of mammon, so that when it fails they may receive you into the eternal habitations." When we work with God we can make our money serve purposes beyond our earthly span.

There are others who think of their work as such intolerable drudgery that they work mainly for enough to live on when the office hours are over. When they look at life in that way, their aim is to shorten the hours of labor as much as possible and then, alas, they often find their leisure just as unsatisfying as their labor.

SHORTENED WORK WEEK

We have reduced our work week in many places now to forty hours. And eight hours more a night for sleep, and we still have seventy-two hours off from work. What do we do with them? When I see what many do with their free time, I fear that America can be undone just as truly by the misuse of her leisure time as by the mismanagement of her work.

Or suppose that we like our work? What happens when we retire? If all we have lived for is work, then retirement means emptiness. If we are to lift our work from meaningless opportunist job-taking and dull drudgery and empty retirement, we must find purpose and meaning in it.

God gives us that by giving us a long perspective on it. It was said of Moses that he endured those long, trying months in the wilderness "as seeing Him who is invisible". When we live with our eyes on the day-to-day accounting and the day-to-day routine, we get discouraged and disillusioned. But the architects of stone and state, the prophets and the pioneers, the leaders and the saints see the vision. And the scripture says, "Where there is no vision, the people perish". Yes, when there is no vision of our tasks, we perish in our pettiness. If we are to see our work in a way that gives meaning and purpose, we must see it in its divine perspective, as if we were working together with God.

Under the new defensive arrangement, Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, will have a deputy responsible to him for nuclear affairs. The deputy has not yet been chosen.

CO-ORDINATE WITH SAC

Arrangements are being made for broader participation by NATO countries in nuclear activities at SACEUR and in co-ordination of planning at Strategic Air Command headquarters in Omaha, Neb.

Conference sources said this means that countries now without nuclear weapons—presumably including Canada—will be able to help shape the command, direction and management of NATO nuclear policy.

It was reported earlier that nine liaison officers from various NATO countries will be attached to SAC headquarters. Indications were that Canada would be one of the countries represented there.

SAC, a strictly American long-range bomber force, is the principal arm of the West's nuclear deterrent.

The communique said fuller information, both political and military, is being provided to the various NATO members.

"Ministers welcomed these measures to increase the effectiveness of the nuclear capability at the disposal of the alliance and to improve co-ordination and control of its nuclear deterrent forces," it said.

Recognizing the need for a satisfactory balance between nuclear and conventional arms, they directed the NATO permanent council to review questions of strategy, force requirements and resources available to meet them.

STILL BERLIN THREAT

The council charged that Russia has shown little interest in seeking equitable solutions to East-West problems. The threat to Germany and Berlin had not disappeared. However, "thanks to the firm attitude maintained by the West," unfavorable developments there had been averted.

Noting that Soviet military personnel remain in Cuba, the council said the situation there "still gives cause for concern." The council also expressed "disquiet" over events in Laos.

The ministers called once again for controlled disarmament, and pledged determined efforts to secure "still further improvements" in NATO consultative machinery.

PLAN TO MEET

Wirtz, Canadian Labor Minister Allan MacEachen, Claude Jodoin, CLC president, and AFL - CIO President George Meany met May 22 and planned to meet again in June. But the urgency of the issue may cause the date of the next meeting to be advanced, it was learned.

The Canadian SIU is locked in a fight with the CMU and the management of U.S.-controlled Upper Lakes Shipping Company of Toronto over manning of Upper Lakes ships. The company, which for years had a contract with the SIU, switched to the CMU about a year ago and some 300 SIU members lost their jobs.

Working with sympathetic unions in the U.S., the SIU retaliated by picketing and boycotting Upper Lakes ships. Hall says the company has been badly hurt economically and soon will yield to SIU demands.

He told a press conference that there had been greater export volume and greater profits for Canada's multi-million dollar forest industry in the last 18 months mainly because of this country's pegged dollar.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

WEIGHT LIFTING

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

Given the urge, it is quite extraordinary how much weight a bird can carry. The urge is strongest when it has to do with family life — bringing nesting material, care of the young, or even feeding self.

Some little time ago it was reported in "The Auk" (a magazine published by the American Ornithologists' Union) that a house finch had been seen carrying a "ribbonlike piece of cloth" from a yard, and up over the top of a garage. The observer frightened the bird, causing it to drop the material which he then pick up and weighed, and found it to be 23% of the average weight of a house finch. This is probably unusual, nevertheless, we do often see long, heavy-looking sticks and straws being brought to a nest by a very small builder. Watch an energetic house wren tackling a big twig and manoeuvering it through a small opening.

It has been stated that a golden eagle of approximately twelve pounds can carry with no effort whatsoever a load weighing two pounds, but finds four pounds difficult. In other words, the weight lifted seldom exceeds 21% o its own weight. There are stories of bald eagles (with an average weight of thirteen pounds) carrying off lambs and even human babies, but they lack proof. However, there is at least one genuine photograph of an eagle flying over treetops clutching a good sized rabbit in its talons. Authorities do not entirely agree on the possible carrying weight of a bald eagle, but we are assured that it is at least eight pounds, and some say as much as twelve — which seems impossible.

Small birds apparently can carry weights in greater proportion to their size than can large birds. In their eagerness to feed their nestlings well, parents bring the largest possible mouthfuls. It is not uncommon to see a kingfisher bring a fish that looks nearly as big as the youngster into whose mouth it is stuffed. Sometimes the prey really cannot fit in, and has to be broken up.

Many small birds love green caterpillars, which by early June are quite heavy. But chickadee babies must be fed. Each bite is more than one-tenth of its own weight, so the nestlings grow rapidly, weighing 10 times as much after 12 days as at birth.

The bark "plate" with suet attached must be anchored to our feeding tray. Otherwise, some white-throat or junco pulls it right off the shelf in an effort to fly away with it.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo H. Carver, Sports Editor

Yesterday, in terms of decades, track and field was just another item on the sports agenda of "high schools" as they were termed then.

A coach was lucky to get a dozen or so student athletes out to trot around the track. The handful of spectators was there through curiosity.

Nationally all the sport needed was a push to topple it into the grave of oblivion. Ever since Percy Williams raced to Olympics victory in the dim distant past, our track and fielders went to the games for the ride or to fill out an entry list.

Not too long ago the tide turned. Interest in the sport stirred with new life. It quickened when a Canadian runner approached something like a world mark. Student athletes eyed it with a new look.

The fuse was being laid and the dynamite of interest exploded when young students named Bruce Kidd, Bill Crothers and Harry Jerome turned in sensational performances on the track.

The "fall-out" was heavy. It freckled the secondary schools of the nation from coast to coast. Kidd, Crothers and Jerome did far more for the sport than merely win races and set records.

Pete Beach, executive secretary of the Ontario Federation Schools Athletic Association, told me at the COSSA meet in Trenton last Saturday: "There is no doubt about it. Messrs. Kidd and company provided a lot of the spark that has fired interest in track and field."

"Their performances at home and abroad provided an incentive for secondary schools' students," Pete said. "Nowadays nearly every young fellow aims to be Kidd or Crothers. And don't be surprised to see some of them emulate their performances in the not too distant future."

Yesterday, a handful. Today, participation records fall with those on the track and field. If anything less than 200 athletes fire up at a district secondary school meet, you wonder where the fire is.

Coaches of yesteryear probably read with unbelieving eyes the story of the "Banquet of Champions" given the COSSA champions of the three city secondary schools this week.

Over one hundred proud young athletes, representing the best in the Quinte, Lakeshore and Kawartha districts were honored. Five official championship teams were there. A sixth was "unofficial." This was the track girls' track and field squad from BCIVS which set four records at the COSSA meet but was not recognized as official champions because it was a joint meet.

This, reportedly, is a record for district achievement in the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association.

The upsurge of interest in track and field the past few years has crescendo'd with almost the speed of a Mickey Mantle home run. Stories from across the nation report between 200 and 400 students taking part in district meets. Records remembering seldom less than 20 are broken at each get-together.

Nor is interest in the sport confined to boy students. Pretty young "co-eds" are taking to it like the proverbial duck to the water.

There are the Abigail Hoffmans and the Nancy McCredies. Here at home is Sheryl Drysdale, who broke three COSSA records and assisted in another. There is Yvonne Breeden of Vancouver, 16, who set a juvenile 60-yard dash record of 6.9.

Increased competition makes for better performance. The record set today is the target for tomorrow. And student athletes are hitting dead centre with something akin to monotonous regularity.

Canada's future in international and world track and field competition looks exceptionally bright.

AND:—

Dick Burrows says his Shannonville Speedway Park-land will be open from noon to dusk, starting today, including Sundays. There is the putter golf and go-karts for the kiddies. Nice place, too, to picnic with the family.

Giants Clip Koufax; Whip 'Bums' 7-1

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Last time Sandy Koufax didn't miss a man. This time he didn't miss a bat.

The National League leading San Francisco Giants got even with Koufax, who pitched a no-hitter against them 13 days before, by shelling the Los Angeles left - hander from the mound with a five-run first inning outburst en route to a 7-1 triumph over the Dodgers Friday night.

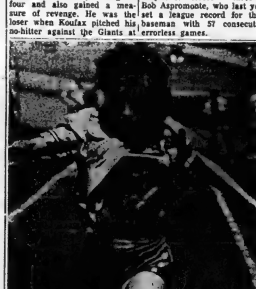
The first five Giants scored. And, after retiring only one batter, Koufax took the rest of the night off. The Giants went on to an easy triumph behind Juan Marichal's four-hit pitching and increased their lead over the second-place Dodgers to two games.

Jose Pagan singled to start things for the Giants, and Willie McCovey followed with another single. Willie Mays then walked on a 3-2 pitched and Koufax hit Orlando Cepeda's bat squarely for a double that cleared the bases. Felipe Alou followed with his ninth homer.

Koufax fanned not an out, but Ed Bailey got a single and Koufax got the hook. Bailey wrapped up the scoring for the Giants with a two-run homer in the third, while Don Zimmer accounted for the only Dodger run/with a pinch-hit homer in the sixth.

CARDS DOWN METS

The third-place St. Louis Cardinals, meanwhile, walloped the New York Mets 10-4, Philadelphia downed Cincinnati 5-1 behind Cal McLish's four-hitter, Pittsburgh belted Milwaukee 7-2 and Houston edged the Chicago Cubs 8-5 in 12 innings.



Marichal, who struck out 10, brought his record to 6-3 as he cut off the Dodgers' eight-game winning streak, extended the Giants victory string to four and also gained a measure of revenge. He was the loser when Koufax pitched his no-hitter against the Giants at Los Angeles. Things were a bit cut off the Dodgers' eight-who lost his second against six victories.

Winning pitcher Bob Gibson, now 2-3, and Stan Musial both hit homers in a 14-hit Cardinal attack that sent the Mets down to their fifth straight loss. Curt Flood, Ken Boyer and Gene Oliver each stroked three hits different this time for Koufax runs in support of Gibson, but with Oliver driving in three needed relief help from Bobby Shantz in the ninth inning.

McLish, who won the Phillies' last game with a five-hitter before they went into a three-game skid, aided the attack with two singles and two walks. The only run McLish, 3-2, allowed was a pinch-hit homer by Jesse Gonder in the eighth. Johony Callison and Tony Taylor each drove in two Philadelphia runs against Reds' starter Bob Purkey.

Shut out for five innings by Braves' starter Warren Spahn, the Pirates erupted for seven runs in the sixth to hand the veteran left-hander his third defeat in nine decisions. Bob Bailey and Bill Virdon each singled in a run, Dick Scrofield singled in a pair and rookie Willie Stargell capped the uprising with a three - run pinch - hit homer. Bob Friend was the winner, scattering five hits, including Hank Aaron's 14th homer.

Howie Goss' single drove in Al Spangler with the deciding run in the 12th inning as the Colts won their fifth game in five meetings with the Cubs this season. Spangler had singled to open the inning, his fourth straight hit, and his eighth in the last nine at-bats. Houston managed the victory despite six errors — three by Bob Aspromonte, who last year set a league record for third baseman with 37 consecutive errorless games.

SETS CANADIAN RECORD — Sixteen-year-old Yvonne Breeden of Vancouver's Argyle High School sets tape and Canadian juvenile record for the 60-yard dash Thursday as she completes distance in 6.9 seconds at Vancouver track meet. (CP Wirephoto)

Move Frontenacs From Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — James Magee, president of Kingston Frontenacs of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, announced Friday the Frontenacs have been moved out of Kingston.

Although no definite decision has been made, it has been mentioned the team may be moved to St. Paul or Milwaukee.

Magee told a press conference he had been informed of the withdrawal of the Frontenacs from Kingston by a letter from Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, sponsors of the EPHL team.

The letter from the Bruins said the Frontenacs were being moved because "the league will not operate under the same conditions" next season, Magee said.

Wren Blair, general manager and coach of the Frontenacs, said it is apparent from an NHL meeting in New York last week that if there is a league next season it will be composed of United States teams entirely.

DECIDE ON CITIES

"It was very soundly decided at the meeting," he said, "upon 10 cities to be investigated for a six-team league. Chicago is pretty firmly settled in St. Louis and we hear Detroit has decided on putting a team in Kansas City."

He said Omaha, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis are some of the other cities that are being considered.

Blair said it was not the operational deficit of more than $40,000 incurred by the Bruins in Kingston during the past season that led to the parent club's decision.

"It would be pretty difficult for Boston to operate a team in Kingston if all the other teams were in the United States," he said.

Blair predicted that because of this Sudbury Wolves and the Hull - Ottawa Canadiens, the other two Canadian teams in the EPHL, would be moved south of the border next season.

A meeting of the Kingston professional hockey club has been called for June 4. A further announcement concerning Kingston's hockey future will be made after the meeting.

Magee said "a good calibre of junior A hockey is what we're interested in now."

Pitching — Juan Marichal, Giants, checked Los Angeles on four hits as San Francisco increased its National League lead to two games by beating the runner-up Dodgers 7-1.

Batting — Harmon Killebrew, Twins, hit grand slam homer and drove in five runs in 8-5 victory over Chicago White Sox.

QUESTIONS DECISION

TORONTO (CP)—The owner of Jet Traffic—winter-book favorite to win this year's $80,000 Queen's Plate until the Jockey Club Limited ruled the three-year-old ineligible—feels the decision was based on his horse's speed. Russel A. Firestone Jr. of Dallas, Tex., says he will proceed with Jet Traffic's training on the assumption the horse will be allowed to start in the June 15 Canadian classic at Woodbine, regardless of the ruling announced by the Jockey Club Wednesday.

Yankees Take 7-6 Lead In Cup Golf

— Win Four In Row

TURNBERRY, Scotland (CP, AP) — United States amateur golfers jumped out in front of Britain in the Walker Cup competition today, sweeping all four of the foursomes matches.

The four straight victories moved the U.S. from a 6-3 deficit to a 7-6 lead and dashed Britain's optimism that had welled up after Friday's play.

However, eight 18-hole singles matches still remained to be played.

U.S. amateur champion Labron Harris teamed with Downing Gray to beat Michael Lunt of England and David Sheahan of Ireland 2 and 3 for the first American victory.

Then Billy Joe Patton and Richard Sikes further dismayed the British, defeating Michael Bonallack of England and Stuart Murray of Scotland 1 up.

WON ONLY ONCE

Britain has only one victory in Walker Cup competition — back in 1938. The Americans have won 17 times.

When Bob Gardner and Dr. Ed Updegraff of the U.S. bested Scotland's Charlie Green and Sandy Saddler, 3 and 1, the British could see the writing on the wall.

And the sweep was completed when Dexse Beman and Charles Coe whipped David Medeley of Ireland and Ronnie Shade of Scotland 3 and 2.

In foursomes matches Friday the British had lost two matches won one and tied the other but came on strong in the singles, winning five, halving two and losing one.

FORECASTS WIN

U.S. team captain Dick Tufts shrugged off the 6-3 deficit Friday night with a confident forecast that by nightfall Saturday the Americans would still have possession of the trophy.

"We're figuring on winning five singles matches and three foursomes," he said.

That's eight out of today's dozen matches.

Bone-chilling rain and a biting wind off the seas Friday dampened the links but not the golf. The Britons seemed to hold up better than the Americans, although Tufts said he did not think the weather was much of a factor.

"We were outplayed," he commented. "But the boys are enthusiastic and ready for more."

All matches are 18 holes in length, compared with previous competitions which went 36 holes.

In the afternoon as the weather improved the 42-year-old Carr, veteran of nine Walker Cup matches, went gold crazy.

Carr was one under par on the eighth, ninth, 10th and 11th holes and slaughtered Richard Sikes, 22-year-old U.S. public links champion, 7 and 5. Word quickly spread to the other matches and the Scots, Irish and Englishmen went to work with a will.

Kenmors Meet Kingston Sunday

Belleville Kenmors make their second start of the season in the Lakeshore Baseball League Sunday afternoon when they visit the Kingston Rad Boys for a 2.30 tilt at Megaffin Stadium.

Coach Sid Forster will likely give the pitching nod to Larry Boden while his Belleville mates is expected to toe the rubber for Kingston.

Two other games on tap for tomorrow pit Port Hope Ontarios against the Merchants in Oshawa and Ajax against Peterborough in Ajax.

Belleville's next home start will be a return tilt with Kingston at eight o'clock Wednesday night, at the Fairgrounds.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

TORONTO (CP)—Touring pro Al Balding of Toronto said Thursday the $5,000 Miller Golf Tournament for the Canadian professional match play championship must at least double its prize money if it expects to remain a major fairway attraction in Toronto. The tournament, which will be held this year at Toronto's Pine Valley golf course July 10-13, has been diminishing in popularity in recent years.

Understudy Beats Chisox With 2-Run Blast

Twins' 'Hot Harmon' Belts Grand-Slam

By JIM MACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Harmon Killebrew teed off—staggering Senators have lost six in a row and 12 of 13.

and his caddy sank the winning putt.

Hammerin' Harmon started Minnesota's flying Twins winging but it took understudy Jimmie Hall to apply the clincher in Friday night's 9-6 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Killebrew, who has been as hot as the Peoria, batted across five runs with a grand slam homer and a single, then retired after eight innings with Minnesota holding a seemingly safe 6-3 lead. However, Ron Hansen tied the score with two out in the top of the ninth inning by belting a three run homer and it was Hall, Killebrew's defensive replacement in left field, who won it.

The 26-year-old rookie rapped a two-run homer with one away in the last of the ninth to give Twins their fifth straight victory and the seventh in their last eight games. The loss stopped the White Sox winning string at four and dropped them to third in the American League scramble behind Baltimore and New York.

Both the Orioles and Yankees continued victory streaks. Baltimore pushed 16 games ahead of the field with its fifth in a row, 7-4 over Cleveland, as lefty Mike McCormick won his first in the league. Joe Pepitone's three - run homer and Whitey Ford's six-hit pitching carried the Yanks to their fourth straight, 5-3 over Washington.

Bill Monbouquette pitched Boston to a 5-2 decision over Detroit and Kansas City outlasted the Los Angeles Angels 3-1.

HITS IN NINE

Killebrew, slow to hit his form this season after being sidelined by a bad knee, hit in his ninth straight game with a run producing single in the fourth. His grand slam then capped a five-run fifth against White Sox Ace Ray Herbert.

Dave Nicholson hit his ninth homer in the seventh off Dick Stigman and Hansen knotted it with his blow against the Minnesota southpaw in the ninth. But Lenny Green opened the bottom of the ninth with a single and Hall ended matters on the first pitch he saw from loser Eddie Fisher. Stigman, now 3-5, was the winner.

Brooks Robinson had a perfect batting night with a homer, two singles and two walks for the Orioles, winners in 10 of their last 11 games. The star third baseman knocked in three runs while Russ Snyder banged a two-run homer.

McCormick, an off-season acquisition from the Giants who dropped his first two decisions in the American League, posted his first victory with relief from Dave McNally. Sam McDowell was the loser.

PEP SETTLES IT

Pepitone, who failed to come through twice earlier with the bases full and one out, decided it for the Yankees with his three-run homer in the sixth inning. Ford ran his season mark 5-3 and a sensational 32-4 lifetime against Washington. New York now has won nine of its last 10 while the Senators have lost six of seven.

At Harrow, Ont.

'Shooters' Plan Title Meet

HARROW — Canada's only rural trapshooting organization, the Harrow Gun Club, will be host to approximately 125 shooters who will gather there May 31, June 1 and 2 to compete in the 1963 Ontario trapshooting championships.

According to Sheldon Wainstein, president of the Ontario Provincial Trapshooting Association, London, shooters from Quebec, Michigan and New York state are expected to attend in addition to a large number from Ontario.

The preliminary program on Friday, May 31, will consist of 100 16-yard targets, 100 handicap targets and 25 pair of doubles. Scores from these events will not count for the championships which actually get underway Saturday, June 1, with the firing all day for the 200-target singles championship.

On Sunday, June 3, the doubles championship will be determined with 50 pair of doubles. Final event will be the 100-target handicap.

High all around title will go to the shooter with the highest total score in all three events fired during the last two days of the contest. Possible score—400.

OPTION PLASKETT

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League Friday optioned catcher Elmo Plaskett to their Columbus, Ohio, International League farm club and recalled catcher-utility man Ron Brand from the same club.

67 Horses Remain Eligible

'Royal Maple' Plate Favorite

TORONTO (CP)—Royal Maple, the bay colt which runs in the royal blue and white silks to J. Louis Levesque of Montreal, was made the favorite at 4 to 1 today for the 104th running of the Queen's Plate at Woodbine June 15.

Fifty-eight colts and nine fillies remain eligible for the classic for three-year-olds from an original nomination list of 283 following payment of a $100 subscription May 1.

This was the third payment. The original nomination fee was $25 paid prior to Dec. 15, 1961. The second payment was $50 paid prior to Dec. 15, 1962. A final payment of $500 must be made by owners entering their horses two days before the race.

In making Royal Maple the favorite, Jockey Club oddsmaker George Duffus noted that the Montreal-owned colt which was bred by Windfields Farm, had won two of his three starts this spring, and had, in his opinion, the most impressive form of the nominees that have raced thus far.

Second choice, at 5 to 1, is W. J. Farr's Son Rhue. Tabled in Windfield Farm's Canabors at 6 to 1, and fourth is a split entry of Conn Smythe's Warrior's Day, which handed Royal Maple its only defeat of this season, and Cub R and R Stable's Prince Maple. Both are 8 to 1.

The Tracks

Coast-owned Queen's Plate candidates, Windfields Farm's House of Commons and Gardiner Farms' Common Market, battled through the stretch to finish first and second respectively in the Kenneville Purse before 7,251 at Greenwood Friday.

L. and M. Stable's Let's Bid was third.

The Cleveland Purse Friday was also won by a Windfields runner, Oshawa II. Oshawa II's only previous win was in England.

Fires Second 67 In Row

Tony Lema Leads At Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Tony Lema, a pro golf for reverting disaster, led the field into the third round of the $100,000 Memphis open golf tournament today.

The 29-year-old pro from San Leandro, Calif., fired his second consecutive 67 Friday over the Colonial, winners in 10 of their last 11 games. The star third baseman knocked in three runs while Russ Syndor banged a two-run homer.

McCormick, an off-season acquisition from the Giants who dropped his first two decisions in the American League, posted his first victory with relief from Dave McNally. Sam McDowell was the loser.

PEP SETTLES IT

Pepitone, who failed to come through twice earlier with the bases full and one out, decided it for the Yankees with his three-run homer in the sixth inning. Ford ran his season mark 5-3 and a sensational 32-4 lifetime against Washington. New York now has won nine of its last 10 while the Senators have lost six of seven.

Open and Masters champion, had five over-par holes, including a humiliating two-over-par five on the short 170-yard 16th which he raced Thursday. He tumbled to a distant 140 from a first-place tie.

Sharing second place with Kneece were George Knudson of Toronto, Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., and Jerry Edwards of Fort Worth.

Bruce Crampton of Sydney, Australia, and Jack McGowan of Largo, Fla., followed at 137.

Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and Bill Collins of Grossinger, N.Y., had 138s.

Nicklaus had no alibis for his collapse.

"I just had a terrible round. You have one of those days every once in a while. That hole-in-one never entered my mind. You think about those things you can go nuts."

Ski Body Selects 1966 Sites

ATHENS (AP)—The International Ski Federation picked Portillo, Chile, as the site of the 1966 World Alpine championships Friday and Oslo, Norway as the site of the World Nordic championships. The decisions are expected to cause international repercussions.

Chile plans to hold the alpine title events in August. The nordic events in Norway will be held in February.

Some of the delegates objected to holding the event in the southern hemisphere.

The FIS also approved a resolution calling on its members to try to avoid discrimination on racial, religious, political or other grounds.

The Soviet Union had introduced the resolution because it had objected to the barring of East German skiers from the alpine championships last year in France. A NATO ban blocked the Germans.

After re-electing Marc Holder of Switzerland as president the congress chose Bucharest, Rumania, as the site for its 1965 meeting.

A decision for the location of the winter Olympic games in 1968 will be made in Innsbruck, Austria, at a meeting of the congress in January, 1964. Canada is strongly bidding for the 1968 winter games to be held in Banff, Alta.

Top Players Return From Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Rigoberto Mendoza, a third baseman for the Vancouver baseball club, was among Cuban refugees landed here Friday aboard the freighter Morning Light from Havana.

Some 20 other baseball players from various Canadian and U.S. teams remain in Cuba. They had returned there during the off season and ran into trouble getting clearance from the Castro government for their trips out.

Pitcher Luis Alvarez of San Francisco Giants also was aboard the freighter, as was Lazaro Versalles, a shortstop with Minnesota Twins.

DEATH REPORTED

MONTREAL (CP)—The death of H. Arthur Condie, particularly well known in curling circles and for his association for more than 30 years with the Canadian curling championship, was reported Friday. Mr. Condie, who died early this week, was a native of Bainsville, Ont. He spent the greater part of his life in Montreal.

AWARD WINNING FEATURE REVEALS 'STONE AGE' SOCIETY

The extraordinary odyssey of a handful of men penetrating the dense jungles of Dutch New Guinea, inhabited by prehistoric headhunters, is told in Joseph E. Levine's "The Sky Above—The Mud Below," the Academy-Award winning adventure which will open Monday at the Park Theatre.

The Embassy Picture's release, in wide screen and color, is a pictorial journal of a French-Dutch expedition of seven white men who encountered continual fear and danger in addition of the last uncharted area in the world.

Filmed by Pierre-Dominique Gaisseau, 38 year-old French-man who led the exploratory group, "The Sky Above — The Mud Below" took seven months to film as the adventurers made their trek over 1000 unknown miles.

En route, the expedition encountered tribes from the Polished Stone Age who were found to be head hunters and cannibals. Gaisseau and his companions and porters climbed 11,000 foot-high mountains where the temperature dropped to zero, and through steaming jungles where they suffered heat of 122 degrees in the shade.

Three men died on the expedition which included sixty Papuan porters and four soldiers. More than half the party became sick from dysentery, malaria, pneumonia and infectious bites of insects. Eight men were wounded in falls from dangerous peaks.

The expedition, which entered country that no white man had seen previously, came upon village after village of naked natives to whom shirt buttons were as Gaisseau recalls, "the most beautiful invention in the world."

More than 55,000 feet of color film was used. By journey's end only two of the original seven leaders were able to complete the trip. Three had to be flown out by amphibian plane a number as the expedition reached a river.

On the same program an exotic love story photographed in color in the state of Sinaloa, Mexico "Beyond All Limits", starring Jack Palance, Maria Felix and Pedro Armendariz. There will be complete shows at 7:00 and 8:50 p.m. for these first Belleville showing stirections.

IS LEADING DRIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — George Sholty of Logansport, Ind., has passed Shirley Dancer and Billy Haughton as the United States' leading money - winning harness racing driver, the Harness Racing Institute reported Friday. Sholty's horses have earned $148,495, while Dancer of New Egypt, N.J., has purses of $139,139. Haughton follows with $121,896. Dancer led the U.S. in 1961 and 1962.

Steve Ridzik Wins Sixth For Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Steve Ridzik is firing the ball so well in the International League this season that it must bring back memories of his troublesome 1962 campaign.

The 34-year-old right-hander pitched Toronto Maple Leafs to a 5-4 victory over Indianapolis Indians Friday night for his sixth straight triumph.

His won-lost record is 6-1, which would make any hurler happy. But if injury repeats itself, the six-foot, 190-pounder may be in for trouble. Ridzik started off the 1962 season in great fashion and at one time built his record to 9-2. Then he ran into arm trouble and ended the campaign at 11-10.

ALLOWS ONE WALK

There was no indication of arm woes Friday as he scattered seven hits and struck out two men. He allowed only one walk.

The win sent the Leafs into a third-place tie with Rochester Red Wings in the northern division, three games off the pace set by the leading Buffalo Bisons.

In other games, the Bisons beat the Red Wings 6-4, Syracuse Chiefs edged Columbus Jets 3-2, Atlanta Crackers defeated Jacksonville Suns 3-1 and Arkansas Travelers shaded Richmond Virginians 5-4.

The Leafs scored two runs in the first inning on a single, a walk, another single and a sacrifice fly. They got two more in the fourth and one in the fifth, then held off an Indianapolis drive. Charley Smith homered for the Indians. Mike Joyce (1-1) was the loser.

Pinch-hitter Ed Bouchee hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning to put Buffalo out front. The Bisons also got home run help from pitcher Dick Ricketts in the fifth and John Powers in the sixth. Southpaw Will Hunter, the fourth of five Buffalo hurlers, was credited with the victory.

Alan Coch gave up six hits in the Syracuse victory, while starter Tom Parons took the loss for Columbus.

CULLEN RETIRES

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Brian Cullen, 29-year-old centre with Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League, announced his retirement Friday. Cullen played in only 31 of Buffalo's 72 games last season because of his wife's illness. His point production fell from 81 in 1961-1962 season to 22 this season.

Qualify Record Looks Good

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A forecast of gusty winds up to 25 miles an hour made Parnelli Jones' Indianapolis Motor Speedway record look reasonably safe in today's next-to-last qualifying session for the 47th 500-mile race May 30.

Jones made his 10-mile record run at 151.153 m.p.h. under similar conditions last Saturday after pulling in his Offenhauser-powered Agajanian Special at 153, which nobody else has approached.

Eighteen positions were filled in the first weekend, leaving 15 open in the 33-car starting field.

After 33 cars are qualified, another car can squeeze into the lineup only by bettering the speed of the slowest car in the field. At present, that is the English Cooper, fitted with a big Aston-Martin rear engine and which was qualified by 32-year-old Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico City at 146.687.

Fifteen of the unqualified cars have run 147.5 or better in practice.

There were 66 entries but three cars have been washed out by wrecks. Only Jack Turner of Seattle has been seriously hurt in the 24 mishaps since the 2½-mile track opened for practice and drivers' tests May 1.

Bobby Grim of Indianapolis has been one of the fastest practicers this week. He did 151.7 Thursday in the Morcroft Special.

Minister Ends Half-Century Service to Western Canada

CARBERRY, Man. (CP) — A man who combined a career in the ministry with that of a newspaper reporter has ended more than half a century of service to the people of western Manitoba.

Rev. G. A. Colpitts, 84, retired from the active ministry of the United Church in 1953, but until recently kept his typewriter busy in his capacity as correspondent for the Brandon Sun.

To some this combination of jobs may appear odd. But to his editors, recognizing that a minister must by the nature of his work know what is happening to people in his district, it was eminently satisfactory.

With the exception of a six-year period up to 1953 when Mr. Colpitts gave up his newspaper work because of the demands of his charge at Reston, Man., he has been writing for either weekly or daily newspapers for half a century.

A native of Colpitts, N.B., he attended normal school in Fredericton and earned his BA in 1905 from Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B., before heading for Manitoba to teach.

After two years as teacher-principal at Neepawa, he was accepted as a candidate for the ministry of the Methodist church. He spent two years as a student minister at Benito, Man., then returned to Mount Allison, obtaining his master of arts and bachelor of divinity degrees.

Mr. Colpitts was ordained in 1912 and married the former Mabel Olmstead, daughter of one of the pioneer families in the Carberry area, five years later.

He was at Pierson, Man., when the United Church of Canada was formed in 1925 and it was one of the busiest charges of his career. In those days there was no waiting period for marriages in Manitoba, unlike neighboring North Dakota, and many American couples came to Pierson to be married.

"It got so that if people saw me running down the street looking for the minister they knew there was someone waiting to get married," Mrs. Colpitts recalls.

Elkhorn, Eden, Griswold, Alexander and Reston were other Manitoba communities in which Mr. Colpitts served until his retirement 10 years ago when he moved to Carberry.

PASTOR-JOURNALIST RETIRES — For half a century Rev. G. A. Colpitts served the people of western Manitoba, until 1953 as a United Church minister, and until recently as a correspondent for the Brandon Sun. Shown in a photograph superimposed on a view of Carberry, Man., a town he helped build, he has retired at 84. (CP Photo)

Price Support On Milk Used For Cheese up

OTTAWA (CP)—The 25-cent-a-hundredweight price support on milk used for cheddar cheese has been increased to 30 cents a hundredweight, Agriculture Minister Harry Hays said Thursday in the Commons.

Mr. Hays, amplifying an announcement made Wednesday, said in reply to Gilbert Rondeau (SC — Shefford) that the step will provide "a modest incenive" to diverson of milk to cheddar production for which domestic and export opportunities had increased.

The 25-cent subsidy has been withdrawn on milk used for milking skim milk powder and been replaced by a purchase program on skim milk powder. The payment on milk for butter and condensed milk has been withdrawn "on the promise that such products should not require federal subsidization."

Fiance to Wear Wrist Watch Instead of Engagement Ring

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am going to be engaged to a wonderful person. He told me last evening that he will give me a wrist watch instead of a ring because he is a Seventh Day Adventist and they do not believe in wearing jewelry. A wrist watch is considered utilitarian and is therefore acceptable.

He is a deeply religious man and I respect his views but when a girl is engaged people expect to see a ring on her finger. It would be easier to wear a ring than to explain to my friends and family why I don't have one.

Some of the people at work have even suggested that my fiance made up the story about no rings. They claim to know Seventh Day Adventists who do wear jewelry. Can you tell me if this is so or not? — HIS INTENDED.

DEAR INTENDED — The devout members of this religious group do not wear jewelry, even wedding rings. The Seventh Day Adventists who do wear jewelry are not living up to their religious teachings in the strictest sense of the word.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — When my husband describes an incident he distorts the details beyond recognition. He adds frill and sometimes he switches the whole story around and even makes up a new ending.

He has been doing this for almost 20 years. I've called him on it — in private of course — but it hasn't helped.

Yesterday our nine-years-old son said to me, "Daddy is a nice man but he lies. He told Uncle Harold about what happened at the ball park and it wasn't like Daddy said at all. I was right there and some of those things never happened."

I didn't know what to say to the boy so I changed the subject. It is bound to come up again. Please give me some help. I hate to tell our son his dad is a liar. — ASHAMED.

DEAR ASHAMED — People who embroider stories beyond recognition are basically dishonest. Liar is a strong word, but if you can find a better one, I'll buy it.

Tell the boy that some people like to dress up their stories so they will sound funnier or more exciting. Explain that this is not the way you want him to do. Emphasize that it is more important to be truthful than to be funny.

Deseronto Will Hold Plebiscite On School Issue

Three H.S. Trustees Walk Out of Meeting

DESERONTO (Staff)—A major local issue may have been compounded into a minor crisis in this town's school affairs.

Today the dispute over closing Deseronto High School has left its school board virtually impotent to administer its own affairs. It comes at a time when town council has decided to settle the school question once and for all by plebiscite.

The latest issue welled up Saturday night when an injunction was served against school trustees, M. F. Detlor, preventing him from sitting on the board. Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson is now expected to rule Thursday on Mr. Detlor's eligibility as a trustee.

However, the effect of the action is viewed as more serious than it seems by other members of the board.

The high school issue hatched two factions on the board with the opponents of the shutdown always taking a margin at 4-3 winning vote. Mr. Detlor was one of the opposing four. With the injunction against him, this temporarily reduces membership in its ons thus pairing off any factional vote at a 3-3 deadlock.

THREE WALK OUT

The result of the injunction were immediately apparent here Saturday night after the injunction was served. The three other Detlor supporters—chairman John—R—Neal—Mrs Ruth McVicker and Earl Keech—walked out of the meeting saying nothing could be accomplished.

"We couldn't even agree to adjourn the meeting," said one member. "It was ridiculous just sitting there."

"We'll just have to wait until the judge's decision on Thursday before we can do anything."

APPOINTED IN APRIL

Mr. Detlor was first appointed to the school board in April. The injunction claims his appointment was improper because the motion to appoint him was moved from the chairman voted twice to break

LITTLE PROSPECT OF EARLY START ON BUSINESS

Debate on Speech Will Continue

OTTAWA (CP)—There is little prospect of an early start this week on legislative business in the 10-day-old parliamentary session.

Members of the Commons are expected to continue their throne speech debate right to its rule - imposed conclusion late Wednesday. Bills cannot be taken up until this general debate ends.

The debate on an address in reply to the speech from the throne, is limited to eight days. Conservative and New Democratic Party non-confidence motions were defeated last week and no further motions were introduced at the second.

This led some to believe that the House might be willing to cut off the general discussion and get down to details. However, a government source said his party "still has more than enough anxious horses" wanting to speak.

Defeat of the two non-confidence motions on Tuesday and Thursday last week appeared to confirm the new government in power despite its minority position.

The Liberals have 129 members—four short of a clear majority. There are 95 Conservative, 23 Social Credit, 17 NDP, and one independent Social Credit member, with one vacancy awaiting the return of the delayed election writ of one more Conservative.

WEATHERED VOTE

The Liberals successfully weathered a vote against their nuclear arms policy, 124 to 113 and one criticizing the new legislative program, 127-76.

Opposition members will have another opportunity today to introduce further non-confidence motions, and they will be voted on before the house rises tonight. However, the rules do not permit further motions of confidence Tuesday, and resumption of the debate to end before the Commons adjourns to take the evening off on Wednesday.

Thursday the government intends to launch debate on its motion to establish a defence committee of the Commons. This is almost certain to renew opposition hammering at the government decision to obtain nuclear warheads.

Friday the House will deal with a government motion for an interim money supply. This will put it through for June and perhaps July, depending on how much the motion requests, pending formal parliamentary approval of the 1963-64 spending program.

Should interim supply be granted quickly, next item of business would be a government motion to set up the Economic Council of Canada, a move forecast in the throne speech.

Pope's Condition Causes Grave Concern As Recurrent Hemorrhages Sap Strength

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John, gravely weakened by recurrent hemorrhages, was reported to have passed a restful night. The lights were off all night in the 81-year-old pontiff's apartment, indicating he slept undisturbed.

Dr. Piero Mazzoni, the Pope's chief Rome physician kept bedside vigil for the sixth straight night. He left the Vatican shortly after dawn.

This was interpreted by Vatican sources as meaning that there was at least no worsening in the condition of the Roman Catholic Church leader whose strength has been sapped seriously by a series of hemorrhages.

The Pope had strict orders from papal physicians to cease all physical activity. The precaution was taken following another hemorrhage Sunday, possibly the worst setback since the pontiff was stricken last November with a stomach disorder said to be cancer or an ulcer. Vatican sources said he also suffered a hemorrhage Saturday.

The Pope's personal physician, Dr. Antonio Gasbarrini, arrived here from his home in Bologna Sunday, and saw the Pope.

After waking this morning the Pope called in Amleto Cardinal Cicognani, Vatican secretary of state. It was the third successive morning that the Pope has received Cicognani despite strict orders from his doctors that he must have absolute rest.

He sat up in an arm chair Sunday for his 45-minute talk with the secretary of state and there were reports that this had provoked the Pope's most recent hemorrhage.

It was not disclosed whether the Pope sat in a chair today or remained in bed to talk with the Cardinal.

Gasbarrini and Mazzoni reported after their examination of the Pope Sunday night that

Federal Judge to Hand Down Decision on Desegregation

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A federal court ruling is due today or Tuesday on Negro efforts to desegregate schools in Birmingham, largest city in Alabama and focal point of racial unrest for weeks.

U.S. District Judge Seybourne H. Lynne said Sunday he will announce his decision by Tuesday. It will be the fifth court ruling within a week on Birmingham issues.

And it will come just three weeks before two Negroes, backed by orders of another federal judge, plan to present themselves for admission into white units of the University of Alabama system—one at the main university campus at Tuscaloosa, the other at a branch at Huntsville.

Governor George C. Wallace has vowed a stand-in-the-schooldoor policy to maintain segregation in Alabama's strongh. He has said he will personally block admission of a Negro at the university for the term beginning June 10.

Three suits are involved in the public school litigation before Lynne. The first, filed in 1960, attacks Alabama's pupil - placement law, which has been upheld on its face by the U.S. Supreme Court. The law gives local school boards broad authority in assigning pupils to schools.

The second, filed last year,

Flee In Cruiser, 30-Mile Chase; 2 Suspects Held

Broadcast Phoney Calls On Police Network

TORONTO (CP)—Two men took two bank tellers hostages, disarmed two policemen after wounding one of them in a shooting match and escaped in a police cruiser—taking the hostages with them—during a bank holdup in Cooksville, 15 miles west of here today.

After a 30-mile chase the hostages were released unharmed when police arrested two suspects.

Bank employees Barry Johnston and Pat Gruber told police they had been threatened with death as they were taken hostages.

Sergeant Bernard Oakes was treated in South Peel Hospital for a flesh wound received during the raid at a Royal Bank of Canada branch on Highway 5 and Dixie Road. The gunman also shot at police officer Norman Howard but missed.

BROADCAST FALSE ALARMS

As they fled in the police cruiser the gunmen covered their trail by broadcasting false messages on the car radio. They jammed the radio frequency and gave false directions for catching their own getaway car—a white convertible which when they switched when they rolled the cruiser into a ditch.

Before the gunmen ditched the cruiser many messages had to be relayed through the provincial and Metro police radio system.

John MacLean, bank manager, said the two men disarmed one policeman and when others arrived to investigate the alarm, took their guns away also.

Then the gunmen locked out of the bank behind their hostages pressing guns into their backs. One of the raiders, said Mr. MacLean, warned: "We'll shoot these fellows if you don't let us out".

COMMANDEERS MOTORIST

As detective Douglas Burrows chased the bandits up Dixie Road, the gunmen fired at his car and put it into a ditch. Burrows crawled out, flagged a passing motorist, Clay Smith of Cooksville, and they chased the stolen cruiser north.

Just near Derry Road West, Bramalea, Smith pulled in front of the bandit's car as the gunmen fired at them. A constable screeched to a halt and Burrows arrested the two suspects.

Mr. MacLean told police he could not estimate immediately how much had been stolen.

ARLENE FRANCIS HURT, WOMAN KILLED IN CRASH

On Way to Appear On Sunday Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Arlene Francis, a panelist on the television program What's My Line? was reported in satisfactory condition today following an automobile collision in which she was injured and another woman was killed.

The Boston-born actress was replaced on What's My Line? Sunday night by singer Kitty Carlisle.

Miss Francis, 55, was on the way to Manhattan to appear on the show when her auto skidded on wet pavement and collided head-on with another auto. Police said she apparently had tried to stop her car because of a minor accident ahead of her.

Killed in the collision with the actress' car was Mrs. Rose Arrow, 34, of Brooklyn. Her husband, Joseph, also 34, who was driving, and three other passengers in the car were injured, two critically.

TAKES TO NEW YORK

Miss Francis was taken unconscious from the accident scene, on Northern State Parkway at the Success, N.Y., to a hospital in East Meadow, later to Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in Manhattan.

As she was being placed in the ambulance, a hospital attendant reminded her of her scheduled appearance on television.

"I don't think I'll make it," Miss Francis said.

Doctors at Columbia Presbyterian said she suffered a fractured collarbone, a minor concussion, a cut scalp and bruises. No indication was given as to

URGE DEFIANCE

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)— An organization calling itself Scots against War distributed leaflets in Glasgow Sunday urging bank-holiday sympathizers to defy forces of law and order opposed to the state's war machine." The British government branded the leaflets seditious and said it took the gravest view of their distribution.

Iraqi Govt. Says Pro-Nasser Plot Smashed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The report of a pro-Nasser plot in Iraq has opened the way for a showdown between the revolutionary regimes of Iraq and Syria and backers of President Nasser.

Damascus radio, in a marathon broadcast, called for support of the ruling Ba'ath Party in Iraq and demanded the immediate elimination of Nasser-ites in Syria.

The Ba'athists, who preach a brand of Arab socialism, also hold power in Syria. They have shown concern lest they be submerged by Nasser's one-party system in the proposed federation of Iraq and Syria with his United Arab Republic.

Despite the crackdown on Nasserites in Iraq and Syria, the Iraqi regime insisted it is going ahead with plans to join the federation in September, and the Syrian regime has made similar protestations.

Informed sources said the whole future of the federation depends upon Nasser's reaction to the first events in the two countries.

The U.A.R. and Syria have been engaged in a war of words with Cairo denouncing the Syrian Ba'athists. The Iraqi regime had kept out of the name calling.

How Baghdad radio is assaining "Cairo propaganda" with the same vigor o the broadcasts from the Syrian capital, Damascus. Baghdad commentators declared "Nasserism is outdated."

Baghdad radio announced Saturday that the revolutionary command had smashed a plot to "split the army, provoke an economic crisis, alienate confidence in the government and organize massacres in the country."

Implying that Nasser supporters had masterminded the plot, the Baghdad government named eight civilians and 18 army officers, including two generals, and seized their property. It said the plotters will be tried in public by a military court.

These events may force cancellation of a proposed summit meeting in Cairo Tuesday of Nasser, President Abdel Salam Aref of Iraq and Gen. Loual Atassi, head of the Syrian Revolutionary Council.

Six Die on New Jersey Turnpike After 12 Trucks Pile Up in Fog

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—Six persons, including a Sarnia, Ont. truck driver, died today when 14 vehicles piled up in dense fog on the New Jersey turnpike, police said.

Five of the victims died at the scene and a sixth died three hours later in St. James Hospital in Newark.

An earlier report of seven dead was based on the recovery of five bodies and indications that two more were beneath a huge mound of wreckage, police said.

About 10 more were injured, one of them critically, police added.

Police would not speculate on the cause of the accidents beyond blaming the fog.

One of the dead was identified as James St. Maria Blake, 54, of 184 Cedar Crescent, Sarnia, Ont., a truckload of fish.

One of the injured, A.'J. Gauthier, 43, of 933 Pine St., Port Huron, Mich., was treated and the last truck into the pileup.

Gauthier, driving a truckload of fish from Sarnia to New York, said he didn't see the wreckage in front of him before hitting it.

He told reporters he drove into a fog bank and the last thing he saw was the break lights of another truck just before plowing into the pile. He suffered minor head and hand

THE WEATHER

Synopsis — The persistent high-pressure area that has brought sunny and warm weather to much of Ontario the last few days will move eastward out of the province Tuesday, to be replaced by a disturbance moving eastward from the Dakotas. Showery weather will spread over the rest of the province Tuesday as clearing takes place in the northern regions.

Ten Families Left Homeless

MONTREAL (CP) — Another 10 families in Montreal's east end were left homeless early today as a fire that started in a row of sheds behind houses on downtown St. Catherine Street near Panet.

No injuries were reported. Some 40 firemen fought the flames for more than an hour.

There was no immediate indication whether the fire was the work of a pyromaniac who has been blamed for more than a score of fires in the same district since May 6, leaving about 100 families homeless.

Arson squad officials said, however, that a similar shed fire on Panet street early Sunday appeared to have been set deliberately with the aid of an inflammable liquid.

Suslov Figure Most Seen These Days at K's Elbow

MOSCOW (AP)—The lanky, unsmiling figure of 61 - frequently seen at Premier Khrushchev's elbow these days is the Kremlin's little-known "red professor," Mikhail Andreyevich Suslov.

The four Marxist theoreticians, now 61, appears to have moved quietly into Soviet hierarchy's No. 2 power seat vacated by ailing Frol R. Kozlov.

Suslov has taken over many of Kozlov's duties as Khrushchev's overseer of the massive Communist party apparatus. He faces one of the toughest assignments on the Kremlin's docket — handling negotiations starting July 5 with the Communist Chinese.

Suslov has been Khrushchev's key adviser in the four-year ideological struggle with Peking's leaders. He is generally credited with mapping much of the Soviet Union's day-to-day strategy.

Since 1959, Khrushchev and Suslov appear to have been working closely together on relations with the Chinese.

The argument between the two Communist capitals have been conducted in the jargon of Marxist ideology in sometimes subtly-worded statements in official propaganda organs.

Khrushchev, whose long suit is practical politics, not theoretical exercises, clearly has leaned heavily on his chief

Universities Ask Federal Govt. For $300 Million as Interim Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Universities Foundation today asked Prime Minister Pearson for $300,000,000 grant in "interim assistance" in the next three years to help meet swelling enrolment.

The brief, presented by President Claude Bissell of the University of Toronto and a foundation delegation, said the interim aid would help the universities over the period of a comprehensive survey of financing of higher education is completed about 1965.

The foundation is the central organization through which federal aid is channelled among Canadian universities.

The brief said enrolment is expected to be at least 183,000 within three years, up from 141,000 during the current year and 102,000 three years ago.

Universities would have to spend $800,000,000 in the period for classrooms, research and residence facilities. Of this, $100,000,000 was expected to be provided in loans from the federal government's housing agency, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The brief argued that another $300,000,000 should be made available through Parliament in a program of matching aid to provinces for that half the capital cost of each university's construction project between July 1, 1963, and June 30, 1968.

An addition to the Canada Council's annual expendable income of at least $2,000,000 also was needed, the brief said. This would enable the council to step up scholarships for the humanities and social sciences and aid to university and college libraries in these fields.

The delegation presenting the brief included Magr. Irenee Lussier, rector of the University of Montreal, Laurentian vice-chairman; Dr. John Deutsch, vice-principal of Queen's University, a member of the finance committee; and Dr. G. C. Andrew, executive director.

Shops Room in Tweed H.S. Gutted by Fire, Valuable Equipment Lost in Blaze

TWEED (Special) — Despite an early morning fire which completely gutted the shops department it was classes as usual today at the Tweed High School.

The fire which was discovered about two o'clock this morning, completely gutted the shops room, ruined thousands of dollars' worth of expensive equipment and caused smoke damage in other classrooms.

No cause for the blaze was given and no estimate of the total damage had been announced by the school board.

A loud bang, believed to have been breaking of school windows by Saide heat pressure, woke residents living in the vicinity of the school from their sleep. The explosion-like noise was heard several blocks away.

Stan Goulish called in the fire alarm after he was awakened by the noise.

The blaze was fought by the Tweed Volunteer Fire Department and the department's new fire pumper was given much credit in the firemen's fight to confine the blaze to the one room of the school.

The truck has a 500-gallon water storage tank and firemen were able to play this on the flames while hose lines were being hooked to hydrants.

The school principal is Mr. Wesley Hamilton.

It was Ladies' Night Saturday evening for members of the Prince Edward District, A.F. & A.M., Past Masters' and Wardens' Association, who played hosts to their ladies at a dinner meeting at Tabernacle United Church.

The address of the evening by Rev. Donald Pipe very appropriately dealt with the role of womanhood in every day life.

Isotope Lab To Be Set up At Hospital

A new isotope laboratory will be established this summer at Belleville General Hospital.

The use of isotopes for diagnosis and treatment is one of the most important benefits from atomic research and the proposed laboratory at Belleville will make it possible to do diagnostic and therapeutic procedures for which patients now have to go to other hospitals.

The proposed laboratory, to be staffed with a part-time director and with technical calls for specialized equipment costing approximately $5,000.

Work on the laboratory will not be commenced until the present renovational program turning former offices into bed space is completed.

Intensive Care Unit Will Be Part of Plan

Approval for a 12-bed intensive care unit in the former office area of the hospital has been given by the Board of Governors at Belleville General Hospital.

Some months ago board members approved removal of office space on the first floor to other locations as to renovate the area to allow for 34 additional beds. It is expected that the space will allow for 36 additional beds instead of 34.

The intensive care unit is being done in three stages, the first stage having been completed and the first 12 additional beds now in operation.

The intensive care unit with its 12 beds will be the last stage to be completed.

KITCHEN RETAINED

The Hospital auxiliary coffee shop was one of the first areas to be renovated and the coffee shop ladies have been retained for use as a dietary kitchen for the new hospital bed area.

The intensive care unit will be equipped to provide intensive nursing care for those patients who require it. It has been found that the quality of care for a patient who required intensive care is improved when a special unit is provided for this purpose.

The 36 additional beds to be set up in space formerly used for offices is a temporary measure to provide badly needed additional hospital bed space until the proposed new hospital addition is completed.

CONFER WITH ARCHITECTS

Hospital board members have been conferring closely with hospital architects in the preparation of plans for the new addition and the board has now presented a proposal to the Ontario Hospital Services Commission.

Plans call for placement of the new hospital addition to the south of the present building on the area now occupied by the boiler house and laboratory.

The building will contain new space requirements for the hospital and accommodation for approximately 200 patients.

This project, together with an outline plan, will be studied by the Commission.

Strauss Leaves To Visit Israel

MUNICH, West Germany (AP)—Former defense minister Franz Josef Strauss left by air today for Israel. His movements were kept secret because of demonstrations in Israel denouncing the visit.

About 500 demonstrators carrying placards denouncing Strauss waited more than 10 hours in vain at Israel's Central Airport Sunday. Opposition leaders have accused Strauss of bringing Nazis back into the German Army.

Liberal Leader Outlines Issues In Next Election

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer of Ontario said Sunday the Progressive Conservative government's handling of water and highways problems will be issues in the province's next election campaign, which he predicts will be held this fall.

The government pledged a Liberal government would establish a "public utility to plan water facilities at cost to the homes, fields and industries of southwestern Ontario."

The Conservative government of Premier Robarts has turned its back on the pipeline question, he told the annual meeting of the Western Ontario South Liberal Women's Associations.

He said the public need for water facilities was one of the big issues in the southwestern region. London's failure to obtain provincial government assistance to build a Lake Huron pipeline was an example.

The problem of water in the water shortage in the region was a unified pipeline system bringing Lake Huron or Georgian Bay water to the entire area on a grid basis.

Mr. Wintermeyer criticized the government for lack of planning and foresight in highways program.

Highway 401 was scheduled for completion in 1985, but was expected to be entirely finished until 1962. The section of 401 from London to Windsor still uncompleted, was supposed to have been opened eight years ago.

Mrs. John C. Ball of London was re-elected president of the women's association.

Other officers elected include: vice - presidents, Mrs. A. F. Walker, Windsor; Mrs. Emma Tinsley, Sarnia, and Mrs. Fred Cousins, St. Thomas; secretary, Mrs. W. R. Whiteside, Windsor; recording secretary, Mrs. Edgar Bechard, Wallaceburg.

The dumbbell struck Alvin M. Rodecker of Detroit as he was walking on the sidewalk below. He died the next day.

Rodecker's widow later settled her $500,000 damage suit against the couple for $185,000.

Food Poisonings Send Hundreds To Hospital

TORONTO (CP)—Four Toronto hospitals were flooded early today and emergency wards packed with about 250 persons, mainly Canadian-Italians who had suffered food poisoning at 13 functions in the city Sunday.

Many were admitted in serious condition but most were released after treatment.

Police and doctors were hampered in communicating when Italian-speaking victims when trying to locate the source of the poison.

Using all available cruisers as ambulances police traced cakes and cream puffs to 13 pastry cooks filled by a Danforth Avenue bakery.

In London, Ont., 25 people, guests at the Toronto festivities, were treated at hospital or at home for food poisoning. All were in satisfactory condition and recovering.

Nearly all the victims had been served cakes at christenings, weddings or church confirmations.

Police received the first emergency calls around 1 a.m. As they raced to the scene switchboards handled a fresh call every two minutes.

CHECK GUEST LISTS

Assisted by interpreters, police pored over guest lists and roused all possible poison sufferers who had not called emergency and shuttled them to hospitals.

Many of the patients were writhing in pain. Others were unconscious and one 3-year-old daughter's mother had to be fed intravenously at East General Hospital to restore lost body fluids.

Three or four children shared single beds. Priority was given into the halls. Hospitals found it difficult to keep records.

Most victims became ill about five hours after eating. Symptoms varied from lapses of unconsciousness to nausea, upset stomachs, vomiting and diarrhea.

VIOLENT, SHORT-LIVED

Doctors said the illness was violent, but short-lived, and dangerous only to the very young and very old.

They said many others may have suffered at home without being aware they had been poisoned.

Dr. A. R. J. Boyd, Toronto medical officer of health, said he could not recall a case of food poisoning of such magnitude in the city.

Inspectors collected samples for testing from the bakery.

Dr. Garth Edge, provincial health department expert on food poisonings said, the poison-ing is normally caused by ground-chilled meat and that it is rarely fatal and clears up within 36 hours. He said the infection usually begins with a food handler. The organism from a boil, cut or sore can spread quickly if cream-filled foods are not refrigerated.

Girl Finds Seventy Sticks Of Dynamite

LAVAL, Que. (CP)—A little girl picnicking with her parents Sunday stumbled upon a cache of 70 sticks of dynamite and 600 electric detonators near this village.

RCMP said the dynamite probably was left behind by construction workers, though there was no construction site in the immediate area.

Laval is about 15 miles northeast of Quebec City.

The dynamite was of a different brand than that planted in 18 Quebec City mailboxes last Monday.

Quebec Provincial Police turned it over to RCMP for storage, while an investigation is made. A spokesman said such finds are common and usually can be traced easily to construction.

Bitter Deadlock Between Premier Jagan and 40,000 Workers in British Guiana

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—For five weeks this British colony has brooded in a bitter deadlock between Premier Cheddi Jagan and 40,000 workers idle in a general strike.

As food ran short, many feared hunger-motivated rioting might break out. Others looked for a breakdown of Jagan's nerves.

Opposition political leaders hoped the strike would topple the harried premier's government.

Last week, negotiators reported a possible compromise agreement between union leaders and government on the disputed labor relations bill. But the strike could go on while they argued over pay and no-victimization terms for the return to work.

For five weeks sugar mills, bauxite mines, the docks, the railroad and airports were shut down in this steaming colony on the northeast coast of South America. Few walked or cycled in the streets where office buildings and shops were shuttered.

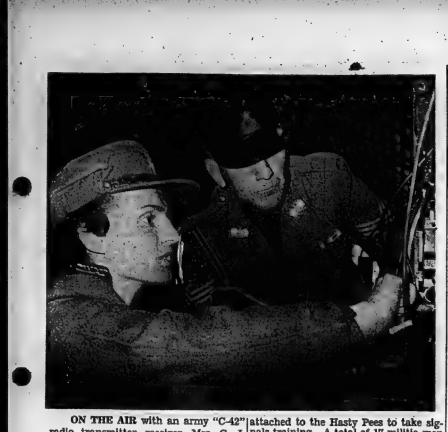
SUPPLIES RAN OUT

Sugar, in a country that exports 300,000 tons yearly; flour, bread, cigarettes, gasoline and gasoline wire scarce and running out. Jagan's government had failed to break the strike with emergency powers.

Strikers maintained a peaceful resistance, but extraordinary discipline where six persons were killed in rioting against the government in February, 1962. Their leaders in the Trade Union Congress urged them to refrain from violence that might deprive them of victory.

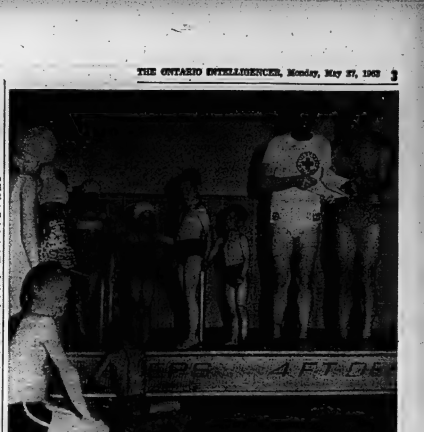
The TUC called the strike over a labor bill which it said would give Jagan's government power to determine which bargaining unions the employers should recognize. His foes suspected he sought control over labor in a move toward a dictatorship they said he would impose if British Guiana gained independence under his rule.

The TUC wanted Jagan either to withdraw the bill or accept safeguards for independent representation on the proposed labor relations board. Opposition politicians wanted Jagan to resign. The U.S., educated, 65-year-old dentist of East Indian origin refused to quit office. But last week he was reported bowing to labor's demands for amendments to his bill.



SEES OUSTER MOVE

Jagan had said the strike was meant to topple him. TUC President Richard Ishmael and opposition political leaders denied this.



Neither of the two main opposition leaders, Forbes Burnham and Peter D'Aguiar, wanted Jagan ousted by a British suspension of Guiana's constitution and direct rule.

Racial distrust between East Indians and Negroes complicated labor negotiations. Racial fears aroused in Guiana's elections have led to a regrouping of Negroes, dominant among the colony's 600,000 inhabitants, have backed Jagan. Negroes, who predominate in Georgetown, back Burnham, a 40-year-old socialist lawyer.

D'Aguiar, 50, a beer, rum and soft drink magnate of Portuguese ancestry, represents the anti-Communist business community.

Police Probing Possibility Wounding of Farm Boy May Be Connected to Slaying

STURGEON FALLS, Ont. (AP)—Police in this community 24 miles west of North Bay are investigating the possibility that the wounding of a farm boy Saturday may be connected with the unsolved brutal slaying and robbery April 18 of a 55-year-old district farmer.

Two bullets fired by a concealed gunman wounded 13-year-old Roy Haarsma in the leg and struck the heel of his shoe as he rounded up his father's cattle in a field four miles west of here.

The boy later told police two men had threatened him Thursday and told him to keep silent about their activities when he surprised them as they were burying a black metal box with a dial lock in a pond in the same field. One wore hip waders and rubber gloves as he dug in the pond.

A similar cash box had been mentioned by police investigating the slaying of well-to-do farmer Lionel Sabourin, 59 and the severe beating of his brother, Richard, 61, on their farm, three miles south of the Haarsma farm.

Police would not say whether the box was pried open or taken by the four to six men who surprised the brothers as they were milking cows, beat them with chains, shot them and left them chained in a stable.

PUMP OUT POND

Police Sunday started pumping out the pond in a search for the box or any other evidence, but by nightfall had found nothing. They had drained without success part of a creek running through the Sabourin farm after a neighbor found the two brothers April 19.

Roy told police he heard a whistle from a nearby bush as he was walking through the field late Saturday. A shot rang out and the bullet struck the sole of his shoe.

He said a second shot pierced the calf of his leg as he started running. He managed to reach his home and was taken to hospital.

Roy said that after he saw the man digging in the middle of the pond Thursday, a second man grabbed him and dragged him behind a wood pile. The man threatened him and told him to keep quiet about what he saw.

Police said the boy had been frightened and apparently did not mention the incident to anyone.

Police Use Tear Gas At Nakuru

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Police used tear gas at Nakuru, 100 miles from here, Sunday night for the fourth time in two days when fighting broke out between members of rival parties youth groups in the final stage of Kenya's first general election.

A crowd of 1,00 gathered to cheer the youths and stoned police when they ordered them to disperse. They broke up when tear gas was used. One young member of the Kenya African National Union was arrested.

After Saturday's heavy voting, which will decide which party will form a government to lead the colony to self-rule, only a trickle of voters passed through the polls Sunday.

They were electing 94 members of the House of Representatives, the lower house of the two-chamber National Assembly.

The result is expected to be in doubt until Tuesday, when returns reach here from the outlying districts where Kanu's main opponent, the Kenya African Democratic Union, draws much of its strength.

Leftist Killed By Motorcycle, Causing Riots

SALONIKA, Greece (AP)—A leftist deputy who campaigned for the release of prisoners jailed during the Communist civil war over a decade ago died Sunday from brain injuries suffered when a motorcycle hit him.

The deputy, Gregory Lambrakis, was struck down while leaving a peace rally Wednesday that touched off rioting. Outraged supporters called the incident political murder. They charged he was deliberately run down.

As word of the 45-year-old deputy's death spread, reinforced police units were called out to prepare for possible renewed riots.

Crowds gathered outside the hospital where Lambrakis lay near death Saturday and clashed with police. Rioting also broke out in Athens and Piraeus.

Body Found In River Had Fractured Skull

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP) — The body of Hubert Patterson, 63, of Quebec, was found Sunday in the swollen York River about 15 miles downstream from a highway bridge that collapsed last Wednesday. He had a fractured skull.

Six men in four cars were carried to their death before the collapsed centre section of the 120-foot bridge was barricaded by men in a fifth car who survived the plunge. Their vehicle floated to shore.

Cpl. Hector O'Neill of the provincial police said the bodies of Melrose Miller, 32, of York and Lionel Lovesque, 25, of Murdochville, should be found soon.

He directed about 125 men searching the shores of the river during the weekend.

Meanwhile, another section of the bridge, built about 10 years ago, showed signs of weakening.

Will Attempt To Form Govt.

ROME (Reuters)—Premier-Designate Aldo Moro, 46, today headed into talks with centre-left politicians aimed at forming Italy's 24th government since the fall of Mussolini's dictatorship 20 years ago.

Moro, political secretary of the dominant Christian Democratic Party, was asked Saturday by President Antonio Segni to form a government following week-long consultations.

Moro has listed loyalty to the Atlantic alliance and Western European solidarity as among his major goals.

Moro will attempt to hammer out a basis for a new Christian Democrat-led coalition government in talks with their recent coalition partners—the Social Democrats and the Republicans —as well as Pietro Nenni's left-wing Socialists.

Election Did Not Give Govt. Clear Mandate to Acquire Nuclear Arms Says Judge

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson, president of the Exchequer Court of Canada, said Sunday night the April 8 federal election did not give the new Liberal government a clear mandate to acquire nuclear warheads.

Mr. Justice Thorson made the statement to a meeting sponsored by the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament. He said he was speaking only as a private citizen, president of that organization.

. . . The issue of whether Canada should acquire nuclear weapons as an instrument of her national policy was not settled by the country's election," he told a public meeting at the First Unitarian Church.

Mr. Justice Thorson said he and thousands of other Canadians are so opposed to Canada acquiring nuclear weapons that he felt impelled to speak out publicly "regardless of the fact that I have political office . . .

He said he has been criticized for expressing his views on a controversial subject while president of the Exchequer Court.

CRITICISM REJECTED

"The criticism is ill-founded," said the judge, who was a cabinet minister in the government of the late prime minister Mackenzie King. "My views on the nuclear weapons issue could not possibly have any effect on my judgment in any of the matters that come before me as a judge."

Mr. Justice Thorson, who will reach the compulsory retirement age of 75 next spring, said the election campaign was fought in an atmosphere of confusion so far as the nuclear weapons issue was concerned.

He said Canadians have been led to believe nuclear warheads are essential for the defence of Canada.

"They have been misled," he said.

"If the Soviet Union were to make a surprise attack on the North American continent it would do so only by a full-out nuclear attack with intercontinental ballistic missiles or manned bombers carrying hydrogen bombs or nuclear-tipped missiles or both. Against such an attack there could not be any defence, even if the U.S. were with its enormous nuclear arsenal."

It was "utter nonsense" to say that it was necessary for the defence of Canada or helpful to the U.S. for Canada to obtain nuclear weapons.

Two Americans Removed From Everest By Copter

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—Two sunburned Americans who suffered frostbitten toes conquering Mt. Everest returned here today, grinning despite their pain and still able to handle life.

William Unsoeld, 26, of Corvallis, Ore., and Barry C. Bishop, 30, of Washington, D.C., embraced their wives after a record helicopter delivered them outside the U.S. missionary hospital in Katmandu.

They told of being carried on men's backs more than 20 miles down the perilous slopes from the base camp, in a race to get medical treatment and save their frozen toes.

"We are tired but otherwise fine," the red-bearded Unsoeld told reporters.

Both were full of praise for their teammates' help in climbing the 29,028-foot peak.

SCALE SUMMIT

Unsoeld and Bishop scaled the great peak Wednesday in a historic double assault with two others, Luther Jerstad, 26, of Eugene, Ore., and Thomas Hornbein, 32, of San Diego, Calif. Unsoeld and Hornbein were the first on record to climb to the top of Everest by way of the perilous west ridge.

The returning men disclosed today that Jerstad, who teamed up with Bishop in climbing Everest from the south side, also suffered frostbite on one toe.

There was no mention of Jerstad being flown out, however. The rest of the expedition plans to hike the gruelling 180 miles back to Katmandu.

Unsoeld said Jerstad's frostbite was not considered serious.

Descending from the summit, Unsoeld and Bishop were able to find their advance camp and had to spend the night in the open. 28,000 feet above sea level without tents or sleeping bags.

Robert and his team-mates flew into Toronto Friday morning for the contest. On Saturday, the Greers motored to Toronto to meet Robert for the first time since they motored to the west coast five years ago.

Six Boats Pass Through Lock

TRENTON — Six boats have passed through Lock No. 1 on the Trent since navigation opening, May 13. By this time last year, 11 boats had been locked through.

The yacht "Bonita" finally showed up this weekend. Bonita's owner is a Canadian who spends his winter in Florida and makes a point of taking the first boat through Lock 1 each year. But this year he was forced to detour because of repairs being carried out on the Erie Canal.

The lockmaster at Lock No. 1 says that indications are that house-boating will be the Trent's favorite form of water travel this year.

Italy's biggest newspaper, Corriere della Sera of Milan, says that although very weak, the Pope is clear of mind and serene. But the newspaper adds:

"He realizes the gravity of his condition. He told a person who visited him during these days: 'I know very well what I have. And I also know that I only have left three or four weeks of life.'"

One source said the Pope was taking only liquid nourishment.

Reports circulated that he had received last rites, but Vatican sources denied it. They said communion had been brought to him in bed, because he was not allowed to go to his private chapel to say mass.

Aviation's Hare and Tortoise

Aesop's hare and tortoise, of fabled antiquity, have been matched in the space age by the story of two aircraft designed and built, of all places, in Canada.

The Avro Arrow possessed all the attributes of the hare. It was sleek and glamorous, wreathed in reputation from the day when it first lifted off the ground. But, like Aesop's hare, it soon came a cropper. Not so the De-Havilland Caribou. Ungainly looking as the tortoise when seen on the ground, its reputation aloft has been built solidly on performance.

Named after an animal of the Arctic and originally designed for use in the rugged terrain of our own northland, the Caribou has proved itself adaptable in distant lands. When India was facing the task of supplying an outpost army amidst the foothills of the mighty Himalayas, it was the Caribou which proved best suited to the task. A week ago De Havilland sold 16 Caribou to the United States Army. This week it was announced that the Royal Australian Air Force will purchase 18 of the machines. And, ironically enough, they will be built in a portion of the plant which once gave birth to the Arrow, and which was later sold to De Havilland.

Aircraft manufacturers in Canada have been given a lesson which, in various modified forms, probably applies to other types of industry in countries of limited size and wealth.

There is no conclusive proof that the Arrow was not the best aircraft of its type in the world when it was scrapped. But it was much too complicated and too expensive a machine for Canada to build exclusively for its own use, regardless of its merits. And it had no chance of acceptance in the only market which could have provided the mass demand which would have reduced its production costs to an acceptable figure. Not only on grounds of prestige but also for reasons of domestic politics, the U.S. could not select a Canadian-built plane for a stellar role in its air force.

The Caribou, on the other hand, is a plane of many uses, designed for a type of work of which there is little within the bounds of the U.S. but much in less highly developed lands. Without being unduly optimistic, it can be hoped that the demand for this Canadian plane has not yet reached a peak, that it will continue for years and that the reputation which it will build for De Havilland will aid this company in marketing its successor, when time and developments make the Caribou obsolete.

History Repeating Itself

Richard P. Lister, a British author who has just completed a tour of China, is writing a series of articles for the Associated Press, the U.S. cooperative agency.

Almost anything written about Red China is "news" for the AP. As the result of a pro-censical regulation which dates back to the days of John Foster Dulles, U.S. newspapers and news services have had no representatives in China. Canadians have been better served. Readers of The Ontario Intelligencer have probably read many revealing articles on China supplied by The Canadian Press, the Canadian equivalent of Associated Press, through its affiliation with Reuters, the noted British news agency. These articles were written by Clare McDermott, a Canadian.

Nevertheless, Mr. Lister's articles are interesting, for no man can hope to see and report everything in such a vast land as China, even in comparatively uneventful years. The years since Mao Tse-tung seized control of that sprawling land have been among the most eventful in its long and varied history.

Not everything that Mr. Lister reports, however, is new. In one of his articles he makes much of a tendency he noted amongst the Chinese to dwell on future hopes, rather than present realities. They are enthused about what will be accomplished, if their plans go aright, with what has already been achieved.

The striking thing about this situation is not that it is unique but that it so closely matches the reaction of the Russians during the earlier years of their revolution.

We have seen no satisfactory explanation as to what particular brand of magic the communists possess that they can induce whole nations to accept present hardships, not merely with fortitude but actually with enthusiasm, in order that they may increase the chances of a brighter, more prosperous tomorrow.

It is a quality which all too often we in the west find woefully lacking amongst our citizens. It would be interesting to learn with some degree of certainty whether it is the product of a new creed, or old despairs or inherent in the personalities of the peoples of the fast growing communist giants.

Potholes — Cause and Cure

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

According to the Canadian Good Roads Association, the only effective cure for potholes is a mixture of engineering and money.

The association's studies indicates there are two basic potholes — deep-seated frost action in the subgrade (the soil under the pavement), and "underdesigned" pavements that (using not strong enough for the traffic they carry).

If the road is reasonably good the procedure the association recommends is to square up the edges of the hole, clean out any "dirty" base course or subgrade material as required, and patch with paving material compacted. Just dumping asphalt mix over the hole and rolling it in produces a "skin patch" which the CGRA says is only temporary.

If the road is substandard for the traffic, the only effective cure — is to rebuild it completely to higher standards. If that is out of the question financially, the CGRA says, it will use skin patches, the association says, because the road will only break up again next spring anyway.

Engineers say no permanent repair can be done in Canada before the soil has dried out and warmed up, usually about mid-June. The system now being used on highways and streets in the Greater Saint John district, of making temporary patches with cold asphalt mix, or, in extreme cases, of dumping gravel over bad sections and grading it as it becomes bumpy again, is said to be the only known way to keep the highways passable while awaiting warmer, drier weather.

Heaving from frost action occurs everywhere in Canada. When it is uniform, there is no great problem. Uneven heaving that breaks the surface is caused by chalky subsoil and usually is localized. Such areas must be dug out and subgraded and moved and replaced with proper clay soil to effect permanent cure.

It is noticable in New Brunswick that even the resurfacing sections of road constructed to Trans-Canada Highway standards have come through this tough winter well. It is also obvious that we can't afford to build every road to this standard, even in the name of long-range economy. We just don't have that kind of money.

What we'll have to do (quite unlikely to be done) in a decade or age we can out of the dollars we have available for streets and highways and the roads that new construction is engineered to be adequate for the job it must do.

The worst potholes at least indicate to us where traffic has increased beyond the capacity of the road.

Meanwhile, there should be no let-up in the program of temporary patching in this area. It doesn't last — but at least it helps prevent serious car damage and it may also save lives.

Motivation Guiding Light In Education

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In his recent attack on the American education system (with which, I hasten to agree), Robert Hutchins remarked the familiar fact that European students of the same age and grade are far more advanced academically than their American counterparts.

This is certainly true, much of the embarrassment of those of us who have had only a public high school or college students, and have compared them to our own graduate products.

Yet I wonder if a genuine superiority exists in the European system of education — or if it is simply the basic attitude of the students themselves that makes the decisive difference.

In Europe, being a student is a privilege. School is a serious matter, since without proper schooling, the young person cannot ride up the social and economic ladder. It is the one feasible method of breaking out of the more or less rigid caste system that still obtains in most European societies.

Certainly, the children there are no brighter; and I doubt that the teachers are much more profound than here. The chief difference is one of motivation: they are deeply motivated by certain basic social considerations that do not seem to carry as much weight in our country.

School in America is considered largely a bore, a necessary evil, a thing to get over with until tests are passed and grades are given and diplomas are awarded — and "real life" then begins.

The waste that is so appalling evident in other aspects of our national life — waste of food, waste of resources, waste of products through planned obsolescence" — is as shockingly obvious in our school systems.

Much high school work repeats what should have already been learned in the upper primary grades, and wasn't. Much college work repeats what should have been learned in the high school, and wasn't. If the academic "water" were squeezed out of our educational system, the eight years of high school and college could easily be compressed into six.

Moreover, the boys who are now being graduated from colleges are being called up for military service, which adds perhaps another three years to their "preparation" for adulthood. It is little wonder that they marry prematurely, when the vista ahead seems so dark, so dull, so endless, and so pointless.

Our intellectual and emotional approach to schooling in America is schizophrenic: on the one hand, we believe ardently in the importance of a "good education"; on the other hand, we are impatient and contemptuous toward the works of the mind. Until we resolve this split in our national personality, our schools will continue to be a parody.

Watermelons Still Safe

San Mateo (Calif.) Times

The most recent discovery in the frightening world of automation is a photoelectric sorter, capable of handling 3,500 cherries per minute or almost a ton an hour.

It has an electric eye that scans each cherry, held in a suction cup, against a special background. If a cherry has a bruise or other mark, a jet of air kicks it out of the cup into the discard.

Cherries are not particularly interest those, if any, who do not like cherries. But take watermelons, then. Will the day when a suction cup can hold one and when a jet of air can kick it out of the cup into the discard.

Yes, watermelons are still safe, even though cherries have been taking a beating ever since George Washington demolished one of their residences.

Gardening Dangerous

Wall Street Journal

Those of us who view spring gardening with a slightly jaundiced eye have been handed a powerful argument by the American Medical Association.

Gardening, says the AMA, can be downright dangerous. It recommends caution when for anyone who takes up a trowel, for, it warns darkly, "germs linger in the soil." Moreover, insect and weed sprays can be hazardous and power tools "slice off an occasional toe or finger." The AMA's caution winds up with a chilling note about the dangers from bees, wasps, and spiders.

All that ought to be sufficient excuse. Only the AMA doesn't tell how to avoid the species sometimes known as snapping housewife.

Asks Sparing Use of Anthem

Cape Breton Post

A 35-year-old man who pleaded guilty to stealing a pair of shoe polish, a package of safety pins and a sweater from a store in Auckland, New Zealand, had a plausible explanation although not a valid excuse for his theft. He explained that he stole these articles because he wanted to make himself presentable in court where he was to appear to answer to charges on another complaint.

His mistake was in being too particular about his appearance. Surely a man need not steal shoe polish so long as he has enough safety pins to hold his clothes together. No one can justly accused of being too fussy if he goes to a little trouble to appear in clean clothes and tidy in court. In comparison with this necessity a shoe shine is frivolous.

Tranquilizers Often Aid Mental Illness Treatment

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has been in a mental hospital four times in the last seven years. He has been home now for 13 months and is taking a 100-mg. tablet of thorazine three times a day.

When I suggest that hse see a doctor about whether he needs to continue the medication, he says he will just stop taking it himself. I am afraid for him to do this because it might result in a recurrence of his illness. He is listless and sleeps much of the time. — Mrs. J. M.

That and other tranquilizers are much used — and of much use — in treating the every-day stresses for people with emotional problems. Sometimes these drugs are the difference between a patient going home or having to stay in the hospital.

I can think of a case or two within my personal experience of patients who refused to take medication, of this or any other type, with disastrous results.

Most, however, realize the importance of the extra help afforded by the medication. This is a major factor in recent advances in mental health. We are getting patients home to stay a sooner, and keeping them well for longer and longer periods.

I would, however, be very much opposed to your husband stopping the medication, or changing the dosage, on his own without having instructions from a doctor, and preferably from a psychiatrist.

Isn't it possible for him to go back to the hospital to see the doctors there, for a visit of two months? Not to stay, not even overnight, but just a call in the office. You might write to the hospital and ask whether a visit would be advisable in this case, or there is a clinic or a psychiatrist closer to your home.

Your husband's listlessness is not surprising since the tranquilizers and in some cases the underlying emotional problems may both contribute to this. It is possible that a different dosage might be more helpful. Regulation of the amount of any drug is important.

The patient himself rarely is a good judge of the correct amount. What we can tell the doctor about how he feels is a very useful guide but it isn't the whole story.

With mental illness even more than with most physical illnesses, periodic examinations are the best insurance against a relapse.

Dear Dr. Molner: Twice after tooth extractions dentists have told me to "rinse sherbet", and have given me prescriptions to coagulate the blood. It is not so serious that I might bleed to death from a scratch, but I notice that I have more trouble than most people stopping the blood. What can be done about this? What about diet? — O. H.

A rather detailed blood analysis (more than just a simple blood count) would be necessary to see whether you have a defect in the natural clotting mechanism. If so, special treatment may be indicated.

A full and well-balanced diet should include ample protein, milk (for the calcium content) and adequate Vitamin C.

Dear Dr. Molner: Years ago I had ringworm at the hairline of my forehead. This spot has been thinner ever since. I have been tinting my hair and lately it seems as if the spot is thinning even more. Could it be the tint? — Mrs. F. M.

The original trouble could cause progressive thinning. The tint could be causing the hair to break, but this is not thinning in the sense of baldness. Try going without the tint for a while to see what results.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble is and what relieving sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover handling.

Today in History

May 27, 1963 . . .

The federal government abolished the Bank of Canada 25 years ago today — in 1938 — only three years after the bank had opened its doors for business. The central bank opened in March, 1935, acted as the government's "banker" and managed the public debt. The bank also took over the government - note issue and the gold held against it. The Bank of Canada became the sole issuer of paper currency in Canada and the chartered banks withdrew their own bank notes over a 15-year period. In addition to issuing and distributing paper currency, the bank distributes coinage struck by the Royal Canadian Mint.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

After an absence of twenty years, an old schoolmate of mine paid me a visit from the big city, his native place. He has been all that time a civil servant in external affairs and, quite content to make occasional excursions from his village to the nearest city, to all the marvels of the great cities, the pictures he saw in newspaper and magazine were unprepared. After I had driven him around the city, and then parked while we walked around once familiar city blocks, he suddenly halted on a street corner and started to laugh.

"You poor souls!" he said. "Don't you see what your architects have done? Don't you see the joke that has been played on you? These buildings are cell blocks! You're in prison! Just look at these cell square institutions around us. See how they've even got the look of bars up and down, and across. Cell blocks. Not even pretty cell blocks. You city people have been put in the clink, and don't know it!"

He has gone home to his village, where the tallest building is the town hall, three stories, the top storey seldom used. It is of a free-style school of architecture, because of the habitation of footloose men.

Whither Gophers?

The gopher, which used to outnumber the Saskatchewan-ians 1,000 to one, has all but disappeared. He can't really be blamed for leaving Saskatchewan. But even if there was a mass exodus, it seems that any should have turned up somewhere else.

Too Honest For Our Good

Ottawa Journal

Shirley Temple never changes in those wonderful movies of hers that they still show on television. The curls, the dimples, the dancing, the smiling and the crying are just the same.

So why must Shirley be so relentlessly honest? The other day she cheerfully admitted that she is 35. She was born on her age honestly on every birthday since she was 13. As the Montgomery Advertiser remarked: "Shirley Temple could contribute significantly to the morale of a large portion of the country if she would change her name, leave the country and never be heard from again."

If Shirley is middle-aged, what does that make all those who remember her as a child star? The mothers who relive their childhood watching old Shirley Temple movies now have daughters the same age Shirley was when she was riding river boats down the Mississippi. The Montgomery paper is right. On her 40th birthday, "an entire generation will drop dead from premature senility." Run away, Shirley.

WINS AWARD

NEW YORK (AP)—The Buffalo (N.Y.) Evening News won the Bell Award of the National Association for Mental Health today for year-round editorial support of the fight against mental illness.

When They Grow Too Old To Scheme . . .

LONDON (Reuters) — Who will rule the leaders of China, Russia, France, West Germany and India is another decade?

All five countries are ruled by men who were born in the Victorian era. Their ages reach the amazing total of 371 years.

The senior leader by a good 14 years is West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer, 87, who has promised to retire this autumn.

Next in seniority is India's Prime Minister Nehru, 73, followed by French President de Gaulle, 72, and China's Mao Tse-tung, who is 70 this year.

The "junior" at 68, quietest is Soviet Premier Khrushchev, 69, who said recently he could not continue "forever" as premier and Communist party chief.

MAC AND JACK IN

But Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan, who is also 69, has made it clear that he will continue in his post if his Conservative party wins the next general election.

Likewise, President Kennedy, the 43-year-old youngster of the major powers, intends to stand for a second term next year.

Until Khrushchev, Red Vozlov was reported ill recently, he was considered Khrushchev's successor. There may be some hints about a new heir-apparent at the next party committee meeting at the end of May.

Prominent party men over the age of 63, such as Anastas Mikoyan, 67, former president Nikolai Shvernik, 76, and Alexei Kusunen, 71, are ruled out by Western observers.

This leaves President Leonid Brezhnev, 56, in a strong contending position for party chief. For the premiership, First Deputy Premier Alexei Kosygin is a strong candidate but the odds appear against him for the party leadership.

MAO HEALTHY

In China the heir-apparent appears to be Liu Shao-chi, head of state since 1959. But Mao, chairman of the Communist party, is reported in good health.

Liu, a tall, slender man with streaks of grey in his dark hair, says he's 65, the same age as President Chou En-lai.

A longshot contender is Foreign Minister Chen Yi, 61.

In West Germany the ruling Christian Democrats have unanimously elected 65-year-old Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard to succeed Adenauer.

More baffling is who will succeed Gen. Charles Pollifoot observers in Paris say the likeliest candidate is former premier Georges Pompidou, 51, who recently regained a seat in the National Assembly.

In West Berlin, political observers regard Home Minister Lal Heinrich Lubke as the most likely successor to Nehru.

Shastri, only about five feet ta"l, is 59. He is a devoted and trusted lieutenant of the premier with a special reputation as first-rate political peace-maker.

DEATH DESEGREGATES

BELLE GLADE, Fla. (AP)—A memorial service for 27 Negro farm laborers who died in a bus crash May 18 was attended Sunday by 700 Negro and white citizens of this southern Florida farm community. The service was held in the National Guard armory.

League Urged To File Protests Against Mag

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — The Catholic Women's League of Canada Sunday urged its members to file written protests to Macleans Magazine over a 2,6cent article on sex and virginity.

The article by Pierre Berton was described as distasteful and objectionable by the organization at its convention here.

Bishop F. P. Carroll of Calgary asked CWL members to send personal protests to the magazine and also ask advertisers to boycott the publication.

CWL spokesmen said they were not aiming at censorship of literature but wanted to hit publishers and distributors of what they consider objectionable material.

Such magazines and books were described as "seemingly anti - Christian" and depicted "sin as a virtue."

"Instead of the Christian concept of love and marriage," a convention spokesman said, "the magazines advocate a pagan, libertine life."

Suslov Figure

At one time Suslov was regarded as a protege of Malenkov. Certainly he was a powerful figure when Malenkov served as Stalin's right-hand man.

The son of a peasant in southern Russia, he joined the communist party in 1921 at the age of 19.

After Stalin's death Suslov appeared to have withdrawn into a behind-the-scenes role, steering clear of the struggle for power at the top of the Kremlin hierarchy.

He moved into the ruling presidium in the wake of Malenkov's decline in 1957 and received top positions. Two years later he backed Khrushchev in the fight to oust his former allies, now known as the "anti-party group."

Despite Suslov's record of support for Khrushchev, he often is mentioned in speculation about a "hard" group in the presidium which is unhappy about many of the premier's policies.

seeks an injunction wiping out the entire segregation system in Birmingham schools. Both are class actions, which means they seek relief on behalf of all Negroes.

Negro leaders planned a meeting during the day to outwardly calm Birmingham.

About 500 riot - trained Federal soldiers have been pulled out of a Montgomery base, 90 miles south of Birmingham, but 2,500 federal troops remain at Anniston, 60 miles east.

Some troops were sent to Alabama by President Kennedy for possible use in Birmingham after May 12 bombings and riots.

RALLY FOR RIGHTS

Developments elsewhere:

1. An estimated 35,000 persons packed Wrigley Field in Los Angeles for a three-hour rally for civil rights. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., southern integration leader, shared the stage with several Hollywood stars. King urged that President Kennedy personally escort the two Negro students to the white university units.

2. Ku Klux Klan Wizard Robert Shelton of Tuscaloosa, Ala., said at Atlanta rally of the robed order that the KKK will join Governor Wallace in standing in the door to prevent integration of the university.

3. Louisiana's legislature gave approval in a vote of censure for what it called a federal threat of "government by bayonet" in Alabama.

4. A parade of about 12,000 persons, most of them Negroes, was staged Sunday along San Francisco's Market Street in a demonstration demanding an end to Birmingham's troubles, and calling for an end to racial bias in the California city.

Racial unrest continued to simmer across the U.S. Weekend flareups included rioting by white persons and Negroes in a Boston housing development and a melee in Manhattan after neo-Nazis clashed with a Jewish war veteran.

Iron Economy

Handouts and Layoffs Loom Large For 13,000 on Newfie Mine Island

BELL ISLAND, Nfld. (CP)—Thirteen thousand people live on this rocky, 13-square-mile island in Conception Bay. Their livelihood depends on iron ore.

When Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation's Wabana mines are busy there's little unemployment. But when the demand for iron slackens the whole economy of Bell Island suffers.

Iron is its only industry and from the end of the Second World War until 1959 it was in a healthy state. Then came the layoffs. Where once the mines employed 2,250 workers there now are 1,000.

What has happened to the others? For most there was unemployment insurance — until the benefits ran out. After that, there is provincial relief, in goods, not money.

Some left the island for jobs elsewhere. Others left even though they didn't have jobs waiting for them. Some would like to leave but can't afford the transportation.

The week of May 12 was important for about 400 men. They were told their mines would be closed permanently.

Glamorous Accessory

By ALICE ALDEN

No matter what the season, what the current fashion, the little black dress is always with us.

So often it is the easiest answer to the eternal what-to-wear problem. And when it is worn, it does supply a splendid background for fine jewelry, real or the marvellous costume pieces that have the look of the real thing.

Trifari does this exquisite pin in textured gold with a lavish use of pearls and pin-pricked rhinestones, a pin that would grace any dress.

Textured gold button earrings go nicely with the pin.

Nurses Will Not Be Forced To Change

WINNIPEG (CP)—A group of nurses at the Winnipeg Children's Hospital went on duty in dresses of their choosing rather than white uniforms.

It was an experiment to test child reaction to the idea that nurses in pretty colored dresses seem easier to approach.

The result: A decision to aim at getting all the 50 or so nurses dealing with children into pastel colors within the next few months.

Already pink, blue, green and gold material has been bought and the nurses will be urged to make dresses with it or to have them made. Material for the first dresses is provided free.

Nursing Director Patricia Scorer said nurses will not be forced to change.

During the experiment the nurses on a 30-bed ward for convalescent and disturbed children showed up in pale tinted and colored garments.

"The children asked the nurses if they were having a party," Miss Scorer said. Small children were "less frightened" of the nurses.

Some of the nurses have misgivings about it, Miss Scorer said. A nurse's uniform was a symbol of achievement, and colored dresses were quite a change.

Women Ready To Take off In Air Race

WELLAND (CP)—A 35-year-old grandmother and a 16-year-old girl too young to get a driver's licence are among 45 housewives and professional women who take off Tuesday on the first leg of the 1,420-mile all women's international air race.

Mrs. Thelma Bishop of La Jolla, Calif., is the oldest entrant and Roberta Netzley of Xenia, Ohio, the youngest.

Roberta, who will fly as a co-pilot, can't drive a car and will have to wait until her 17th birthday in October to get a licence. She holds a student pilot certificate.

With two exceptions, all the women taking part in the race from this Niagara Peninsula city to Hollywood, Fla., are Americans.

Dorothy Rungeling, business manager of the Welland Flying Club and her co-pilot, Mrs. Hetti Hutchinson, a Welland housewife, are the only Canadians participating in the race for a first prize of $1,000.

Mrs. Rungeling, the first Canadian woman to obtain an airline transport pilot licence and twice winner of the Canadian Governor's Cup air race, will be flying her own Beech Bonanza. She has logged 2,500 hours in 15 years of flying.

Portrait of Devon (by Legg-Gordon) Devon's history from ancient to present times is recorded. The author says "the scope has been confined to Devonshire and to matters of particular Devon interest . . . It is in distinction that so much of Devonshire life—those special characteristics which all who know this land of deep dark valleys, rich red earth and sunny waters, are so anxious to preserve."

IODE Raised, Spent More Than $437,600

By PATRICIA RUSAK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP)—The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire raised and spent more than $437,600 on welfare services at home and abroad last year.

In a report prepared for delivery to the order's national annual meeting here, Mrs. W. T. Atkins of Toronto said about 30 per cent of the money was spent overseas.

Mrs. Atkins, national secretary for home and abroad services, said the order received special notes of thanks from Uganda, Korea and Hong Kong for nursery bags sent for use in hospitals where young patients were often admitted "clad only in their skin", Mrs. Atkins reported.

In addition, more than $204,800 worth of blankets, quilts, woollen shawls and clothing were sent to many countries including Great Britain, which experienced one of its coldest winters on record.

BUY FOOD PARCELS

In Canada, the IODE spent more than $8,250 on food parcels, which often included cod liver oil and vitamins for many Canadian veterans and their dependents.

Locally, chapters undertook projects to assist the blind, mentally-ill or retarded, senior citizens and cerebral palsy patients.

Mrs. Atkins' report showed more than $42,000 was spent on these services and on equipment for hospitals and clinics.

Games, toys and books were sent to the far north, and 45,000 pocket books were distributed in hospitals, jails, seamen's institutions and in ships in port.

"To date more than 100,000 pocket editions have been sent to our troops in Germany", Mrs. Atkins said.

LACK LEADERSHIP

A report prepared by National Civil Defence Secretary Mrs. John B. Rooney of Ottawa said there is a lack of leadership in civil defence throughout Canada.

"There is a growing disenchantment across the country with the lethargy being given at the federal and provincial levels," the report said.

Mrs. Rooney found that in Ontario, "while every effort was made to interest members through films, pamphlets and speakers, a lack of specified policy for the order to follow was hampering programs".

The organization was told Saturday that the Commonwealth has an underlying stability which will prevent its disintegration.

"Britain may have a smaller empire but the new Commonwealth grows larger and stronger with the years," said National President Mrs. Peter E. Robinson.

Mrs. Robinson was speaking at the annual meeting of the national chapter.

She said it is the duty of every member devoted to patriotism and service to convince other of the Commonwealth's destiny.

The president told 400 national and provincial IODE officials attending that the need for leadership "is much greater today than at any other time in the world's history.

"But it must be leadership understanding, not leadership with domination and self-aggrandizement," she said.

Mrs. Robinson said IODE ch ptrs have given vigorous leadership especially in the field of education—one of the order's major projects, often resulting in government action.

Chicken En Casserole

by Mary Moore

For Advance Preparation Or/And Freezing

In the back of my mind I have been harboring a casserole idea which has a triple purpose: 1) to feed 8 people in gourmet style 2) to prepare in advance and freeze if desired and 3) to extend a boiling chicken to the limit.

This last bit — extending the boiling chicken to its limit — is a French virtue. All but the bare bones are utilized: skin, broth, fat, giblets and meat. It may be baked in one large casserole, but I made mine in two of those pyroceram dishes that withstand extremes of cold and heat. I could freeze the chicken mixture in them and transfer it directly to the oven to bake.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Salisbury Steak; Rich Brown Gravy; Delicate Mashed Turnip; Green Beans; Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers; Hot Biscuit Crust Rhubarb Pie; Coffee.

CHICKEN EN CASSEROLE:
(Excellent for advance preparation, excellent for freezing).

First Step: 3½ to 4-lb. boiling chicken, ½ cup celery leaves (optional), 1 onion, 1 bay leaf, 1 teaspoon salt, water.

Custard: 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups rich chicken broth (see below), 2 eggs beaten.

Dressing: 1 cup ground chicken skin (about see below), 4 slices white bread, cruits on, cubed, 2 slices bacon, sauteed, and crumbled or chopped giblets chopped or cut up, 1 cup cooked rice, 1 teaspoon chopped onion or onion flakes, ½ cup chopped celery and leaves (1 stalk), ½ teaspoon tarragon (or thyme or rosemary or basil), ½ teaspoon salt, 2 beaten eggs, ½ cup broth (see below).

Topping: Buttered Croutons — 3 slices white bread cut into ¼" cubes tossed in 1 tablespoon chicken fat.

Put chicken in water to cover with the celery, onion, bay leaf and salt until it will fall from bones. Strain. Put broth back on to boil to reduce it. (You need 2½ cups.) Skim off and reserve surface fat. Strip meat from bones. There should be about 2 cups big chunks or slices. Strip skin from meat. (Grind skin finely for dressing — see below. You need about 1 cup but this amount is not important.)

Combine all dressing ingredients well and spread in bottom of 1 very large or 2 medium casseroles. Spread chicken evenly over dressing.

Combine custard ingredients. Pour over chicken. Cover top or tops uniformly with prepared croutons. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes or cool and freezer-wrap and freeze. If frozen when put in oven increase time to 1¼ hours.

This seems and is involved but is worth the time and patience, for it is a one-dish meal with which you need only to serve a big salad to complete the main course. Highly recommended. Freezer-owners please clip.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

BRAZILIANS DISPLAY COURTESY AND CONCERN

SAO PAULO, Brazil: Taxi drivers in this city practice a unique form of courtesy.

Proud of their metropolis, drivers often stop their cars to let passengers enjoy a particularly lovely view or to point out a place of interest.

One offered us his newspaper to read on a long jaunt (it was in Portuguese, so it gave us a chance to learn a few more words), and even insisted we share one of a stack of candy bars he obviously kept handy to refresh tourists.

This is only one instance of the type of thought and concern I say we've encountered during our stay in Sao Paulo. The people seem genuinely interested in foreign travellers and often go out of their way to be helpful.

In the shops I've visited, language is no barrier to commerce. It usually seems to make on's wants known. Shop. keepers and polish write down amounts in cruzeiros, or a shopper can understand exactly what each figure means. When it comes to figures, the written word is easier to understand here than the spoken.

At the hotel we've been staying at, the maids, elevator operators, floor stewards, etc., have been shyly experimenting with English out of deferences to the many American visitors. Now it's more usual than not to hear them say "Good morning," "thank you," and other polite phrases in English instead of their native Portuguese. Their intended good will and consideration is very obvious.

Some incidents are the most unexpected concern. At least, that's been my experience. After the long plane flight from New York, I felt slightly under the weather the day after landing. The maid noticed it and obviously reported my middling ill-health to the housekeeper, who showed up minutes later with a bottle of pills supposed to cure anything.

Though the grapevine, a misnomer—the hotel got the word that a woman was dying in Room 2109, so he came dashing up with a home remedy. All day long, concerned guests and personnel beat a path to my door with gobs of cera. Everytime I opened my mouth to offer a polite refusal, a fresh pill, powder or potion was popped in.

I was up and sight-seeing through squinty eyes the next day, but I'm sure more because of will power than pill power. But, after commenting on manners so long, I could think of no more appropriate subject than to be almost killed with kindness in Brazil.

Missionary Says Treatment Good

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Harold King, a British missionary who arrived here today after 4½ years' imprisonment in Communist China on subversion charges said his experience had not harmed him.

The Jehovah's Witness missionary told reporters he felt "fine, spiritually and mentally and had even gained weight.

"If people say I was given brain or a cruel treatment, that's a lie," King said.

King said he planned to leave Hong Kong for London in a few days to see his mother and his brothers and sisters.

He and another Jehovah's Witness, Stanley Ernest Jones, were arrested in Shanghai and tried on Aug. 8, 1960, on subversion charges.

The Shanghai People's Court sentenced him to five years' imprisonment and Jones to seven years. Chinese authorities last week announced a remission of King's sentence for "good behavior."

Asked today what this meant, the missionary said: "I did not violate prison regulations. I was a docile prisoner."

King, with greying hair and dressed in an open-necked shirt and slacks, spoke to reporters outside the Kowloon headquarters of the Peace Tower and Bible Tract Society of Pennsylvania.

He said nothing about Jones, the only known British subject in prison in China.

At the time of their arrest in Shanghai newspaper reports said that they preached from house to house and worked with Chinese to distribute "reaction books published by United States imperialists."

a tie vote.

While the school board was having its troubles Saturday night the town council was meeting simultaneously to find a solution to the post trouble-closing of the high school.

It decided to put the issue to the taxpayers by holding a plebiscite June 12. In effect it will ask residents if they favor joining Napanee District Secondary School.

The supporters of the Deseronto shut-down claim it would be more profitable to both taxpayers and pupils to close down their six-room high school, and send its 75 students to Napanee. Besides cutting costs, they say, the Napanee school offers technical courses, which the local high school does not. At the moment about 30 Deseronto students are already registered at schools either in Napanee or Belleville.

Your Car

Faulty Shocks Can Cause Many Woes

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

This excerpt from a letter recently received should interest every motorist:

"Two years ago, I was hospitalized for nine weeks due to a bad accident when I lost control of my car after hitting a bump. I know my front shock absorbers were bad and blame this for my smash-up. I suggest you inform your readers of the dangers posed by bad shocks and perhaps save someone the grief I experienced. Failing shocks cause much more than riding discomfort. They encourage (1) tilting or swaying on turns; (2) high speed shimmy (3) hard steering; (4) poor maneuverability; (5) misaligned wheels; (6) rapid tire wear; (7) bottoming on rough roads; (8) dipping and swerving when braking hard; (9) damaged springs."

The writer deserves thanks for some excellent advice. Undoubtedly, defective shocks are a handicap and a safety threat — especially in fast moving traffic.

F. W. asks: "Speaking of expensive imports, how many $19,000 models can dealers hope to sell?"

Apparently, enough to make a profit. Incidentally, there are at least a half-dozen higher-priced cars — up to $31,000, in fact — and they do sell them.

From O.S.: "If one wants air conditioning in a new car, what's the usual cost? Are many of today's cars air conditioned?"

From $300 to $650 additional, depending on the car, of course. Approximately 15 per cent of all cars sold last year had air conditioning.

M.L. writes: "With all the cars on the road today, shouldn't there be a lot more tires sold for replacement than those sold as original equipment on new models?"

There should, and there are. Last year, for example, nearly 80 million replacements were bought, whereas original equipment tires numbered only about 58 million.

R.N. asks: "Instead of continuing to wage arguments on the virtues of synthetic and natural rubber, why don't tire people give the motorists a break by combining the best features of each?"

They're trying this. Some tires now feature synthetic threads and sidewalls of natural rubber.

Night Out With the Boys

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — When we were first married my husband used to stay out with the boys a lot. I would get furious but wouldn't say too much, as he'd just laugh or tell me I should have married someone else. This used to hurt me as I loved him very much. He was very offhand with me and I even had to walk home by myself from a dance. Even after the baby was born I couldn't seem to lose my state of depression.

Now he goes out at least once a week with the boys. He doesn't phone or anything. I wait supper for a while and then put it away. I still don't say anything because he just looks at me as if to say I'm crazy. I can't help wondering if our marriage was a booboo.

Perhaps I should have listened to my mother. She warned me not to get married to him, as our backgrounds were quite different. Also, I take my religion seriously and he doesn't believe in religion. Otherwise he's a good husband and father. Occasionally he tells me he still loves me, but I wonder.

I'm to the point where I can't think anything of myself. I'm just no good at anything or for anybody. I think he should have some time out but not that much. Do I need counselling or just what is wrong? — MARRIED SIX YEARS.

DEAR MARRIED — Perhaps the key is the difference in backgrounds. Perhaps you have little in common. So then you get ill and depressed and he finds you even poorer company. It's a boomerang, because neglect is demoralizing, and you can't even try any more.

To the classic question "Can this marriage be saved?", my educated guess is yes. But it'll need patience and understanding to do it, and the help of a trained counsellor. You'll find one at the Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira Street, Belleville. Which counsels on family problems as well as when children are involved.

DEAR DORIS — I am attending a wedding in another city, and I want to do what is correct. Shall I wear a hat to a trousseau tea? I am pouring and assisting the hostess. — WEDDING GUEST.

DEAR GUEST — For an afternoon tea the pourer wears her prettiest bonnet — unless she is staying with her hostess as a house guest. If it's an evening tea, it's a no-hat affair, and dresses may be more dressed-up.

DEAR DORIS — I am 17 and most people think that I am 14. Boys 13 to 15 ask me out and I don't know what to say because they are very nice kids. There is this one boy, 16 or 15, and I like him quite a lot, and he walked me home from a party.

Is it all right to date a boy younger than myself? He's in the same grade as I am, and we have the same interests. — SMALL FOR MY AGE.

DEAR SMALL — Same grade, same interests? Ask your mother what she thinks. Three years is a big difference, but we can't always go by chronological age.

Canada's Labor College Opens Doors on June 3, First in North America

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's Labor College, a dream of the trade union movement for more than 75 years, opens its doors June 3.

The first college of its kind in North America, it will offer carefully selected students a chance to try to get some formal education they otherwise might never receive.

Its aim is to make the men from whom future labor leaders will be picked more aware of the complexities of the society they live and work in.

Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress which helped get the college established, says it will enable future union representatives to act with knowledge and efficiency in the many fields connected with labor's work.

About 90 students, picked from all provinces, are expected to attend the college's first term, lasting seven weeks.

They will be given crash programs in history, economics, political science, sociology and labor law. The work, including required reading and discussions groups, will take up 12 to 14 hours a day.

PARTY IN FRENCH

One aspect union officials are concerned that the course will be bicultural. Classes will be conducted in French for about one-third of the total group.

The first group of students was selected on the basis of past union work and an assessment by the college of who might profit most in the course.

Several applicants had to be turned down to keep the group to a manageable size and they will get first consideration in selecting future groups.

The students in the first group range from a 22-year-old competitive newspaper to the field to a 52-year-old veteran of 24 years' union work. Most are married and are local union officers.

Their expenses, estimated at an average of $1,300 each for tuition, books, transportation and lodging, are being paid by their unions.

The college had planned to offer 10 scholarships of $1,000 each, but since all students in the first group are sponsored by unions, the scholarships will be awarded to later groups.

It was set up by the co-operation of Canada's two largest labor bodies, the CLC and the Confederation of National Trade Unions, and McGill University and the University of Montreal.

HOPE TO EXPAND

Lectures in the various subjects are drawn from the university staffs.

The college hopes to offer its courses to a minimum of 225 students during the next three years. The cost for the three-year course is estimated at $240,000.

Most of the financing has come from trade unions, although some donations have been received from private individuals and corporations.

If the first courses are successful, the college hopes eventually to be able to offer programs covering the normal seven-month academic term.

The first recorded call for a labor college in Canada was made in 1906, at a meeting of the Knights of Labor Assembly in Toronto. In 1911 the Trades and Labor Congress approved a motion calling for a college.

The present plans grew out of a motion adopted by the CLC in 1958. The program was discussed with several universities before agreements were reached with McGill and U of M.

Although labor colleges are new to North America, they have existed in Europe since the beginning of the century. Several also have been established, primarily through the work of international labor bodies, in Africa, Central America and Asia.

Ann Landers

Will Never Doubt Ann From Self Experience

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I used to think you made up letters but after what happened to me I will never doubt you again.

We've been married 28 years to a man who was a good husband and a devoted father. He made a fine living and we never wanted for anything.

About 10 years ago he began to complain about trouble with his back. He went to a couple of doctors but could get no relief. Finally he told me about a lady chiropractor who was supposed to have a magic touch. I encouraged him to call her. He told me she didn't have an office, so she visited the patient's home. The fee was $15.

My husband got relief after the very first visit. She has come to the house to give him a treatment every week since.

A few days ago my next door neighbor got me to thinking. She said she had never heard of a person needing chiropractic adjustment for ten years straight. So I asked our family physician to check out the lady chiropractor. I learned that she is no chiropractor and no lady. She has worked in a few massage parlors around town and has a rotten reputation.

To think I was dumb enough to let this woman in our home once a week for ten years! It might make me sick. I have no proof that there is anything between her and my husband but I am plenty suspicious.

He says his back is fine now and he is willing to give up the treatments. Should I believe him? — DUMMY.

DEAR DUMMY — In the absence of really persuasive evidence, accept his word. If your husband's back kinks out again make certain he goes to a male professional who has an office and a license to practise.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm in the 11th grade and tomorrow I have an important exam. I have to study in the kitchen where I am bothered by the radio and nutty conversation between my mother and my aunt. To top it, my kid brothers usually are lazing in the back hall.

I can't study in my bedroom because the 60 watt bulb is not bright enough and I get a headache when I try to read. Mom says a 100 watt bulb is too expensive to put in a bedroom. Yet she burns a 60 watt bulb in the bathroom all night for my six-year-old brother because he's afraid of the dark. Please give me some help in the column. She always reads it. — DIM HOPES.

DEAR HOPES — Ask your mom to put a 100 watt bulb in your bedroom and a 25 watt bulb in the bathroom. Watts the difference? (You may find out if your dad tries to shave in there.)

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm a single girl who lives at home with my mother. She continually belittles me. I can take it in private — heaven knows I've had plenty of practice — but I can't take it in the presence of my friends.

I'm so sick of hearing that my hair isn't becoming, my dress isn't right, I don't stand correctly or sit properly, my make-up isn't good, my English is a disgrace. Honestly, I am a nervous wreck from being picked to pieces.

I try to be a good daughter, but it's impossible to please her. It's getting so that I have no self-confidence. This has been going on for 20 years. Please tell me what to do.—ROPE'S END.

DEAR ROPE'S — You don't tell me how old you are but I suspect you are old enough to be out on your own. Move—even if it means a financial sacrifice. And I hope it isn't too late. Some daughters are beaten on the head so long they can never make the break.

* * *

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, MAY 27, 1963

Apple blossom time in Prince Edward County forms the perfect setting for horsewoman Carol Kincaid and her Welsh pony Misty and two-year-old quarter-horse mare Paddy Lou.

Nature Boy, a two-week-old stallion colt out of Gypsy, takes his first look at the outside world. The fledgling obviously charmed his owner and vice versa.

'Horses Are Most Wonderful' Animals in World Says 18-Year-Old Carol Kincaid

By HARRY MULHALL

"Man's best friend" (the dog, of course) is likely the shal lowest expression in man's library of phraseology.

By all historic rights, in terms of reliable service, it should have gone to the horse. For future history it's also too late to remedy the gross injustice.

Still for a scattered few individualists, the horse still lays claim to their hearts when it comes to choosing domestic animals. And one of those is an 18-year-old girl, living within a horseshoe's throw of Belleville.

"I think they are the most wonderful animals in the world," says Carol Kincaid as she shows off her four prized possessions stabled on the Kincaid homestead on the old Carrying Place road.

The four are a year-old quarter horse, a two-year-old Welsh pony, Paddy Lou, its seven-year- dam Gypsy and — current pride of the Kincaid household — Nature Boy, a three-week foal colt.

At an age when most teenagers are pursuing realization of dreams sway from home, Carol's interest is invested in her stable as a dream-come-true.

"I used to think about this all the time when I was little, but I never had a horse then — I never even rode one," she recalls.

"But I always said if I had a place where I could keep horses I would get them somehow."

TOOK DEFINITE TURN

The dream suddenly took on a definite turn for reality, when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kincaid moved onto the farm, flanking the shore of the Bay of Quinte directly south of Trenton, less than two years ago.

Last summer, despite some reservations by her father, her ambitions finally prevailed — notably in the shape of Gypsy and its young colt offspring, Paddy Lou, and a young quarter horse (since traded).

The grass at first wasn't easy. Carol was a youngster who had realized her first love outside the home—and was not sufficiently acquainted with the facts of horse life to set the world on fire. But, in her favor, was simply this:

JUST LOVE HORSES

Horses are not a hobby with Carol; they're a vocation, and possession was nine-tenths of the battle.

"All that's needed is to love them and give them understanding," was the sum of her working formula for bringing about the particular relations between human and animal known as "horsemanship."

"Too many people think that all you have to do is put a saddle on a horse's back and away you go. It's not like that at all."

"You've go to research, find out all about, then learn your own horse's particular qualities," she says.

She draws an illustration from the veteran Gypsy. "I don't know everything by far, but I'm trying to learn everything."

DEVELOPED VIRUS

"Gypsy was just as wild as anything when I got her last summer. Yet, within a year, I could walk into the stall just after she'd had her last foal three weeks ago."

That last foal — Nature Boy — also is more current proof of her attitude to horses. Shortly after birth it developed a virus and fears were raised for its survival. Three weeks steady attention bore reward just this weekend past when Nature Boy was taken from his stall for a first glimpse of the outside world.

It was still apple-blossom time along the Bay of Quinte. Nature Boy kicked up his heels. By Sunday night he was well on his way to permanent healthy membership in Carol's stable.

With that threat despatched, what happens next?

"I don't really know yet," admits Carol. "But I'd like to get more."

While indefinite about the future, however, she has some present positivism about one possibility — a riding school.

"I don't believe in riding schools," Carol says bluntly. "You go there, get on a horse and it takes you for a ride. They take you where you want to go, and back, as fast as they can, because they know why you're riding them. Horses aren't stupid."

Neither are other animals, apparently . . . including "Man's best friend."

"Dogs? Next to horses — like dogs," says Carol.

Busy Aerospace Technicians Build Germ-Free Capsules For Special Gemini Project

ST. LOUIS (AP)—In a paradox of industrial roar and germ-free silence, aerospace technicians who built astronaut Gordon Cooper's mercury space craft are constructing 13 sophisticated Gemini capsules.

Space experts at McDonnel Aircraft Corporation here hope Project Gemini will complete the second giant step of America's manned celestial stride.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans its first Gemini test shot—an unmanned ground-to-sea ballistic flight — this year. The sleek spacecraft's first orbital flight probably will go next year.

The McDonnel plant, which built all 20 Project Mercury one-man capsules, resembled both a clanging metal shop and a quiet hospital.

Perhaps most striking is the plant's "white room"—a purifying area just off the thundering assembly line. There, in controlled silence and climate, white - clothed technicians clean and sterilize every part of the Gemini capsules and assemble the spacecraft.

ELIMINATE IMPURITIES

"We have to eliminate all impurities," says general foreman Bill Watkins; "and make the spacecraft parts so clean that foreign elements can be seen only under a microscope.

"With the new fuel system the Gemini will use, elimination of minute impurities is absolutely necessary. If a piece of heavy dust or grease should clog a line it could cause an explosion."

The Gemini will use a new type propulsion system employing hypergolic propellants. These propellants — a fuel and an oxidizer — are stored separately in pressurized tanks and brought together in thrust chambers. No catalyst or spark is required. They ignite on contact with each other.

The thrust chambers are in such a position as to permit attitude control as well as maneuvering in orbit.

Another new feature in Gemini is the method by which electrical power is generated. While Mercury spacecraft depend on heavy batteries, Gemini contains its electrical power from a chemical fuel cell—hydrogen and oxygen gas separated by an ion exchange membrane—which saves considerable weight over batteries.

Hydrogen ions migrate through the membrane and combine with the oxygen to form electricity, water and waste heat. The waste heat is expelled into space but the water is so pure astronauts can drink it.

NEW FUEL

The Gemini's hypergolic fuel replaces hydrogen peroxide used by Mercury to control pitch, roll and yaw. Officials say the hydrogen peroxide had a tendency to corrode, while the new fuel will not.

The Gemini differs in many respects from Mercury.

It is designed to remain in orbit up to two weeks and to rendezvous with another space vehicle—much like a plane refueling in the air. It also is designed to make a controled glide after re-entry into the earth's atmosphere through use of a kite-like par-wing.

And, it will land on the ground on skids—similar to the X15 rocket—at a speed comparable to that of a light plane.

The Gemini, which will orbit at 17,500 miles an hour after a boost into space by a Titan II rocket, has about 50-per-cent more cabin space than the Mercury. It is about twice as large, standing 12 feet high with a base of 7½ feet.

Each of its two astronauts will look forward through windows over its nose, much like pilots of conventional aircraft.

Foreign Capital Flow Continues At Record Rate

OTTAWA (CP)—Heavy Canadian borrowing abroad on new bond issues—mostly in the United States—contributed to a record net inflow of $350,000,000 in foreign capital from all security transactions during the first quarter of this year.

It was in contrast with a $64,000,000 capital outflow from such transactions a year earlier.

A report today by the bureau of statistics gave the first indication of the extent of a situation which has concerned the U.S. government — its loss of foreign exchange reserves to Canada.

The situation has benefitted Canada, strengthening the exchange rate on the Canadian dollar.

The report showed $435,000,000 in foreign funds flowed into Canada from the sale of new securities issues during the January - March period, including $140,000,000 from government of Canada issues and $197,000,000 from provincial bond issues. Of the total, $425,000,000 came from the United States.

At the end of the quarter, another $401,000,000 was due to flow into the country from issues sold but not yet delivered to foreign buyers.

The first-quarter inflow was slightly offset by the retirement of $45,000,000 in foreign-held Canadian securities.

Giant Continent of Africa Seen Flexing Its Muscles And Seeking More Power

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) Stirred by the forces of the 20th century, the giant continent of Africa is flexing its muscles and seeking power.

The adoption of the "Charter of African Unity" Saturday at the African summit conference was an important step toward the eventual pooling of the resources of 31 countries representing more than 200,000,000 people, most of them until recently subjects of European colonial powers.

The charter lays the basis for unity that eventually could make the continent one of the world's major powers. But many obstacles are in the path of unity and it will take years to eliminate them.

All the nations signing the charter are underdeveloped and face mounting economic problems. In French-speaking Africa, only two countries have balanced budgets. Others rely heavily on the help of France, their former ruler.

The desires of Africa's Negroes to wield influence frequently make them forget the facts of their own misery.

LACKS OWN SOLUTION

Newly - independent Algeria, which has found no solution to internal chaos after seven years of war for independence, wants to send 10,000 men to liberate Angola from Portuguese rule. When Premier Ben Bella, to thunderous applause of summit delegates, pledged his people to die for Angola's liberation, he apparently did not think of thousands of Algerian women demonstrating against more bloodshed for his people.

President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana has a vision of Africa where Negroes "shall accumulate machinery and establish steel works, iron foundries and factories. We shall link the various states of our continent with communications. We shall astound the world with our hydro-electric power. We shall drain marshes and swamps, clear infested areas, feed the undernourished and rid our people of parasites and diseases."

In the applause that followed the statement few thought of the often-bitter facts:

The continent's per-capita income is around $50 a year. Although civilization has reached most urban centres, millions of African Negroes are still clad in skins and the voice of drums still carries messages across thousands of miles of bush.

Although jet planes piloted by the white man roar over the vast continent, many Negroes still practise voodoo and millions of newly-born children are scarred with tribal markings.

OLD TIES STAY

The influence of former colonizers is frequently more evident among African natives than the ties which they would like to develop with one another.

French-trained Negroes automatically reach for Paris newspapers and order French wines at meals. They scoff at tea, drunk by the British-trained Africans and do not hide the opinion that anything French is superior.

By tradition, North African Arabs still have contempt for the African Negroes who provided slaves for Egypt, Algeria, Tunisia and Morocco. And Negro Africans still fear the Arabs as slave traders.

The pledge of unity seems hardly enough to eliminate several bitter frontier disputes and territorial claims. One single force, however, is capable of bringing these men together—the fear of colonialism coupled with the desire to have an equal place in the world.

That is why they roared approval when the fiery Nkrumah told them "unless we establish African unity now, we who are sitting here today shall tomorrow be the victims and martyrs of neo-colonialism."

WINS EIGHTH

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP-CP)—Slender, smiling John Kelley, a 29-year-old school teacher from Mystic, Conn., won the National Amateur Athletic Union marathon Sunday for an unprecedented eighth straight time. Kelley, long considered the premier U.S. marathon runner, ran the 26 miles, 385 yards in two hours, 25 minutes, 17.6 seconds, beating a field of 100 by about 1½ miles. The only Canadian to finish was Gordon Gilmour of Montreal, a husky runner for Mount Royal Francs Amis AC, who placed 68th in 3:19.8.

Wanted Man Leaves Toronto For Vancouver

TORONTO (CP) — A Trans-Canada Air Lines official said Sunday that Douglas Brown, 35, will route to Vancouver to face charges in connection with the theft there of $325,000, will leave Toronto at 7 p.m., EDT, today.

Brown will be escorted by Det.-Sgt. William Porteous of Vancouver, who met him at Idlewild airport in New York after Brown was hustled by police from Rio de Janeiro last Friday. Toronto police said it was impossible to obtain flight reservations Sunday for Brown and Porteous, who officially arrested Brown as they crossed the United States — Canada border Saturday.

Brown, a driver for Loomis Armored Car Service in Vancouver, disappeared during the Victoria Day weekend. About $200,000 was found in a car near the Vancouver airport.

A return ticket to Rio de Janeiro was purchased by him under his correct name, the name he used in registering at a hotel in Rio.

FIND IN ROOM

Rio de Janeiro police found Brown and $2,000 in his hotel room after Vancouver police asked them to check when Loomis discovered money was missing.

Robert Bonner, British Columbia attorney - general, said Saturday the procedure of putting Brown aboard a plane at Rio was "closely and legal" questionable. We don't like it."

Earlier Mr. Bonner's deputy, Gilbert Kennedy, said the B.C. government had nothing to do with the "shocking" removal of Brown from Rio.

When Brown did not take legal action to have a writ of habeas corpus granted by a lawyer in Rio he was deported by police from Brazil to New York. Det-Sgt. Porteous said in New York that Brown was not under arrest but was returning voluntarily to Canada.

RIO DE JANEIRO (CP-AP)—

After giving a quick boot to Douglas John Brown, charged by Vancouver police with theft, Rio de Janeiro's police made it clear Saturday they will follow the same course with other foreigners who come here under similar circumstances.

In an official statement explaining explusion of the 35-year-old Canadian Friday night, police of this city said Brazil's lack of extradition treaties with other lands is "a real threat to death penalty "tends to transform Rio de Janeiro into a sanctuary for assassins, robbers, swindlers and international criminals."

The statement said foreigners facing charges in their homelands would be thrown out so long as no judicial measures had been taken in Brazil.

At least three Americans accused in the United States of crimes involving millions of dollars are living in Brazil.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It looks from here as if the Windsor Bulldogs and the Chatham Maroons have got themselves neatly pinched in the claws of an international hockey lobster.

The Dogs and Maroons decided to give the Ontario Hockey Association the go-ahead and applied for and got entries in the United States International Hockey League, a misnomer if ever.

The OHA, despite the dismal showing of the senior "A" league last year, has made plans for a "strong senior series" next season with the inclusion of London, which, the OHA reported, is building a new arena.

C. G. (Pat) Patterson, the Gaetpher who heads the OHA says he is confident there will be a strong senior series with London, Windsor, Chatham, Sarnia, Galt and Woodstock. But Kitchener, late reports say, wants to go Junior "A", leaving the senior road open to Galt.

Lou (Kitchener Record) Taylor reported direct from the CAHA meeting at Brandon that the OHA refused permission to Windsor and Chatham to enter the U.S. International League. Tommy Lockhart, president of the U.E. Eastern Amateur League, applied the other half of the pincers when he stated his loop would honor the OHA suspension of the Dogs and Maroons.

Meanwhile the OHA went ahead with plans to send the Bulldogs and the Winnipeg Maroons to Europe next winter.

It appears the OHA is fully determined to operate the Western Ontario senior "A" league. It's refusal to allow the Maroons and Bulldogs to shift scenes of operation coupled with the statement it might stand in the way of a Kitchener junior "A" franchise seems to bear out the statement.

In any event, the Kitchener Record says in a sports page story, the hockey committee moved unanimously to go ahead with plans for junior "A" hockey. The chairman, Steve Menich, said the New York Rangers have shown interest in such a club.

Menich said that if Kitchener were to enter the provincial junior "A" circuit crowds averaging 3,140 would be needed even if the team had help from a pro club. He estimated the expense for the season at $75,000 and based his attendance requirements on the supposition that a pro club might be willing to help out to the extent of $15,000.

Down Kingston way the yawning emptiness of seats in the Community Centre finally took its toll and the Frontenacs are no more. Kingston-wise, Limestone City hockey men intimate they too are interested in a junior "A" franchise to keep the sport alive down thataway.

Not too long ago junior "A" hockey people in Toronto and Western Ontario looked askance at pricetial entries from Eastern Ontario, from a professional standpoint. This was hinted when the puck acutlebutt here had it a junior "A" club was being moved to Belleville.

One prominent hockey man here is of the opinion junior "A" hockey may be the answer to a lot of puck problems: "It looks like the game is overcoached, down to junior 'A' and the pros," he said. "I don't believe senior hockey will come back to this part of the world, not next year at least."

"There is no law against dreaming," he quipped, "so I've counted up a Central Ontario junior "A" loop with the old four stand-byes, Kingston, Belleville, Peterborough and Oshawa in the grouping."

"Oshawa and Peterborough already have junior "A" teams and I believe Kingston won't haye any trouble getting an entry. The big poser would be Belleville where upper brackets hockey is 'deader' than the dodo bird."

"It is quite simple," he sighed. "All we need is a sugar daddy and a professional fairy godmother—and we're in. Of course a few topflight junior players would help."

Dream, is right.

STOPS SOCCER GAME

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province Cup final for the provincial soccer championship was abandoned with four minutes remaining in overtime Sunday when angry spectators swarmed over Callister Park in protest of a referee's decision. Vancouver Firefighters were leading Vancouver Italian-Canadians 1-0 by virtue of a goal scored on a disputed penalty kick when Referee Frank Lee abandoned the game after repeated warnings to spectators to clear the field.

Have 2½ Game Lead Over Yankees ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Orioles Five Pennant With 8 In Row

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

A long and nearly shattered dream may be realized in Baltimore where Babe Ruth was born and only idol of baseball, John McGraw, Hughey Jennings and Willie Keeler flourished.

The dream of an American League pennant took on a semblance of realism today as the new Orioles enjoyed a 2½ game lead over the New York Yankees.

Not since the glorious days of 1894-96-96, when Ned Hanlon's old Orioles captured three straight National League pennants, have Baltimore fans had as much to be enthused about. Billy Hitchcock's high 4 flying Birds made it eight victories in a row Sunday and 13 of their last 14 by sweeping both ends of a double header from the Cleveland Indians 6-4 and 6-1.

Only once, in 1960, have the Orioles enjoyed a first place perch, when they returned to the American League 10 years ago, after an absence of 51 years.

The Yankees shattered that dream with a five-game September streak almost completely as they had done back in 1903 when they supplanted the Orioles in the American League.

PENNANTS DOWN TANKS

The Yankees couldn't even sweep last place Washington Sunday. After losing the first game 7-5, they almost automatically the Yankees 7-6 in the nightcap to snap the Yankees' six-game winning streak and end their own eight-game losing string.

Detroit and Boston also split, the Tigers winning the first game 13-3 and the Red Sox taking the nightcap 8-3. Minnesota won its seventh in a row with a 5-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox and Los Angeles topped Kansas City 6-4.

On Saturday, Baltimore downed Cleveland 6-4 and Los Angeles defeated Washington 5-1. Minnesota blanked Chicago 6-1, Kansas City beat Los Angeles 9-2 and Detroit defeated Boston 5-2.

A pair of three-run late-inning thrusts produced both Baltimore Sunday triumphs. Jim Gentile's two-run single was the key blow in the Orioles' three-run rally in the nightcap while a leadoff opener that overcame a 6-4 Cleveland lead. Baltimore's second-game rally, also in the seventh, snapped a 1-1 tie. John Powell drove in the tie-breaking run with a single off Jerry Stephenson and Brandt followed with a two-run triple.

Wes Stock, in relief, was credited with both victories. They were his fourth and fifth of the season without a defeat.

Marv Breeding's third hit, a single, scored Larry Osborne with the run that started the rally and paved the way for the Senators' second win of the triumph, the first in five games for new Manager Gil Hodges. Jim Duckworth, a rookie right-hander, gained his first major league victory in relief. Home runs by Mickey Mantle and Elston Howard helped Yankee right-hander Jim Bouton post his sixth victory in seven decisions in the opener.

Eighth-inning home runs by Eddie Bressoud and Gary Geiger lifted the Red Sox to a slightgreen victory over the Tigers had clubbed Dave Morehead and two relievers for 14 hits in the opener. Al Kaline and Dick McAuliffe each had homers and drove in seven runs between them in the first game.

Harmon Killebrew, Zoilo Versalles and Earl Battey had home runs to make it easy for Minnesota's Jim Perry to win his third straight, at the expense of the White Sox.

Billy Moran's bases - loaded single highlighted a four-run sixth inning for the Angels who salvaged the last of a three-game series from the Athletics. Julio Navarro, in relief, notched his fourth victory without a defeat.

Kenmors Defeat Kingston 6-3

KINGSTON — Held to one hit for five innings, the Belleville Kenmors rallied strongly in the late innings to capture a 6-3 Lakeshore Baseball League victory over the Kingston Bad Boys here yesterday.

The losers jumped into a 1-0 lead in the first and nursed it until the fourth when Belleville tied the score. Kenmors tallied two in the sixth and another pair in the seventh to move ahead to stay, adding one in the ninth. Kingston plated singletons in the eighth and ninth and left the bases loaded in a tension-packed final frame.

The same two clubs hook up in an eight o'clock battle at the Belleville Fairgrounds Wednesday night.

Bill Latchford was the starting and winning pitcher for the Kenmors who are undefeated in two starts. Latchford gave way to Gord Vaughn in the eighth who in turn was replaced by Stan Reid in the ninth. They gave up nine hits in all. Latchford claimed ten strikeout victims and walked three, the relief hurlers each striking one and walking one.

D. McIlroy took the loss for the Bad Boys, giving way to Aylesworth in the sixth inning. They were tagged for nine hits but set the Kenmors down on strikes and issued eight free tickets to first.

An error on the leadoff batter paved the way to Kingston's initial run, which crossed the plate on Foster's two - out safety. Belleville did not have a base hit until the fourth when Asseltine walked and Malcolm doubled him home to knot the score.

Another walk to Asselstine started the Kenmors on the way to victory in the sixth. Mavety and Bailey loaded back-to-back safeties, Clarke walked and Latchford helped his own cause with a single to open up a 3-1 lead.

Elliott's single, Asselstine's two - bagger and another base hit by Mavety upped the lead to 5-1 in the top of the seventh and a two - run clout short an attempted comeback by Kingston in the bottom of that frame.

Pester's hit, a walk and a hit batter chased Latchford and got one run back for Kingston in the eighth but Belleville came right back to make it 6-2 in the top of the ninth on a walk, Brailey's hit and two errors.

The Bad Boys tried desperately to pull it out in the ninth and came close to that! With one out, Earl walked and Pettit and Lemon connected back-to-back singles for one run but big Pester went down swinging for the second out. B. McIlroy drew a base-on-balls to fill the sacks but Kotowicz popped out to wind it up.

Larry Mavety and Court Brailey collected two singles apiece to pace the Kenmor hitters. Asselstine and Pete Weston had doubles, Eddie Elliott and Bill Latchford singles apiece.

Ron Earl, Tom Pettit and Chuck Lemon each had a couple of hits for Kingston and with the others going to Aylesworth, R. Shea and Lemon.

Belleville: Locke, Follwell, Elliott, Asselstine, Weston, Mavety, Brailey, Clarke, Latchford, Vaughn, Soule, Reid.

Kingston: Earl, Pettit, Lemon, Pester, B. McIlroy, Kotowicz, Shea, Fortemp, D. McIlroy, Aylesworth.

Ivan Stewart, of Trenton, placed first as the Quinte Racing Pigeon Club held another race, this one from Sudbury Junction, an air distance of 254 miles, over the weekend.

The pigeons were released on Thursday night and Stewart's winning bird was clocked in at 2.36 Saturday afternoon.

Walt Warchaugh and Son took second place with Tom Woodcock placing third, fourth, seventh and eighth. Jack Salmon, of Plainfield, took the fifth and sixth positions while Butler and Morris copped ninth and tenth.

Dave Halsey, Jim Ling and Mike Follwell placed in that order in the junior competition.

Dodgers, Giants Split Weekend Wins

Mets Break Loss String

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Alvin O'Neal McBean is a man whose short but successful baseball career has had some very strange twists.

He hooked on with the Pittsburgh Pirates through a quirk of fate. He dropped from starter status to bullpen duty this season and has built up one of the best records in the National League in the unfamiliar role of reliever. And he's finding that the home run can be a pitcher's best friend.

McBean was a winner again Sunday as the Pirates beat Milwaukee 5-2 on bonus rookie Bob Bailey's three-run homer in the 11th inning. The victory was the slender right-hander's third in as many relief decisions—and in all three home runs have been decisive factors.

Elsewhere in the National League the Los Angeles Dodgers slipped from\|running San Francisco 4-3 in 10 innings, cashing in three runs on three throwing errors by Jose Pagan, the Philadelphia Phillies swept their third doubleheader in Cincinnati since 1950, 10-4 and 3-0; the New York Mets snapped a seven-game losing string, edging St. Louis 3-2 in 11 innings after losing the opener to the Cards 7-4 on Charlie Lau's three-run homer, and the Chicago Cubs whipped Houston 5-1.

On Saturday it San Francisco defeated Los Angeles 6-2, going ahead of the second - place Dodgers by three games; Milwaukee edged the Pirates 1-0, St. Louis beat the Mets 6-3, Chicago downed Houston 4-1 and Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 5-3.

WAS PHOTOGRAPHER

McBean, now in his second full season with Pittsburgh and his sixth in pro baseball, went to cover a Pirate tryout in his native Virgin Islands as a photographer for a local newspaper and wound up with a contract. He became a member of the varsity last year, with a 15-10 record as a starter, and with four straight victories is 5-1 this season.

McBean went in against Milwaukee in the eighth inning with the Braves leading 2-1. Bill Mazeroski's homer in the ninth tied it up. Then in the 11th, Bailey connected against Hank Fischer, Milwaukee's sixth pitcher, after a single by Roberto Clemente and a walk.

The Braves managed only two singles and a walk off Mc-Bean in 3 2-3 innings but he failed by one out to finish. Bob Veale took over with two on and two away in the last of the 11th and threw a third strike past Milwaukee's Len Gabrielsen.

The Dodgers salvaged the last game of their three-game set at San Francisco and moved to within two games of the Giants. Pagan's third errant throw put Jim Gilliam on second in the 10th and Tommy Davis' single scored the winning run.

In the fourth, Davis rapped a two-run double after an error by Pagan and a walk, and the Dodgers got another run in the seventh following a bad throw by the Giant shortstop.

HITS GRAND SLAM

Veteran slugger Roy Sievers and rookie pitcher Jack Culp keyed the Phils' sweep over the Reds. Sievers cracked a pinch-hit grand slam homer in the eighth inning that put the opener out of reach. Culp fired a three-hit shutout in the second game, striking out 12 and allowing only one runner as far as second base.

Two errors gave the Mets an 11th-inning run and their victory over St. Louis. Duke Carmel, defensive replacement for Stan Musial in left field, dropped Charlie Neal's fly for a two-base error, and Neal raced in when pitcher Bob Gibson's sacrifice bunt. The Mets also got an unearned run in the seventh for a 2-1 edge, but Carl Sawatski sent it into overtime with a ninth inning homer.

In the opener, Ken Boyer drove in the tying run in the eighth with his fifth straight hit—a single—and James The Mets also got an unearned run lowest with his clinching three-run pinch homer. Dick Groat of the Cards took over the league batting lead at .351, going 5-for-10 in the two games.

The Cubs beat ex-teammate Dick Drott on Bob Buhl's nine-hit pitching and the batting of Ron Santo, Ken Hubbs and Lou Brock. These three had all seven Chicago hits and drove in all five Cub runs. Santo homered and singled twice, Hobbs as homer and single and Brock tripled and singled.

Batting—Bob Bailey, Pirates, cracked a three-run homer in the top of the 11th to give Pittsburgh a 5-2 victory over Milwaukee Sunday.

After Winning Walker Cup

Yanks Eye British Amateur

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) The United States' leading amateur golfers, with the Walker Cup safely in hand again, turned their sights today on the British amateur title—and the bookies say they'll win that, too.

The U.S. team is in England and willing to accept a bet on anything, quickly installed the United States players as the favorites to head the amateur at St. Andrews June 3-9 after their comeback triumph in the Walker Cup Saturday.

The U.S. has won the Walker Cup 18 of 19 times since it was inaugurated in 1922. They had to overcome a 6-3 first-day deficit to keep possession this year.

The U.S. swept the four scotch foursomes Saturday to take the lead and nailed down the victory by winning five of the eight remaining singles. The final U.S. victory margin was 12-8 with four matches halved during the six hours of competition.

"They got right down to the job with a tremendous determination," former British amateur king Eddie Hamilton wrote in the Scottish Sunday Express.

Much of the difference came on the 15th and 16th holes of the par-72, 7,025 - yard Turnberry course. The 16th was particularly troublesome to the British team. On the key foursomes, the British all landed in a creek running across the 415-yard, par-four hole, and that's where they lost the cup.

'Jet Traffic' 'Bar' Stands Club Says

TORONTO (CP) — Managing director John Mooney of The Jockey Club Limited said Saturday the decision to bar American-owned Jet Traffic from the 104th running of the Queen's Plate classic here Saturday June 15 would not be altered.

Jet Traffic, owned by Russell A. Firestone Jr. of Dallas, Tex., was third winter-book choice at 6-to-1 odds to win the $50,000-added 1¼-mile race, open to Canadian-bred three-year-olds.

Last Wednesday the jockey club ruled at a directors' meeting that the colt was ineligible because its owner had not authorized the entry, made nearly two years ago.

Mooney said in a telephone interview that "a fundamental rule of racing" had been broken.

"The rules of racing in Ontario state that agents or nominations must be made in writing and signed either by the owner, his agent or a deputy of the agent. We found that this had not been done."

ACCEPTED FEES

Mooney added that "we did accept from Mr. Firestone the second and third nominating fees, but we weren't aware of the fact until a few days ago that he had not authorized the original payment."

Jones Motors, Foxboro Play To 3-3 Tie

Belleville Jones' Motors and Foxboro battled to an evenly-contested 3-3 tie in a South Hastings Baseball League tilt played at Foxboro Saturday night.

Meanwhile, on Sunday, the Belleville club topped the Trenton Juniors 7-4 in an exhibition game.

The Belleville team also announced that its regular scheduled game with Latta at the Fairgrounds this week has been changed from Wednesday to Thursday night, at 6:45.

Saturday's South Hastings tilt was a close one all the way. The teams exchanged single runs in the first game and Foxboro took a 2-1 lead in the third. Two runs in the fourth put Belleville ahead but the homesiers tied it 3-3 in the sixth and that's the way it stayed until darkness halted the game after eight innings.

Belleville's Bobby Boyle and "Soup" Campbell of Foxboro hooked up in a pitcher's duel, each allowing three hits over the distance. Boyle fanned six but walked eight while Campbell whiffed eight and passed four.

Don Gardiner, Bobby Moon and Bill Hallam collected the Belleville hits while Gary Little, Belanger and Keith Dickey hit safely for Foxboro. All hits were singles.

Collegiate leading the attack.

Campbell ran the 100 yard dash in 10.1 seconds and the 220 yard dash in 22.7. Both times were Ontario records and the 100 yard effort cracked a Canadian midget standard.

Morrison won the 880 yard run in 2:02.1 and the 440 in 51.2 for his record effort.

Barry Jackson ran the mile in 4:40.2, Dave Barrett of Jarvis Collegiate, Toronto, cleared 10 feet, 7 inches in the vault, Mike Haugh of Riverside High threw the 8 pound shot 56 feet 5¾ inches.

Schools in the Toronto District Interscholastic Athletic Association topped the area standings with 101 points. Toronto Secondary School Athletic Association placed second with 74 points, Southwestern Ontario Secondary School Association third with 62, Southern Ontario Secondary School Association fourth with 42, and Hamilton IAC fifth with 41.

SHOOT BEAR IN CITY

HULL, Que. (CP) — A 175-pound black bear was shot and killed by police constables Sunday night after it wandered into a residential area of this western Quebec city. The bear had a broken hind leg and police believe it left nearby Gatineau Park because it was having trouble hunting food.

Three World Records Go, Another Misses

Snell Leads Three-Under-Four Milers

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Three world track and field records fell in the United States Saturday night, with a fourth one doomed by a blizzarre development because no one thought it would happen.

The marks came at four California Relays here as Washington's Brian Sternberg pole-vaulted 16 feet seven inches and the Oregon State University two - mile relay team turned in a 7:18.9 performance.

At Tempe, Ariz., in a Western Athletic Conference meet, New Mexico's Adolph Plummer raced 440 yards in 44.9 seconds, breaking the world mark of 45.7 set by Ohio State's Glenn Davis in 1958.

The most unexpected development came here minutes after New Zealand's Peter Snell raced a mile in 3:54.9 for a U.S. record and just one-half second off his world standard of 3:54.4.

Cary Weisiger of the U.S. Marines, was second to Snell in 3:57.3 and Jim Beatty of the U.S. was a well-beaten third in 3:58.

YEAR OF RECORD

Then word flashed from the broad-jumping pit that someone had leaped 27 feet, four inches, a fraction farther than the world record held by Russia's Igor Ter-Ovanyan.

Was it Ralph Boston, the Olympic champion and former record-holder?

No, the jumper was a University of Washington sophomore, Phil Shinnick, who earlier in the day had failed even to qualify for the finals in the Big Six meet at Berkeley, Calif., then drove 80 miles to Modesto and asked permission to compete.

Because no one gave Shinnick a chance for a record jump, no one had been tendering the wind machine to determine whether the aiding breeze was below the allowable maximum of 4.473 miles an hour.

Leon Glover, the gauge man had been instructed he could time it only when Boston jumped.

"Officials thought the wind was under 4.5, but that isn't enough to satisfy the International Federation," said meet referee Charlie Hunter.

King of the Hill

Mr. Ron Saylor of Belleville caught Horace Ormshaw of Trenton off guard just a little bit on Saturday at the Bowl-O-Rama and relieved him of his crown that was beginning to look like a permanent fixture. Saylor racked up a remarkable total of 1453 for his five games and came back in the three game challenge match with 839 to Ormshaws' 704.

Horace was second in the five game qualifying round with 1237, followed by Jim Begley, 1241, Leo Elliott with 1227, Labelle took an early lead with a 303 first game but slipped badly in the 3rd. Other 300 scores were Eric Rank 315 and Jim Begley 303.

The pot of gold for eight consecutive strikes now stands at $36.50 with six in a row being the most consecutive strikes so far Saturday.

King of the Hill continues next Saturday at 1.30 p.m.

KINGSTON (CP) — Twenty-one graduates in law were granted degrees Saturday during law, medicine and nursing science convocation ceremonies at Queen's University here.

Hydroplane Inaugural Big Success

The Quinte Hydroplane Racing Club held its initial meet, of a test variety, off Victoria Park Sunday afternoon and was more than delighted with the results.

Large crowds flocked to the Park and lined the shoreline Sunday, and according to club president Doug Storey, "everything went just fine".

No official results were kept for this opening meet. "It was more of an exhibition nature, sort of letting the fellows get accustomed to the way things will go," said Storey.

Fifteen boats took part and there was nary a flip or an accident of any kind, although the Ontario Provincial Police boat and the "Rescue Eight," Belleville Fire Department, were both on hand to keep an eye on proceedings.

A number of new, young drivers took part, winning most of the heats. Prizes will be given out to these at a club meeting to be held at Bob's Sport Shop this Wednesday night at eight o'clock.

Plans call for the next meet to be held shortly after the end of the school term, since many of the younger drivers are tied up with exams at this time. President Storey said he hoped to see more of the district's experienced drivers out shortly.

"If the crowd was any indication, we should have a real good summer here," was the comment of one club member.

BCIVS Girls Staged Good Performances

Competing in select company at the Belleville Collegiate Institute senior girls' relay team came up with a highly creditable performance at Hamilton on Saturday.

The team which was composed of the Misses Sheryl Drysdale, Heather Carter, Patsy Clapp and Judy Ingram, set a COSSA meet record for the 440 at Trenton recently.

Saturday it finished second behind the Leamington Collegiate team which won in 54.5.

Miss Drysdale finished third in the standing broad jump with the fabulous Nancy McCredie, barely beating her out. The winner, McKinnon of Thistledown, set a new record with a jump of eight feet five and three-quarter inches.

Miss Carter finished second in the senior girls' 100 yards dash.

Some 255 girl athletes from 25 schools from all parts of Ontario took part in the meet under the aegis of the SSSSA. It was comparable to the all-

3 Drivers Qualify For '500'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Former winner Troy Ruttman of Dearborn, Mich., Ebb Rose of Houston, Tex., and rookie Allen Miller of Roseville, Mich., earned starting positions Sunday for next Thursday's 500 - mile auto race by bumping earlier qualifiers out of the 33-car lineup.

Miller, 33-year-old veteran of midget and spring tracks, signed his first Indianapolis start by qualifying a rear-engine Thompson Special at 149.613 miles an hour, best time of the final 10-mile trials.

On Saturday another rookie, Johnny Rutherford of Fort Worth, Tex., qualified the lone Canadian entry, the City of Victoria, at 148.063 and bumped Pedro Rodriguez, Mexico's only entrant. The 23-year-old Mexican had been the slowest of the first 28 qualifiers at 146.687 in a rear-engine Aston Martin Coupe.

Ed Kostenuk of Victoria, the Rutherford car owner, had tried to qualify it himself but couldn't work up enough speed.

The final field averaged a record 149.028 miles an hour against 147.350 last year.

Girls Track Meet At Hamilton

McCredie Sets Two Records

HAMILTON (CP) — Nancy McCredie, 15-year-old Brampton, Ont., schoolgirl, set two meet records, bettering the Canadian standard in each, at the fourth invitational girls' track and field meet Saturday.

Miss McCredie threw the discus 137 feet, 11¼ inches and put the eight-pound shot 50 feet eight inches for her two new marks.

The meet, run by the Southern Ontario Secondary Schools Association, is open to all high school girls in the province.

Miss McCredie's discus toss easily eclipsed the previous record of 130 feet eight inches set by Jennifer Wingrove of Northern Toronto in 1962, and her shot put mark shattered the previous standard of 37 feet 2¼ inches set by D. Westcott of Cassington in 1960.

In addition, the official Canadian records for the events are well below her new marks. However, since the meet is a high school event run without any Amateur Athletic Union officials, it is doubtful whether the marks will be recognized by the AAU.

BRAMPTON TAKES TITLE

Miss McCredie's efforts helped Brampton to the school title with 28 points, followed by Nelson high school with 27 and Kitchener-Waterloo with 25.

Individual class champions were: Cathy Chapman, Don Mills, junior title; Leslie Shonk, Aldershot, intermediate champion, and Jean Richardson, Leamington, senior champion.

More than 220 competitors from 39 Ontario high schools took part in the fourth annual meet held at Hamilton's McMaster University.

Besides the shot put and discus records broken by McCredie, four other marks fell.

SETS TWO MARKS

Judy Dahloren of Ottawa's Fisher high school tossed the shot put 112 feet 8 inches and the discus 34 feet for two records in the junior class.

Cathy Joyce, Scarborough, ran the junior 80-yard dash in 7.3 to knock one second off the 1961 record set by Valerie Barton of Hamilton's Westdale school.

The sixth record fell to Carol McKinnon, Thistletown, in the standing broad jump with a leap of 8 feet 3¼ inches in the senior division.

'Bo' Sent To Honolulu

'Wildest Angel' To Hawaii

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bo Belinsky, who had one unbelievably great night and many unbelievably late outs, is leaving the penthouse overlooking the sunset strip in favor of a summer home in Honolulu.

Los Angeles Angels of the American League told the pitcher they're sending him to their Hawaii farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

But manager Bill Rigney of the Angels will be keeping track of him.

"As soon as this left-hander looks like he can pitch the way we think he can, he'll be back," Rigney said.

Belinsky, 26, spent six years in the minor leagues and lost more games than he won. But he was news the day he joined the Angels in the spring of 1962.

DEMANDS RAISE

The first thing he did was demand a bonus or a raise. Otherwise, he said, he wouldn't sign. Angel general manager Fred Haney, who never became one of Bo's closest friends, told him to sign for $6,000 or go home. Bo signed.

Belinsky pitched a no-hitter here against Baltimore Orioles on May 1, 1962. He won his fifth straight game May 11. He suffered his first loss, at Baltimore, May 17.

By this time he had joined some Hollywood folks who think an early night is when you get home before the morning paper.

Bo finished his first major league season Sept. 30 with a record of 10 wins and 11 losses. Last Jan. 21 he signed his second Angel contract, this one for $15,000.

FINED FOR LATENESS

..On Feb. 26, he was late for practice. He reported 2½ hours late for an exhibition game March 30 and was fined $500.

On April 3, Bo announced his engagement to actress Mamie Van Doren.

On April 11 he lost his first 1963 start, to Chicago White Sox.

On May 19, he suffered his seventh loss in eight decisions.

And on May 25, he and outfielder Ken Hunt were optioned to Hawaii, subject to 24-hour recall.

Hunt said he'll quit before going back to the minors.

He had 10 years in the minors and that's enough. This club didn't give me a chance this year."

Memphis Golf Is Washed Out

MEMPHIS, Tenn.-(AP) — A deluge of rain washed out the $50,000 Memphis Open golf tournament Sunday for the second straight day.

The double-round planned for Sunday after Saturday's washout was reset for today with the 81 pros and seven amateurs teeing off for 36 holes.

With two rounds left to play, Tony Lema held the lead with a six-under-par 134. His nearest challengers were Harold Knecce, Tommy Aaron, Georges Knudson of Toronto and Jerry Edwards, all at 136.

Lacrosse Tilt Halted By Brawl

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP)—A free-for-all between fans and players brought an abrupt end Saturday night to an Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior game.

The game was called with Brampton leading St. Catharines 8-5. About two minutes were left in the game.

Brampton fans had been heckling St. Catharines bench for most of the evening and the visiting players finally clashed with the fans. In a matter of seconds both benches emptied as about a dozen fans and the players milled and fought.

Unable to restore order, officials decided not to play the remaining time. The game will stand as a St. Catharines victory.

Jay Spicer and Barry Fendley led Brampton's attack with two goals each and singles went to Wayne Thompson, Jim McClure, Mike Finegan and Gord Timpson.

Wally Thorne led St. Catharines with two goals. Dave Carr, Ken Kerr and Gary Hinds each scored once.

Prior to the game it was announced that Jim Bartlett, defenceman Bill Castator had been suspended for five games by league president Willian Wallace for swinging at a referee in Port Credit Thursday. His stick did not strike the official.

Leafs Split With Indians

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ron Kabbes carries one of the lightest bats in the International League, and the figures prove it, but for one day at least the Rochester second baseman swung with prodigious power.

Kabbes batted .215 and hit three home runs for the Red Wings last season. Through 26 games this year his batting mark was an anemic .224. His three-run homer was the first game Sunday failed to prevent a 6-4 Buffalo victory, but his grand-slam driver assured the Wings a 5-4 triumph in the nightcap.

Atlanta continued its runaway pace in the Southern Division. The Crackers swept Jacksonville 2-0 and 4-0 and boosted their lead to 5½ games. The first game went 13 innings, and the second was called in the sixth by rain.

Syracuse turned Buffalo's Northern Division lead to one-half game by downing Columbus 6-3, and Toronto whipped the Indianapolis Indians 9-3, as Richmond was rained out at Little Rock.

On Saturday Rochester beat Buffalo 6-1, Syracuse edged Columbus 4-3, Richmond beat Atlanta 2-1 and Indianapolis beat Toronto 4-3.

Held 10 World Records

Baptie Was Star Skater

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Ten days ago the ice-skating hall of fame in Chicago was officially opened with Sonja Henie and Norval Baptie as charter members.

Miss Henie certainly qualified as three-time Olympic figure-skating champion and winner of 12 world titles. These were won in the pre-Second World War years and before Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa added the one word scene and capped a brilliant amateur career by winning the 1949 Olympic title.

Baptie?

The name rang a bell with some old-timers in Canada and a search of files unearthed some interesting information about the man who ruled the speed-skating world before the Misses Henie and Scott were born. He was born in Bethany, Ont., May 18, 1879.

CALLED 'GREATEST'

He certainly must have been great one.

Frank G. Menke's Encyclopedia of Sports says "the greatest of all-round skaters of all time in the U.S. problem by was Norval Baptie, Canadian born. He skated as an amateur speed skater, ran out of opponents, turned pro and was 'king' over a long span of time.

"Baptie turned to figure skating and became one of the best. There was nothing in the pro ranks to give him competition, so he became an exhibitionist on the stage, in ice palaces and for almost a score of years was outstanding."

Elmer Ferguson, veteran Montreal Star sports columnist, knew Baptie well 10 years ago wrote that "Canada has probably never produced an athlete who has ruled supreme by way of championship in the East. Canada has been top U.S. style as a two-year-old in 1961 and as the last year as a three-year-old.

Jockey Manuel Ycaza rode the bay four-year-old who carried 125 pounds and bounced under the wire over two lengths of a second slower than the track record set last September by Cicada, carrying 138 pounds this time.

The winner's time for the 1¼ miles over a fast strip was one minute, 48 3-5 seconds.

Firm Policy, second choice in speed skating paid $3.80 and $2.50. Tamarona returned $7.60 and $3.30 and Cicada $2.50 to show.

TORONTO (CP) — Jammed Lucky, 5-1 five-year-old owned by Conn Smythe of Toronto, outnosed Ed Steedhouse's Dorval in Saturday's $11,500 Inferno Handicap stakes at Greenwood.

Lanson Farm's Tres Suave finished third, Cyclone Joan a length behind the winner.

Bob-Teek Farms' Viva La Zaca embraced his Queen's Plate, hopes when he closed rapidly to overtake Larkin Mahoney's Swerve in the Dublin purse, the secondary feature of the day.

W. M. Mitchell's Big Brown Eyes and Bill Beasley's Holy Cow won the first and second races respectively to set up a daily double of $23.30.

NEW YORK (CP) — Barry Ryan's Firm Policy rounded in a 4¼-length victory Saturday in the $35,200 Top Flight Handicap at Aqueduct as the favored Canada faltered and finished third. King Ranch's Tamarona was second, 2½ lengths ahead of Cicada.

Firm Policy, unbeaten in three 1963 starts, is the mare who has been tabbed as the horse to challenge Cicada for the filly and mare championship in the East. Cicada has been top U.S. filly as a two-year-old in 1961 and as the last year as a three-year-old.

IMPORTS PLAY — Montreal housewife Inge Baber shows her daughter Jackie, 10, a program for the Blacks, a long-run, off-Broadway play she brought to Montreal for two performances. Explaining why she brought the original cast to the city, she says she was fed up with incompetently staged road shows. (CP Photo)

Original Cast of Successful Off-Broadway Play Delights Theatre Patrons in Montreal

By REFORD MacDOUGALL

MONTREAL (CP) — A Montreal housewife, fed up with watching what she described as incompetently staged road shows, risked time, money and energy to bring to Montreal the original cast of a successful off-Broadway play.

The risk paid off and Montrealers swarmed to The Blacks, an explosive play about racial relations by Jean Genet. The Blacks had been performed more than 900 times, the longest run a serious drama has had on New York's off-Broadway.

Behind what was considered an unprecedented move was Inge Baber, an attractive housewife who in her spare time has been involved with theatre for more than five years.

Mrs. Baber maintains she is neither "beat nor brilliant" but simply enjoys serious theatre.

"And I felt in a large city such as Montreal there must be others like me, so that bringing The Blacks here for two performances was not the height of folly.

"I guess I was right, judging from the attendance at the play."

WILL BRING MORE

What was her company, Spectrum Productions Inc., planning next?

"We'll bring more serious drama to Montreal, though I can't be specific for business reasons," Mrs. Baber said.

"One thing is certain, though whatever plays we bring will be performed by the original cast or else I won't allow them on stage.

"I think Montreal audiences have been burnt too often by paying for drearily staged, incompetent road productions.

"From now on they'll get something for their money."

Mrs. Baber not long ago gave up running the only theatre ticket agency here to devote more time to her husband, an engineer, and her 10-year-old daughter.

"But my family soon told me I was getting crankier and crankier," the energetic Mrs. Baber smiled, "so I decided to start Spectrum Productions—not a 9 to 5 job, and one which becomes hectic only the week before a play arrives."

SOMETHING NEW

Asked whether the original cast of a Broadway, or off-Broadway, play had ever previously been hired for performances outside New York, Mrs. Baber said:

"As far as I could find out, I don't think this has ever been done anywhere before."

Chris Anderson, a New York theatre booking company director here with The Blacks, agreed with her.

Did she lose any money with The Blacks?

"No," said Mrs. Baber said.

Elenor Roosevelt Says 'Sky Above' Beautiful

Eleanor Roosevelt's column (Reprinted) N. Y. Post, June 14, 1962.

"I should like to bring to my readers' attention a film called "The Sky Above — The Mud Below." A joint undertaking by France and The Netherlands, this motion picture was made by a group that crossed New Guinea over uncharted areas never before seen by white men. Though the hardships were unbelievable, the film is beautiful and intensely interesting.

"These explorers encountered natives who might have all been hostile, but the group managed to see rituals that never before had been seen and photographed. They had to overcome physical difficulties as well as possible native hostility, and the resulting film is sure to hold spellbound those audiences that are interested in seeing the new and the unknown.

"On the same program an exotic love story photographed in color in the state of Sinaloa, Mexico "Beyond All Limits," starring Jack Palance, Maria Felix and Pedro Armendariz. The complete shows are at 7:00 and 8:50 p.m. for these first Belleville showing attractions.

Playwright William Inge Turning Talents to TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tired of trying to please New York theatre audiences—"a bunch of old-fashioned sports" — playwright William Inge is turning his talents to television.

Inge has signed a contract with CBS to create a series for the 1964-65 season. He plans to write five or six hour-long scripts—a kind of contemporary Winesburg, Ohio of the mid-west. From these CBS is to pick one to shoot as a pilot film in late summer.

"During this past year I started watching television for the first time," he said in an interview here. "I must say I was fascinated by much of it. Shows like The Defenders, Kildare and The 11th Hour I found often excellent. . . . Television seems to be a good medium for actors."

IS DISENCHANGED

Inge's four smashes in a row —Come Back, Little Sheba, Picnic, Bus Stop, Dark at the Top of the Stairs, he stumbled with A Loss of Roses. This season he was back again with the wryly titled Natural Affection, a play of violence and sex.

The result: A hit in Washington; a month's run in New York.

"I think it's wrong that American theatre should be dictated from New York," he commented. "In Washington we had intelligent audiences. They liked the show; we were sold out.

"Yet we failed in New York. Part of that may have been due to the newspaper strike. But I think a great deal has to do with the kind of audience you get in New York. It's a bunch of old-fashioned sports who only like what they've seen before.

"Somehow we've got to find a new audience. The only solution I can see is to decentralize the theatre, to get it away from New York. It might be done by the colleges and universities, along with what help the Ford and Rockefeller Foundations might provide."

THAT'S FATHER

Herbert Anderson, television father of "Dennis the Menace," says a father needs an athlete's heart, a blacksmith's hands and Job's patience.

Booth and Marshall Win Emmies for Second Time

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For the first time in Television Academy history, the top acting Emmies for series stars have gone to the same actors who won last year—Shirley Booth, the impish Hazel, and E. G. Marshall, the stalwart lawyer of The Defenders.

"Boy, I was in some category!" exclaimed Miss Booth, who already had both a prior Emmy and a filmland Oscar in her collection.

"A rose is a rose, when it's Reginald Rose," cracked Marshall.

It was, indeed, a triumph for Rose, creator of The Defenders, which scored top honors among series with five Emmies. Rose and Robert Thom won for their writing of the Madman segment and Stuart Rosenberg for his direction.

The CBS courtroom drama was hailed as best dramatic program and won also for best film editing.

HOWARD WINS

British star Trevor Howard was named best actor in a single performance for his role as The Invincible Mr. Disraeli.

Broadway actress Kim Stanley was named for best single performance by an actress for her two-partner, A Cardinal Act of Mercy on Ben Casey.

It was a big night for The Dick Van Dyke Show too. It was named as the best comedy show by the academy's 6,000 voters.

For the second straight year, Carl Reiner, another support comic to Sid Caesar, won for best comedy writing. John Rich, also of the Van Dyke show, won for best comedy direction.

Screen veteran Glenda Farrell scored for best supporting actress with A Cardinal Act of Mercy on Ben Casey.

Don Knotts, the jittery deputy of The Andy Griffith Show, was selected best supporting actor for the third year.

HAVE BEST NEWSCAST

Other repeat winners were Chet Huntley and David Brinkley for their nightly newscast. It was termed the best news program for the fifth straight year.

Brinkley's Journal won for the second year as best news commentary.

The Andy Williams show won a bitter victory when it was picked for best variety program. The weekly series was not renewed and Williams will be appearing instead on 12 specials.

Carol Burnett, another previous Emmy winner, came through again for her duet with Julie Andrews as best performance in a variety or music show.

NBC's controversial The Tunnel was named the program of the year, and was also selected as best documentary. The story of a real escape under the Berlin wall was also on its commentator, Piers Anderton, for outstanding achievement in international reporting.

OTHERS WIN AWARDS

Other Emmy winners: best panel quiz—G.E. College Bowl.

Best children's programming — Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color.

Best original music—Robert Russell Bennett, Mr. Ie is Risen.

The academy also honored President Kennedy with a citation praising him for putting his press conference on television and showing "a willingness to expose to the public the thoughts and feelings of your office."

The awards got under way with a space-age start—a greeting relayed from England via communications satellite.

The BBC sent greetings to television leaders of America and Canada here, in New York and in Washington via the Relay satellite.

Income Tax Explained

A column designed and written for the working persons, who are not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor Income Tax Dept.

The term "full time housekeeper" has had many and varied interpretations placed on it by the taxpayers. The correct definition would be the employment of a housekeeper for full time. This means that the taxpayer would not necessarily have to employ the same one all year. He could have different ones, as long as a housekeeper was employed full time and this means all year.

In some cases a farmer or other persons whose work is of a seasonable nature, will only require a housekeeper during the busy season to maintain his home and look after the children. The Income Tax Department has ruled that in these cases, such persons would not qualify as a full time employee. Full time means, for the whole of the taxation year.

A full time housekeeper is only applicable to widows and widowers who are left with children to support. It will not apply in cases where the husband and wife both work and a housekeeper is employed to care for the children.

There is no direct allowance for a housekeeper. It only allows the taxpayer to claim the child's allowance on the same child he used for the $1000 equivalent to married exemption. This means that where a housekeeper is employed full time throughout the whole of the taxation year, the taxpayer gets a total of $1300 on one child under 16 years. This would also apply where there is a common-law wife and children. The common-law wife would qualify as a full time housekeeper.

An inquiry received will be answered by the writer if a self addressed and stamped (5 cent) envelope is enclosed.

QUESTIONS

Question No. 1 — I am a widower and a farmer. I employ a housekeeper to run the house and do the cooking for the hired help in the summer. Can I claim married status on her?

Answer: No. Her wages would be deductible as an operating expense.

Question No. 2 — I am single and live with my invalid mother. I employ a housekeeper. What can I claim for the housekeeper?

Answer: If your mother is confined to bed or a wheel chair then the wages paid to your housekeeper would qualify as a medical expense as the housekeeper would be a full time attendant for your mother.

JOBS FOR MEN OVER 50 — Edward Littleford (left), an Ontario welfare department rehabilitation officer, is in charge of the Over-50 Unit, a project designed to rehabilitate men because of age and loss of confidence find it difficult to get jobs. Mr. Littleford and one of his two assistants, Clive Dove, a former bush pilot from Halifax, look over a case in their Toronto office. (CP Photo)

Pilot Project in Welfare Guided Many Back to Hope

TORONTO (CP) — "Who'd hire me? Look, I'm 54. I'm through."

Eight months ago these words were spoken by a shabbily dressed man with no marketable skills and a mild alcoholic problem.

Jotting down notes on the conversation was Edward Littleford, an Ontario welfare department rehabilitation officer.

The pessimistic 54-year-old was a fairly typical example of a group of men who, through prolonged unemployment, have come to regard themselves as unfit to hold jobs.

Between lack of skills and lack of confidence, they are wholly dependent upon relief payments.

Sixteen months ago Mr. Littleford and a two-man staff launched a pilot project designed to determine whether this sort of man could be encouraged to seek and keep a job. It's called the Over-50 Unit.

In recent weeks the books have been closed on the case of the 54-year-old and others like him. After months of intensive effort and frustrating setbacks by the Over-50 Unit, he has returned to full employment.

MAY EXPAND

The unit, jointly sponsored by the Toronto and Ontario welfare departments, now has become permanent. Working with Mr. Littleford are Bruce Dove, 27, a former bush pilot from Halifax, and Bruce Allen, 28, of Toronto, neither of whom had previous welfare experience.

To date they have worked with more than 400 men called from Toronto relief rolls. Of these, about 125 have returned to full-time employment and another 85 to temporary jobs that have lasted an average of three months. Mr. Littleford figures it has saved the city more than $70,000 in relief payments.

Having realized results beyond their greatest expectations provincial welfare officials now are considering setting up similar units in other major centres such as London, Ottawa, Hamilton and Windsor.

Once the unit has identified a potential candidate, he is summoned for a medical examination and interview.

"Many of the men notified appeared reluctant to keep the appointment, thinking it would be more machinery to damage their already wounded pride," said Mr. Littleford. "Others, without solicitation, expressed real joy and hope."

Equipped with the doctor's report on the man's physical capabilities, the Over-50 Unit workers discuss with the candidate his work record, educational background and any social or emotional problems.

CONFIDENCE HELPS

If he is employable, they work through the National Employment Service or, as is most often the case, deal directly with prospective employers.

"Some of these men seem to need no more than proof that someone still thinks they're worth worrying about," said Mr. Littleford. "A few actually have found work on their own after only one interview."

One big problem is to convince employers that age is not necessarily a deterrent to effective performance—that older men are energetic and stable enough to do the job. Another problem is to convince the man himself.

In many cases, despite initial enthusiasm, it was necessary to make several appointments with prospective employers before the man could summon the courage to turn up for an interview.

But once given a chance, says Mr. Littleford, the unit's experience has shown that an older employee often will prove to be a steady and conscientious worker.

"He has to be. We make sure these men realize this may be their last chance to make it on their own.

"Most of these fellows want to work. It's just that they've been turned down many times by employers because of their age. They get discouraged and quit trying."

POPE'S CONDITION CONSIDERED GRAVE

1,000 Safely Evacuated From Quebec Hospital

Fire Loss Could Run Up to $3,000,000

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)— About 1,000 persons were safely evacuated Monday from the Hotel Dieu Hospital when a fast-spreading fire destroyed three wings of the institution. No one was injured.

Only a few surgical patients operated on earlier Monday remain in the new section of the hospital which housed most of the patients and was saved intact by 60 firemen who were hampered by lack of water pressure. The 900-bed hospital is situated on a hill.

The wind-fed flames at the institution run by the Sisters of St. Augustine could be seen 20 miles from Chicoutimi, a city of 35,000 on the Saguenay River 130 miles north of Quebec City.

Cinders from the fire started fires in six buildings in Riviere du Moulin, 1½ miles away, including a convent. A small house was destroyed but the rest were extinguished before they could cause much damage.

The fire started shortly after noon in a wing of the hospital used as a chapel and for psychiatric activities as bookbinding.

It spread to a wing used as an old persons' home. About 90 elderly persons were safely evacuated.

GAS EXPLODES

The blaze, fed by exploding oxygen and propane gas cylinders in the basement, then spread to the adjoining wing used to house 150 nuns, all of whom escaped.

The new wing was separated from the older buildings by about 40 feet and was saved except for extensive smoke and water damage.

Dr. Jules Tremblay, associate medical director of Hotel Dieu, said it would take four or five days before patients could be readmitted. He praised the diligence of those who took part in the evacuation.

The roof of the first wing collapsed about half an hour after the fire broke out — spreading to the second wing. All persons were evacuated in about three minutes and the fire was finally brought under control in five hours.

Brother Marie Joseph, director of the hospital, estimated that damage could run as high as $3,000,000.

RECOVER MONEY, ARREST TWO IN ARMED ROBBERY

50 Shots Exchanged In 9-Mile Chase

COOKSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A car commandeered by a policeman rammed a stolen police cruiser to a halt Monday, ending a frantic nine-mile chase which began when two gunmen robbed a bank here of $10,000 and fled in the cruiser with two tellers as hostages.

About 50 shots were exchanged in the chase. It ended with Det. Douglas Burrows of Toronto Township ordering the gunmen out of the car with a gun he later discovered to be empty.

Patrol Sgt. Bernard Oakes, 45, was shot twice in the arm by the men when he refused to obey their commands to drop his gun after responding to an alarm at the Royal Bank of Canada branch here. He was later reported in good condition in hospital.

The tellers taken as hostages, Patrick Cruder, 21, of Cooksville; who turned in the alarm while the robbery was taking place, and Barry Johnston, 20, of Burlington, were not harmed.

Charged with robbery with violence, attempted murder, abduction and car theft were Melvin Brown, 35, of Houston, Tex., and Donald E. Cotham, 33, of Tacoma, Wash.

The alarm was raised shortly after the two gunmen walked into the bank, filled a shopping bag with money and herded the staff of six and an elderly woman customer into a vault.

OPEN FIRE

Sgt. Oakes and Const. Norman Howard arrived outside the bank and the gunmen opened fire. Minutes later they called out: "Hold your fire. We've got hostages."

The two men led the staff to the front door and fired at the

LETTER FORGERY PEARSON SAYS IN HOT DEBATE

Denied Report Before Election

"OTTAWA (CP)—A letter purporting to offer American aid to the Liberal party in unseating the former Progressive Conservative government was brandished a forgery Monday by Prime Minister Pearson.

He said at the end of a heated House of Commons exchange that he had denied initial reports about the letter before the April 8 election and had American Ambassador W. Walton Butterworth, the man alleged to have written it.

Mr. Pearson added that Gordon Churchill, former Conservative cabinet minister who read the letter into the Commons record, "must have known" that the authenticity of the letter had been denied by both men.

Shortly after the flareup in the Commons, the U.S. embassy issued a statement calling the letter a "complete forgery." It said Mr. Butterworth had made this view plain to the former Conservative government before April 8.

Ready Monday by Mr. Churchill, who said he got his copy in the mail, the letter praised Mr. Pearson for his Jan. 12 speech pledging a Liberal government to accept nuclear commitments.

It said the electors would rule the Conservative government "narrow-minded and . . . unfit to continue governing" and it asked for an early meeting with Mr. Pearson, concluding: "You can always count on our support."

Mr. Churchill, who held three portfolios in the Conservative government and finally the defence post, read the letter despite interruptions.

Pyromaniac Strikes Again At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Police blame the elusive east-end pyromaniac for a fire Monday that swept a row of sheds behind the store on Cadillac Street early today.

At least 10 families were evacuated when the fire, in existing, ruined the blaze. No one was injured.

Police said the two-alarm fire was similar to a series of more than 25 others started in the same district since May 8. There has been no loss of life, but scores of families have been left homeless.

Some east-end residents have banded together as vigilantes, and keep watch from alleys and windows through the night in hopes of trapping the firebug.

Say West Germany Wants NATO Run by Majority

OTTAWA (CP) — West Germany still wants any seaborne NATO nuclear force controlled by majority vote of contributing countries once it is in operation, diplomatic quarters say.

They say West Germany, the strongest supporter of such a force, is agreeable to unanimous control while the seaborne nuclear arm is being established but that majority control should be instituted at a later stage.

This would require a change in American law which now states that U.S. nuclear warheads can be fired only on authority of the U.S. president.

West German sources say the U.S. has not ruled out acceptance of majority control but other NATO informants say they doubt the U.S. would ever give up its veto over use of the proposed seaborne force.

The proposal is for NATO to establish a group of 25 surface ships carrying a total of some 200 Polaris long-range missiles for bombardment of Soviet targets.

Under the plan, each contributing country would have a veto over use of the force. Thus any decision on when to fire the nuclear Polaris would have to be unanimous.

The West Germans see eventual majority control over the force as the only means to attract France into it.

But French sources indicate France does not want to participate in the force. France is building her own nuclear "force de frappe" and eventually hopes to have missile-launching nuclear submarines.

Canadian authorities have serious reservations about the seaborne force while conceding that sole American control over nuclear weapons, though acceptable, is no longer possible.

WANTED GUARD RETURNS TO FACE THEFT CHARGES

$300,000 in Cash Found at Motel

VANCOUVER (CP) — Douglas John Brown made a backdoor arrival from Rio de Janeiro Monday night and was put behind bars as the suspect in the theft of $325,000 from the Vancouver armored car service where he worked.

He was to appear in magistrate's court today, charged with theft of more than $50.

Brown, 35, flew from Toronto in a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane with six policemen and fraud suspect Berl Boral. At the airport, Boral was used as a decoy to draw off an army of reporters, photographers and armed men.

As Brown made the last leg of his three-day journey from Rio, city police announced recovery of about $300,000 in cash, part of the loot in the May 18 theft. Another $220,000 in cheques had been found May 20 in a car abandoned near Vancouver.

Hemorrhaging Is Persistent State Doctors

Pontiff Said Failing To Respond to Aid

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Death brushed close to Pope John XXIII today, but he weathered the crisis.

Persistent hemorrhaging left him in grave condition.

The Vatican disclosed he is suffering from gastric heteroplasia—a growth in the stomach. This could be a cancer or a tumor, either benign of malignant.

The diagnosis, published by the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, was the first specifically defining the illness of the 81-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff.

The dictionary definition of heteroplasia is: The formation of abnormal tissue or of normal tissue in an abnormal locality.

Through tense hours this morning, three doctors were at the Pope's bedside and worked feverishly to halt the hemorrhaging that would not stop, Vatican sources reported.

CRISIS IS WORST

It was the worst crisis of the illness that has held him briefly last fall and has since recurred intermittently.

Medica personnel rushed in and out of the papal apartment.

It is possible the doctors have not determined the exact kind of growth involved. In the past, surgery had been considered for exploratory purposes—and been decided as too dangerous for the pontiff because of his age and condition.

Until today the Vatican had said only that the Pope had a stomach disorder.

L'Osservatore said the hemorrhages, "caused by the gastric heteroplasia, which is affected the Holy Father for about a year, after being arrested for several months, have had an accentuated resumption in recent days." It added:

"They have now been attenuated, and the organic consequences linked to them are, therefore, limited and can be compensated by the curative measures adopted."

FULL FOR TRAIN

Aside from disclosing the growth, the statement also revealed that the Pope had been ill for a year. Until now, his illness had been dated to last November.

The doctors were Piero Mazzoni of Rome, who has remained in permanent residence in the Apostolic Palace for a week; Antonio Gasbarrini, the Pope's personal physician, and Pietro Valdoni, one of Italy's leading surgeons.

Mazzoni went to the Pope's bedside at 9:15 a.m. An hour later Gasbarrini was ushered into the papal apartment. Then

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Diplomats in close touch with the Vatican were quoted by reliable Roman Catholic sources today as saying the Pope's condition is "hopeless."

The report, published by The Netherlands Catholic news agency KNP, said these diplomats declared the Pope is suffering from cancer of the stomach.

"He can no longer be operated upon and is suffering from continuous serious hemorrhages," the agency said.

It added that even if the hemorrhages could be counteracted, a permanent improvement in the Pope's condition could not be achieved.

The news agency said:

"It is believed that the end cannot be far off, since the Pope's heart is beginning to give out."

"Because of the hemorrhages the Pope is unable to take solid food and so he is unable to regain strength.

"It is only with the greatest difficulty that the Pope is able to communicate with others, although he himself believes that he can manage it."

U.S. Paper Calls NATO Meeting Military Hoax, But Useful One

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Washington Star charges that the NATO meeting at Ottawa last week was nothing more than a military hoax, albeit a useful one.

The decisions of the 15-country North Atlantic Treaty Organization council, widely hailed as endorsing a NATO nuclear strike force, merely created an illusion that European allies are getting their own nuclear defences, the newspaper says editorially.

"In a military sense the unanimous decisions reported will not have the slightest effect on the defence of Europe. Neither will the 'multilateral force' to which it is designed to lead.

"These proposals will not change the nature or number of available weapons or the control or targeting of those weapons. They will change nothing that matters to military men."

The Star says the key to nuclear defence—control over nuclear triggers—remains firmly in American hands. It suggests that American friends in Europe are "playing games" and does see through the centre of the issue.

"Concerned over the dangers of proliferation of nuclear weapons, they now will be able to tell the Russians they want to talk about a proposed multilateral nuclear force, as a defence against nuclear attack and others who needle them for not having independent nuclear defences.

"The multilateral nuclear force and the midget step taken in that direction at Ottawa emerge then as military hoaxes —hoaxes which may still serve useful purposes. Provided, of course, no one looks at them too closely."

Estate Tax Squeeze Called Unreasonable in Brief

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Committee on the Status of Women, an organization formed in 1963 to focus attention on shortcomings in the old Dominion Succession Duty Act, said today that no estate tax should be levied on the estate of a married couple until both are dead.

In a brief to the Carter royal commission on taxation, the committee sought a series of changes in the Estate Tax Act—successor to the Succession Duty Act—to ease the financial burdens facing the survivors of an estate.

When estates total less than $75,000 it is "nearly impossible" to find liquid assets that can be set aside for taxes, the brief said. Money is often urgently needed to keep a business operating or to provide education for children and "the government has no right to frustrate a married couple's expectations of a reasonable and earned security while either spouse lives."

Supreme Court Gets Tough

Orders Public Facilities Desegregated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Racial segregation in the southern states is being smashed in a triple squeeze by the U.S. Supreme Court, the Kennedy administration and Negroes themselves demonstrating against discrimination.

The court Monday dealt a deadly blow to exclusion of Negroes from parks, playgrounds or other public facilities. And it clearly showed it is getting tougher about delays in desegregating public schools.

Only a week ago, the court banned any attempt to exclude Negroes from places catering to the public—such as restaurants, bar or department stores—when the exclusion is imposed by state or city law or official orders.

The court has not yet ruled on whether proprietors of places catering to the public can—on their own and without compulsion from laws or officials—keep Negroes out.

More and more this year Negro demonstrations are personal ading while segregationists in the southern states to remove their racial bars

The Kennedy administration has been pushing harder. For example: sending troops into Alabama to be used, if necessary, to prevent riots in Birmingham.

The same troops can be used next month to enforce a court order—that two Negroes be admitted to the University of Alabama—if the governor, George Wallace, tries to carry out his threat to defy the court.

Attorney - General Kennedy met with owners of southern movie theatres Monday to tell them to begin solving their desegregation problems by working on them on a town-by-town basis.

Believe French Student's Trip Ended in Death on Alaska Road

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Police pressed efforts today to confirm that a body found near an isolated Alaska Highway gravel pit was that of a young French student who disappeared while on a sentimental journey to Canada.

Insp. J. L. Vachon of the RCMP said here Monday night the body almost certainly is that of Henri Meriguet, 20, of Annecy, France.

He declined on route home after tracing the footsteps of his grandfather, Emile Gay, one of the Klondike prospectors who travelled the Klondike trails during the 1898 gold rush.

Insp. Vachon said preliminary identification came from clothing labels. A convict in British Columbia Penitentiary, earlier questioned in the case, is to be interviewed again, Insp. Vachon said.

Bilingual French Class Asked by Club in Brief

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Separate School Board was held in the board room of St. Michael's Academy on Monday, with chairman Edward Buckley presiding.

Prior to the regular meeting the board received a delegation from the Rev. Marquette Club, who presented a brief regarding the establishment of a bilingual French class in the system, and requesting that such class be commenced in September of 1963. As opposed to the oral French program already being instituted, this would be a class for children of French-speaking parents only, established at one school, where instruction in the regular curriculum subjects would be given in both French and English.

Mr. Buckley outlined in detail to the delegation what had been considered in this regard by a special committee set up to study this and the question of oral French instruction, and pointed out that to institute the bilingual class would probably require the building of an additional class room, and it was thought unlikely that this could be provided in the current year. The matter was then referred to the committee concerned for further study, with a final answer likely at the regular June meeting.

Reports of various committees were presented, and the property committee was given authorization to proceed with a maintenance program on a reduced scale from original presentation of requirements. This is to be a continuing program of regular maintenance, but some projects have had to be deferred because of lack of funds.

The school management committee, and the secretary-treasurer advised that arrangements were almost completed in the hiring of teachers for the 1963-1964 term, and there were still two vacancies to be filled, one of which was for that of a science teacher at St. Michael's Academy. The application of Mrs. P. Cantin for the position of oral French teacher was approved.

The question of provision of supplies was again discussed, and the management committee will make further inquiries and bring in a final recommendation at the next meeting.

The question of complaints, inquiries, etc., from parents of children in the system was also discussed, and the secretary-treasurer was instructed to advise in such cases that the board would deal with these matters if requested, provided that those concerned would present themselves in person at the board room to appear before the board; together with others directly concerned in any such matters, and that this appeared to be the only practical way that situations of this sort could be handled to the satisfaction of all parties.

Organist Was Ronald Robertson

Organist at the Albert College Baccalaureate Service in Bridge Street United Church was Ronald Robertson.

In a report on the service the name given was that of Alec Gordon. Mr. Gordon was absent through illness.

Must Consider 'Whole Man' Says Speaker

There is a difference between being willing to work and wanting to work, as expressed by Mr. Don Daugharty, personnel superintendent of Belleville's Northern Electric Company, in his address to the Rotary Club of Belleville, at noon on Monday.

Mr. Daugharty said that confidence in each other was the basis of success in business between the employer and the employee. "More can be obtained by a job as a calling rather than thinking of it as work".

"One of the basic requirements of the personnel function," he said, "is to consider the "whole man" and not just the notarial work, units of production and quality of workmanship. Consideration must constantly be given to the effect of influences outside the job, on the man's temperament and ability to perform safely and adequately."

"The company," he said, "is constantly stressing the necessity of an employee to improve his education and to maintain a 75 per cent refund for the tuition of an approved educational course."

"We have had as high as 70 employees, said Mr. Daugharty, taking educational courses in order to advance in their capabilities. Some of these employees were able to refund their examinations and acquire professional status in their chosen fields of work."

SELF-CONTAINED UNIT

"Our local plant is a self-contained manufacturing unit and we have our own sales organization, engineering department, production control, and accounting department. The latest addition is the business system development group under the direction of Stu Robb, as always and to keep operating the Northern Company more effectively."

The Northern Electric Company employs upwards, of 400 salaried or administrative employees.

Mr. Daugharty said all vacancies were filled by promotions from within the company whenever possible.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Ken Robb and thanked on behalf of the club by Rube Freeman.

Miss Sandra Wood was present for the dinner meeting as a special guest. Miss Wood helped in the Bridge Street United Church Easter Seal campaign.

Miss Woodwas presented with a gift on behalf of the club by Jack Marshall.

Also present as a guest of the club was Belleville grade 12 student, Gordon Hogan, sponsored by the local Rotary Club at the Adventure and Citizenship trip to Ottawa recently. Gordon enjoyed some of the highlights of the trip to the club and said one of the most interesting people he met was the mayor of Ottawa Charlotte Whitton. He said the only way he can describe her is that she is a character. He thanked the Belleville Rotary Club for the opportunity given him to attend the convention in Ottawa.

City Honors G. A. Whitman

City Welfare Administrator George A. Whitman, who at the end of the month will leave Belleville to assume a new position with the federal government at Ottawa, was the recipient yesterday of a set of gold cuff links from the city.

Deputy Mayor Ben Corke, in the absence of Mayor A. M. Hall, made the presentation to Mr. Whitman at the commencement of the regular meeting of council. The cuff links bear the city crest.

Deputy Mayor Corke, on behalf of the city, expressed appreciation to Mr. Whitman for the "great success" with which he had carried on the work of his department.

In reply Mr. Whitman said it was with mixed feelings that he terminated his 16 years' association with the city.

"I have been very good years and I have tried to perform my duties satisfactorily," he said.

Atomic Power Story Is Told To Kinsmen

By 1970, large heavy-water atomic power reactors will generate electricity at lower costs than coal-fired plants in some three industrialized provinces of the country, said Mr. David Gale, of the Canadian General Electric Company, as he addressed the Kinsmen Club of Belleville on Monday evening.

Mr. Gale's address was based on facts surrounding the building of Canada's first nuclear power station, a part of the Ontario Hydro's power system at Rolphton. The station operating demonstration reactor is located near the Chalk River Research Centre.

"On Monday, June 4th, 1962, electricity produced from nuclear power, flowed into the homes and industries of Canada for the first time.

"One may ask why nuclear power is needed in Canada, especially when we have an apparent abundance of coal, oil, natural gas and water power.

"Our answer could well be the fact that during the past ten years there has been a spectacular rise in the consumption of electricity.

"The use of nuclear power would help Canada," continued the speaker, "with the world's largest proved reserves of uranium, to reduce the serious penal ties imposed by this deficit situation.

"This is why the (Nuclear Power Demonstration) project is such a vital concern to Canada. Its main purpose is that of a practical working demonstration of Canada's approach to economic nuclear power through the use of natural uranium as fuel.

In closing Mr. Gale said that many countries were now entering nuclear power developments in Canada with close interest, with the United Kingdom paying serious attention to the role of the Canadian reactor type in its future programs.

The speaker was introduced by Kinsman Bob Swain and thanked on behalf of the clubs by members by Kin Terry Bender.

FILM SHOWN

Following his address, Mr. Gale provided a film telling the story behind the Nuclear Power Demonstration plan, how it was built and where it was located.

Guests present at the meeting were Mr. David Gale, Grant Ingram and Peter Hunt. Also in attendance for the evening was Wm. Wilson, a former member of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville, recently returned from Korea.

Three members and their wives, President Kelly Belanger and Mrs. Belanger, President-Elect Jim Wild and Mrs. Wild and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Park, will be attending the District Convention as representatives of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville being held this weekend in Shawinigan Falls.

Following the June 10th meeting, the club will observe a summer recess and will resume sometime in September.

Preparations are being made to open the swimming pool, on Dundas Street, in the near future

PENAL EXPERTS MEET

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's top federal penal authorities meet at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary Tuesday to discuss maintenance of a training program for prisoners under the pressures of an increasing penitentiary population. Allan J. MacLeod, federal commissioner of penitentiaries, said the population has increased to 7,200 this year from 5,700 in 1956.

Library May Get Approval For Branch

Despite the fact that council earlier asked the board to delay its project for a year, the Belleville Library Board may yet be given the go-ahead signal to commence construction of its east end branch library.

Yesterday at city council Alderman Frank Murray introduced a notice of motion asking that the Library be given authority this year to proceed with the construction.

Earlier, in a measure to keep expenditures down, council had asked the Library board to defer construction.

Accused Got Licence Under Another Name

Jailed for driving under suspension, a young Belleville man, today also was fined $50 for obtaining a driver's licence under another name.

Kenneth Norman Tarrant pleaded guilty to both charges described by Magistrate T. Y. Wills as "barefaced, deliberate fraud."

Mr. Tarrant was charged after city police stopped his automobile April 19. Inspector J. B. McEwen said the accused showed the officer a licence in the name of "Jack Robert Davis."

"He indicated that his name was Davis and that the owner of the vehicle was elsewhere," said the inspector. However, the officer was dissatisfied with the explanation and brought Tarrant to the police station where he admitted his real identity.

Tarrant's operator's licence was suspended for failing to show proof of insurance.

Defence counsel Ben Hurshman said the accused "unfortunately acted on the basis of some amateur lawyer's advice" in selecting the licence under an assumed name.

"A good understatement for deliberate fraud," commented Magistrate Wills. "This is such a barefaced and deliberate fraud and I regret and am outright until the man was into the police station."

He warned Tarrant that he now possessed a record.

"If you ever do anything foolish like this again, or ever anything remotely like it, you've really had it," the magistrate concluded.

Two Given Jail Terms

Separate sentences were handed out in magistrate's court today to two young Belleville men for contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Joseph King was given six months and a companion, Richard Tyson jailed for three months by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The magistrate noted that Tyson has been very good and on suspended sentence when the two were charged after an incident involving a 15-year-old girl.

Swim Classes To Start At YMCA

Once again the Belleville YMCA is readying itself for the annual June "Learn-To-Swim" classes for boys and girls of seven years of age and up and for adults also.

This is one of many facets of the local YMCA's program to promote water safety for local children and citizens. Last summer, 287 persons were taught to swim.

The classes will commence on Monday, June 3 for the boys and on Tuesday, June 4, for the girls. Ten half-hour classes comprise each course with only 14 children to each class so that instruction can be on a personalized basis. All but a few openings in the 6.00 and 6.30 classes have been filled.

Registration for the July "Learn-To-Swim" programs have begun. Classes in July will be held daily—boys in the morning and girls in the early afternoon.

Ask Authority To Make Trucks Cover Loads

The days of the street litter-bug could be ended if a resolution to be considered by Belleville city council is approved by the Ontario Legislature.

Yesterday council referred a Niagara Falls resolution in the matter to its finance committee for consideration.

The resolution asked that the Department of Municipal Affairs amend the Municipal Act to give councils the authority to pass by-laws calling for commercial vehicles and trailers to be covered with tarpaulins when carrying loads such as waste paper, paper cartons or other such materials.

The resolution noted that the above matter is already covered under the Highway Traffic Act, but littering of highways and roads continues as it is often difficult to prove the offence.

Residents Do Not Want Street Closed

Residents of the Elgin St. area, north of the Wilson Concrete plant in the west end of the city don't want the south end of their street closed up.

They claim the closing of the street would detract from the value of their properties, and would also inconvenience approximately 40 school children who use that route on the way to school.

Elgin Street runs parallel to Sidney Street and north from Wilson Ave. to Moira Street, but the south end of the street has not been opened.

The objection of half a dozen or more residents in the area was brought before council by a Belleville solicitor.

The by-law to close Elgin St. was on the night's council agenda but it was referred back for more consideration.

Council Votes To Get Property By Expropriation

City council voted yesterday to proceed with the expropriation of the necessary land to construct proposed access road from Highway 37 to Tice Creek east to serve an industrial area.

The plan is to charge the cost of the access road against the general rate of the city.

Two weeks ago verbal objection to the city's proposed plan was raised in council by Belleville lawyer Douglas Boyle, who was acting for an un-named client.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said today that the last date for Mr. Boyle's client to lodge an official objection through proper channels would be up in a day or so.

Plans call for the construction of a new warehouse by a large transport company on condition that the city build a paved access roadway to the property.

Members Will Take Tour Of Watershed

Members of city council will get a first hand view of accomplishments of the Moira River Conservation Authority and decide whether the city is getting value for its money.

Wednesday, June 12th, the Authority is inviting council members on an all-day tour of the watershed with stops at the most important projects and attractions.

Alderman George Wishart as chairman of the Authority, yesterday extended the official invitation to council members to go along on the bus trip. He said there would be noon luncheon at Tweed at which time Dr. Ross Lord, chairman of the Metro Conservation Authority would be the guest speaker.

As the major urban centre municipality in the Watershed, the city of Belleville, pays a considerable percentage of the Authority local levy.

Three Charges Laid After Driver Chased Many Miles

A Brighton man was arrested during the evening rush-hour in Belleville last night after a passing motorist chased a car 14 miles from a hit-and-run accident at Marysville.

Police said the chase, at speeds up to 80 miles an hour, started when Don Brant of Shannonville, saw an automobile involved in a two-car crash take off from the scene.

Mr. Brant took out after the car along Highway 2 but his automobile was unable to catch up with, the pursued vehicle.

The chase took both cars through Belleville's east end and into the downtown supper-hour traffic. Both cars were halted in a line-up at Bridge and Pinnacle Street, where city constable Jack Parker was on point duty. Mr. Brant jumped from his automobile and pointed out the car he had been chasing.

Constable Parker halted the vehicle as it turned onto Bridge Street and arrested its driver.

Taken in custody was Cecil Ross Lowe, of Brighton. Provincial police later charged him on three counts—leaving the scene of an accident, dangerous driving and impaired driving.

Police alleged his car struck an automobile owned by Jack Paul Harry, R.R. 5, Trenton. Total damage was estimated at $400.

HIT AND RUN — City and Provincial Police inspect car last night which they claim was chased at high speeds by a civilian from a Marysville accident scene to Belleville. A Brighton man was charged after the car was stopped by a traffic line-up at Bridge and Pinnacle Streets.

RETIRING TEACHERS — Honored by local teaching profession in Belleville last night were Kay MacPherson and Mrs. Hildred Hodgin, both with Manly Macdonald paintings at Masonic Temple in Belleville last night. Also in the picture are Alec Gilmour, Bea Wallbridge, (centre), and Orma Shack. More than 200 attended the testimonial banquet. Miss MacPherson, a native of Sidney Township, has taught at Prince Charles' School for the past 10 years. Mrs. Hodgin, born in Thurlow, has been at Prince of Wales School, also for 10 years.

Sidney Twp. Tax Rates Set, Up Slightly

A general township rate of 41 mills for farm and residential, and 48.7 mills for commercial and industrial properties in the Bay of Quinte District High School District have been set by Sidney township council for 1963.

In the Sterling-Rawdon High School District the general township rate is 46.9 mills for farm and residential and 53.2 mills for commercial and industrial properties.

These rates represent a small increase over the 1962 general levy. All elementary school rates are in addition to the general levies. The highest rate of taxation in the township will be 75 mills for farm and residential and 86.4 mills for commercial and industrial and in contrast the lowest rate of taxation will be 53.4 mills for farm and residential and 62.5 mills for commercial and industrial. The elementary school rates vary in their respective school sections, some showing an increase and others a decrease.

The ratepayers of Sidney township will be required to pay a total of $351,262.23 in municipal taxes for the year 1963, for all purposes including local improvements.

The 1962 auditor's report was received and accepted from the township auditor, John D Lewars, and was dealt with in detail, reviewing all the aspects of the corporation's business of last year. A brief of the report has already been made public in the local press.

Batawa sewage project is progressing with contracts having been let to Bay City Construction Ltd. of Belleville for the outfall sewer and Lightfoot Construction of Belleville for the sewage treatment plant. It is anticipated that the sewage treatment project will be ready for operation next fall.

Zoning Changes Are Opposed By Alderman

What was termed "piecemeal whittling" at designated park land by a continual zoning changes drew strong objection from city alderman Stuart Robb at yesterday's council meeting.

A recommendation from the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board calling for a zoning change to R-1 residential for parts of lots 35, 36, 37, 38, formerly in Sidney township in the vicinity of water filtration plant provoked the comment.

"I always object to this eating into park area," said Alderman Robb. "Does this mean that we are more interested in cramming more houses into the city than in open space?"

Alderman Jack Ellis said the parks board had shown no interest in the waterfront property as a potential park, despite the fact it had been so designated in the official city plan.

QUESTION ASKED

Alderman Frank Murray pointed out, however, that the parks board were operating on a strict budget and had only so much money to spend.

A question was raised whether the land in question could be properly sewered or whether septic tanks would work, thus allowing housing construction.

The reply was that bringing in a quantity of earth fill would enable septic tanks to work.

Alderman Ellis said the recommendation to re-zone the area was not a recent thought but had been decided on by the planning board at least six months ago.

In the end council approved of the zoning change.

Reasons Given For Sidewalks Breaking Up

City Engineer W. C. Purcell yesterday answered the question raised in council two weeks ago as to why concrete curbs and some sidewalks laid last year have now started to break up, but not all councillors are satisfied.

Reference was made in particular to sidewalk laid at the Federal building.

The engineer said that the walk in question had been laid in 1961 and that at that time the city was not using air entrained concrete and neither had a sealing compound been used on the cement at that time.

He said it appeared deterioration had been accelerated by a salt solution splashed by traffic from the roadway.

Mr. Purcell said he had checked several of the major sidewalk repairs carried out last year but found only one stretch that was breaking out.

SEVERAL REASONS

He said there were several possible reasons for the section going bad, namely, no air entrainment in the cement batch, over-trowelling of the mix or the use of salt even by residents abutting the walk.

"We've got a new city engineers now and I think the works department will be doing better", observed Alderman Enos David.

"Let's hope so", returned Alderman Jack Deacon, "Much of the work done in other years has been just pathetic. It was just poor concrete work, that's all."

Elderly Man Thrown From Farm Tractor

An elderly Belleville man today was recovering from minor accident injuries after what city police called "a near-thing to fatality" on Cannifton Road last night.

Charles Reid, 93 Geddes Street, received scratches, bruises and a shaking up when he was thrown from a tractor as it lurched off the roadway.

The tractor hit a tree and this, say police may have stopped it from toppling across its driver.

Officers at the scene say Mr. Reid lost control of the machine when he was startled by a passing automobile horn.

Special Gifts Finance Wards' Education

Although Children's Aid Societies may not use public funds for the education of wards beyond the age of 18, this limitation has not denied higher education to close to 20 wards of the local C.A.S.

Through what is known as "The Continuing Education Fund" made up of special bequests to the society, wards having the potential to take advanced education are able to do so.

The money is placed in a trust account and the interest used to further the education of wards who are felt capable of taking further education.

This year a ward of the Belleville and Hastings County C.A.S. is receiving his university B.A. and has already lined up a teaching job. And a year or so ago a brother of the above boy graduated in mechanical engineering.

Also this year another ward of the local society graduated as a nurse from Belleville General Hospital, while still another girl will shortly graduate as a nursing assistant at Kingston.

Mr. Bruce Kerr, superintendent of the local C.A.S. said today that over the year close to 20 wards of the society had received specialized training of some sort, many of them taking business courses at Ontario Business College.

Earlier bequests of interested citizens had made the program possible, but last year a special fund "The Continuing Education Fund" was created to encourage, receive and perpetuate gifts of money to be used to aid former CAS wards to continue their educational training.

Glass in the Alfalfa

Up in Bruce County, the "elephant's tail" of Southwestern Ontario, (just turn the map sideways), Puritanism, science and the Weather-man have met in a head-on collision The crash has left cows with cut knees, tractors with torn tires and farmers with touchy tempers.

The cure for these ills, as proposed by the Bruce County Federation of Agriculture, would be a law holding breweries, distilleries and soft-drink bottlers responsible for the damage done when bottles holding their products fall, or are tossed, by the wayside.

This might apply the necessary unguent to the farmers' boiling tempers, through the medium of their pocket books, and might replenish the tires on tractors, but it does not seem to offer the bovine inhabitants of the area an adequate recompense for glass-cut throats and stomachs.

The glass gets into the fields as the result of the wonders of modern science, which produces snowblowers as a more efficient way of clearing highways than the old snowplow.

The Weatherman plays his role by dumping on Bruce County many inches of the "big beautiful" than he bestows on this part of Ontario, and then ruffling the blanket with constant winds off Lake Ontario, to the west, or Georgian Bay, to the north and east. This makes snowplows stiff and groan and brings the snowblower-type to the rescue.

Puritanism? Well, most of those broken bottles which are strewn along the roads and end up snow-blowed into adjoining fields are beer-bottles. Now no person in his right mind would drink beer in a car on the highway—and in the dead of winter—if there were more pleasant places for the sport easily available. Bruce, though, while not as "dry" as its neighboring county of Grey, has as many dry areas as a leopard has spots, and a habit of looking down its nose at those who frequent the village oases. These are often at formidable distances in the Scot-settled north. In the German-colonized areas of the south, bleeding cows, flat-tired tractors and angry farmers are probably less in evidence

University at Sea

Don't look now, but there is a new bete noir looming on the horizon of those who object to frills in education. Its shape and size will terrify any survivors of the Ontario "little red school-house" enthusiasts who once officially classified science laboratories as frills (for provincial grant purposes) and will amaze even those who today express more reasonable misgivings about such things as swimming pools.

The Frankensteins who has dreamed up this monster has his den somewhere in the executive suite of the Holland-American Line and is propably now receiving the congratulations of his colleagues and the accolades of shareholders.

Not to keep the reader in suspense any longer, the latest in educational advantages is a college on the high seas—university courses offered on a luxury liner on a world cruise.

California, the land of Aimee Semple McPherson and the Townsend Plan, has issued a charter for the University of the Seven Seas, to be conducted on a Holland-American Line motor ship of that name. The first cruise will be from New York, sailing Oct. 22, and the "semester's" itinerary includes Lisbon, Barcelona, Cannes, Rome, Naples, Athens, Alexandria, Haifa, Port Said, Suez, Bombay, Colombo, Singapore, Bangkok, Saigon, Hong Kong, Kobe, Yokohoma and Honolulu. The second cruise, or semester, starts at San Diego, Cal., and ports of call include Honolulu, Yokohama, Kobe, Hong Kong, Manila, Djakarta, Singapore, Rangoon, Madras, Colombo, Durban, Capetown, Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Rio de Janeiro, Caracas, Cartegena, and Kingston, Jamaica.

Of course travel is educational and travel with 35 highly qualified instructors from colleges and universities all over the world should be even more so—but a university at sea for the study of architecture and economics? Still at a minimum of $1,590 for the first shorter course; higher rates for the second semester and tuition on top of that, the course in economics will rate as an absolute necessity for many.

"We often say of a bright color, when it appears in the wrong place, that it is 'loud': and we may add that the wearer really ought to have chosen something more 'subdued' for the occasion. Here we are using words about sounds to describe sights; but this way of talking verges on the incomprehensible, as when a perfume chemist said of a scent, 'I found it a little flat, a bit discordant . . . it needed more body in the middle tones and less brass at the top'." — Dr. F. McKellar, senior lecturer in psychology at Sheffield University.

Harkness – Black Sheep Of Conservative Party

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — You would not want to be in former Conservative Defence Minister Douglas Harkness' shoes these days.

Without doubt, and not excepting the unhappy and mutually hostile co-leaders of Social Credit, fire-eating Real Caouette and humble-pie-munching Robert Thompson, the ruggedly independent MP for Calgary North is the most uncomfortable man in the Commons.

His former Cabinet colleagues cut him icily cold.

His party associates, the Conservative rank and file in the House, openly revile him.

And probably most humiliating of all, the triumphant Liberals — who owe him so much — gleefully applaud him each time he rises in the Commons to so much as ask a brief question.

The Conservatives, front and backbenchers alike, blame Harkness, even more than former party glamor boy, Trade Minister George Hees, for last April's election disaster.

It was his resignation, they say, that brought the Cabinet "revolt" against former Prime Minister Diefenbaker into the open, created the party's most deeply divided, gave campaign aid and comfort to the Liberals' "enemy" and banished them once again, into the wilderness' of Opposition.

EASY TO SAVE

There was talk, in the first week of this opening session of the new Parliament that Harkness would be expelled from the Conservative caucus.

For, while the Toronto wing or the Bigtown segment of the party, might still nurse hopes of dumping Diefenbaker as leader, the Parliamentary caucus remains fanatically loyal to the former Prime Minister.

To a man — except, of course for Harkness — the Prairie MPs, and by sheer weight of overwhelming numbers they boss the caucus) are dedicated to Diefenbaker.

They, it was openly boasted at the initial Commons caucus, would hurl Harkness, bound and bloody, right through the solid oak doors.

These were the same partisans who, marching into that dramatic caucus election caucus when Diefenbaker was down, Diefenbaker was down, Diefenbaker was down,

Pickerel Cost $25, Taken Out of Season

A single pickerel cost a Belleville man $25 today.

The amount was assessed by Magistrate T. Y. Wills against Rodney Sharpe who pleaded guilty to illegally having a spear near pickerel spawning grounds.

Sharpe was charged after RCMP Corporal Ross Grange and a constable set up watch in Victoria Park April 12th. The officers watched two men in a boat near a small nearby rockpile in the Moira River who eventually rowed ashore practically under the officers' noses.

Sharpe, said Corporal Grange, had a flashlight and a spear.

"He was also carrying a large fish which appeared to be a pickerel. The moment we called to him he threw the fish in the water and the fish was not recovered," the corporal said.

Miss United Appeal for '63 Introduced at Dinner Meet

Belleville laughed for a good cause last night. The good cause was the Belleville United Appeal, and the laughter was with Miss Angela Armitt, guest speaker at the Belleville United Appeal dinners, held at the Hotel Quinte. Fewer than fifty people heard the address at the dinner but an uncounted number listened in on a live broadcast of the event, by radio station CJBQ.

Stated purpose of the dinner was to introduce to the public "Miss United Appeal of 1963," Miss Gail Walker, of Belleville. Miss Walker will promote the United Appeal during the 1963 campaign, by appearing at social and charitable functions. Originally from London, Miss Walker attended high school in Belleville for several years, left and returned to Belleville after graduation.

Other projects planned by the Belleville United Appeal this year, as announced at the dinner by Mrs. Lennox Smith include a "Theme Picture Contest," a telephone campaign and a parade.

BLESSING OF HUMOR

Miss Armitt, an associate professor of the Extension Department of the University of Western Ontario, is also noted as a folk dance and square dance teacher and judge, as a square dance caller and as a humorous speaker. She inaugurated some new instruction in her speech list night—at one time she had her audience dancing "The Bird"—but the main theme of her speech was "Count Your Blessings."

Miss Armitt spoke of three blessings—humor in printed "bloopers," the funny things people say without meaning to, and intentionally humorous jokes and anecdotes. She gave several examples of each. "But the greatest blessing of all," she continued, "is the humor of children". She commented on the value of the United Appeal organizations working with children. Belleville United Appeal organizers will be criticized by armchair critics, she said, "but don't let them get you down," she added.

Mrs. J. H. Forrester, first president of the Belleville United Appeal, introduced the speaker and Mrs. Lennox Smith publicity chairman for the Appeal thanked her. Mr. E. G. Gurnett, president of the Appeal for 1963, added his thanks to those offered by Mrs. Smith.

School Guards Refused Raise By City Council

The increasing costs of the local school guard system is creating a problem for city council, which yesterday voted against giving guards a raise in wages.

The school guards this year had asked for a five dollar per week wage increase to $20. The traffic committee countered with a recommendation for a $2.50 raise, but this had been cut down at budget time, and yesterday council approved a committee recommendation that no increase in wages be approved at this time.

Alderman Frank Murray asked whether some other system than paid school guards could be used

Alderman Jack Ireland replied that in some centres senior school guards were used but the suggestion locally had run into opposition.

The alderman said there were some school guards who should be moved to other crossings, but he admitted this was difficult once the crossing guard was established.

He felt there was no alternative to the present school guard system, which could be brought to council.

GETS W.H.O. POST

GENEVA (Reuters) — Dr. B. D. B. Layton of Ottawa Monday was elected chairman of the executive board of the World Health Organization. The 24-member board met here to consider how to carry out in practice the decisions of the world health assembly which closed last week.

Council Proposes to Buy Two Additional Properties For Off-Street Parking

City council yesterday gave first and second reading to a by - law authorizing the purchase of additional lands for off - street parking and for development of two other lots, but not before a breakdown of the cost was requested.

The by-law set a limit of $70,000 for the various projects, the money to be raised by the issue of debentures.

The parking authority proposes to purchase the Thompson property on Pinnacle Street and the Doyle property at the rear of the Salvation Army citadel.

Estimated cost of the Thompson property was given as $29,400, and for the Doyle property $18,770.

Development of the Stobie property at the corner of Campbell and Pinnacle, and the Dan Hair property on Front Street is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $22,000.

SUGGESTION DENIED

A suggestion from the council floor that the city was in need of further off-street parking space at this time, drew a denial from Traffic and Light committee chairman, Alderman Jack Ireland.

"I admit that parking right now is not as acute as in the past, but the need will show again in a few weeks," he said.

He said that any attempt to slow down the parking authority's program, or to acquire less than was being asked would be a move backwards.

"It would be disastrous for the downtown area," he said.

Mrs. Nina Khrushchev Breaks Code of Behavior

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Mrs. Nina Petrovna Khrushchev has broken the traditional code of behavior for wives of Soviet political leaders.

The code, simply stated, was that these wives were seldom seen and never heard in public.

But nobody was surprised recently when Mrs. Khrushchev graced a British children's book exhibition here.

The exhibition threw the spotlight on the two great loves of her life—children and books.

Mrs. Khrushchev, 63-year-old former school teacher, heard about the exhibition and asked if she could come. She stayed for more than an hour.

The serenely self - possessed wife of Premier Khrushchev first broke the traditional code in 1959 and faced the toughest public test of any Soviet official's wife. She accompanied her husband on a hectic tour of the publicity-conscious United States.

Mrs. Khrushchev scored a triumph of her own. Her basic simplicity, intelligence and unflagging smile influenced people just as much as her husband's earthy humor. Americans were deeply impressed by the plump little woman with her placid Slavic face and natural dignity.

SEES BENNY GOODMAN

Since then she has had several official engagements including from accompanying her husband to Paris in 1960 and seeing a Dior collection to sitting through a concert by The King of Swing, Benny Goodman, in Moscow.

Mrs. Khrushchev has no day-to-day chart of engagements on the lines of wives of government leaders of the Western world.

But she occasionally plays host to women's delegations and threw a bumper six-hour reception for diplomats' wives on Communist Women's Day in March.

She met her husband in the Ukraine when she was teaching political science and he was studying to be a mining engineer. They were married in 1934. The Soviet premier's first wife, apparently died in the famine of the early 1920's.

There were two children of this earlier marriage, a daughter Yulia and a son who died during the war.

The couple had three children Yelena, Sergei and Rada, who is married to Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia.

COUNTRY HOME

Mrs. Khrushchev runs a Moscow home on Lenin Hills and a spacious two - storey villa an hour's drive from the city where the Soviet Premier often spends weekends.

She is reported once to have said she does not like housework but likes gardening. Her grandchildren help her in the garden.

Like most wives of the Soviet elite she shops by telephone at special stores. She buys her clothes from an atelier (workshop) of Soviet ministers which means foreign clothes not normally available.

She loves reading, with space fiction high on the list. She reads English books in the original.

She speaks English haltingly but grammatically — having attended classes three nights a week for two years in Kiev during the war.

Mrs. Khrushchev often appears at the same functions as her husband. At one Kremlin reception she was pushed along in the crowd unnoticed. A Western correspondent accidentally stepped on her toe.

He apologized and she replied in English: "Oh, that's all right, it didn't hurt."

"Before I tell you whether he's mine or not—what's he done?"

QUESTION: Must brides-maids wear gloves that cover the elbow when gowns with short sleeves are worn? My bridesmaids prefer wrist-length gloves. I'll go along with them if it's correct. Otherwise, I'll simply have to insist on the longer type. — E. R., Trenton, N. J.

LONG, FOR FORMALS

Answer: Long gloves usually are worn at a formal wedding, although this currently is subject to change, depending on the cut of the gown and where the wedding is held. At a home wedding, for instance, the feeling is usually less formal, even though gowns are fully traditional, so shorties sometimes are worn. There's a trend toward short gloves for bridesmaids, anyway, regardless of sleeve length, so your own taste should be the final judge.

Question: I'm planning to have a cocktail buffet and would like to know how long cocktails should be served before guests are invited to eat. — Mrs. N. C., Baltimore, Md.

Answer: Guests may be invited to start serving themselves about an hour after the party starts. Most guests will have arrived by then and late-comers will be able to have a drink or two before the buffet line thins out, so the arrangement usually is satisfactory for everyone.

Question: When is water poured into glasses on the table — before or after guests sit down? — Mrs. L.B., Boston, Mass.

Answer: It is poured into glasses by the hostess before dinner is announced, if she is serving and has no other help. If a waitress is serving, the water is poured after guests are seated.

Question: I've accepted my cousin's invitation to be a bridesmaid at her wedding and expect to pay for my own gown and shoes which, luckily, may be worn later. Now I want to know about the flowers. Are the bridesmaids supposed to pay for their own bouquets? My cousin says that this is the practice. This was not the case in the only other wedding I've taken part in. The other bridesmaids also disagree. What is the correct procedure? If the bride should pay, as we think she should, how may the error be brought to her attention diplomatically?

E. W., Trenton, N.J.

BRIDE SUPPLIES FLOWERS

Answer: Bridesmaids pay for their own outfits, but the flowers are the financial responsibility of the bride and her parents. You might mention this fact to a discreet relative of the bride's mother and let her bring it to her attention in a proper manner.

Warmer— With Showers

by Mary Moore

Showers and weddings seem to be posing problems to hosts of prospective hostesses.

To bolster your reputation if you are to be entertaining for brides in June we have two novel and gaily appropriate cookie ideas. One of them, with a little extra attention, extends these into three new ideas for party cookies.

The first one, called Confetti Curls, was the brainchild of a girl named Ruth. She lets her imagination go wild and comes up with ideas that make me ask "Why didn't I think of that?"

To represent confetti you use the little vari-colored cake decorations called non-pareils. These are sprinkled on a special batter, comparable to the batter used for old-fashioned brandy snaps. When they are baked you roll these (over a pencil if you like) at the oven door and you feel as if you are performing a minor feat of magic.

Amateurs can do it if they abide by the rules.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

(Quick and Homey)

Individual Simple Omelettes; Fried Back Bacon; Shredded Cabbage, Carrot and Head Lettuce Salad with Mayonnaise; Toasted Whole Wheat Bread; Canned Applesauce; Crackers; Cheese; Tea.

CONFETTI CURLS (rolled cookies for a shower or wedding party):

Amount makes 3 dozen. ½ cup plus 1 tablespoons unsifted flour (exact level measurement), ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, ⅔ cup fine granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons cold water (exact level measurement), ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon crushed anise seed or 2 teaspoons sesame seeds are optional (see below), non-pareil cake decorations (variegated colors).

Combine flour and salt thoroughly. If either of the seeds used add now. Anise seeds must be crushed with rolling pin before measuring. Beat eggs until very light and thick; gradually beat in sugar and water; stir in vanilla. Remove beater. Add flour mixture and blend to a smooth thin batter. Drop some of the batter, by scant tablespoonfuls (2¾" in diameter) well apart on cookie sheets brushed with shortening — not a fat with salt in it. Sprinkle generously but neatly with non-pareils. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. just until set — 4 to 6 minutes — edges should just begin to show a little color. Working at the open oven door, quickly loosen a cookie with spatula, turn it over and roll it up. Place open edge down on cake rack. Repeat with remaining cookies, working quickly all the time. If cookies become too crisp to roll put the pan back in the oven for a moment. Bake remaining batter in same way.

CAUTION:

Serve these cookies on the day they are made as the decorations tend to "run".

These enchanting little cookies are very pretty on a cake plate with the two macaroon-like cookies (one brown, one white — made from one batter) I will give you tomorrow.

Some hostesses will be glad of exact figures.

TO MAKE 25 CUPS OF TEA:

Five-eighths measuring cup loose tea or 12 to 14 tea bags, 1 Imperial gallon (four 40-oz. quarts) freshly boiling water, 1¼ pints milk, ½ lb. (or less) cube sugar and thin lemon slices. Brewing time — 6 to 8 minutes ,then pour brewed tea off leaves or remove tea bags.

Riding in a Rambler you can lean all the way back and relax. Those reclining seats convert instantly into a lazy nap couch. If you're driving, you can adjust the seat to the best position for you. It doesn't matter if you're 5 foot 2 or 6 foot 4, you get comfort.

For a few extra dollars you can have foam-padded, adjustable headrests installed in your Rambler. Not only do they give you added support, they're a safety feature you won't get on any other car.

Everybody talks about comfort but nobody does as much about it as Rambler. For what it's worth, our head-room, hip-room and leg-room is equal to or better than other standard size cars. But Rambler also gives you well cushioned chair-height seats in a car that rides steady, rides smooth.

Unusual is the word for the number of special features you get in a Rambler. There's quite an impressive list that includes low price, a guaranteed muffler, battery and coolant, the best rustproofing and exceptional mileage. You also have a good assortment of models to choose from. Take your pick of a convertible, hardtop, sedan or wagon. See them all at your nearest Rambler dealer's.

Have a test rest on one of our reclining seats soon.

Women Concentrate Efforts On Block of Real Estate

TORONTO (CP) — The ultimate in specialization has been reached by Ruth Schmeier and Dina Feraru, partners in a real estate firm.

They concentrate all their efforts on a single block - long stretch of Toronto real estate, one of the most valuable in Canada.

In three years they have sold many properties at more than $2,000 a foot frontage and have rented dozens of business premises at healthy prices.

The area in which they specialize is a strip of Bloor Street between Avenue Road and Bay Street, in the heart of the city and not far from downtown Toronto, the district is dotted with prestige shops similar to the best of New York's Fifth Avenue.

Miss Schmeier, a tall, blonde native of Baden, Germany and Mrs. Feraru, a Rumanian-born widow who fled her homeland and came to Canada in 1952, contends that one goal is to make money.

But they add that an important reason for the decision to specialize in this area is that it reminds them of the intimate and exclusive shopping districts character istic of fashionable boulevards in European cities.

HANDLE NEW BUILDING

Their work in the district got off to a good start when they sold properties to two Hungarian brothers, both Barons, and received healthy commissions.

In the last year they completed leasing of the new $1,250,000 Lothian Mews collection of 18 shops and boutiques just opened at 96 Bloor St. West.

They have turned to leasing what is known as the Upper Colonnade, 30,000 square feet of fashionable shops and services on the second level of the new Colonnade Building near Ave. Road.

While the two women speak of each other as "partners," the firm is registered in the name of Ruth Schmeier.

"She's so good at the paper work and the operation details of running an office that we make a natural team," says Mrs. Feraru, who handles the promotion end of the business.

When they undertook to handle the Colonnade space, the owner sent out elaborate cards announcing that he had engaged Dina Feraru because of her "ability and experience in the field of exclusive specialty merchandising."

She's having no trouble living up to her billing. She has already leased more than half the space within a few weeks.

Centenary Fund Planned By IODE

VICTORIA (CP) — The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire must adopt a "more efficient modern approach" in its education program, delegates to the national chapter's annual meeting were told Monday.

Mrs. George E. Tait, of Toronto, national education secretary, said the order could assist more students with interest-free loans than with outright grants.

Mrs. Tait also urged increased assistance to students in technical and vocational education and in the fields of adult education and fine arts.

Mrs. Tait also asked for more educational work in Canada's northern territories.

She urged members to participate in national, provincial and local educational organizations.

BRAINS AS WELL

"Men are often rather sceptical of the IODE's ability," Mrs. Tait said. "They know we can raise funds by holding teas and bazaars but we have to show them we have brains as well."

At the first business session Monday, delegates decided to establish an IODE Canadian centenary fund with a minimum objective of $50,000 to be raised by 1967. A project for this fund is to be announced not later than the 1965 annual meeting.

The 600 delegates also reaffirmed a standing request to the federal government that the Red Ensign be named the official Canadian flag.

Wellington Pupils Visit Historic Site

WELLINGTON — Approximately 80 grade seven and eight pupils of Wellington Consolidated School, accompanied by their teachers, enjoyed a trip to Upper Canada Village, on Friday.

The train, which was a new way of travelling for many pupils, left Belleville at 9:30 and arrived at Morrisburg about noon, thus allowing four hours of sight seeing in the Village.

Upon entering, a well-marked map was issued to the leader of each group of 15 pupils, and, using this as a guide, the groups proceeded to visit each building as indicated.

High lighted among these were the following: Glengarry school; McDiarmid House, spinning and weaving; Ross Soffin House, flax made into linen products; Cabinet Maker's Shop; Cryster Hall, a museum containing wallpapers, dishes, materials and clothing, authentic of the age 1820-1850; agricultural building; Simcoe House, the building in which the first governor of Upper Canada, John Graves Simcoe, first met with his executive council in 1792.

Pastor's house, and the School Master's house, where a notched "paddle" was sent home in place of a report card.

Canadian Fashion & Fad

BY pegg rogers

CANADIAN WOMEN AND FASHION

Since Canadian Fashion and Fad was born, my plan has always been to present current news drawn from all over the Canadian fashion markets.

It is exciting, but somehow unreal, to read about fashions in New York and Paris, knowing I will not be able to buy them in my own local store, even if I could afford them. But I am interested and sometimes excited about the fashions I can afford. These are clothes made in Canada.

I write about Paris and New York and visit there, but my home base is Montreal — the heart of the medium - priced fashion world in Canada. Nearly 75 per cent of the fashions sold in Canada are made in Montreal, including coats, suits, dresses, sportswear and millinery. I can get from $12.98 to $30 for a dress, you can be fairly sure that it was made in Montreal. More expensive fashions are produced in Toronto, Edmonton and Vancouver.

MONTREAL FASHIONS

Sometimes, it may seem that Montreal enters into this column quite frequently. It is because this city is to Canada, as New York is to the United States and Paris is to Europe. Isn't it logical then, that I should report the fashion news from here. If I wanted to write about aluminum, I would visit Sicila, Quebec, and a sojourn to London, Ontario, would yield a wonderful article on some of the finest, old homes in Canada.

Aside from presenting news about fashions which are available in most of our stores, I try to illustrate that good fashion is something within the reach of every Canadian woman, regardless of income or age group.

COLOR KNOWLEDGE

Fashion is not yards of mink, lots of diamonds or dreamy hours spent in some rose-scented beauty salon — although all of these things would be very nice, thank you. Fashion is a knowledge of color and its effect, an eye for the new, but continuing silhouette, and a feeling for balance and suitability of accessories. Good fashion is obtainable on any budget, provided knowledge and time are spent on wardrobe planning. The ability to make the most of what you already own is a skill which is hard to learn. We all have equal opportunity to be in fashion. It just takes more time, patience and imagination, than money.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers, care of this paper.

The horse drawn bateau and the yoke of oxen were much sought by the picture taking students.

Seven thirty saw the groups back in Belleville, much wiser but weary.

two officers when they hesitated in dropping their guns.

The two then forced Gruber and Johnston into a police cruiser parked across the driveway and fled, firing at Const. Howard.

Det. Sgt. Mel Simmons and Det. George Wilson in one cruiser and Det. Burrows in a second gave chase as the gunmen drove at high speed through this town on the western fringe of Metropolitan Toronto.

At one stage during the chase, the gunmen opened fire at point-blank range as Det. Burrows jockeyed his cruiser alongside at 80 miles an hour. His windshield was shattered.

RAMS CRUISER

Seconds later, Det. Burrows rammed the stolen cruiser, but the collision forced his car out of control and it rolled into a field. He scrambled out and stopped a car driven by Clayton Smith of Cooksville, who had joined the chase.

The two cars followed the stolen vehicle, crippled in the collision and driving only 30 miles an hour, until Smith volunteered to ram the fleeing cruiser. It stopped both vehicles.

Det. Simmons fired a shot at the gunmen as the three policemen rushed to the stolen car and emerged the two men out, forcing them to lie on the road. Det. Burrows later realized he had emptied his gun during the chase.

Police said they recovered the money.

Pearson

the honorable member (Mr. Churchill) is doing now—and he is doing it with knowledge—is that he is reading a letter which he knows to be an absolute forgery."

Mr. Martin eventually withdrew the accusation, after speakers including Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and leader T. C. Douglas of the New Democrats intervened.

The episode ended when Mr. Pearson made a special visit back to the Commons to make a statement on a question of privilege.

"When this letter was brought to my attention, or the report of it, during the election campaign, I let it be known that I had received no such letter," the prime minister said. "And the U.S. ambassador let it be known that he had sent me no such letter.

"My honorable friend opposite (Mr. Churchill) must have known that, and therefore that the letter was a forgery, of course it was a forgery."

That served as the high point of the day of the eight-day debate on the speech from the throne, continuing today.

RAPS SUGAR PRICE

Mr. Diefenbaker began by calling Canadian, sugar refineries unfair to consumers by imposing "tremendous" price increases despite large stocks. He called for more than a general review by the justice department.

Mr. Martin made a lengthy speech reporting on the NATO ministerial conference here last week but twice declined to say whether Canada's low-level jet bomber in Europe—the CF-104—will have a megaton-sized nuclear bomb.

Challenged by Mr. Diefenbaker on the size of the warhead for the aircraft—a one-megaton warhead is equivalent to 1,000,000 tons of TNT—he said simply that Canada will live up to its commitment to NATO.

Women Wept As Minister Bids Goodbye

ORANGEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Women in his congregation wept Sunday as tall handsome Australian minister Dr. Reginald Davidson gave his last sermon at Westminster United Church here.

The clergyman whose congregation three weeks ago voted that he break his contract with the church said: "Parting is like death—and I'm a man who doesn't die easily."

Mr. Davidson warned the congregation against "maniac" church committee. He said the clergyman was "the true captain of God, not the church committee."

The minister announced his resignation two weeks ago. A Peel-Dufferin presbytery investigation was held into his efficiency during the winter.

Wanted Guard

couver International Airport.

The story of recovering the $200,000 was told Monday by motel operator Don Hall, who turned it over to police.

Hall runs the Rupert Taylor motel restaurant in Hope, 100 miles east of here. He said a friend telephoned him May 17 and told him a man wanted to have some carpenter's tools stored in the restaurant.

'TOOLS' DELIVERED

Hall said he agreed. They were delivered May 19, the morning after the theft.

A man brought the "tools" in metal suitcases, placing them in a staff washroom at Hall's direction.

During the week, Hall said, he read reports of the theft from the Loomis armored car service. A picture and a faintly familiar nickname stuck in his mind until he became suspicious about the suitcases.

Sunday night, with a lawyer and police sergeant watching, Hall pried a suitcase open with a screwdriver and thousands of dollars in bills fell out.

Attorney-General Bonner said two men had been arrested and charges were pending.

Tellers still were counting the money when Brown's plane rolled across the tarmac to the airport terminal.

Members of the press, radio and television, who had evaded commissionaires and reached the unloading area, waited at the ramp used by passengers travelling first class.

PRESS FOOLED

When a well-dressed man was ushered down the steps and into the front seat of a police car, movie cameras ground, flash bulbs lit the scene, microphones were thrust at him and reporters shouted questions.

Burns, enjoying his role, leaned over to light a cigarette and smiled.

Suddenly, another detectives leaped into the car, sped to the rear loading ramp and picked up several persons, including Brown. They were gone before the men of the press could recover.

Meanwhile, prominent criminal lawyer Angelo Branca said he had been asked to defer the case on Brown's behalf.

He said he will discuss with Brown the way he was "forced out of Rio de Janeiro."

Brown was hustled into a plane at Rio Friday night. He had been held in police custody for several hours and had been denied the use of a telephone. No charge was laid against him in Rio, where he was taken into custody at a fashionable beach-side hotel.

Orders

put the finish to Wallace's appeal to prevent Kennedy from using troops in Alabama. The court unanimously rejected his request.

The court's ban on segregation in public facilities was as tough as anything the court has said on the racial issue since it banned public school segregation in 1954.

The case involved Memphis parks and playgrounds and swimming pools. But it applies equally to all cities. Memphis wanted to wait until 1971 to desegregate them all. The court said: Do it now.

USE SPEED

While the court banned public school segregation in 1954 it left unanswered that year the question: How fast? It gave the answer in 1955: "With all deliberate speed."

This, because the problems of public schools are vast and varied, made room for some states and cities and districts to go slower than others. But in Mississippi and Alabama there is still not a single elementary public school desegregated.

That's pretty low. That the justices are getting impatient with the slowness could be read into their decision Monday in the Memphis case when they referred to the public school problem.

The court, said that policy of "all deliberate speed" doesn't apply to state colleges or universities — clear warning the court will back admission of Negroes to all of them—and does not apply to public facilities, like playgrounds.

Estate Tax

the double impact of estate taxes and income taxes on pension benefits and "this unreasonable squeeze forces many a widow back into her pre-marriage job where she finds herself out of practice and near the bottom of the pay scale."

INCREASE EXEMPTION

The committee also suggested that the basic tax exemption on estates be increased to $75,000. It now is $40,000 with an additional $20,000 when a widow survives or when a widower is mentally or physically infirm and has a dependent child.

It would be "only realistic" to raise the true exemption to $75,000, the brief said, because inflation has moved more and more people into the estate tax bracket and discrimination against the widower "denies the principle of equality in the marriage partnership."

It should not be necessary for a widower to be either infirm or supporting dependents to save an exemption equal to the widow's, yet he must be both.

For tax purposes, one-half of a deceased marriage partner's estate should be considered as being half-owned by the surviving partner.

Ann Landers

Unescorted Bride Would Add Grist to Gossip Mill

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I disagree with your reply to Deserted Mother. She was a nervous wreck because her about-to-be-married daughter wanted to walk down the aisle alone—as a symbolic slap in the face to her absent father who had skipped 17 years earlier.

You said there was no need to make a spectacle of herself and that it would only provide more grist for the gossip mill. You also added, "why humiliate your mother in an attempt to punish your father. — who probably couldn't care less?"

Well, I'm a mother who was faced with precisely the same problem and you are wrong wrong wrong. I walked my daughter down the aisle myself. I then took my place in the front pew. When the minister asked, "Who giveth this woman?" I stood, faced the guests proudly and replied, "I do!"

My three brothers would have been glad to perform the honors but why should they have been asked? I raised the girl myself and she was mine to give away. It was, I might add, the happiest moment of my entire life. — NO PHONY.

DEAR NO PHONY — The about-to-be bride described in the first letter was a bitter young girl whose hostility would have spoiled the wedding and hurt her mother.

Your letter reflects an even more savage bitterness and hostility. What you refer to as the happiest moment of your entire life was a moment of revenge.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — We are delighted with our new daughter-in-law. She and our son graduated from college last fall and they live about 200 miles from here.

They both work and have a lovely apartment with all new furniture. My husband and I are very eager to go visit them and see their little place which they have described in detail. Of course, we plan to stay in a hotel since they have only one bedroom, so that is not the question.

What we want to know is this: Should we wait for them to invite us, or should we write and tell them we are coming? My husband says since we will stay in a hotel we need not wait to be invited.

Our realtionship with the new daughter-in-law is so good I would hate to do anything that might hurt it. My instincts tell me to wait until a specific invitation is issued. What do you say? —MRS. CAREFUL

DEAR MRS. — Your instincts are right. Wait for an invitation. You'll be glad you did.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Jewish Festival of Shevouth Marks Giving of Commandments

Starting this evening, Jews throughout the world will observe one of their most important religious holidays, Shevouth. This commemorates the giving of the Torah from Mount Sinai. In the following articles Rabbi Joseph Berglas of the Sons of Jacob Synagogue here explains why this was "perhaps the most crucial event in Jewish history" and rescribes the manner of observance. Services will be held at the Sons of Jacob Synagogue, at the corner of Victoria and Bleecker avenues, on Tuesday evening, Wednesday morning and Wednesday evening, with a special memorial service Thursday morning.

By RABBI JOSEPH BERGLAS

The greatest moment in the annuals of our people and indeed in the history of the human race is when Israel stood at the foot of Sinai, beholding the glory of God, revealed from midst the flame of fire and clouds of smoke, the moment when Israel became the possessor of the Island of God, the possessor of those sublime and eternal truths which became the basis of true religion, those ideals which have determined the moral consciousness of civilized humanity. And it is the anniversary of that momentous occasion that we celebrate today. It is this auspicious event in our history that this festival brings into our minds "this day thou hast become the people of the Lord, thy God!"

Shevouth commemorates what was perhaps the most crucial event in Jewish history, the giving of the Torah from Mount Sinai. This dramatic epic transformed a mass of liberated slaves into a Kingdom of Priests and holy nation, a people with a sublime and sacred mission. On this festival we rehearse the stirring saga enacted at the foot of Mount Sinai when Moses and Israel accepted the Torah and pledged to become its eternal guardians.

ADDRESSED TO INDIVIDUALS

The ten commandments were not addressed to the people as a whole, but to every individual and therefore were written in the singular number.

The principal feature in today's celebration is the reading of the chapter dealing with the revelation on Mount Sinai. The "Midrash" tells us that God will regard our reading of this chapter as if we were actually present on Mount Sinai. There is a great object in the recapitulation of this wonderful episode in our ancient history.

It continues to bring home to us its significance. It reminds us that those principals which formed the basis of our national existence. It assures us that the Law which was given to our fathers is also our law — the law which Moses commanded us as an everlasting inheritance of the Congregation of Jacob. Not with our fathers did the Lord make this convenant, but with us, who are all here, alive today.

And we need it, first as our fathers did. Centuries of Civilization and progress have not diminished the ethical value and moral significance of our Torah science, with all its wonderful achievements cannot supersede the law if it furthers in a measure man's happiness materially, it cannot satisfy his spiritual islands; it supplies the hands of the body but leaves the soul hungry. "And man doeth not live by bread alone."

The greatness the real happiness, can only be attained through the invaluable treasure, which was vouchsafed to mankind on Mount Sinai.

IMPORTANT TO ALL

Question: Are the Ten Commandments important only to Jews?

Answer: They are important not only to Jews but to all the people of the world as the foundation for every civilized community and every society. It is for this reason, say the rabbis, that they were given in the desert, in territory belonging to no one people, but to everyone.

Every country has its particular constitution. The Ten Commandments are, in a way, a world constitution, a code of moral laws for all civilized people. Almost every great book that has been written on morality contains ideas that can be traced back to the original Ten Commandments.

And yet, the Ten Commandments do not intend to tell us all of our obligations. They contain, rather, the minimum essentials for all people who wish to live a good life.

According to tradition, God offered the Ten Commandments to other people first, but they could not accept such commandments because they were not prepared for such high ideals.

THREE FESTIVALS

Shevouth (festival of Weeks) is one of the three rejoicing festivals, observed on the sixth and seventh of Sivan (May 29 and 30). Why is it called Shevouth? The word means "week" — because it occurs at the end of seven weeks after the second day of Passover when the counting of the Omer began.

What does Shevouth commemorate? The wheat harvest gathered in Israel and when the first ripe fruits were brought to the Temple. It is therefore known as "Hag Habikurim" (i.e.) Festival of the first ripe fruits) and "Hag Ketzirit" (Festival of the Grain Harvest).

It also commemorates the giving of the Ten Commandments to Moses on Mount Sinai. This holiday, then, is the birthday of Israel's religion.

How is Shevouth observed? The synagogue and the home is decorated with green branches and flowers symbolizing the harvest. At the synagogue special holiday prayers are offered; special readings of the Ten Commandments and the Book of Ruth, which tells how Ruth embraced the Jewish religion. The climax of this story takes place during the harvest season.

Dairy foods are served on this holiday because the Torah (bible) is compared to "milk and honey" (Blintzes are a popular delicacy.) In many synagogues and temples Shevouth is Confirmation Day.

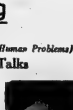
Andre Rousseau, a Whitehorse cafe owner, saw the youth off and on his way down the highway Aug. 29. The next day a service station operator about 200 miles southeast of Whitehorse said a youth he saw asleep in a car Aug. 30 resembled Merigaut.

No further trace of the boy was found by RCMP who began a search after the youth's father asked the French consul-general in Vancouver for help in locating Henri. That was in late October and winter halted the search.



RCMP later found the car in which Merigaut was believed to have been seen. The driver was apprehended in Montreal in November and brought west to face other charges. He now is serving time in penitentiary on the charges. He denied giving Merigaut a ride.

The Other Woman Talks

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — Some time ago I read your answer to the "other woman." Well, Doris, it took me six years to find out the truth and how much heartache I had caused another wife and her family. He made me feel like the most desirable woman alive. Like a fool I fell for this line.

He told me how miserable his home life was — his wife beautiful but childish and no time for him at all; that soon he would leave them for me. It was a friend of this man's family who told me I had been misinformed.

So I called on his wife and found out she knew everything. He had begged her not to divorce him. She was one of the most understanding people I have ever met. She was the one who had the miserable home life!

I left her home feeling heartbroken but thankful I came to my senses before losing the respect of my growing children. — SAD EXPERIENCE.

DEAR SAD EXPERIENCE — Thank you. We are so prone to believe what we want to believe!

DEAR DORIS — What do you think about twelve-year-old going steady? You can't refuse the poor guy. Please publish this as I know many girls want to go. — CONFUSED.

DEAR CONFUSED — Tell the poor guy Doris says "No!" Not for a long time. You've got to be Un-Confused first.

Hemorrhaging

Valdoni was called in.

A Vatican source said the difficulty in halting the internal bleeding brought deep concern.

Shortly after noon, Gasbarrini and Valdoni departed. Masoni apparently was continuing to stand by, as he was for seven days and nights.

In the past, the Pope has rallied after receiving blood transfusions and blood clotting agents such as vitamin K.

Apprehension was relieved only in part by the departure of Gasbarrini and Valdoni. It was believed that the hemorrhaging may have been at least temporarily controlled. But it also was noted the attacks were becoming more frequent.

RECEIVES VIATICUM

Vatican officials said the cardinal called on urgent business. He also visited the Pope Monday night and the pontiff then signed several letters.

Cardinal Cicognani is one of few prelates who has been seen by the Pope almost daily.

The Vatican press office, which earlier had said a communique might be issued, reported the doctors did not feel the Pope's condition was such as to warrant a communique.

Gasbarrini told reporters the Pope's condition was stationary.

That statement was enough to cause concern. It contrasted with Vatican statements Monday that the Pope was slightly improved.

L'Osservatore Romano said Cardinal Cicognani told the pontiff the whole world was praying for his health and that the Pope, "with an amiable smile," replied:

"If God wishes the sacrifice of the person of the Pope let it be that such a sacrifice shall succeed in bringing abundant favors on the ecumenical council, on the holy church and on mankind which aspires for peace."

His reference to the ciumenical council could be a plea to a future pope to continue the council, which would be automatically suspended on his death.

The Pope, L'Osservatore reported, continued:

"If instead, God wishes to prolong this pontifical service, let that be a sanctification of the soul of the Pope and all who work and suffer with him to spread the reign of our Lord in the Pope and in every communities and in all the world."

One Vatican source said the Pope apparently spent a tranquil night. This morning he did not leave he bed to say mass, and received communion in bed.

He has been warned by his doctors that if he got up he might suffer further weakening hemorrhages.

An aide who talked to the Pope in his bedroom for a short while Monday was quoted as saying the pontiff was very pale, seemed very weak, and spoke slowly and in a hushed voice.

Vatican sources said he sat up briefly in an armchair Monday a time or two. They also said that for brief periods, when he felt able, he devoted himself to correcting a preliminary draft of a book he is writing about the Bishop of Bergamo, under whom he first served.

Monday morning there had been a note of guarded optimism in the report that the Pope had spent a good night. Later his doctors were quoted as saying they had found some improvement in his condition.

Even this limited optimism was not reflected in Vatican circles today.

Despite the gravity of his illness, the Pope was described as remarkably serene.

Sources said the Pope's private secretary, Most Rev. Loris Capovilla, sits often by the pontiff's bedside reading aloud to him from The Imitation of Christ.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"What," writes a young boxing buff who has been smitten by the poetic calypsos of that ultra-modest young beak-buster, one Cassius Marcellus Clay, "has become of my favorite prizefighter who will be the next heavyweight champion of the world, providing Sonny Liston doesn't break a leg in the first minute of the first round if ever the twain doth meet?"

Well, me young bucko, your biddy-buddy-boy is in England, where he will engage the "greatest of English heavyweights, one Henry Cooper," under the aegis of the "British Isles' greatest promoter, one Jack Solomons."

Young Cassius took his "lean and hun-gry look," a brother named Rudolph Valentino Clay, a trainer and bodyguard, a pocketful of pencil stubs and a dozen poetic licenses over 'ome recently.

This "battle of the century," or as young Mama Clay puts it, "another stepping stone to the world title," takes place in Wembly Stadium on June 18, in the evening that is, after the bowler-hatted umbrella'd young executives have dispensed with their "fivesies" and dinnah and are questing a spot of excitement.

In passing, it might be noted, the Louisville Shakespeare, or the Bard of Boxdom, as someone dubbed him, rates third in the heavyweight listings. Mr. Cooper, at the moment, is holding down sixth position.

Two gentlemen by the name of Listan and Floyd Patterson are rated Numbers One and Two ahead of the cocky young poet-fighter. But they are merely there because they haven't had the audacity to cross rights and swap hooks with the Louisville Lily.

"I am young", quoth young Cassius, "and I have time on my side. Sooner or later when I have beaten all the rest they will have to fight me, and then there'll be two champions who was, and the one who is."

The young man really believes he is destined to become the world heavyweight title-holder. He admits it. The fresh fitful breezes of his poetic sproutings cooled off these Gothamites the other day.

This self-styled "greatest predictor in the world," and whoever wanted to listen that he has already composed the verse that tells all and sundry he will dispose of Mr. Cooper in the fifth round "to mark another stepping stone towards his destiny."

Enroute to the British Isles, Cassius and Company stopped over in New York to give newspapermen the benefit of his predictions, a few espresso bars the benefit of his poetic utterances and "Gotham in general the sight of his handsome physique.

In addition, he said, "I will spend a few days absorbing culture in the Broadway theatres." He is in excellent condition, but once overseas he will give the British a few training exhibitions for the "edification of English boxing fans and experts."

I don't know what kind of an impact young Mr. Clay will have on the staid British boxing fans. The best he can expect from a gush of poetic prediction is "well done, old chappie" from the front row ringsiders, or perhaps a painful silence from the "Arries and 'Arrieta."

"Andy Capp and Florrie" are accustomed to this sort of thing, y'know, but I doubt if that will effect Master Clay's ego or his self-inflating poesy.

There won't be a "Coop crowd" at Wembley for the fight but in case you go, take a black tie if you're sitting ringside. A seat will set you back "six quid and six." You can see the brawl from the cheap seats for twelve bob.

Disappointments And Surprises ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Orioles Challenge Yank Supremacy

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays batting .253. Stan Musial only four points higher. Joey Jay with eight defeats in nine decisions.

Detroit Tigers only one step removed from last place in the American League, Cincinnati Reds in the National League's second division.

These are some of the major disappointments as the big league season heads into its eighth week.

For each disappointment, there is a pleasant surprise.

Baltimore, which hasn't won a big league pennant since 1896, shapes up as a bonafide challenger to the perpetual New York Yankee supremacy.

The Orioles, bolstered by a flock of winter trades, currently are soaring on an eight-game winning streak and own a 2½-game lead over the Yankees.

This is a year dominated by pitchers. Not since the days of the dead ball have there been so many shutouts and low-scoring games.

The hitting has been sickly. A large number of last year's batting leaders are in the doldrums this season. Pete Runnels, who led the American League in hitting in 1962, is batting to reach .250. Tommy Davis, the National League king last season, managed to climb over the .300 mark only last weekend.

Ernie Banks is batting .206, Norm Siebern .222, Bill Skowron, .227, Norm Cash .207, Dick Stuart .226, Rocky Colavito .246 and Roger Maris .253.

Maury Wills, last year's most valuable player in the National League, is batting .252 and is sidelined with calcium deposits in his left leg.

A number of hitters who weren't supposed to hit for high averages have been flexing their muscles, such as Wayne Causey, .356; Wes Covington, .348, and Chuck Schilling, .327.

Some people blame the new high strike zone for the low batting averages.

Mays, who boasts a lifetime batting average of well over .300 blames his slump on the cold weather.

Fast And Errorless

Trudeaus Nip Bobcats 4-2

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

Trudeau Motors moved into the winners' circle in the Belleville and District Softball League, leaving the Bobcats alone in the basement with a well-played 4-2 decision over the Tabbies at the CNRA Park last night.

The game was by far the best in loop play to date this young season as both clubs came up with errorless performances and completed the nine-inning affair in exactly one hour.

Trudeaus' win was their first in three tries while Bobcats have lost all three of their starts.

RCAF Flyers and Joyce Real Estate, tied for top spot with 2-0 records meet each other for the first time at the same park tonight at 6.45.

The winners scored a single run in the second frame last night and added their other trio in the fifth for a 4-0 lead. Bobcats roared back with their pair in the sixth and although they hit the ball hard all night, most of the shots were picked off by alert Trudeau fielders, and neither club managed as much as a hit over the final three innings.

Roily Campbell and Bobby Green hooked up in a tight pitching contest with Campbell coming out on top. He gave up four hits, while striking out four and did not walk a batter.

Green was touched for seven safeties going the route for the losers, four of them clustered in the fifth inning. He also whiffed four and issued three base-on-balls.

Duggan lined a double and rode home later on Kellar's single to left to open the game scoring.

Poremba ignited the winning rally with a base hit and McGuire followed with a perfect bunt single. Brooks drove in both runners with a solid base hit and came in himself on McKibbon's single. These four consecutive hits were the last Green allowed in the game.

Bobcats hit paydirt in the sixth when McGrimmon, who played a top game both at bat and afield, singled. Gardiner banged a low hit to right field and the ball got past Brooks for a triple and a 4-1 score. The second run scored as Earl Clapp hit into a fielder's choice but that was it

"Pug" Kellar sparked the winners at the plate with a double and single, while Gary Duggan also doubled. Bob Brooks, John McKibbon, Steve Poremba and Billy McGuire, who stood out at second base, had singles.

Shortstop Cliff McGrimmon rapped three consecutive singles for the Bobcats while Don Gardiner had a triple.

Bobcats — McGrimmon ss; Gardiner 3b; Clapp, cf; Brown lf; F. Murray c; Crawford 2b; D. Murray 1b; Calnan rf; Green p.

Rider Offer Criticized by Mayor Whitton

OTTAWA (CP)—An offer by Ottawa Rough Riders to help pay for a new amateur sports stadium ran into criticism Monday by Mayor Charlotte Whitton.

She said the proposal by the Eastern Football Conference club was well-intentioned, but the city still would have to bear the brunt of the cost.

The question of a sports stadium, especially for city collegiate teams, has been an issue since the Lansdowne Park home field of the Rough Riders was barred to junior football teams by the Central Canada Exhibition Association which operates the park.

Vince Scott Announces Retirement

HAMILTON (CP) — Vince Scott of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, for 14 years one of Canadian pro football's outstanding guards, is retiring.

The 33-year-old, 230-pound veteran said Monday: "The contract has been sitting here for a month but I've finally made up my mind. I'm retiring. I'm finished, I'm through. I'm getting out while I've still got all my marbles, some physical reserve and the affection of the fans."

He said he felt he could have played a few seasons more but added: "I'd rather not take the chance."

Scott's retirement ends a career that spans 16 years of professional football — two years with Buffalo Bills of the old All-American Football Conference and the 14 years with Hamilton.

Ford Frick Denies Baseball Dying

'Still The King'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Ford Frick acknowledges there are other athletic activities besides baseball—he even likes watching some of them—but don't let the baseball boos bear a eulogy for his sport.

"No one thing that makes me furious is to read or hear somebody say that baseball is a dying sport," he says.

"I like football. I'm an avid fan. Certainly, horse racing attracts a lot of customers. It's a year-round sport, and you can bet on it.

"But we shouldn't delude ourselves — baseball is still the king."

Frick is the gaunt, bushy haired commissioner of the United States' national pastime—young-looking' for his 68 years.

From a 16th-floor office in a Manhattan skyscraper he and a small staff preside over the far-flung operations of organized baseball.

There, this normally mild, soft - spoken Indiana farmer's son bristles at any suggestion the game may be losing some of its popularity.

"I get tired of hearing about the old days," Frick said in an interview. "Sure, they were colorful and exciting. No one is more nostalgic than I am. But, as far as baseball is concerned, the good old days are right now, today, 1963—and they're getting better.

The commissioner reached for a hard-back, loose - leaf note book.

He ran his finger over one of the early pages.

"Know how many people are playing baseball in the United States today? Twenty-three million. This is not a guess. It's a bona fide survey."

This compared with 8,000,000 golfers and 9,000,000 tennis players.

The commissioner uses 1945 as the dividing line of a yardstick.

"This will amaze you," he said. "In the 17 years before 1945, baseball drew a total of 148,988,935 fans. In the 17 years after 1945, we drew 304,219,635—a gain of 105 per cent. Does that look as if baseball is dying?"

Skirt Fell And So Did Opponent

SUBITON, England (AP)—Margaret Greenwood says she won her match in the Surrey tennis championships when her skirt fell down at the strategic moment.

It happened Monday in the match between the prettyish 22-year-old brunette and Margaret Lee with the score tied 2-2 and the advantage to Miss Lee.

Miss Greenwood cracked a vicious serve across the net. The hard shot separated buttons from skirt. It fell to her ankles — and a crowd of schoolboys tittered at her pink and white striped panties.

The shocked Miss Lee hit her return out and missed the service break.

The blushing Miss Greenwood picked up her skirt, ran to the dressing room, regained her composure and attire, and went on to win 2-6, 7-5, 6-4.

"I wouldn't have won but for that skirt tease," she said.

Ellsworth Has Major's Best ERA

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Ellsworth of Chicago Cubs and Milt Pappas of Baltimore Orioles boast the lowest earned run averages in the major leagues.

Statistics compiled by The Associated Press showed Monday that Ellsworth tops the National League ERA listings with a 1.09 mark. Pappas is the American League leader with a 1.59 average. Figures are based on pitchers who have worked a minimum of 45 innings.

Ellsworth has allowed eight earned runs in 66 innings while winning five games and losing three. The 25-year-old southpaw posted a 5.08 earned run average last season.

Pappas has allowed nine earned runs in 51 innings. The 24 - year - old righthander has posted a 4-0 won-lost record and two of his four complete games have been shutouts. His era in 1962 was 4.04.

An earned run average is determined by multiplying a pitcher's earned runs by nine and dividing the result by his innings pitched.

RETURNS CONTRACT

MONTREAL (CP) — Halfback Ted Dixon, Canada's outstanding football player last season, has returned unsigned the first contract the Montreal Alouettes offered him for 1963. The club apparently offered him a raise but he deemed it insufficient.

Track, Field Slated For Trenton

The Canadian Legion Dominion Command will be holding a special three-day track and field school in Trenton two weeks from now as part of their nation-wide athletic training program.

The school will be held on June 14, 15, and 16 with Mr. Pat Galasso, of Queen's University, as chief instructor.

A special invitation has been extended to all teachers, either male or female, in the Quinte district, to attend the school. Other interested persons can also enroll but the main idea of the school is to get teachers, both public and secondary school, educated in the ways and means of teaching track and field to their pupils.

Anyone interested in attending the school, which will be limited to eighty persons, is asked to contact Mr. Stan Barbour, either at BCIVS or at his home.

Barbour says that a number of city teachers have already made arrangements for enrollment but it is hoped to have many more. He asks that you call him by Thursday of this week, May 30.

Similar schools are being conducted in many different parts of Canada.

75-Year Old Loses Golf, Wins Cheers

The winner—6 and 5—was the defending champion, 30-yearold typist Joan Lawrence.

Mrs. Beddows is 75 years old.

Two husbands ago, Charlotte was winning the Scottish title with regularity as Mrs. J. B. Watson.

"I'm too short now," the sprightly Charlotte said. "It's infuriating."

Yet, with the luck of a couple of putts she might have made a tough match of it.

Clay Sneers At Liston

'Too Ugly To Be Champ'

LONDON (AP)—Heavyweight boxer Cassius Clay says the trouble with Sonny Liston is that he's too ugly.

"He's nothing but a tramp," sneered Clay when reporters asked him his opinion of the world champion Heavyweight. "Just a big tramp."

Clay had just stepped off an airliner that brought him here from the United States to fight British heavyweight Henry Cooper, June 18.

"I'm just filling in time until I meet Liston," Clay continued. "That great big ugly bear. He's too ugly to be world champion. Real fighters are good looking—like me."

He flexed his muscles.

"Look at me," he said, "I don't have a mark on me."

Only Clay's hand, body and hands were visible for his lithe frame was draped in a black silk suit—a little light, fancifully, for London's cool spring.

Asked how long Cooper, the British heavyweight would last against him, Clay replied:

"I could end it in two rounds, but it's going to be five. I'll get him in the fifth."

The Trots

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Lord Gordon, owned by the Allwood Stable of Far Hills, N.J., and unbeaten in two starts at Roosevelt Raceway, is the 2-to-1 favorite for the $25,683 Realization Trot for four-year-olds Wednesday night.

Last fall Lord Gordon, driven by John Patterson, won the Dexter Cup, and the bay son of Darnley-Miss Gordon took the Realization prep last Thursday. The prep time of two minutes three seconds was the season's fastest on a half-mile oval.

A. C.'s Viking, owned by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Peterson of West Hartford, Conn., is part of a three-horse betting entry listed at 3 to 1 in the 1 1-16-mile race. The others are lease, owned by Mrs. Charlotte N. Sheppard of Hanover, Pa., and Mrs. Patricia Williams, Orlando, Fla., and Spry Rodney, owned by W. Arnold Hanger of Lexington, Ky., and Miami Beach. The entry is required because all three horses race for Lawrence B. Sheppard of Hanover.

Lema Wins Memphis Open

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Victory was a long time coming for Tony Lema. But the $9,000 first prize helped erase any bad memories.

The lanky veteran from San Leandro, Calif., forced a deadlock on the last green in the $50,000 Memphis Open golf tournament Monday, then beat Tommy Aaron for top money on the first sudden-death playoff hole.

It was the first tournament triumph for the 29 - year - old Lema since the Mobile Open last November and his third official win in five years on the United States golf trail.

Lema won the playoff hole with a par four to Aaron's five. They had ended the regulation 72 holes at 10-under-par 270.

Harold Kneece of Aiken, S.C., was ahead briefly after the third round, played Monday morning, with a 201. He finished in a tie for third with Bruce Crampton of Sydney, Australia, at 274. Each pocketed $2,800.

George Knudson of Toronto shot 76s in the final two rounds, ending with 282 for $850.

The double round Monday was forced by heavy rains which cancelled play Saturday and Sunday.

MOSS ENTERS CAR

Hotel Crew Edges Lightfoots

City Hotel roared from behind a 6-3 deficit to shade the defending champion Lightfoot Construction crew 7-6 in the tight Commercial Softball League game last night.

The winners, sparked by big Moe Huddleston's bat, tied it 6-6 in the fifth with a three-run homer by Huddleston, then scored one in the sixth on Reid's hit, a hit batter and an error, to get the nod.

Huddleston slammed two home runs to lead the Hotel squad while Reid had a double and single. F. Donovan had a double, Emery, N. Donovan and Ed Donovan a single each.

Moon paced Lightfoots with a double and single. Jim Sheridan, Don Smith, Brooks and Jones lagged one hit apiece.

Dave Feeney pitched the win, allowing six hits, fanning two and walking one.

Jones, with relief from Young in the sixth, toiled for the losers. Jones whiffed three and passed half a dozen.

Fresh air bug.
Volkswagen has an opening for bright people.
It's called a Sun Roof.
It's also called a great idea.
Instead of flipping your lid in hot weather, simply reach up and roll back the ceiling. Open it like a window. A little, a lot, or anywhere in between. Then sit back and enjoy a cool breeze. (You can leave the hurricanes for the convertible set.)
When clouds appear, it closes and locks in two and four-fifth seconds. Without stopping the car. And it's as weather-proof as a hard-top.
There are other benefits of a hole-in-the-roof.
When you park, you can use it for star gazing, moon watching, cloud staring, or day dreaming. (While your cigarette smoke escapes skyward.)
Or carry tall things. Like flag poles.
